POWER COMPANYS IMPROVE SERVICE BY INTERTIE LINES

Spokane — A far-reaching agreement calling for joint construction of 565 miles of high voltage electric transmission lines that will strengthen interconnections between five Pacific Northwest utilities linking Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Utah and eastern Washington was signed this week by chief executives of five investor-owned utilities involved.

The coordinating group will operate under the name "AMPS", and abbreviation of Associated Mountain Power Systems.

George M. Brunzell, president of the Washington Water Power Company, said that in addition to WWP, companies involved in the 50-year coordinated power exchange agreement are Idaho Power, Montana Power, Pacific Power & Light and Utah Power & Light.

"The interconnected network requires an initial investment of approximately $21,000,000," Brunzell said. "Two sections of the 230,000-volt network are already under construction. WWP is building a section from our Noxon Rapids project to Hot Springs, in western Montana, and Montana Power is building from Hot Springs to Anaconda, Mont."

Brunzell pointed out that the participating companies have been interconnected for more than 20 years. "This additional interconnection will provide greater flexibility of operations for all companies and will enable us to transfer huge blocks of power with the assurance that ample power supplies will be available for any need, no matter what its magnitude."

The five utilities now operate more than 4,700,000 kilowatts of generating capacity and 81,000 miles of lines for transmission and distribution.

Brunzell said that from Anaconda the line will be extended to Idaho Power's Brady substation near American Falls. It will connect there with existing facilities on the systems of the Idaho and Utah companies and with a new 230,000-volt line between Treasuraton, Idaho, and Utah's steam electric generating plant at Kemmerer, Wyo.

"Hundreds of jobs will be created by the construction program necessary to carry out the coordination agreement," Brunzell said, "as well as greatly increased tax income for local, state and federal governments and local purchase of materials and supplies."

YOUTH CAMP DEADLINE IS NEAR

Boise — Roger Guernsey, state forester, has urged all Idaho boys interested in attending the 1965 Youth Conservation Camp at Priest Lake to get their applications in right away. The deadline for applications to be received at the state forester's office is May 20.

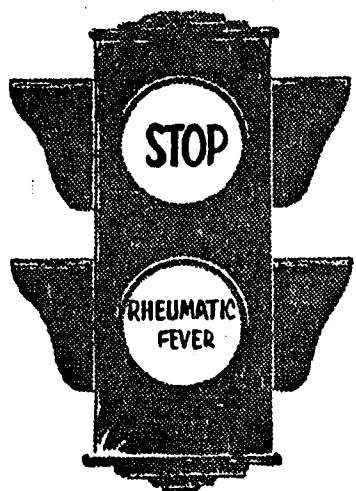

Mr. Guernsey said: "All Idaho boys 14 to 17 years of age who are in good health and character are eligible to apply. The 87 boys will be selected by drawings, with each of the counties being allotted the same number of boys as she has legislators in the State House of Representatives under the new apportionment system."

Boys are paid $1.00 per day and are furnished transportation to and from camp, three meals a day, boots and socks, and medical care if needed. The camp will run from June 21 to August 17, and most of the work will be done in the Priest Lake State Forest.

The boys will construct and maintain trails, clear streams to benefit fish life, and perform erosion work. Several crews will be picked for special jobs before and during the International Girl Scout Roundup. Some will work on further improving the trails and some will serve on the camp fire department.

ON MOTORCYCLES

It's seldom that an editorial appears in the Gazette — and this little ditty is not intended in any way to be one — but rather a series of comments on the local motorcycle situation.

To start off, we don't believe there is a community in the U. S. A. with more motorcycles "per population" than there is right here in the Potlatch Valley. There's seldom any time during the daylight hours in which one cannot be seen or heard.

Locally there are those who ride them (motorcycles and scooters) just for the fun of it.

There are those who ride them for the joy of cross-country rides, in the timber, going fishing, etc.

There are those who own and ride them just for the lust of competition — to see who can ride up a certain hill or around a given course in the shortest possible time. They care little, if at all, for life, limb or machine — it's the drive to win against all odds.

Many of the motorcycles and scooters of today have "strange sounding" names from "far-away places" — and their rider-owners talk glibly of "revving her up to 14,000," or "mine conked out at 8,500. It's time I looked over that engine."

What a far-cry from the motorcycles and scooters of 40 years ago, when they bore such names as "Harley-Davidson," "Indian," "Pope," "Excelsior," "Henderson," "Cushman" and probably a few others. In those days the rider knew very little, if anything, about the number of "revs" his motor was turning up, and was lucky if he even knew how fast he was going.

The "tuned mufflers," "resonators" and other gim-cracks of the present were un-heard of — but those old-timers all wore mufflers! Well, anyway, times change!

No wheels! Toro's new Flymo handles like no other mower can . . . because it floats on air. A light push and Toro's new Flymo goes where you want it to go. Back and forth. Side to side. Straight ahead. The most revolutionary idea since power mowing began, Flymo floats on a cushion of air, just like the military hovercraft. As safe and easy to use on hills and terraces as it is on level lawns. No discharge chute—clippings and debris are deflected downward into the grass beneath the housing. Flymo cuts a 19" swath, weighs just 30 pounds, and features a fast starting 2½ hp engine.

FLOATS ON AIR. A whirling impeller spins a ring of air that supports the Flymo only ¼" above the ground. Floats so low . . . it glides under shrubs and bushes. Height of cut easily adjusted for ½, 1 and 1½ inches.

1966 WHEAT QUOTA ALLOTMENT SET AS LAW REQUIRES

Moscow — The national wheat marketing quota and acreage allotment proclaimed for the 1966 wheat crop by the Department of Agriculture on April 14, had to be issued by April 15 under provisions of wheat legislation now in effect, according to Clarence Jensen, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation county committee. Current law requires a marketing quota proclamation whenever wheat supplies are likely to be excessive without a quota.

In the absence of new legislation for the 1966 wheat crop, a referendum would be held not later than August 1, 1965, to determine whether or not wheat farmers favor or oppose marketing quotas for 1966.

The chairman pointed out that the voluntary wheat program now in effect applies only to the 1964 and 1965 crops of wheat. Congress currently is considering new legislation to continue this program on a voluntary modified basis. The proposed legislation would eliminate the mandatory marketing quota provisions, and hence there would be no referendum.

Under the current law's formula the announced 47.8 million acre national allotment for the 1966 wheat crop is the acreage needed to produce the national marketing quota of 1,292 million bushels, after taking into consideration the underplantings and other factors as well as the small farm increases. Such small farm increases (also provided for in the 1964-1965 crops) would boost the national allotment about four million acres, so that the total national effective allotment for the 1966 crop would be approximately 52 million acres.

Under marketing quotas, penalties would be assessed for excess production when acreage allotments were exceeded. The current law also provides for penalties if acreage between the former 55-million acre minimum allotment and the announced national allotment is not diverted to conserving uses. It also does not provide authority for payments for land retirement.

The department has said that no announcement is planned at this time on support levels, national reserves, state and county allotments, and domestic and export allocation percentages, which are authorized by legislation now in effect. Should new legislation be enacted, those provisions will be announced prior to the referendum.

Winter wheat growers whose crop this year is not proving up to par because of winter kill or other natural causes are fortunate if they signed up last fall to take part in the 1965 voluntary wheat program, according to Mr. Jensen.

He pointed out that the amount of certificates for which such growers are eligible under the program will not be reduced because the crop turned out smaller than expected.

For participating in the 1965 voluntary wheat program, a farm operator qualifies for marketing certificates, price support loans on his wheat crop, and diversion payments on wheat allotment acres beyond the basic minimum diverted from production into a conserving use.

Mr. Jensen explained that the total number of bushels of wheat for which a participating farm may be eligible for certificates is determined by applying the marketing percentage (80 percent for 1965) to the normal production of the farm wheat allotment. Since the certificates are based on the normal rather than the actual production, a small yield from the allotment acreage planted for harvest would not change the amount of certificates for which the grower qualifies.

Two kinds of certificates are available. Domestic marketing certificates worth 75 cents a bushel on as much as 45 percent of the farm allotment's normal production; and export certificates worth 30 cents a bushel on as much as 35 percent of the farm allotment's normal production.

Wheat producers taking part in the program who planted as much as 80 percent of their allotments for harvest will be eligible for the full amount of certificates available for the farm. When fewer acres are planted for harvest, the amount of certificates will be reduced. Any reduction in the amount of certificates would first be made in the lower valued export certificates.

OPPOSES PROPOSED FIREARMS LAW

Wash., D. C. — Rep. Compton I. White, Jr., Idaho, says he opposes strict federal control over the sale and use of firearms.

White said on a radio-television program released this week, "that control of crime and . . . within the boundaries of . . . is traditionally reserved . . . authorities."

"I agree with P . . . proposal to prohibit . . . ment in interstate commerce except by federally licensed dealers," White said, "but I cannot support legislation that goes beyond this."

He said a firearms bill introduced by Senator Thomas Dodd of Connecticut, appears to go far beyond federal control of interstate commerce.

White singled out as unacceptable features of the Dodd bill provisions that would establish a federal licensing fee for firearms dealers and one that would prevent persons under 18 from owning shotguns or rifles.

"I started hunting with my own rifle in north Idaho when I was 12," White said, "and many of Idaho's young people today are taught the proper use of rifles and shotguns long before they are 18."

White also said he opposes "mandatory registration of shotguns and rifles, whether it be on the federal, state or local level. This could lead to infringement of the Constitutional guarantee to bear arms for a lawful purpose."

White noted that Idaho residents "rely on the right to bear arms to hunt for wild game and enjoy the great outdoor recreation our state affords, as well as to protect their homes."

FISH IN LOG POND

Former log pond at Horseshoe Bend north of Boise get load of trout prior to early season opening of April 1st. Eagle hatchery men, Evan Parish, fish culturist, and Bradley Christensen, equipment operator, are shown unloading catchable sized rain-bows.

This pond was purchased from the lumber company, chemically treated to rid the water of trash fish, and then stocked with trout last year to create a new fishery.

FISH HATCHERY FUNDS ASSURED

Wash. D. C. — Nearly $750,000 requested by Sen. Frank Church of Idaho for three major Idaho conservation projects has just been approved by the Senate Appropriations committee.

Acting on three of the Idaho senator's bills, the full committee allocated $500,000 for the preservation of Upper Priest Lake, $225,000 to start construction of a federal salmon hatchery near Kooskia, and restored a $75,000 cut to complete fish screen diversions on the Salmon river drainage.

Perhaps the most influential upon the economy of north-central Idaho are the funds earmarked for the fish hatchery project. It will be located near Kooskia on Clear Creek, on land that was obtained last fall in a property exchange with Potlatch Forests, Inc. When completed it will cost about $967,000, of which the $225,000 approved by the committee will be used for the initial construction phase.

Its major roll will be to prevent extinction of Idaho's famed salmon runs. At the time of introduction of the appropriations request, Senator Church pointed out that construction of big dams on the Snake and other Idaho rivers has seriously effected salmon runs both for commercial and sports fishing. The chinook hatchery to be built under the fund appropriation will be one of the major federal salmon hatcheries in the nation.

In north Idaho, U. S. Forest Service officials will be able to utilize the $50,000 also approved by the committee to implement the bill protecting the natural wilderness beauty of Upper Priest Lake.

The measure calls for acquisition of 417 acres of privately owned land in three tracts around the lake front by the federal government for inclusion in the Kaniksu National Forest. When the transaction is completed, all lands bordering Upper Priest Lake will be in public trust and will bar future commercial encroachments on one of the nation's last remaining mountain wilderness lakes.

IN CITY COURT

In the City Court of W. A. Campbell for the past week:

The following pleaded guilty to violation of the Green River Ordinance and were fined $10.00 each: Caroline Heathron, Chico, Calif.; Richard Luzzoro, Portland, Ore.; Wm. Haunscheid, Garden City, Kan.

MANY 4-H'ERS IN BEEF PROGRAM

Chicago — Membership in the national 4-H Beef program continues to increase, with last year's figures reaching a record of 157,466, according to a summary just completed by the National 4-H Service committee. This represents an increase of some 2,500 members over 1963. Current enrollment looks equally promising, they say, although 1965 figures will not be available until late in the year.

Participation in this program offers teen-age members a real challenge to produce quality beef, says the Cooperative Extension Service which directs the work. Animal health, sanitation and nutrition as well as breeding and marketing are a part of the over-all program.

Projects maintained for several years have resulted in building a profitable herd for scores of 4-H youth — including girls. Showing prize livestock still remains one of the biggest thrills. Grooming an animal for show rings, learning showmanship and how to win or lose are great for building self-confidence and developing character, declare 4-H leaders.

The 4-H'ers have access to some of the most modern practices through the help of animal husbandrymen, commercial breeders and feeders and local club leaders. Full cooperation of parents also is necessary.

Support of another kind is also given by sponsors of the 4-H Beef program. Boys and girls have an opportunity to earn three types of recognition: A county medal; a trip as a state winner to the National 4-H Club Congress; a $50 educational scholarship.

To qualify for the state trip and scholarship, the club member must be over 14 years of age and have completed a minimum of three years in club work, with at least the current year in the beef animal program.

IDAHO WILDLIFE TO BE ON NEW FILM

Boise — For the first time, a film

dramatizing the adventurous story of Idaho wildlife as it is today and featuring wildlife's important place in the state's natural resources and recreational spheres will be produced and its world premiere is expected in the state's capital in a few months, Louise Shadduck of the Idaho Department of Commerce and Development, and John R. Woodworth, director of the Department of Fish and Game, announced last week.

The film will be statewide in scope of presentation and the two departments will cooperate in affording the producer the greatest possible assistance from all state agencies.

The producer of the film is Jim Bond, well known authority on forestry and wildlife, and one of the world's leading producers and exhibitors of wildlife films.

The finished film will be about 55 minutes long, with full color, litany (or two-voiced) narration. Its tentative title is "The Idaho Wildlife Story."

EARTHQUAKE BOOK TO BE IDAHO EDITED

U. of I., Moscow — The devastating Alaska earthquake will be recorded in book form under the editing direction of a University of Idaho professor of English.

Dr. Vail Foy, assistant professor of English has been selected to edit the two-volume scholarly publication for the Alaska Earthquake Committee of the National Academy of Sciences. On leave of absence for a year from the university, he will be located at the N. A. S. headquarters in Washington, D. C. The assignment begins on July 19.

"The committee is doing the report at the request of President Johnson," said Foy. "The Academy hopes to bring together, in one place, most of the significant materials relating to the earthquake. We hope to do the same for the Alaska quake as was done for the San Francisco earthquake in the Carnegie Report."

Foy said his job would be to edit manuscripts submitted from various scholars across the country, and to assist the committee in determining format of the volumes.

Your Chevron Dealer

...stakes his own money on faith in his ability to please you!

Wherever you see the red, white and blue "Chevron Dealer" sign, you'll find a man who owns his own business. That's why he never takes you or your patronage for granted. You're important to him.

Chevron Dealers are career men. Thousands have sold Standard Oil's quality products, and benefited from Standard's constructive business assistance, for 10 years or more — a good many for 15, 20, even 35 years.

It's in the American tradition: a Company creating opportunities for men willing to build on their own initiative.

That's why you find Chevron Dealers so friendly, dependable and eager to please.

Chevron Dealers are active in civic affairs too. Some are mayors of their towns. Many are leaders in youth organizations, school boards and other community activities.

The Chevron—
Sign of excellence
