for the change. She wants more protein in her family's diet, and milk is by far the least expensive source per pound of protein of any animal protein product, including eggs and meat.

University of Idaho dairy science research conducted by Kenneth R. Johnson, has answered the question: "Can a cow's progeny be changed through selective breeding to produce milk with higher protein content."

According to Johnson, "Our research has shown the heritability factor for both solids-not-fats and total-solids content in milk is 35 per cent. This means that these two constituents of milk can be increased by selective breeding."

Selective breeding, however, takes time, Johnson pointed out and the sooner it is started the better if Idaho's dairymen expect to provide in the near future the kind of milk Mrs. Housewife wants.

The progress made in changing the SNF (solids-not-fats) and protein content of milk will depend largely on the selection pressure used by the breeder. If SNF and protein content are the primary basis for selection, the increase will come more quickly than if such factors as butterfat, quantity of milk produced, and body type are also considered. Even then the ideal cow wouldn't be developed for several years," the dairy scientist explained.

Time will also be needed for the dairy industry to change and adapt its own thinking after years of using butterfat as a basis for quality and for payments to producers. Already the trend has started in some areas, Johnson reported

J. EDGAR HOOVER WRITES ON THEFT OF AUTOMOBILES

Wash., D. C. — A criminal is not easily discouraged by inconvenience; nor is he likely to become discouraged by temporary setbacks. If the commission of a crime is his goal, he usually achieves it. If the crime is auto theft, it may be accomplished with little or no effort.

American automobile owners operate what amounts to a "red carpet" service for car thieves. Perhaps in no other violation does negligence by the victim contribute more to the criminal than it does in larceny, including auto theft. Much of the time, the thief merely enters the unlocked car, starts the motor with the key found in the ignition, and drives away. It is not surprising therefore, that the total number of auto thefts in 1962 was 9 percent greater than the 1961 figure.

In 1962, an all-time high of some 350,000 automobiles, valued at $290 million, were stolen. An alarming percentage of these cars were left with keys in the ignition. For example, two 13-year-old youths recently went on an interstate car-stealing spree, stealing eight motor vehicles in two days. In each instance, the keys had been left in the ignition locks!

Last year, persons under 25 years of age, made up about 86 percent of all arrests for auto thefts. Significantly, approximately 54 percent of all persons charged with auto theft were referred to the juvenile courts. Who is to say where the major fault lies in these shameful figures involving American youth? What are the causes of such folly? One indisputable fact stands clear. Careless and lazy drivers who fail to properly secure their automobiles are inviting young people to break the law.

Joy rides and neighborhood jaunts by young people in stolen cars are not the prankish capers of restless youth. They are crimes — costly, dangerous and senseless. To the law enforcement officer they represent even more. From experience, he recognizes the problem as a prelude to more violent crimes and the beginning of criminal careers.

The ease with which automobiles are stolen is astonishing. To hoodlums and professional gangs, who rely heavily on "hot cars" for their nefarious activities, appropriating a suitable vehicle is considered a very minor phase of otherwise elaborate and complicated criminal schemes. Most veteran bank robbers use stolen cars to aid their escape from crime scenes. Thrill thieves and juvenile gangs steal cars for stripping and resale of parts. Car theft rings continue to flourish.

With a little diligence, American automobile owners could strike a great blow for crime prevention. By the simple acts of removing ignition keys and locking unattended cars, an amazing reduction in auto thefts could be realized.

The first step in the solution of any problem is the recognition of its existence. Where auto thefts are concerned, it is a step long overdue.

BAND DUCKS AND GEESE

Part of waterfowl management program in Idaho is the annual banding of ducks and geese. Here Fish and Game department workers are trapping and banding goslings in the Snake river. They are herded by boats into traps. Some adult geese also are captured and banded because they lose their flight feathers during the moulting season and cannot take off.

FOREST FIRES DOWN IN PAST SEASON

Missoula, Forest fire burn acreage in 1962, on the 16 National Forests of the Northern Region was down 95 per cent from the previous year, Boyd L. Rasmussen, regional forester reports.

"In 1961 forest fires burned 63,474 acres of lands protected by the Northern Region. But during this past year only 3,300 acres were burned. This is the smallest acreage burn since 1957 and less than one-third of the Northern Region's 10-year average of 11,594 acres," Rasmussen explained.

The largest fire in the five state region last year was the 1,765-acre, lightning-caused Alder Ridge fire on the Bitterroot National Forest in July. In 1961 the Sleeping Child fire burned over 28,000 acres in the Bitterroot.

Favorable weather conditions played a significant part in the reduced forest fire burn in 1962, Rasmussen said. "Improved surveillance and prompt detection permitted prompt control of those fires that did occur in the Northern Region."

"The new U. S. Weather Bureau radar atop Point Six Mountain northwest of Missoula provided most effective aid to the fire weather forecasters in detection, identification and short range forecasting of thunderstorm activity within a 200-mile radius," Rasmussen said.

"In the Forest Service's cooperative program with the Weather Bureau, the radar was in constant use throughout the fire season."

NATURAL RESOURCE NOT MAILABLE

U. of I., Moscow — "Please send me some of your natural resources as soon as possible. Thank you."

This startling request was received last week by Dr. E. F. Cook, dean of the University of Idaho College of Mines, and director of the Idaho Bureau of Mines and Geology. The Virginia school boy who sent the letter said he is studying natural resources in his geography class.

In reply Dr. Cook said: "We could send you a jar of the soil in which Idaho potatoes are raised, or a stick from an Idaho white pine tree, or some mineral specimens, or even a bottle of Snake River water. But as soon as we send these things to you, they would stop being natural resources. A resource must be capable of being used in some way for the benefit of a lot of people, or it isn't a resource."

Dr. Cook suggested that the Virginia boy read about Idaho's resources and then plan to visit Idaho some day. In closing he said: "We can't send our natural resources to you, but you are sure welcome to come and see them for yourself."

Drinking water for sheep should not contain more than two percent salt. Australian researchers have found. Better yet, they advise keeping the level below one and one-half percent.

...FOREST MANAGEMENT IS RESEARCH IN ACTION

YESTERDAY'S LESSON-TODAY'S APPLICATION-TOMORROW'S PROGRESS

Applying the experience of yesterday to the forest practices of today, we have learned that wise use of our natural resources brings a better tomorrow. Sound conservation practices, selective logging and more complete utilization of our forest products mean future progress, a healthier economic climate, more and better recreational areas, protection of wildlife and watersheds. Another reason why we say — Forest Management is Research in Action.

LIONS SPONSORING MAGIC SHOW. What do you think of a hypnotic trance? Merlin, the hypnotist, who is appearing at the Kendrick High School gym on Monday, April 1, under the sponsorship of the Kendrick Community Lions Club, will call a number of willing volunteers from the audience.

While under hypnosis they will shiver with cold, see a motion picture, and other uncanny demonstrations, which Merlin achieves through the power of suggestion.

Merlin is one of the few magicians who has mastered mass hypnosis, considered one of the most difficult of accomplishments.

Instead of escaping from a thoroughly examined and padlocked box, as the Great Houdini used to, Merlin locks a young lady in the box, and then, in a matter of seconds, the lady is out and Merlin is in. The box is unlocked, the lid removed, and out jumps Merlin!

There will be many, many magic items to amuse and confuse the audience.

There is no substitute for good food, and you will find every kind to tickle your palate at Blewett's Grocery in Kendrick.

Bake fish filets in sour cream, flavored with ground ginger, mild mustard and salad herbs. If you are unsure of the proportions to use, try one of the all-purpose blends.

GOLDEN RULE

BY ALMA BETTS

March 26 — Mr. and Mrs. Roy Martin received word of the death of a nephew, Clifford Martin, at Aberdeen, Wash., last Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Martin and son Chester, and daughter Mrs. Irene Tarbert of Lewiston, drove down to Seattle, where they met another son, Stanley, and all attended the funeral Tuesday, returning home on Wednesday. Clifford will be remembered here as a resident of some years ago. He was only 52 years of age. He leaves a wife, four stepdaughters and one stepson, besides a brother, Leonard Martin.

Mrs. D. V. Kuykendall attended the Woman's Society of Christian Service meeting at the home of Mrs. Wm. Reece, last Tuesday afternoon.

Alma Betts took Luella Taylor to Orofino last Tuesday for a medical checkup. She had fallen and received a couple of cracked vertebrae. She is recovering nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wilken of Kendrick; Mariene Bowers and daughters and Alma Betts spent Tuesday evening at the George Finke home to help him celebrate his birthday anniversary — combined with a little house-warming party, for their new kitchen.

Mary Ann Pavel is spending this week at home from her school at Ellensburg. She, with her father, John Pavel, spent Tuesday in Lewiston. Alma Betts called on them Wednesday and Mrs. Albert Lawrence and children on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Sullivan and baby visited in the Albert Lawrence home Friday evening.

Mrs. Russell Perkins is still helping out in the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Marvin and family at Lewiston. Joyce is home from the hospital now and slowly improving.

Teaklan Evergreen Grange is sponsoring a public card party Friday evening, March 29th, to raise funds for Salk Vaccine, and the Cancer drive. Everyone is invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Christensen, Steve and Doris and her roommate, stopped at the Alma Betts home for Sunday dinner. They were enroute to Moscow, returning the girls to the University of Idaho.

Gerald Kuykendall and a friend, Carol Bishop of Lewiston, were Saturday night and Sunday guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. V. Kuykendall. Other Sunday visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Gene Kuykendall and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kuykendall and family, all of Lewiston.

The Albert Lawrence family visited with Stella McIver Wednesday evening. Sunday evening they were supper guests of Mrs. Mariene Bowers and daughters.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Swens of Endicott, Wash., spent Saturday and Sunday with the George Finke family.

Mrs. George Finke spent Wednesday with her sister, Mrs. Elmer Souders.

Mr. and Mrs. George Finke visited with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Baack, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Tarry visited with Wm. Kauder, Saturday. All are recovering from the flu.

Chas. Zumwalt and daughter of Orofino called on Wm. Kauder on Saturday, and Mr. and Mrs. Barney Driscoll of Lewiston called on him Monday.

Bud Adamson spent the week-end with Mrs. Adamson and Gayle at Kooskia.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Hammers and Daisy Stage were Lewiston visitors on Monday.

Mrs. Ray Hines of Libby, Mont., spent several days the past week with her son, Don Hines and family.
