Grandmother's Brown Sugar Beans

You hardly need a recipe for making Brown Sugar Beans. Like your grandmother, you'll cook up a good-sized batch of Idaho's famous dried Great Northern (large white) beans to the almost-tender stage. Then it's one layer of beans about an inch deep in a shallow baking pan or casserole, a liberal sprinkling of brown sugar—the dark variety for deeper flavor, a pinch or three of dry mustard; a good dash of salt and of coarse-ground black pepper, quartered bacon slices laid hit and miss over the top, the bean liquid added. The whole to bake in a 350 degree F. (moderate) oven about an hour. For extra goodness, just before serving sprinkle the bacon with brown sugar and toast gently under the broiler until the sugar is bubbly and the bacon lightly browned. M-m-m, good!

This is a treat that goes well with any meat, especially those from the barbecue grill. With a more generous use of bacon atop, it can serve as a hearty and economical main course dish in itself. Perfect partners are coleslaw or sliced tomatoes, corn sticks or hot brown bread slices, with fresh fruit or chilled cup custards and cookies for dessert. These beans are good warmed over and may even be frozen for future use. But then, you had better not count on leftovers!

If you haven't tried the "large white" Idaho-grown Great Northern variety of beans, you have a taste-treat in store. Full of fine flavor, these beans may be used in every recipe calling for their "small white" cousins. Versatile too, they turn into many tempting dishes—soups, salads, casseroles, croquettes.

FIRE SEASON IS SET BACK 20 DAYS

State Forester Roger Guernsey has announced that the official closed fire season will begin on June 1 this year, 20 days later than normal, because of the late spring. Under Idaho law the State Forester is empowered to shorten or lengthen the closed fire season as dictated by the weather conditions. After June 1 all persons desiring to burn debris or logging slash must first get a permit from their local forest warden or ranger.

The State Forester said that it costs about 15 cents per acre per year on the average to successfully protect the millions of acres of forest land from fire. The landowner pays about one-half to three-fourths of this with the State and Federal governments paying the balance. He noted that the rate to be paid by private landowners on State administered districts has been increased this year from 6 cents to 8 cents per acre by the State Cooperative Board of Forestry.

scholarships being offered by civic or local organizations. The fee is $25.00. Information about the camp may be obtained from Manning Onstott, local SCS representative.

The Latah Soil Conservation District Board is offering to send a boy from the county to this camp if he applies to them for the offer.

SNOW SURVEY SETS NEW RECORDS

The last snow survey of the 1963-64 season was finished May 2 on Moscow Mountain by Fred Chugg of the Soil Conservation Service and Larry Deeds of the University of Idaho Experiment station. All courses showed a marked decrease since the previous survey in both depth and inches of water.

The depth on Moscow Mountain has decreased 28.9 inches from last month's record high of 75 inches to remain still a record high at 47.1 inches for this date. This survey showed the depth to be 35.8 inches above last year's 13.2 inches, and 26.1 inches higher than the seven-year average of 21 inches.

East Twin Snow Course showed a decrease of 35.8 inches from the record high of 63.8 inches last month to remain a record high for this date at 28 inches. There was no snow reported on this course last year.

West Twin showed the largest decrease of the five courses on the mountain, with a 45.3 inch decrease during the month to 1.9 inches.

The two remaining courses showed no snow. One had showed 33 inches, the other 36 inches last month.

The water content of the snow has increased in relation to depth. For example: Water content at the Moscow Mountain course is 19.5 inches, which is 40.4 percent of the snow, compared to 37.5 percent last month. East Twin showed 52 percent — its 28 inches of snow is 14.6 inches of water.

This season's snow surveys were conducted through the cooperative efforts of Prof. C. C. Warnick of the University Engineering Experiment station, the Soil Conservation Service and the Latah Soil Conservation District supervisors.

The instructors are men from agencies who work in these fields and have arranged special kinds of instruction that will appeal to boys of high school age. The purpose of the camp is to give interested boys an understanding of the inter-relationships of natural resources. In the natural setting of Camp Heyburn many actual resources are handy for study.

Any boy of high school age is eligible. He may pay his own way or apply for one of the several has been making modest economic gains on firm footings since World War II. Now these measured steps are rapidly taking on the dimensions of long leaps into the "fabulous 60's. The evidence is everywhere. Idaho is moving, and moving fast into her period of greatest development.

Since the war many monumental gains have been registered. Idaho has long been famous for producing the world's finest potatoes. Newly constructed potato processing plants have now vaulted Idaho far into the lead as a quantity producer as well. Two new large power dams are on the way in North Idaho - Dworshak Dam is under construction; High Mountain Sheep Dam has been approved. Thus we are assured of the kilowatts to energize the most visionary growth in Eastern Idaho the gigantic atomic energy complex boosts the State's economy and adds substantially to the nation's power.

Meanwhile Idaho's forest products industry has taken giant strides toward preparing to share in the world's changing markets. A growing volume of Idaho's forest raw material is being manufactured into pulp and paper and plywood rather than the conventional boards.

There is no question about it, the humming sound of a burgeoning Idaho is building to a roar. The Idaho State Forestry Department is jumping to meet this challenge of which will favorably influence Idaho forestry for several hundred years to come. Some of these are as follows.

1. A law was enacted by the last Legislature which will enable the State to exchange land with the Federal Government. This will permit the blocking up of forest holdings for more efficient management. The complete exchange program will span decades - the benefits will span centuries.

2. The Forestry Department was reorganized with the State Forest-er's staff being handed state-wide assignments and with the five Area Foresters being assigned more responsibility. This has increased staff effectiveness considerably. The step is also aimed at helping to eliminate the concept of a North Idaho and a South Idaho.

3. Timber sale activity on State owned forest lands during 1963 was the highest since 1959. The total volume cut on the five areas amounted to 186 million bd. ft. 17,480 cedar poles were cut. The total value of all products harvested was $1,925,891. The department's modest reforestation program was continued with the planting of 158 acres of trees for the future.

4. Forestry is catching on with Idaho's small private woodland owners too. About 400 requests for assistance are now handled each year by the State's six Woodland Foresters. New interest was highlighted in 1963 when the Idaho Christmas Tree Growers' Association was organized at Orofino. This has already resulted in the marketing of more and better trees at better prices. — Roger L. Guernsey, State Forester.

GRASSHOPPERS TO BE NUSIANCE

Grasshoppers are likely to infest one million Idaho acres in 1964, according to a forecast received by the University of Idaho from the Agricultural Research Service. Last year grasshoppers infested 945,000 acres.

YOUTH OPENINGS ANNOUNCED

State Forester Roger L. Guernsey announced today that the Idaho Youth Conservation Camp will run from June 22 to July 28 this year and he urged all interested boys to write the State Forestry Department State Capitol, Boise for an application blank. "Applications are due back at the State Forester's office by May 15," he said.
Any resident Idaho boy between the ages of 14 and 17 inclusive who is of good health and character and is interested in forestry work is eligible to apply.
Sixty-three boys will be selected by drawing to attend the Camp which will be located at the old Farragut Naval Training Station near Coeur d'Alene. The number of boys entitled to attend from each county will be the same number of Legislators the County has in the State House of Representatives. The drawings for successful applicants will be conducted in the Counties by the State Representatives or persons they designate.
The State Forester said the boys are paid $1.00 per day and are furnished transportation to and from the camp, plenty of good food, medical care if needed, and a pair of boots and socks. The work will consist of cleaning up part of Farragut and building trails in preparation for the National Girl Scout Roundup in 1965.
Deb Young, Dean of Boys at Pocatello High School, will be Camp Director. Deputy State Forester Jack Gillette is Project officer for the State Forestry Department.

IT WOULDN'T
During the first day at school, the teacher informed all the little students that if anyone had to go to the rest room, he should raise two fingers. One little boy seemed puzzled and asked: "How's that going to help?"

FATHERLY ADVICE
The father dropped an arm about his son who was about to be married. "You must realize my boy," he said, "that you not only have another mouth to feed, but a great big one to listen to!"
