WILL BLOSSOMS BE OUT BY MAY 25TH?

It seems to be pretty "even money" among the "betting gentry" up and down Kendrick's Main Street whether or not the locust trees will be in bloom by Festival Day — Saturday, May 25th — and we predict that many a cup of coffee or milkshake (the largest bets of which we have learned) will change hands on that day — or when it is determined whether or not the air will be heavy with the scent of the white blossoms.

In 1961 — first year of the Festival, the trees were blooming in profusion. In 1962 there were a few, but it was several days before the trees really came into full bloom.

So — what will 1963 bring?

TIME TO SPRAY APPLE TREES HERE

U. of I., Moscow — Soon will come the time when home gardeners will want to put on a first cover spray to control codling moths on home garden apple and pear trees. In case the name didn't strike a bell, the codling moth is the pest that develops into the well-known apple worm.

The first cover spray should be applied two weeks after petal fall, according to Roland Portman, extension entomologist at the University of Idaho. Use four teaspoonsful to 50 per cent DDT wettable powder per gallon of water. Depending on the size of the tree, use up to five gallons of this mixture per tree. Remember the leaves have two sides, so wet both sides thoroughly with spray.

A second cover spray should be applied 21 days after the first cover spray, Portman pointed out. Mix the four teaspoonsful of 50 per cent DDT wettable powder with two teaspoonsful of 25 per cent malathion wettable powder per gallon of water, and again be certain each leaf is thoroughly wetted on both sides.

The second cover spray, and subsequent sprays of the same mixture at 21-day intervals, will control codling moths, aphids, and mites. These covers sprays should be repeated at 21-day intervals and immediately after heavy rains until harvest.

To identify the codling moth early, look for a moth grayish-tan in color with an iridescent, chocolate-brown patch at the tip of each front wing. These moths emerge after the trees have bloomed, Portman said.

Portman also pointed out that when the lesser apple worm, eyespotted bud moth, fruit tree leaf-roller, and the forest tent caterpillar are present, a cover spray of DDT should be applied at 95 per cent petal fall.

TRUCK USE SHOWS BIG GAINS IN IDAHO

Boise — Truck use in Idaho is growing at a rate 70 percent above the national average and well ahead of the rate of growth in 47 other states of the union, with notably more growth rate than the heavily populated states of the east. And within Idaho itself the use of trucks is growing 20 percent faster than passenger cars in service, according to a statement by the Idaho Department of Commerce and Development, headed by Louise Shaddock. The payroll for Idaho's expanding truck-line industry continues to grow and is now nearly 12 million dollars annually despite a national tendency to level off, caused by recently increased tax burdens imposed at the national level, the statement points out.

"Since 1940, truck registrations in Idaho have increased approximately 400 percent, and a steady annual increase of nearly 6 percent per year has been maintained over the past several years. Highway users taxes at present bring the state of Idaho 36.2 percent of its tax money; in other words foots over a third of the bill for operating the state. Of this amount, trucks numbering only a third of total registrations pay over half of the tax bill — 53 percent according to figures published in 1960 reports (latest available).

The lifeline of the trucking business reaches into nearly every phase of Idaho life since an amazing scope of operations including the farmer, small and large service businesses and stores, the commercial giant, mining and lumber interests, and even the railroads — all are in the trucking business. Idaho's combination of truck and rail service provides fair to excellent service.

"Trucks also provide Idaho with its biggest operation for mobilizing Civil Defense and provide much needed help in flood and disaster relief. As in the tradition of covered wagon days and as symbolized by the Centennial seal, wheels are rolling out of history and advancing the progress of Idaho."

Spraying with 2,4-D at recommended concentrations is effective in killing lawn dandelions, say weed specialists of the University of Idaho college of agriculture.

There is no substitute for good food, and you will find every kind to tickle your palate at Bicwett's Grocery in Kendrick. 1-80-

WORMS IN RADISH AND CABBAGE

U. of I., Moscow — Is it a radish or cabbage maggot? This point is cleared up by Ronald Portman, extension entomologist at the University of Idaho. He says that radish maggots are really cabbage maggots attacking the radish plant. These maggots will also attack various other plants such as cauliflower, kohlrabi and brussels sprouts.

"In early spring small flies emerge and fly into one of these plants and lay eggs in cracks and crevices of the soil. When hatched from the egg, the larva digs its way into the soil and enters the root of the plant," says Portman. "If the plant is not well established, the maggot will kill it."

If you already have a radish mag-got problem, not much can be done about it, Portman said. However, a preventative treatment can be used when planting seed or setting out transplants.

"Many home owners use DDT, chlordane and diazinon," said Portman. "When seed is planted, sprinkle some insecticide dust into the furrow with the seed before covering over. This protects the seedling as it develops. When the seedling has broken through the ground, an additional protective barrier of insecticide dust or spray around the plant will prevent the insect from getting to the roots."

This same barrier of insecticide on the ground will protect freshly set transplants, Portman added.

Nearly 200,000 seedling trees have been ordered from the University of Idaho nursery by Idaho farms for delivery this spring. Most of them will be planted for windbreaks.

Flying service contracts for the 25 million acres of the region involve approximately $1,000,000 for the year. The northern region contains 16 National Forests in eastern Washington, north Idaho, Montana, and western North Dakota and South Dakota. Aircraft contracts announced provide for aerial spraying to control spruce budworm and white pine blister rust, general administrative needs, fire detection and fire suppression.
In 1962 the northern region recorded a total of 9,585 flight hours. More than half, 5,700 hours, of the flying time was for fire control. Last year Forest Service aircraft dropped a total of 228,480 gallons of fire retardant and Smoke Jumpers made a total of 823 jumps. Twelve helicopters are now being used to spray blister rust infected trees in the Clearwater, Kaniksu, St. Joe and the Coeur d'Alene National Forests in northern Idaho.

SCHOLARSHIPS ARE AVAILABLE

Four scholarships of $25 each (which covers meals, lodging and insurance), will be given to boys for attendance at the Inland Empire Natural Resources Youth Camp at Camp Heyburn on Lake Chatcolet, seven miles east of Plummer, June 16-22.

This camp is sponsored jointly by the American Society of Range Management, Society of American Foresters and Soil Conservation Society of America, with the University of Idaho Agricultural Extension Service and the Washington State University Agricultural Extension Service cooperating.

Transportation to and from the camp is not included.

Applications may be obtained from any local chapter of the Idaho State Jaycees, any County Extension agent or any State Forestry office. Applications must be in the Boise office not later than Monday, May 27.

LOGGING TRUCKS ON THE MOVE

Monday of last week, following only light rains in most area, a logging truck or two might be seen — perhaps just getting ready, or with a load.

Tuesday, however, following the second sunny day — the big trucks really began operations, and their familiar roar could be heard along Main Street most any time.

This roar is music to the ears of most local residents — since it signifies employment — not only in the woods, but at the local mills — and employment means dollars to spend.

On the darker side, however, the truckers say that woods roads are still extremely soft; that getting stuck is a very common occurrence, and there is still oceans of mud in every low spot.

Complained one logger: "I loaded light with only 4400 board feet — got stuck in the mud and had to be pulled out — got to Kendrick, and there I got stuck with an over-load ticket for 7,000 pounds. There's days when a fellow just can't make a dime — and today was one of 'em!"

TAKING MATH BY CIRCUIT TV

U. of I. Moscow, An estimated 1,500 University of Idaho students will be taking mathematics classes next fall via closed-circuit television.

Gordon Law, acting head of communications, and Dr. Hans Sagan, head of mathematics, said the success of teaching by television is evident.

Under the present system tried for the first time this year, a professor teaches a small class in the radio-television center and at the same time the instruction is telecast to classes in other parts of the campus. Several hundred students are taking mathematics this way.

Next year, the professor will be on "live" for the first class in the morning and then have his lectures repeated by use of video tape.

"The tape will also serve as a study aid for students who would like to go over the lesson again," said Law. "Perhaps we can set up a library of tapes for student use."

TEMPERATURE SOARS, SOIL BAKES

Wednesday of last week the real temperature climb of spring began, with a reading of 71 degrees. Thursday was almost identical; Friday a reading of 81 degrees was recorded, and Saturday did a bit better with 82.

All this has permitted the resumption of field work — a work which was discontinued in February, and which drizzly rains have kept shut off since that time.

However, farmers report that the quick rise in temperature is literally baking the soggy soil on top, and that a hard crust, from an inch to two inches in depth is commonplace, Norris Wheeler, Boise, is the happy fisherman holding string of seven smallmouth bass and one crappie he caught at Brownlee reservoir, just above Hells Canyon, on the Snake river.

Two species of bass, the large-mouths and small-mouths, were brought overland by express and planted by pioneers in many Idaho rivers, streams and lakes beginning about 1892. The two species now are numerous in many places around the state.

and almost the rule.

Sunday the mercury column recorded a high of 85 degrees — and Monday it soared to 89! It began right then and there to look as if summer had really arrived!

YES INDEED

A group of sedate tourist couples went to a California beach, and one good lady was shocked at the swim suits. "Never before, anywhere, have I seen girls so utterly lacking in modesty," she said to her husband. "Have you, Henry?" "Sure haven't" Hank agreed, "and the climate out here's mighty fine, too!"

Tractor accident on Idaho farms have cost 106 lives in 14 years, according to W. W. Benson, registrar of vital statistics for the state health department.

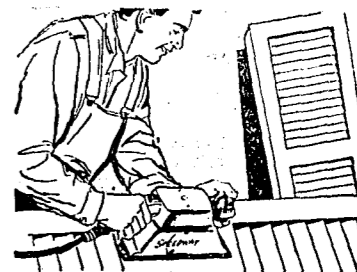

A Service of Thor Research Center For Better Farm Living

Q. In a recent column you discussed the use of trim and shutter paint, and said it doesn't lend itself to large areas. Could you tell me why this comparatively expensive paint began chipping off my shutters after only a year?

A. It's difficult to answer this question without knowing what condition the shutter surface was in when painted, or how it was prepared, but it appears you may have applied the paint directly over regular house paint.

Since this paint is an enamel—and contains varnish—any surface to cover should be sanded clean of all previous paint, or treated with a primer. If not, it will chip in a short time. The same applies to so-called roof and porch paint, which contains an even greater amount of varnish to withstand the elements and constant foot traffic.

Q. What is the best solution to use when cleaning gear cases on power tools?

A. Kerosene long has been the stand-by.

Q. I plan to acquire tools gradually until my workshop is equipped to handle most maintenance jobs around the home. A friend suggested getting a drill and attachments for sawing, sanding and what have you, saying it's cheaper in the long run. Is he right?

A. This no longer is the case. Because of increasing popularity in workshop tools, mass production permits manufacturers to offer single-purpose tools for about the same price as attachments.

If you do not plan to do any power requiring the capacity and work of built-for-the-job tools, a power drill and attachments might suffice. But with little or no price difference, it would seem logical for a person building a workshop to get the right tool for each job.

W. L. "Bill" Rogers, Editor

HELLO, THERE, FOLKS:

Well, here it is almost the last of May — and Locust Blossom Festival Time again! When you come in — and you're coming, aren't you — leave your car here with us for a thorough grease job and Oil change. We use Union Products of course!

A fat man bumped into a lean one. "From the looks of you," said the fat one belligerently, "there must have been a famine." "And from the looks of you," retorted the lean one, "you're the guy who caused it!"

How's your supplies of diesel fuel, gasolines and oils? It's so late that you better check them today and give us a call at 4251. We really hurry! Union Products, of course!

A chaplain serving his first day on an aircraft carrier sat down for mess with some enlisted men. The speed with which the navy men stowed away their food intrigued him. He wrote in his log: "I bowed my head to saw a few words of grace, and when I looked up again, a waiter asked me what I wanted for dessert."

Have you seen Union's new Minuteman Tire? The first one good enough to bear our name. It is fully guaranteed, yet reasonable in price. See it today. Sure, we will trade!

Someone has defined a "wolf" as a big game hunter who enjoys life, liberty and the happiness of pursuit.

Always travel "Union".

PARK PATTEN

BY MRS. JERRY SMITH

MOTHERS DAY — Last Sunday was much like any other day for most Park residents. Spring farming was in full swing, so many families spent their day working. Exceptions to this were Mr. and Mrs. Charley Enger, Charles and Kathy; and Mr. and Mrs. Karl Enger and Vickie, who visited in the Delbert Byers home at Avon. They and many others gathered to view movies and slides of the wedding of Judy Byers to Linn Enger, which took place April 21. Others present were the new Mrs. Enger, her brothers Melvin and Kevin Byers and their families, and Miss Carol Jean Zimmerman, all of Moscow; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Corey and family and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wilkins, all of Avon.

Three sons and their families honored Mrs. Charles Gudmundsen with a Mother's Day visit. They were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gudmundsen of Colfax; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Gudmundsen of Deary, and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Gudmundsen of Park.

Joy and Jimmy Baumgartner attended church in Deary with their mother, Mrs. J. D. Baumgartner, on Mother's Day. Later they visited relatives in Deary.

BROTHER IN HOSPITAL — Mrs. Jerry Smith received word Monday that her brother, Charles Stone of San Francisco, Calif., is in the hospital with a broken left leg and left wrist. He is employed as a motorcycle policeman on the California State Highway Patrol, and was injured in a fall from his motorcycle while chasing a speeder. It is expected that he will be hospitalized for six to eight weeks.

MEETING HELD HERE — The women of Park gathered at the home of Mrs. Charley Enger, Friday, to discuss the possibility of starting a community club or home demonstration club. It was decided to postpone any decision until fall, when all would have more time to attend meetings. Those present were Mrs. Karl Enger, Mrs. Jerry Smith, Mrs. Charles Stratton, Mrs. Dwain Thompson, Mrs. Charles Gudmundsen, Mrs. J. D. Baumgartner, Mrs. Melvin Gudmundsen and Mrs. Ted McKinney.

ENGERS TO MOVE — Mr. and Mrs. Karl Enger and Vickie will be moving this week from their home in Park to the house now occupied by Mrs. Dorothy Lancaster in Deary. It is not known if anyone is planning to occupy the "House at Four Corners."

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

A business man who retired recently with $100,000 in the bank was asked the secret of his success.

He replied: "I attribute my ability to retire with $100,000 bank balance after 30 years in business to close application to duty, pursuing a policy of strict honesty, carefully computing and paying my income tax, taking good times with the bad, always practicing rigorous rules of economy, and to the recent death of an uncle, who left me $99,950.50."

There is no substitute for good food, and you will find every kind to tickle your palate at Blewett's Grocery in Kendrick.
