HOME FROM TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stedman returned Saturday, July 3, from a month's vacation through the mid-west and central states.

Their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Stedman and family, and an aunt, Mrs. Paul Bailey, all of Clarkston, accompanied them. They traveled by the South Dakota Bad Lands and Mt. Rushmore to Omaha. The Samuel Stedmans left them there for Oklahoma to visit relatives of Mrs. Samuel Stedman and Mrs. Bailey. The Fred Stedman went on to Hartford City, Indiana.

They then visited a brother, Fay Vallad and wife several days, also two half-brothers, L. B. Vallad and William Vallad. That Sunday there was a family gathering of nieces and families at the Carl Warner home, with about 35 present.

Leaving there they went to Marion, Indiana and visited a short time with Quentin Perryman, and saw the devastation caused by a recent tornado there. They then stopped at Benton Harbor, Mich., visiting a step-sister, Marie Russ. Then on to Detroit to visit another brother, Raymond Vallad and wife. All visited the huge Detroit zoo and another family gathering also was held.

The Sam Stedman family went to Niagra Falls, via Canada. After their return all left via St. Clair Shores, Mich., to visit a half-sister, Dorothy Eline and son and family at Ionia, Mich. There they visited an aunt, Mrs. Mary Stedman and other relatives.

The Samuel Stedman family left for home via Oklahoma, and the Fred Stedmans went to Mackinaw City to visit her sister-in-law, Mrs. Carl Stanton. While there they took a ferry across Mackinaw Strait to Mackinac Island, where no motor vehicles are allowed, and only horse-drawn vehicles are available, also saddle horses or bicycles. Here was the "Grand Hotel" Robert Ripley wrote about, with the flag-bedecked, geranium-lined 880-foot veranda, the largest in the world.

At Winter, Wis., they visited in the Edward Cradick home. Both are former residents of Kendrick and Southwick.

From Winter, Wis., they drove to Hibbing, Minn., to visit Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Massie, she a niece of Mrs. Stedman, and viewed the largest open iron mine in the world.

CHARIVARI HELD

Some 30 relatives and close friends attended the charivari Monday night for Mr. and Mrs. Jody Fey at their home northeast of town.

Refreshments and treats were served to those attending.

TUESDAY HOTEST

Tuesday was "by far and away" the hottest day of '65 to date, with the "official" thermometer recording a high of 96 degrees — and Wednesday morning dawned cloudless, and the thermometer read 72 degrees!

It's seldom that the night temperature in Kendrick will remain that high, usually dropping to the low 60's at least.

Farmers say it's great haying weather — but the Forest Protective workers would prefer a bit more moisture, that danger index climbing rapidly.
