FISH AND GAME
 BRIDGE TO BE BUILT

New public access to the backwaters of Bliss Reservoir at site of bridge to be built across the King Hill canal south of the Snake River. Part of the Idaho Fish and Game department's Five-Point program for the future, the area will be known as Tuana Gulch public access and will make fishing waters available, as well as some waterfowl and quail hunting. Here the department's construction crew pours concrete footings for the bridge, which will give better access over the canal.

TRYING TO SELL
 DRY PEAS, LENTILS TO JAPANESE

Tokyo — Japan will soon be the scene of a major market development effort for United States dry peas and lentils, reports Joe Spiruta from Tokyo. Spiruta, a specialist in foreign marketing of agricultural products, and Washington State Department of Agriculture employee, is on loan to the Pacific Northwest Pea Growers and Dealers Association for the marketing assignment.

The industry plans to kick off its effort in Japan with a promotional exhibit at the Tokyo International Trade Fair, opening April 16. More than two million visitors are expected to view the exhibit during the fair. The pea and lentil booth will be a part of the Washington State Pavilion, joining some 30 other exhibitors from the Northwest.

Most of Japan's dry pea needs are presently being filled by Communist China. Exports of U. S. dry peas to Japan, about 10,000 tons annually at this time, are small even though consumption in the country is about ten times this amount. U. S. producers believe that inroads into the market are possible and will be made.

Washington and Idaho produce some 95 percent of the U. S. dry peas and lentils. Exports take about half of this production, while domestic use takes the rest. Japan ranks about sixth in export importance after England, Venezuela, the Netherlands, West Germany and Canada. Total U. S. production is in the neighborhood of four to five million hundredweight.

The promotional effort in Japan is a cooperative one between the Foreign Agricultural Service, the U. S. D. A., and the Pacific Northwest Pea Growers and Dealers Association. Washington's Department of Agriculture is also assisting by making available the services of a marketing expert. Financing and cooperation was made possible under provisions of P. L. 480, with both sides sharing in the actual cost.

Two other representatives of the dry pea industry will soon join Spiruta in Japan, to help with the marketing effort. They are Wayne Chastain of Spokane and Ed. Dumas of Moscow.

There is no substitute for good food, and you will find every kind to tickle your palate at Blewett's Grocery in Kendrick. 1-ad

AUTHOR USES OWN BOOK FOR COURSE

U. of L. Moscow—Science administrators at the University of Idaho claim to be pleasantly astonished that they have not been indicted for violating "anti-trust laws." This last semester the university's physics staff has a good start on a monopoly position in electricity and magnetism.

The Research Corporation gave the university a grant for hiring a distinguished visiting professor in physics. Dr. Norman I. Adams of Yale who was engaged for the position, is co-author of the widely used Page and Adams textbook, "Principles of Electricity" (Van Nostrand), of which is now in its third edition.

Dr. Adams is teaching the electricity and magnetism course from his own textbook while on campus as a counsellor for students, faculty and administrators on physics programs. In choosing his own book for the course, Dr. Adams displaced the well-known text "Electricity and Magnetism" (McGraw-Hill), which was written by Dr. Edson R. Peck of the regular university faculty. Both textbooks have been "best sellers" in the field.

The course in electricity and magnetism is normally assigned to Dr. J. S. Kim, who has been teaching from Dr. Peck's text. Because he is a native of Korea, Dr. Kim is able to use a translation of Dr. Peck's book which was published in Korean. His students here, he reports, use the version in English.

TOURISM SEEMS PROMISING IN '65

Boise — Traffic count for highway usage in Idaho this year has continued to gain at a rate more than 50 percent faster than that of the January-February period of 1964, and establishes the continuation of an advance begun a month earlier, Louise Shaddock, head of Idaho's department of Commerce and Development points out. This advance, having been sustained over a quarter of a year, is enough to establish a trend and such upward trends have always been sound indicators of gains in Idaho's tourism industry.

One of the first financial gains countable is the advance in Idaho gasoline sales, which have followed the bigger highway usage upturn. Usage in January-February, 1965, was up 6.15 percent, as compared to 3.99 percent for the same period in 1964.

CHANGES DESIRED IN FED. LAND SALES

Wash., D. C. — Hearings on sweeping changes in federal land sales and retention policies will be held in Twin Falls, April 9, Sen. Frank Church, Idaho, says.

Conducted by the Interior Department, the hearings will seek public views on proposed Bureau of Land Management rules covering approximately 460 million acres of land in the west and Alaska. The hearings will be conducted in the American Legion Hall in Twin Falls, under the direction of Karl S. Landstrom, assistant to the secretary for Land Utilization.

Hearings were held in Washington on March 25, with both concurrence and suggestions for changes submitted. Church said that interested persons may submit oral or written views at the Twin Falls hearings. If possible, they should notify the Director of the B. L. M. in Washington of their intention to appear or to submit written testimony. However, Church emphasized they may appear at the hearing even though notice is not given.

WHICH IS FIRST . . . CHICKEN OR EGG?

Chicago — Raising chickens is traditional with 4-H youngsters, but the method is not. Members engaged in poultry projects readily adopt new practices recommended by the Cooperative Extension Service and the fast-paced poultry industry.

Recently a group of 4-H poultry raisers attended the Junior Poultry and Egg Fact Finding Conference at Kansas City. This afforded the young people an opportunity to hear top men in the industry, learn about jobs available, and view a vast display of automation and scientific practices in use today.

The national 4-H poultry program attracts both boys and girls. Some have family-size flocks, while others are producing on a commercial scale. As a matter of fact, a flock of birds is not even necessary to participate. Investigation or experimentation with incubation, genetics or nutrition has attracted 4-H'ers interested in poultry science.

A 17-year old boy in Ohio expanded his project from 800 chickens in a two-story barn to more than 4,000 caged layers. He found better management of his flock was necessary, and with the help of his parents took steps to bring this about.

Another teen-ager more than doubled the size of his flock by employing new practices learned in his 4-H Club. A girl used her poultry knowledge as a junior leader and helped younger members. Along the way she made more than 90 poultry exhibits and reported a gross income of some $7,000 over a six-year period.

Efforts like these are acknowledged and rewarded in various ways. Each year the Extension Service names county, state and national winners of awards provided by poultry sponsors.

DWIGHT HOFFMAN WINS CSAH AWARD

U. of I., Moscow — Prof. Dwight S. Hoffman of the University of Idaho chemical engineering department has been awarded the first Western Electric Fund for excellence in engineering education; it has been announced by Prof. Melbourne Jackson, head of chemical engineering.

The presentation was made at a banquet in Seattle during the annual Pacific Northwest meeting of the American Society for Engineering Education. Hoffman was selected from nominees at engineering colleges throughout the Pacific Northwest.

"The award, a $500 check, is in recognition of one who has made an exceptional contribution to excellence in teaching and to the development of engineering education programs," said Jackson.

"The award recognizes, especially, Prof. Hoffman's development of the engineering science courses in the College of Engineering," said Jackson. "His philosophy is that these courses are the foundation upon which all other engineering curricula can be built. His accomplishment was notable because cooperative teaching by the regular engineering departments was involved."

SAWLOG DEMAND GOOD SAYS REPORT

The February Wood Products market report shows a 1 per cent increase in the value of all delivered sawlogs within Shoshone, Kootenai, Benewah and Latah Counties. According to Rus Slade, Extension Farm Forester this slight increase is due to a surge in the lumber market which occurred in January. All buying points want Douglas Fir and Larch sawlogs at $30 to $37 per M with good demands in Benewah Creek, St. Maries, Fernwood, Plummer, Rose Lake, Cataldo, Kellogg Coeur d'Alene, Rathdrum, Polkatch and Moscow. All buying points except Kellogg want White fir and Hemlock sawlogs at $30 to $34 per M with fair to good demands.

All points want white pine sawlogs except Rathdrum, Kellogg, Rose Lake and Plummer with good demands at $42.50 to $55 per thousand bd. ft.

All points want Ponderosa Pine sawlogs except Rathdrum, Kellogg, Rose Lake, Cataldo, and Fernwood with good to poor demands at $27 to $40 per thousand board feet.

Stud logs are wanted at Santa, St. Maries, Coeur d'Alene and Rathdrum at $27 to $33 per thousand board feet.

Cedar poles are in good demand at Bovill, St. Maries, and Plummer. Larch or Tamarack poles are also in demand at St. Maries.

Peelers and Slicers are in good demand at Post Falls at $37 to $85 per thousand board feet.

WHAT ARE THE FACTS ABOUT COIN DISAPPEARANCE?

Wash., D. C. — "Far from being reassuring, the latest statement of the Federal Reserve showing coin inventories up, is in fact, a declaration of further deterioration in the silver coinage situation," Senator Len Jordan, Idaho, declared this week.

Jordan points out that at the beginning of February some 507 million coins were on hand in reserve banks, up 314 million from a year ago. However, this is but a small part of the 40 to 50 billion coins in circulation everywhere. He added that the coin increase is in pennies and nickles, and actually silver coins are down.

"The government has tried to keep from the U. S. public the fact that silver coins are disappearing, and will continue to disappear. It has attempted to blame such whipping boys as coin machine vendors and collectors for the coin shortage."

"Jewelry people grabbed up all the Kennedy half-dollars they could find to make into key rings and tie clasps. Silver U. S. dollars are now selling for $1.60 in India. Coin World, a magazine for numismatists, notes that coins are leaving the United States in large numbers.

"Gold is hard to get. Governments control most of the world supply. The U. S. is holding down the price of silver, making it cheap. However, in the commodity markets, silver is traded in units of 10,000 ounces. So, the 'small fry' are hoarding coins. Coins are readily transportable, easily purchased and stored."

"Monetary experts nearly all agree that the price of silver must rise, due to the demand on the world market. Other nations are having difficulty. Mexican coins, which contain more silver than ours, have virtually disappeared. Philippine coins are being smuggled to Red China. People are storing coins against the day when the silver price rises. In the light of these facts, it is difficult to find consolation in the Federal Reserve report of an easing in the supply of pennies and nickles."

The future artist put a final splash on his picture and stood back to consider the effect. "I'm rather bothered about a title," he said to a friend who had been watching him.

"Why not call it 'Home'?" said the friend.

"Home? Why?" asked the artist. "Because," was the reply, "there's no place like it."

A CENTURY OF SERVICE TO THE PEOPLE OF IDAHO

APRIL 14, OUR 100th ANNIVERSARY

When furs were money and wagons were schooners J. C. Anderson started a trading post at what now is Idaho Falls. Trappers, traders and miners brought their furs, gold and valuables to the post for safekeeping. The Anderson Brothers Bank prospered and grew through the years to the First Security System of Banks — with 44 offices in 36 Idaho communities today.

Idaho has had a great history of growth and progress to which First Security has made substantial contributions. In the past five years alone, we have paid more than 13½ million dollars in interest on savings accounts deposited with us. In addition, during these same five years, we have made over 300,000 loans amounting to more than 1 billion 110 million dollars to individuals and businesses in Idaho. This, indeed, is banking that is building Idaho!

From the past 100 years we draw inspiration as well as experience, both of which aid us in providing ever better and more helpful banking service to the people of Idaho.

SPONSORING WILD RIVERS BILL

Wash., D. C. — Eighteen senators have now joined with Senator Frank Church, Idaho, in co-sponsoring the National Wild Rivers System Bill.

The gathering support for the bill even before the first Senate interior sub-committee hearings are held on it, indicates concern many states have for the measure, Church said.

The bill, introduced by the Idaho senator, was included in President Johnson's messages to congress on the State of the Union and Natural Beauty.

Sections of Idaho's Clearwater river drainage and all of the Salmon river in the Gem state would be included in the bill to preserve America's fast vanishing white water scenic splendor.
