CLARENCE HUND FINDS METEORITE IN CASCADE MTS.

Seattle — If space scientists are looking for a space age Sherlock Holmes to trace down fragments of meteorites, they should look up Clarence Hund, 2-4012 — Hund, a mechanic in the Aero-Space Division experimental research unit, at Boeing Aircraft in Seattle, recently found a large chunk of meteorite about the size of a man's head.

He had been looking for a large fragment ever since he found two small ones about five years ago in the Greenwater River country near the Chinook Pass highway. On a recent fishing trip, the amateur meteorite detective, always on the alert for such objects, noticed more small fragments. With his wife and a friend Hund searched a wide area and following the clues, finally found his new acquisition.

Hund's interest in heavenly objects is not limited to meteorite-hunting. His job here is building models of celestial bodies. He helped build a six-foot model of the moon used in the space flight simulation laboratory.

Hund believes his meteorite fragments came from a "shooting star" seen some years ago by residents of the Greenwater River area.

A 20-year employee of Boeing, Hund has been interested in meteorites since he was a boy. His interest was aroused by his grandfather, who found a 60-pound chunk of meteorite in 1898. He sold it to a natural history museum for $1,200. Hund's three chunks weigh about nine pounds, the largest hitting the scales at six pounds. He brought them to work to show fellow employees.

Hund, who speculates that the fragments are made of cobalt and nickel, plans to give one of the small ones to the Pacific Science Center in Seattle. — Boeing News (Seattle).

Mr. Hund is very well known here. He is a brother of Mrs. Walter Silflow and Mrs. Cecil Choate. He is a graduate of K. H. S., was employed for several years as a mechanic in the Kendrick Garage, and married Miss Wilma Zimmerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zimmerman of Southwick.

Brocke connected on a 40-yard scoring pass to Dale Silflow for the third Tiger touchdown in the third quarter, and then passed to Tom Rowden for the extra point. THOR RESEARCH CENTER FOR BETTER FARM LIVING

Which comes first, garage or driveway? This perplexed one reader who planned to do it himself. "It seemed to me the best thing to do would be to pour the drive and foundation together, then build the garage. But my neighbor says don't pour the driveway until the garage is built. Will it really make any difference?"

Usually the garage construction should be completed, and concrete floor and apron laid, before starting the driveway. By doing these jobs first, equipment can be moved right up to the construction site without damaging the driveway, something a fully-loaded truck might do to a concrete driveway.

Old tire casings pad fence corners and protect cattle.

A few suggestions regarding the construction: If fill is needed under the garage floor slab, sand or gravel is the best material to use. Ordinary soil will settle away from the slab, causing cracking, because it compacts gradually. Elevate the garage enough to provide a gentle slope of the driveway, thus preventing water accumulation near or in the garage.

A rural reader sends in a suggestion we think is good. It seems his cattle were occasionally suffering injuries from bumping against sharp fence corners until he hit upon this solution:

Nail two or three short sections of old tire casings (about a quarter of an automobile tire, for instance) around the corners of the fence, and you'll have an excellent cattle protector. We might add that you'll find old tire sections good bumpers for the corners of carts and hayracks to prevent damage to them or farm buildings from possible bumps.

The 10 Commandments of Safety

- 1 Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. This is the first rule of safety.
- 2 Guns carried into camp or home, or when otherwise not in use, must always be unloaded and taken down or have actions open; guns always should be carried in cases to the shooting area.
- 3 Always be sure barrel and action are clear of obstructions, and that you have only ammunition of the proper size for the gun you are carrying. Remove oil and grease from chamber before firing.
- 4 Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle, even if you stumble; keep the safety on until you are ready to shoot.
- 5 Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger; know the identifying features of the game you intend to hunt.
- 6 Never point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot; avoid all horseplay while handling a gun.
- 7 Unattended guns should be unloaded; guns and ammunition should be stored separately beyond reach of children and careless adults.
- 8 Never climb a tree or fence or jump a ditch with a loaded gun; never pull a gun toward you by the muzzle.
- 9 Never shoot a bullet at a flat, hard surface or the surface of water; when at target practice be sure your backstop is adequate.
- 10 Avoid alcoholic drinks before or during shooting.

DODGE FOR '65 ON DISPLAY SEPT. 25

The new Dodge line, along with the compact Dart and conventional-sized Polara and Custom 880, will be introduced to the public at Dodge dealerships across the country on Friday, Sept. 25.

The previously unfilled slot in Dodge's product line-up which the Coronet will occupy is currently the fastest growing segment of the American automobile market.

"There is a definite trend, in both individual and fleet purchases, to a lower-priced, family-sized car like the Coronet, offering more car than the compact and yet more economical than the conventional sized cars," Don Allen, manager for Lewiston Dodge.

"We believe the 1965 Coronet is an ideal family-size car. It is convenient for suburban driving and at the same time highly suitable for cross-country trips. The Coronet measures 204 inches in over-all length, is 65 inches in width and 56 inches in height."

In the new Dodge Polara line a 426-cubic inch, high performance engine is available. It is designed for motorists who want peak performance without the special fuels and extra servicing required by compe-dition tuned engines. It has a compression ratio of 10.3 and a four-barrel carburetor and a dual exhaust system.

Windshield wipers on several of the new Dodge models operate in a parallel sequence and are 18 inches long, 2 inches longer than in 1964.

INTERESTED IN A SERVICE ACADEMY

Nampa — Rep. Compton I. White, Jr., again reminds high school seniors that new examinations for the U. S. Service Academies will be given on Saturday, Oct. 31.

White said that appointments to the academies are based on the results of this examination. He asked that all interested persons contact him in order to have a letter of authorization to take the examination.

The Idaho lawmaker also said that the annual competitions for entrance to the U. S. Coast Guard Academy is set for December 5, 1964.

Further information regarding the service academies can be obtained by writing the congressman, U. S. Post Office building, Nampa, Idaho.

TIMBER HARVEST HITS RECORD HIGHS

Missoula — The timber harvest and recreation visits in the 16 great National Forests of the Forest Service's Northern Region reached all-time record highs last year, Neal M. Rahm, regional forester reports in a brief review of the 1963 activities (latest available figures).

In a 44-page summary, "National Forests and Communities," Rahm reports that a record high of 1,442,362,000 board feet of timber was cut in these National Forests last year. That is enough timber to build 150,000 average size homes. The 1963 timber harvest volume exceeds the previous record high of 1962 by almost 275 million board feet, and represents an increase of more than 23 percent.

Rahm says that timber sold from these public lands also reached an all-time record high last year. In 1963 the Forest Service sold 1,520,451,000 board feet of timber in the 16 National Forests. At the end of the year, Rahm said, 3,001,800,000 board feet of timber under contract remained uncut.

Total recreation visits to the Region's forests exceeded 8,300,000 in 1963. Winter sports continue to be the fastest growing outdoor activity. Approximately 300,000 people visited the 16 national forest winter sports areas in the northern region last year (again 1963).

The 381 forest service camp and picnic areas in the region provide 3,700 individual family units. Other outdoor recreation facilities on the forests include 23 organization camps, 52 commercial facilities and resorts, 18 developed beaches, 16 winter sports areas and 52 boat launching ramps.

A total of 298,551 cattle and sheep grazed 7.2 million acres of National Forest and national grasslands under 2,300 paid grazing permits last year. An additional 10,596 animals grazed without charge. Most of these animals were horses used by recreationists visiting the wilderness, the primitive, wild and remote areas of the northern region.

SLOW LEARNING OF CHILD NOT FAULT OF THE TEACHER

Washington, D. C. — Does your child have difficulty learning? If so, then it takes courage and love to age, they should not blame the instruction he or she needs in the school.

While it is perfectly natural for parents to be disturbed at the knowledge that their child is below average, they should not blame the teacher for the child's inadequacy.

Nor should they feel personally threatened when their children are placed in special classes. This advice comes from a new study by the N. E. A.'s research division, entitled "Education of the Slow Learner."

The education of children who have difficulty in learning assumes growing importance, says the report, in the light of the increased need for skilled workers. Educators recognize that such children can lead socially useful and personally satisfying lives, but there is less room at the bottom in employment. Unskilled labor is constantly shrinking in demand in the labor force.

What can parents and teachers do to help slow learners? Encouragement, patience and understanding are most important. Children will work to top capacity, says N. E. A.,

A new look of size and motion is combined in the 1965 Fairlane, restyled from bumper to bumper for the first time since its introduction three years ago. Although new styling makes the midweight Fairlane look bigger, it remains about the size of the 1956 Ford on the outside and the 1959 Ford on the inside. Improved ride and economy; new low-profile tires for greater directional stability, better traction and longer life; significantly improved interior quietness; alternators and automatic chokes standard on all engines; and a complete line of options including low-cost air conditioning are features of all 1965 Fairlanes including the Fairlane Sports Coupe (above).

Eight Fairlane models — hardtops, station wagons and sedans — will be introduced in Ford dealer showrooms Friday, September 25.

HOW IS YOUR VOCABULARY? — OR YOUR MEMORY

U. of I., Moscow — You may never have been dated by an "airdale" or "flapper," but don't be too sure unless you have had an opportunity to check the latest edition of "The Bookmark," a quarterly publication of the University of Idaho Library.

According to an article entitled: "The Flapper's Dictionary of Slang," which analyzes American slang of the 1920's, some terms simply died from lack of durability. Some slang words have been replaced with later versions; other expressions met death with the end of the era.

The article states, "Slang has been defined by experts as 'the body of words and expressions frequently used by or intelligibly to a rather large portion of the public in general, but not accepted as good, formal usage by the majority.' It is characterized most vividly by its lack of durability."

Terms such as "square," "hot-rod" and "beatnik" are slang expressions of the 1960's, which will probably die from lack of usage as time passes, as have such expressions of the '20's as "flat wheel," "oil can" and "cat's pajamas."

"Yesterday's slang is death warmed over, or, if it lasts, it tends to pass into accepted speech. 'O. K.', 'Jazz' (music) and 'A-bomb' were recently considered slang, but they are now standard usages," according to the article.

Listed among the terms of the flapper-era are: "Mustard plaster" — an unwell fellow who sticks around; "hen coop" — a beauty parlor; "razzberries" — sneers; "police dog" — male fiancé; "noodle juice" — tea; "whangdoodle" — jass music; "airdale" — a homely fellow; "bee's knees" — ne plus ultra; "strike-breaker" — a young woman who takes up with her friend's steady during a row between them; "corn shredder" — young fellow who dances on partner's feet.

RESEARCH PLANNED IN THREE FIELDS

U. of I., Moscow — Three agreements for agricultural research and experimentation to be conducted by the University of Idaho were approved by the Board of Regents in a recent Boise meeting. D. R. Theophilus, president, announced last week.

The J. R. Simplot Co., the Idaho Wheat Commission and the Idaho Potato Processors Association will each provide $1,000 in cash grants for research in their respective fields.

The Simplot Co. has a research project with the Agricultural Experiment Station relative to the feed value of ammonium phosphate. Besides the cash grant, the agreement also provides that the company will make available the cattle and facilities for the research work.

The Wheat Commission agreement calls for studies on "the production and distribution of southern Idaho wheat."

The Idaho Potato Processors Association has its agreement with the department of chemical engineering, which is the recipient of the cash grant to be used for "Secondary Treatment of Potato Processing Waste."

PREPARING PARKING LOT AT CHURCH

Members of the Kendrick Assembly of God Church have begun a drive for funds for the preparation of a parking lot in the Church area — to permit off-street parking, and greater safety for children and older persons attending the various church services and activities.

Agar Swan will have charge of labor on the project, and Roy Conger and Rev. Pearson head the financial committee. Donations of either type should be made to the proper committee head.

Money or time pledged on this project will be used on no other, says Roy Conger.

THANK YOU, FARMER FRIENDS!
 We wish to thank all the farmers for their fine cooperation during this bountiful harvest — for bringing samples for moisture test rather than bringing large loads of wet grain to the elevators. Again we thank you! — The Crews at Kendrick & Julietta Elevators of the Lewiston Grain Growers, Inc. 39-1

The cook there, Julia Hix, had prepared a delicious turkey dinner to honor the occasion.

PARK PATTEN
BY MRS. JERRY SMITH

SHOWERS — Showers of two distinctly different types were noted by Park residents over the past week and week-end. Rain showers again stopped field work with about 100 acres of grain still to be harvested in the area. Farmers are starting their fall planting, and hopes for better weather.
The second shower was a miscellaneous bridal shower honoring Miss Kathy Enger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Enger, held at the Odd Fellows Hall in Deary, Sunday. The hostesses for the event were Misses Andrea Kirk, Ruth Johnson and Kathy Springer. Entertainment was in the form of vocal solos by Mrs. Jerry Smith. Helping Miss Enger open her gifts were her mother and her future mother-in-law, Mrs. Adolph Kasper of Moscow (Joel). Miss Enger's fiance, Ronald Kasper, arrived at the close of the party to meet the guests.

PERFORMANCE AND ECONOMY

Chevron gasolines give you both. First, they're blended for your climate, to give you faster warm-ups. They contain Methyl* — first new antiknock compound since Ethyl® — to step up octane performance.

Second, they have Detergent-Action, the carburetor-cleaning additive that dissolves gums and dirt deposits, protects the fuel system against rust. These features cost you nothing extra.
