WHY GO SOUTH TO SPEND THE WINTER?

If this section of the country could "hold" the type of winter weather enjoyed for the past week, there would be no reason to "go south to spend the winter!"

Beginning Wednesday of last week warm rain, warm winds and bright sunshine cut rapidly into the snow pack, culminating with a 50-degree mid-day temperature Saturday, and Sunday was almost as warm, the "official reading" being 48 degrees! By Saturday evening all the snow here in the valley was gone, and was thinning rapidly on the ridges.

Some might believe this would bring on the danger of high water, but such was not the case, as the soil was not frozen, and being very dry, readily absorbed all the snow-pack had to offer — the Potlatch river rising so little that close observation was necessary to detect any raise at all, and it remained quite clear — clearer, in fact, than the Clearwater river itself.

There was no sunshine Monday, but the mid-day temperature was in the low 40's, and no rain fell. The unseasonably warm weather is having its effect on shrubs, with lilacs beginning to show big leaf buds, as is Forsythia, and willows are turning their "springtime yellow."

It rained here in the valley a large portion of Monday night — with snow falling on some areas on the ridges, varying from a "trace" to three inches. The mid-day temperature was in the low 40's.

FOREST SERVICE TO SHARE RECEIPTS

Missoula — Idaho, South Dakota, Montana and Washington, in the Forest Service Northern Region, are to receive $2,088,287.41 from National Forest receipts for the year that ended June 30.

This is the highest Forest Service payments to northern region counties since 1960. Payments to state treasurers represent 25 percent of the gross National Forest receipts from timber, grazing land use, recreation, power permits and mineral leases. Payment to counties of the region are up $123,683.72 over the $1,964,603.69 of last year. Approximately 93 percent of the receipts in this region are from timber sales.

Forest Service funds are distributed by the state treasurers to counties with National Forest acreage. Federal law requires that counties use the funds for local schools and roads.

Fiscal 1965 receipts from the four-state northern region, show the following allocations: Montana, $1,346,456.80; Idaho, $651,433.38; South Dakota, $1,816.69; Washington, $288,580.54.

Counties in Idaho to share in the distribution include: Clearwater, $60,829.47; Idaho, $201,738.09; Latah, $13,453.66; Kootenai, $48,481.45.

MEMORIES

My neighbors children are having such fun. The snowballs are flying one by one. It makes me think of the days that are past. When I was just like them, a young happy lass. The years have rolled by since that time long ago. But I'm happy as they. And I love them they know. A Reader.

RETURN HOME FRI.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Davis returned home early Friday morning from a 10-day all-expense paid trip to Las Vegas, Nev., and the Los Angeles area.

They report that the climate was perfect — and the Rose Bowl game exceptionally exciting, due to the upset that it was. Their only disappointment was the inability to see the Lawrence Welk show, due to over-lapping schedules.

While in California they were taken to many interesting places by her relatives who are living there.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK EXCELLENT SAYS BANK IN REPORT

Business activity in Idaho at the beginning of the new year was at a new peak level and further expansion of the state's economy in 1966 is expected to equal the national growth.

This is the report of First Security Bank's quarterly News Letter which will be distributed soon, it was announced by A. O. Kanikkeberg, local manager.

The News Letter is edited by Dr. Elroy Nelson, corporation vice president and economist.

By most measurements available, the report notes, Idaho's economic growth during 1965 has been at rates exceeding the national average. The national trends are reflected in some increased total and net income from agriculture. Also expected are increased production from minerals, and lumber industries, and in total employment and payrolls.

The outlook for agriculture in the Gem state is generally good for 1966. Increases are indicated in total income from marketing, net farm income, and net income per farm. Cash receipts from farming pursuits, for the first three months are expected to be slightly higher than a year ago.

The News letter reports that cash receipts from farm marketing for last year established a new all-time record, well above $500 million, and an increase of 8 per cent over 1964. Higher prices for potatoes in the early months of the year and for cattle and hogs after March accounted for the major increases.

Crop production tonnage also established a new record. The potato crop exceeded the previous record by 7 percent and was almost double that of 1964. Wheat production was also the largest in 12 years and winter wheat the largest ever. The outlook for 1966 is for production just slightly below last year's levels.

Cattle prices at the end of the year were generally some $4.00 above that of 1964. For the first time in recent years, the rather large number of cattle on feed does not mean anticipated lower prices in the early months of 1966. The major reasons for this are increased per capita and total consumption of beef due in part to the small quantities of hogs and higher prices for pork.

Broiler production is up slightly and wool prices in worldwide and national markets in 1966 should at least equal those of 1965.

Value of mineral production in 1965 easily established a new all-time record to total $96 million, an 11 percent increase over 1964. Silver production totaled 17.9 million ounces, the highest since 1937 and was valued at $23 million. Lumber production totaled about 2,000 million fbm, slightly below last year's record, and phosphate rock production established a new record, about three million tons. Lead and zinc production was slightly below total of the previous year, but values were higher.

Non-agricultural employment averaged 5,900 above the total shown in 1964, and increases were shown in every category. Unemployment was 16 percent below 1964 and for most of the year the ratio of unemployment to the total labor force was below the national average.

Retail trade, as shown by department store sales, averaged eight percent higher than in 1964, with increases corresponding to those in personal income. New car sales for the first 11 months totaled 22,309, or 6 percent above last year. Truck sales totaled about the same as in 1964.

Construction value in the leading cities of the state for the first 11 months was 4.8 percent above a year ago, reports First Security.

SEWER PLUGS UP

E. M. White, village custodian, and Ed. Nelson were quite busy most of last Thursday re-laying a section of sewer pipe in front of the Frank Abrams home on east Main Street.

Apparently heavy truck traffic had caused the ground in which the big pipe had lain for many years, to slip and collapse, plugging it solidly. This caused a back-up in a drain between the Ramey and Abrams homes and the digging resulted.

A new pipe had to be installed, bedded in sand and gravel. Over the years considerable trouble has been experienced in this section of Main Street, both to water pipes and sewer. This is the area where the big trucks come over the hill, apply their brakes for the slower trip past business houses, and this action seems to cause a slippage of soil as well as the surface of the oiled street.

NEW FARM PROGRAM TO HAVE IMPACT SAYS UNIVERSITY

Boise — Idaho farmers will soon be feeling the impact of the new farm program, the University of Idaho agricultural extension service says in the January issue of "Economic Facts for Idaho Agriculture." R. Wayne Robinson, marketing information economist, said the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965 marks a basic shift in policies that have guided agriculture for 30 years.

For three commodities — wheat, feed grains, and cotton — the act provides for market support near world prices. The act covers four years — 1966 through 1969, in contrast with past programs for one or two years. Robinson said the law also contains a number of provisions that may have considerable long-run significance.

Among these, he said, are provisions giving the Secretary of Agriculture discretion in determining details of the program in any one year within limits specified by Congress. The most important, he noted, is the discretion given the Secretary to vary the support given a producer based on his participation in the feed-grain program. Another important provision, the economist said, permits expanded use of direct payments to support farm income. Direct payments have been extended to wheat and cotton for the first time and expanded for feed grains. Direct payments are continued for wool.

No fall signup period was provided for any of these programs under the new law — except for cropland adjustment if it had been growing a crop under support. No land can be brought into this program on which ownership has changed during the three years immediately before the contract. Payment rates for land diversion will vary within the county. Details will be available from the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office.

General provisions for various crops and dairy are similar to prior programs, Robinson said. All wheat farmers will sign up concurrently with the feed-grain program. Dates are February 14 to March 25, 1966. Marketing quotas for wheat are suspended. Producers become eligible for price support by planting within their wheat allotments. Dairymen in each of the 75 federal-order markets may elect to come under a program by a two-thirds vote. The new law would remove pressure on producers to maintain maximum production in order to protect their individual base in an order market.

Doctor in the Kitchen by W. W. Bauer, M.D. Consultant, National Dairy Council

POISON IN THE KITCHEN This is supposed to be a column about nutrition, and poisons can scarcely be classified as nutrients. Nevertheless, they have a place in this space, because too often they get into the food in place of good nutrients. This can happen in two ways. One is by the eating of substances which are naturally poisonous, such as mushrooms of certain varieties, and the bulbs of some garden flowers which have been known to be consumed in place of onions. Such food poisoning is readily prevented by the simple expedient of not eating wild mushrooms, and by keeping garden bulbs out of the kitchen. Also Non-Food Poisons Another way in which food can be poisoned is by the accidental introduction of poisonous substances into food during its preparation. This can happen whenever poisonous substances are stored in close contact with edible ones. It is most likely to happen where space is limited, as in small kitchens, kitchenettes or trailer homes. In such cases, the storing of poisonous substances in the same cupboard or on the same shelf with foodstuffs, may cause the poison to be used in place of an edible ingredient. Such accidents are not uncommon. A toxic substance may resemble such a white crystalline foodstuff as cane sugar, or a seasoning like salt, and may be used under the misapprehension that it is sugar or salt. A colorless liquid substance may be mistaken for vinegar. The simple solution for such problems is never to store poisons anywhere needlessly. If you are troubled with ants or roaches or flies, or pestered by rats or mice, try to get rid of them without using poison. If you do use it, follow the package directions carefully, and dispose of the remainder when your purpose has been accomplished. Keeping residues of poison around the place in case of possible future need is just asking for trouble, especially if there are children. If you must keep poisons for continuous use against persistent pests, never store them in the kitchen or in a store-room where foods are kept. Poison Control Centers You probably have a list of telephone numbers commonly called, in or near your kitchen. Why not add to it, while you think of it, the number of your nearest poison control center; also inquire whether in case of emergency, a person should be taken to the Center or to the hospital. Practices differ in different communities. The time to consider poison hazards is before the "accident" happens. There isn't much point in a nutritionally balanced diet laced with a deadly poison which should never have been in the kitchen.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT YOUR PRESCRIPTION: The Law and Pharmacy Our State Board of Pharmacy exercises control over all pharmacies within our State by the granting or withholding of licenses. Anyone wishing to operate a pharmacy must earn a Registered Pharmacist's license. The applicant must demonstrate his willingness to comply with our high State standards of practice. Our State law also requires that a pharmacist keep his prescription records for a number of years. These files... of every prescription he fills... must be open to inspection by the State Board of Pharmacy at all times. In addition, the Federal government has legislated specific laws for control of narcotics and adulterated or misbranded pharmaceuticals. The various States have also passed laws dealing with labeling. With this protection-by-law, policed by pharmacists themselves through the Boards of Pharmacy, pharmaceutical standards are kept at a uniformly high level throughout the country. For the highest pharmaceutical standards, low prices consistent with quality and the personal attention you can always depend upon, bring your prescriptions to OUR Rexall PHARMACY
