Sixth Grade

The sixth grade girls played the seventh grade girls in a basketball game that ended in a six-six tie. The sixth-grade girls are looking forward to meeting their rivals again in February in a March of Dimes benefit.

The sixth grade boys played the seventh grade boys in a hard-fought game — but had to bow to their up-town rivals 30 to 16, due to their backboard strength.

Last Thursday evening the fifth grade "Spartans" played the sixth grade "Juliaetta Jesters." Both teams looked quite "chick" in their new uniforms, and played hard — the sixth grade came out on the long end of the score, 31 to 13.

We would like to commend both squads' cheer leaders, as they have done a fine job in rallying support for their teams.

PARK PATER

BY MRS. JERRY J. SMITH

RECOVERING NICELY — Little Vickie Enger, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Enger of Park, is doing well after her tonsillectomy Wednesday, Jan. 9.

OTHER ITEMS — Trees fell and were worked up into wood at a fast pace Sunday, when six men invaded the woods to cut wood for the Troy-Deary Gun Club. J. D. (Tead) Baumgartner and Jerry Smith of Park, who are members of the club, were there, as were Bill Mengel Dan McKinzie, John Barachman and Harold Gray.

Wilfred F. (Bill) Mengel was an unexpected but welcome visitor at the Smith home over the week-end. He arrived from Belgrade, Montana, Friday afternoon and stayed until Monday morning. He brought word of low low temperatures and below normal snow accumulation near his home. Charles Jelleberg called at the Smith home Sunday afternoon to share Mr. Mengel's visit.

W. W. P. CO. ASKS TO ABANDON DAM AT GRANGEVILLE

Spokane — The Washington Water Power Co. announced today that it has asked the Federal Power Commission for permission to abandon the Grangeville hydroelectric plant on the South Fork of the Clearwater river near Grangeville.

Marshall Blair, W. W. P. vice president in charge of power supply, said that the plant would be removed as soon as F. P. C. permission is granted.

"Removal of the Grangeville dam and generator has been under consideration for several years," Blair said. "With its obsolete generating equipment and capability, the plant is no longer essential to our operation."

Blair said that W. W. P. has improved its power resources in the last few years with large, new hydro plants of its own and long-term power purchase contracts with other utilities. "We also have adequate transmission capacity in the Grangeville area to handle present and anticipated loads without the Grangeville plant," he said.

Blair said that removal of the Grangeville dam is in keeping with the fisheries rehabilitation program already underway by the Idaho Fish and Game department. "We hope we can complete the removal job before the spring run-off," he said, "so as to minimize the effects on the fishery resource."

W. W. P. said that the state game department and the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service are planning the rehabilitation of the South Fork of the Clearwater for steelhead.

The Grangeville dam was placed in service in 1911. It was built by the Grangeville Electric Light and Power Company under a permit issued by the Secretary of Agriculture. It was re-licensed in 1923 by the Federal Power Commission as Project No. 204.

Inland Power and Light Company, a subsidiary of American Power and Light Co. acquired title to the properties of the Grangeville company in 1928 and in 1930 they were sold to the Chelan Electric Company. This company's system became a part of the Washington Water Power system in 1937.

The original plant had a generating capability of 624 kilowatts. This was boosted to 1200 kilowatts by WWP with the installation of more efficient equipment. The center section, or main portion of the dam, is of concrete, 440 feet long and 56 feet in height.

HUGE ANTLERS ON MULE DEER

Mule deer trophy bagged by David Wood of Boise this past fall unofficially ranks about 40th place in the all-time records for typical antlers of this species as measured and published by the Boone and Crockett Club.

The big buck was shot on the Queen's River, a tributary of the Middle Fork of the Boise River below Atlanta. Antlers from another Idaho buck killed last year, had the most points ever reported for typical mule deer. Its total was 214 1/2 points. This animal was bagged in Franklin County, Idaho, by Sheriff Ray Talbot. Antlers in this class must have a total measurement score of at least 175 points to be listed in the official Boone and Crockett Club records.

WEED SHORTCOURSE IS SCHEDULED

U. of I. Moscow — Weeds, their identity and their control, will be covered extensively in a week-long Weed Control shortcourse beginning Monday, January 28, at the University of Idaho. According to Lambert Erickson, University agronomist and program coordinator, the shortcourse will cover all aspects of herbicides and their properties, physiology of weeds, parasitic weeds, and the basic nature of soils influencing chemical absorption.

Sessions during the week include: Monday, volatility of herbicides and anatomy of grass and broadleaved weeds; Tuesday, physiology of weeds and weed family relationships; Wednesday, herbicides in field crops and a review of herbicides; Thursday, a morning session on communications, plus afternoon sessions on the nature of parasitic plants and weeds as hosts for plant diseases; and Friday, the basic nature of soils and the compatibility and mixability of herbicides and their action in the soil.

The shortcourse registration will be held beginning at 8:00 a. m. January 28 in the lobby of the Agricultural Science building. A fee of $15 will be charged.

"Everyone interested in weed control is invited to attend this shortcourse," Erickson said.

A picnic table that can be converted into a garden bench makes a worthwhile project for the do-it-yourselfer.

A practical addition to your garden furniture and a conversion piece as well, this convertible bench-table can be made quickly with a minimum of work if you have such basic portable electric tools, as, drill, saw, jig saw and sander, at your disposal. Or it can be constructed quickly with a portable electric drill with attachments designed for sawing and sanding.

Convertible bench-table made quickly with a min work.

Fifteen sizes of 2x4s from 18 inches to 7 feet in two 2x8s about 20 inches and a dozen 4-inch bolts comprise all the raw stock needed.

The length of this one-piece combination is 7 feet, width 30 inches, and height 30 3/4 inches. Keys to the entire construction are two 30-inch 2x4s which serve as the table legs and bench-back supports when the table is converted into a seat. The conversion is made by removing two of four bolts that fasten these legs to the table top, and swinging the top down to rest on two 2x4s each 26 3/4 inches long, which connect the two bench legs with those of the table.

The bench top, about 18 inches above the ground, is made of three 7-foot 2x4s spaced 1-inch intervals. The table top requires five 7-foot 2x4s, which also are spaced an inch apart.

A portable electric jig saw will come in handy for making angle cuts on 2x8 side supports for the table top, which are bolted to the legs. The supports are cut at 30-degree angles, the four legs at 15-degree angles.

After holes to accommodate the bolts are bored at their prescribed positions, smooth all surfaces of the bench-table with a portable sander.

(A free plan for this picnic table-bench combination can be obtained by writing to Thor Research Center, Marango, Ill., and asking for Plan BT101.)

TELLS EARTHQUAKE DAMAGE IN IRAN

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Murray have received a letter from their daughter Joan, from Tehran, Iran, telling of a recent trip she made into the earthquake area of that country — the great quake having been last fall. We believe it well worth reprinting:

Tehran, Iran Jan. 6, 1963. Dearest Folks: During this past week I had a chance to go out to the earthquake area, so shall try to write you an account of what I saw, as I expect you are asked frequently by friends at home about the disaster and its results.

I went out to the area with our mission worker Clem Scott, who has been assigned to the work by the mission. Actually the work of relief is under the World Council of Churches, being supervised here by the Church Council of Iran. Clem is the general "trouble shooter," and from what he says there is plenty of trouble to "shoot." We rode out in a Jeep station wagon. It was a long drive which took 2 1/2 hours of steady travel. It is approximately 100 miles from here. It is through a desolate, cold, windy area which is hot as blazes in the summer. It is much like the Moses Lake area.

As we were riding along I asked Clem if there had been an accurate tally of casualties. He said the count now stands at 12,000 dead. As we neared one village he said that it had suffered the heaviest losses, over 1,000 people had died there. The place was leveled, walls, houses, etc. In the shell-like craters of the former domed mud huts, colorful tents, blown in from the west for emergency purposes, looked almost incongruous in contrast to the drab, desolate scene. Though some mud huts were still standing, the people fear to live in them because they have been so badly damaged. A large cemetery near the village told the rest of the story.

We drove on to Esmetabad, a village of about 1,500 population which has been assigned to the church relief work. This village lost fewer in casualties — 34 total, but lost practically all their homes. $300,000 sent by churches from around the world is being used to build houses strong enough to withstand earthquake damage. The new village is about half completed. Most of the villagers are living in tents, though some have to live in huts, since not enough tents are available. The night before Clem and I went out there there had been another earthquake tremor. The 60 people who were not housed in tents hovered around the house of the building supervisor for hours, just terrified of returning to their huts, and not knowing what to do. The new houses cannot be occupied until spring.

We visited the school (a large tent), with two very young men teachers. The place was so cold because of the wind. It had a dirt floor and only two little peek-holes to let in light. It is a very ignorant village and I think their job must be very hard. There are deep-seated feuds in the village which have gone on for generations — sort of like the "Martins and the Coys." The other day the project supervisor tried to pass out used clothing to those who needed it. One group thought the other group was being favored too much and began hitting some of them over the head with shovels. The supervisor was finally driven to take refuge in his house, locking the door, to keep from being beaten with a shovel. It is really hard to help in such cases.

There is a new well which has been dug to furnish water for the village. Also, they will have a community center, which is something they have never had before. Moslems is financing the rebuilding of their mosque.

Perhaps one of the greatest innovations ever to come to the village will be when the girls begin to have a school. The new school building is almost ready for occupancy and when it is completed there will be room enough for the girls to go to school. The Ministry of Education has promised a lady teacher for the village, and the "city fathers" no not seem opposed to allowing the girls to go to school — though they were much opposed to having them actually with the boys, they don't mind a separate school for the girls. This is a real step out of the dark ages, when you think that when these classes begin, inefficient, unruly, or whatever they may be — for the first time in history, women of this village will have a chance for a bit of education. I took a lot of pictures and I'll bring them home this coming summer for you to see.

I thought that since you had been so kind as to make a contribution to the earthquake relief, it would be good if you could have some idea of how your money was being spent. Tomorrow school begins again. I have managed to get on top of my paper checking and am looking forward to getting back to work. I would appreciate it if you would share this letter with anyone you think might be interested in the subject. — Love, Joan.

ALIENS REQUIRED TO REGISTER

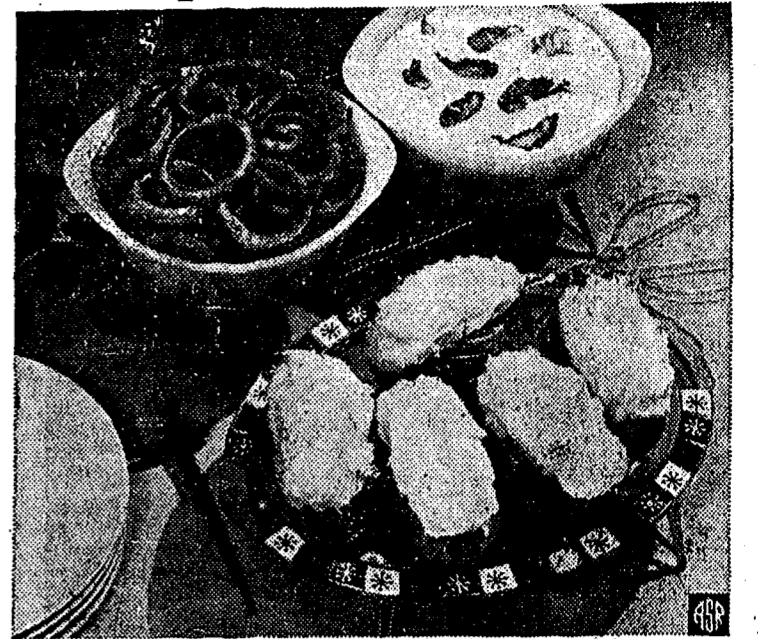

Mr. R. G. Hoffeller of the United States Immigration and Naturalization Service stated that the period within which aliens must report their addresses is almost at hand. The month of January has been set aside for the address reporting period. All aliens in the United States, with few exceptions, must report their addresses to the Government during that period.

Mr. Hoffeller said that forms with which to make the report will be available to all post offices and offices of the immigration and naturalization service during the month of January.

Mr. Hoffeller urges all aliens to comply with the reporting requirements, as willful failure to do so may lead to serious consequences.

Simple Foods Make a Meal

Now is the time to enjoy those famous Idaho-grown Russet Potatoes and huge delicate-flavored Sweet-Spanish Onions — abundant, economical, and of their usual high quality. While you are shopping for these bargains, do note the Quick Idaho Potato Products on your grocer's shelves and in the freezer cases. New ones are joining the old stand-bys. These handy foods are of the same fine flavor and quality of potato you find under the skin of your favorite "Idaho."

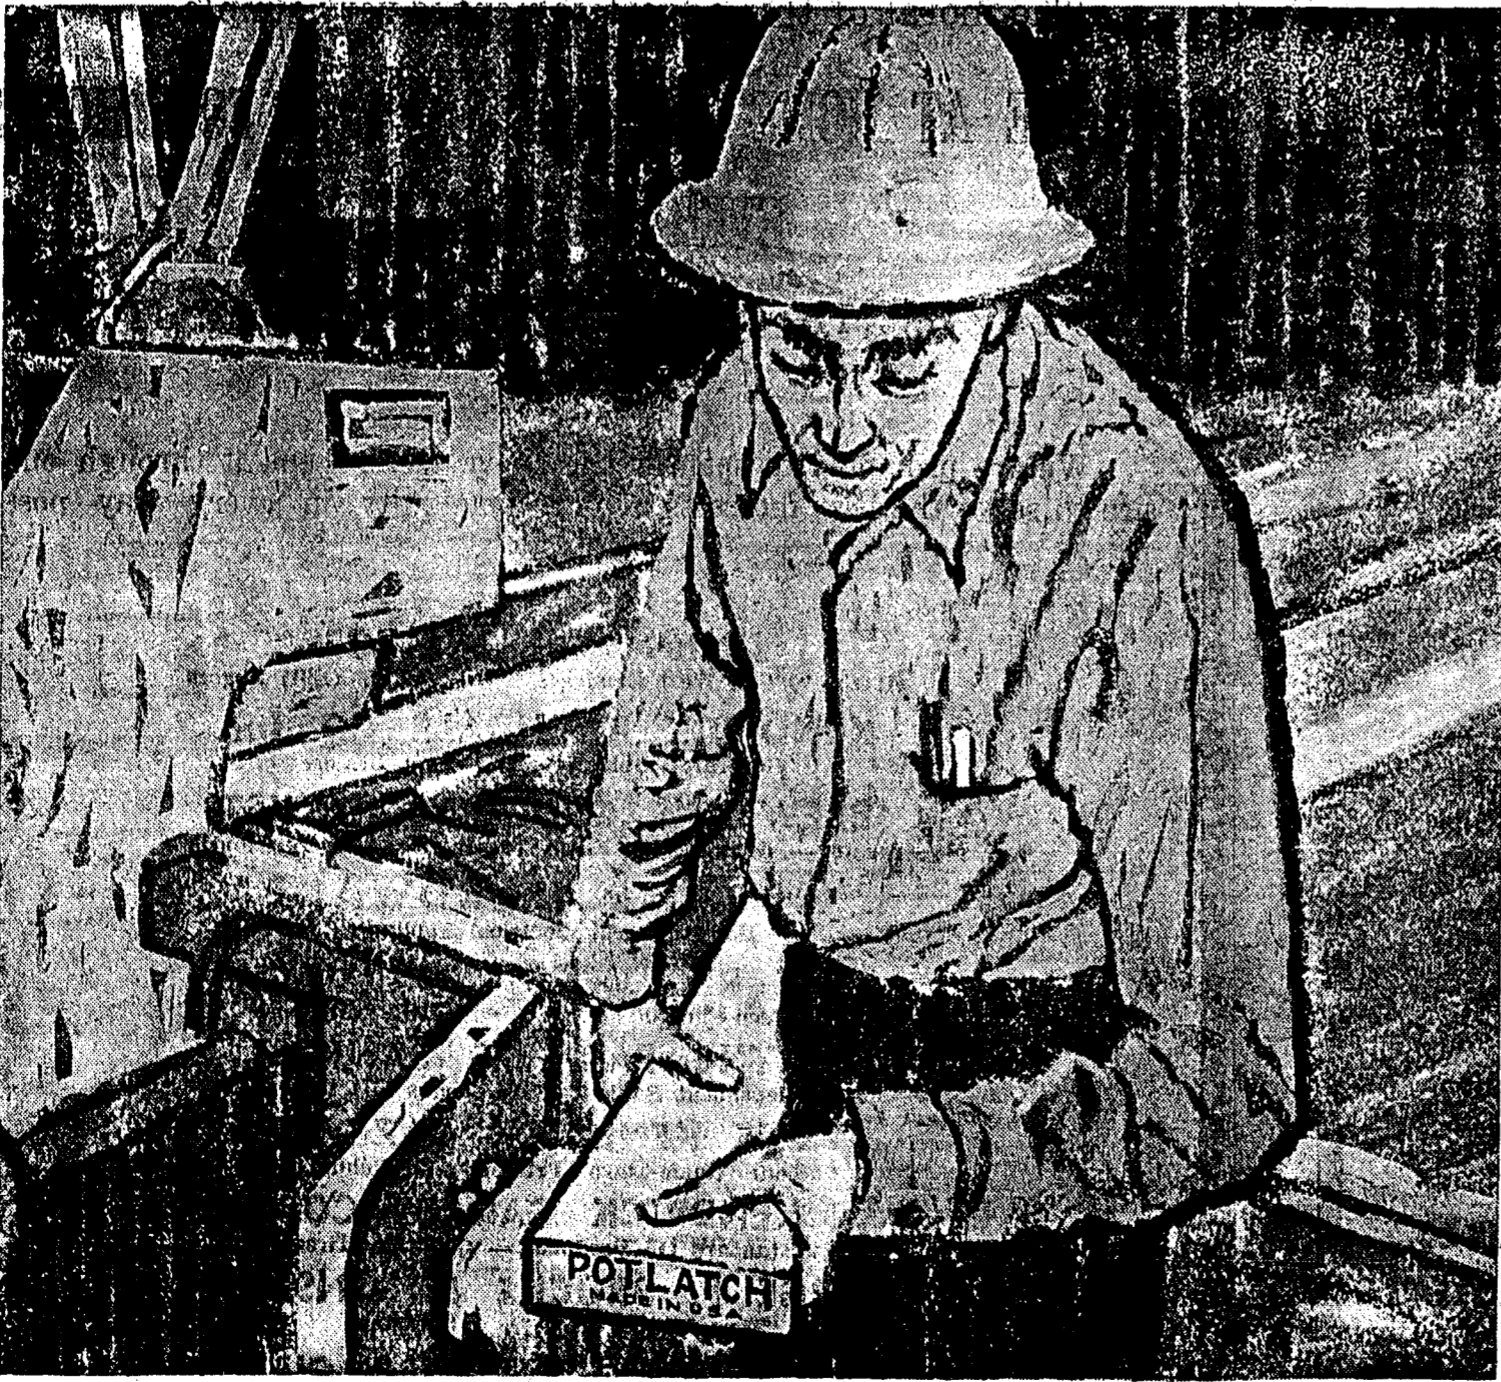

Stuffed Baked "Idahos" with Crab Newburg: bake the desired number of even-sized potatoes, scrubbed but not oiled, in a 400 to 450 degree F. (hot) oven to make a crisp skin. Test for doneness with a thin skewer, so skin will not be marred. When tender, roll each in mitted hands. Cut off top or in half, depending on size. Scoop out potato; prepare as for mashed potatoes, using hot milk and butter. Pile the mashed potato lightly into each shell, hollowing out the center to build up sides, thereby leaving a "dish" to house the Crab or Lobster or Shrimp Newburg, Chicken a la King, or even creamed dried beef. Just before serving time, place potatoes on a heat-proof platter. Brush tops with melted butter. If desired, sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese. Bake in a 375 degree F. (moderately-hot) oven until tops are golden brown and the potato inside the shell is sizzling hot. Fill shells with desired creamed mixture. Good served with a jellied tomato salad and French-fried Sweet Spanish Onion Rings: for batter, combine in flour sifter 1 cup sifted flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt. In a deep bowl, beat 1 egg until thick and lemon-colored. Add 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoon vegetable salad oil. Stir in sifted ingredients, beating until smooth. For Onion Rings, slice 3 large unpeeled Idaho Sweet Spanish onions about 3/4-inch thick. Peel slices. Separate into rings. Take out the end pieces and centers to chop and freeze, easily done by spreading on a cookie sheet. Freeze quickly. Place loosely in jars or freezer containers. As much as is needed may be taken out.

To fry onion rings, heat shortening or oil about 3 inches deep in deep-frying kettle to 375 degrees F. Dip a few onion rings at a time into the batter so that each ring is completely covered, using a long-handled two-tined fork and letting drain a second before dropping into heated oil. (Easier not to use a deep-frying basket.) Fry until golden-brown. Lift out with second long-handled fork; drain on paper toweling. Sprinkle lightly with salt. Serve hot. These fried rings may be kept hot by placing in a 325 degree F. (moderately-slow) oven until all rings are fried. Keep in single layer.

BS SURE YOU KEEP WARM

Undue exposure to cold places severe burdens on the circulatory system. It can bring the loss of a finger or toe. Dr. B. I. Cople, chairman of the public information committee of the Idaho Heart Association, reminds that even death can result from prolonged unprotected chilling.

Human beings are warm-blooded animals and ordinarily conserve their body heat by cutting down the amount of surface exposed to the air. Dr. Cople explains. That's why a person tends to curl up under the blankets on a cold night.

"When the body is chilled a person begins to shiver. Shivering gives muscles involuntary exercise and help warm them. However, if the body is still cold, small blood vessels close down all over the surface. The blood flow rate in these vessels is reduced to as little as a fifth of normal. The body is using the skin as a blanket to conserve heat internally," Cople points out.

At the same time the heart beats faster, and the blood pressure goes up -- all to try to keep your internal sources of warmth mobilized against the external danger. If exposure is too greatly prolonged, these measures finally fail.

Obviously the best medicine against chilling and exposure is prevention, Cople says.

PIONEER CHICKEN BREEDERS BACK 4-H PROGRAM

H & N Farms Offer Awards To '62 Winners

SPECIAL—Hundreds of 4-H Club members and other youth groups have had a glimpse of what goes on inside one of the most modern and scientific hatcheries in the world: The Heisdorf & Nelson Farms, Inc., at Kirkland, Wash., just outside Seattle.
Pioneers in breeding and housing research, H&N have not only made an important contribution to the poultry industry, but are now ready to make a sizeable contribution to 4-H as the new sponsor of the national 4-H poultry program.
"When the opportunity to support a national 4-H Club program came our way," said Arthur Heisdorf, president, "we were mighty pleased. We have been involved locally with 4-H and throughout the state. Now we can be in it all the way."

Will Aid Many
Heisdorf believes that 4-H boys and girls will benefit personally through individual and team efforts to produce better quality chickens and eggs. Then there is the added possibility of earning money, he pointed out.
"The entire poultry industry can benefit, also," Heisdorf said, "because 4-Hers will come to know of the challenging career opportunities which lie ahead."
Recent visitors to the hatchery were Candace Gardner, almost 11, and Gary Moffett, 11, members of the Flinstone Flyers 4-H Club of nearby Redmond. The youngsters stood in awe at the long rows of incubators, and squealed with delight when allowed to hold a tray of newly hatched chicks.

April is a wonderful time for chick and child. And it's especially wonderful when you can get the first look at a batch of newly hatched chicks as these 4-H Club members are doing. Here, Candace Gardner, who will celebrate her 11th birthday May 25, and Gary Moffett, already 11, admire the handful of day-old chicks held by Arthur Heisdorf, president of Heisdorf & Nelson Farms, Inc., of Kirkland, Wash. Candace and Gary belong to the Flinstone Flyers 4-H Club in nearby Redmond and are considering starting a poultry project of their own.

to club members are the following awards provided by the new sponsor: A medal for four county winners, and for the state winner a free trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. Six national champions will receive $400 scholarships. The 1962 award winners will be named by the Cooperative Extension Service. Further information can be obtained from the county extension agent or the state 4-H Club office.

THE Bull itin

Published Weekly by the Union Oil Service at Kendrick
W. L. "Bill" Rogers, Editor

HELLO, THERE, FOLKS:
Hey — How about that fuel oil tank? Is it full? If not, give us a call at 4251 for Union's new and better Blonde Heating Oil. It really give out the heat!

The manager of a department store put this notice in the window: "If you need it, we have it." But in the window of a rival, a sign appeared stating: "If we don't have it, you don't need it."

Want easier starts these cold days? If so, come in for a tankful of Union's famous Royal 7600 or 7600 Gasolines. They'll start when others fail.

Diner waitress (looking out of window): "It looks like rain."
Hungry trucker (eating): "Yeah but it smells a little like coffee!"

Got motor drag on these cold mornings? Then fill up that crankcase with Union's famous Royal Triton Motor Oil. It's the clean flowing oil!

Man (in bar): "They tell me in Mexico you can get three pounds of sugar, a pound of coffee, a quart of whiskey and a wife for three dollars."
Bar tender: "I'll bet it's lousy whiskey!"

Don't wonder if your battery is all it should be — come in and let us test it! Sure we stock and sell new ones. They're guaranteed, too.

How about anti-freeze in the radiator of your car, pickup or truck? Are you ready for winter? If not, come in and let us do the job. We'll do it right!
