Answer Fire Call

The Juliaetta Volunteer Fire Department was called out Thanksgiving morning about 9:20 to answer a call at the trailer home of Mrs. Beulah Peters. It was discovered wiring had shorted on the hot water tank. Luckily the call proved not serious.

Crazy, Mixed Up Things

By looking at some of the spring flowers blooming, one would almost think the season had made a mistake. The forsythia has been blooming on a bush by the postoffice for a couple of weeks. Violets have been in evidence at several homes, and pussy williows are budding out!

ROUGH, ON HOLIDAY

The Thanksgiving holidays were all but a nightmare to some travelers for beginning Wednesday evening, a wet, very slippery snow began falling in this area — but in some areas it arrived in the early afternoon.

Anyway, although not cold, snow and rain made many highways a veritable "nightmare" for drivers who were forced to travel them and radio and TV reports said more than 100 cars were in the ditch at one time between Pullman and Colfax Wednesday afternoon and even-

About an inch of very wet and very sticky snow fell here in the canyon, with depths reported up to four or more inches on the ridges. By early afternoon Thanksgiving in its 15th year here, and the group Day, however, roads were bare in the canyon, and the snow itself all Locally no accidents, not even the 'fender bender" type were reported, which speaks well for local drivers.

Local garages and service stations reported a rushing business in winter tires - regular and studded and in "tractionizing", not to mention anti-freeze and all the other things that make up driving necessitics during stormy winter weather. Friday and Saturday rain squalls visited the area, and by Sunday almost all the snow was gone. Sunday night the thermomoter began to drop and here in the canyon a reading of 26 was had. Monday was largely sunshiny but chill, with the reading getting to just barely 35 degrees.

Tuesday night, under cloudless skies, the mercury on the "official" thermometer dropped to 22 degrees.

Her 4-H project has broadened and now she supplies moth eggs to the state agricultural experiment station, museums, and to entomologists in this and other countries, This summer the young scientist plans to study with an entomologist in England and after her return in the fall, an Australian Miss will join her in the study of entomology.

A New Mexican 4-H youth has amassed a collection of more than 2,000 insect specimens. The collection has been used in the instruction of 4-H members and school science classes. His interest has been directed to the control of insects on crops and he now assists airplane

An Indiana University student plans to write about the world of insects after graduating with a degree in journalism and zoology. SHOULD TEACH TRAFFIC SAFETY

With schools in full swing all over our nation, parents shoul give real attention in teaching their children

Thompson pointed to the record of partments have consolidated their a 15-year-old New York Miss who efforts to protect and teach safety Although schools and police de-partments have consolidated their education to the children, parents should not depend entirely on educators and the police. The following rules are emphasized by the Idaho Department of Public Safety:

Parents need to set a good example and insist on obedience to crossing in marked areas only.

Children who walk to school should go by the safest route and be sent in ample time, so there is no need for them to hurry.

Before children are permitted to ride bicycles in the street, they should be taught the rules of the road and the bicycle kept in safe condition, and carry no extra passengers.

Needless to say, drivers should realize, although apparently many do not, that children, by nature, are unpilots dusting crops in his area.
