REBUILDING TAKING PLACE AT U. OF I.

U. of I., Moscow — Further rehabilitation of the 4-year-old Sciences building at the University of Idaho will continue this summer due to a recent grant from the U. S. Office of Education, Kenneth A. Dick, vice president for financial affairs said last week.

The grant for $50,892 will be combined with university funds to total $155,000. The money will further the conversion to a Life Sciences building which began when the new Physical Sciences building was completed two years ago.

The Idaho legislature appropriated $350,000 of a $78,000 request in 1963 to begin refurbishing the structure, said Dick. At that time the building was completely rewired and the heating system was improved.

The recent grant will be used to equip the building for its new task of housing offices, classrooms and laboratories of the life sciences, which include biology, botany, bacteriology and zoology. Plans for the refurbishing project are being prepared by Nat Adams, architect of Boise.

Office of Education funds were made available through the higher education facilities act of 1963.

The Gothic-like structure, still considered impressive on the Idaho campus, was designed by Prof. Rudolph Weaver, University architect.

CRATERS OF MOON TO GET PUBLICITY

A story with a new look at Idaho's famous Craters of the Moon National Monument is scheduled to appear in a late issue of Sunset magazine, Louise Shaddock, head of Idaho's Department of Commerce and Development said today.

The new slant on this famous tourist attraction is the emphasis on its double appeal to tourists, not only as an out-of-this-world sight to see but as an excellent place to camp.

Information on the monument's 45 campsites was furnished the magazine by the department. An interesting highlight in the study of the monument's growth as a tourist feature is the accelerating increase in the number of trailers and pick-up campers coming into the area. While ordinary tourist traffic has continued to increase at a rate of about 10% each year, the increase in campers and trailers has been at a rate of over 20%, or better than double the increase in visits by car and bus.

Shiny hair, dry skin, good posture and correct weight all are influenced by good nutrition.

It's difficult for a person to put his best foot forward when he's standing on his last leg.

An optimist is a man who thinks the dry cleaners are shrinking the waistband of his trousers.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Total cost of rehabilitation is expected to reach $153,000.

Science Hall, as the structure was officially named when the Board of Regents approved specifications in 1923, was intended to cost about $200,000 when the appropriation bill was passed by the legislature. But when bids were opened in the spring of 1924, it was seen that construction could only be partially completed.

Work was started September 17, 1924 and in 1925 an additional $16,000 was provided for the building and it was finished.

The Gothic-like structure, still considered impressive on the Idaho campus, was designed by Prof. Rudolph Weaver, University architect.

SOME OUTDOOR THINGS GRIPE US

As the U. S. Forestry Service, a branch of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, sends out its press releases on its plans for spring — some of the items mentioned really gripe us. To be explicit, "the four-bit per head or $7.00 per year tax" for the pleasure of using your own camp grounds — that is, those within your own state.

To go further into the matter, it is a known fact that the U. S. government owns and controls 63 percent of the total area of the State of Idaho. On these vast holdings it pays not a penny tax — but there is, perhaps, a slight "kick-back" to schools and roads for timber sold off this vast area.

The writer objects not a whit to paying a tax, pound fee, or buying a "visitors permit" as the case may be when he visits national parks or camp grounds in other states — in that case I feel I am a "foreigner" and should pay for the accommodations provided there for me — but, boy, how that grieves me in my own state!

To go just a bit further, several visits to so-called recreation areas last summer failed to show up a single improvement over the year previous — and the ranger "on duty" at that time seemed to be spending all his time collecting fees and writing out permits (doing paper work), while on the previous year he was cleaning and working in that camp ground.

Too, quite a number of families, whose cars were minus the "Campground Sticker" were observed eating lunches and relaxing in areas rather unsuitable for family use, but there they were!

Perhaps we may be considered as "reactionaries" or "progress-killers" but there is a large group of us who don't like to be charged for the use of something we already own — and this writer is one of them!

HEART MONEY IS WELL INVESTED

Boise — The Idaho Heart Association has invested more than 23 percent of the "heart dollars" raised last year to combat the 54 percent of deaths attributed to diseases of the heart and blood vessels, William Roden of Boise, 1966 fund-raising chairman, announced this week.

Research has opened the door to tremendous strides in the saving of lives of individuals suffering from any of the many forms of heart disease.

Statistics may be cold facts, but they affect hundreds of this state's citizens each year. There have been drops of as much as 22 percent in the mortality rate from strokes.

The Idaho Heart Association grant to Dr. Kurt N. Von Kulla at the University of Colorado, offers even more encouragement, Roden said.

Dr. Von Kulla is continuing his investigations, aimed at building a synthetic compound which will destroy blood clots that may lodge in blood vessels and cause, not only strokes, but also heart attacks.

MANY CHILDREN NEED HEART CARE

More than 30,000 children are born with heart defects every year in the United States.

A generation ago this was a medical tragedy, bringing drastically limited — and often drastically shortened lives to the victims — and painful heart-ache to their parents, says William Roden of Boise, Idaho Heart Fund Campaign Chairman.

Records of the Idaho Department of Health show that 21 Idaho children were provided with corrective surgery for congenital heart defects in 1965 through its Crippled Children's services.

We are fortunate this happened now instead of 20 years ago, is the comment of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lees of Woodland Park, Idaho, following a three-hour surgery to close a gap the size of a quarter in their 15-month-old son's heart.

In the first six months of last year 129 children in Idaho were examined in diagnostic clinics to be "followed" until such time as their growth and development will permit surgical intervention, Roden says.

Although nine kinds of inborn heart defects are not considered operable today 75 to 80 percent of children born with heart defects can be helped by surgery, Roden points out. Since 1950 death rates for children with cardiovascular diseases have dropped 12 percent among infants under 5 years of age and 38 percent for persons between 5 and 24 years of age.

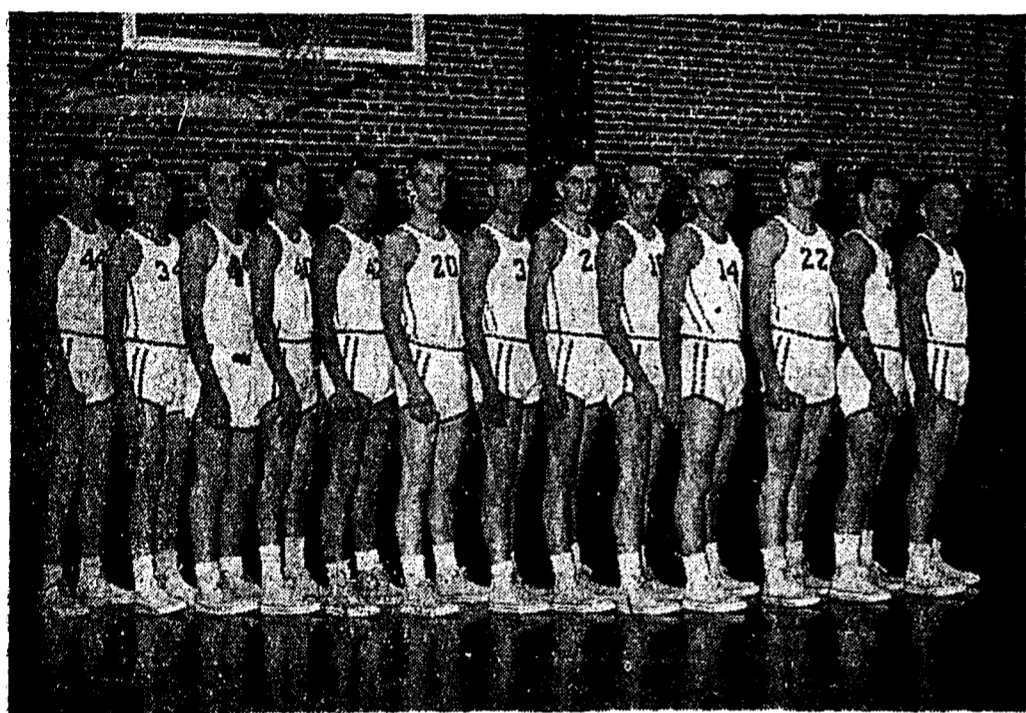

In recent years, the Idaho Heart Association has made grants to Dr. John Osborn of San Francisco, California, to develop a heart-lung machine which today has given a number of Idaho children a new lease on life through open-heart surgery. Dr. Homer B. Warner of Salt Lake City, Utah, is working on a research grant to develop a computing machine which in the not too distant future may help in the diagnosis of inborn heart defects.

These medical advances would not have been possible without the generous contributions of Idahoans — and without the willingness of thousands of men and women who give unstintingly of their time and talent to make sure the Idaho Heart Association has heart-fund dollars to channel into such laboratories, where lifesaving becomes a fact, Roden says.

DRY ICE USEFUL

Chicago — Dry ice does its job, then disappears. Unlike most solids, which must become liquids before they can become gases, dry ice, which is solid carbon dioxide, changes directly from a solid to a gas. It is this unique property of sublimation that makes dry ice so useful and versatile.

PEAS AND LENTILS APPEAR IN ITALY

Milan - Pacific Northwest peas and lentils joined with thirteen other American exhibitors in a special food promotion at the United States Trade Center, Milan, Italy. Opening January 19, the week long marketing effort is beamed especially at the Italian trade dealing in the specific items being shown.

Sponsored by the Foreign Agricultural Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, the Trade Center promotion was available to any commodity or company wishing to build its market in Italy. More than 500 select products of American agriculture, meant for cooking, canning, freezing or industrial processing are being exhibited.

The Exhibition includes 14 stands where products of 20 firms, cooperatives and state organizations are being displayed. Twelve of these firms are not yet known in Italy.

The dry pea and lentil booth at this show is another overseas marketing effort of the Pacific Northwest Pea Growers and Dealers Association. Work at Milan is under the supervision of Joe Spiruta, marketing director for the Association.

Dry peas and lentils are capturing their share of attention at the 'prodotti alimentari americani', as the promotion is called in Italian. Keenest interest at the pea booth is in the lentils and Austrian Winter peas. United States traders of these products have only recently entered the Italian market and this promotion is designed to stimulate greater interest and sales. Variety in products is the keynote of the promotion. Such diverse items as fish, raisins, potatoes, cheese, peas and dietetic candy taking part. Hops from the Yakima Valley are the only other Northwest product being shown. California accounted for six participants and used the opportunity to push dried and canned fruits.

ART EXHIBITED

U. of I., Moscow — An exhibition of 75 paintings, representing the most promising young artists honored in the past five years of the Scholastic Art Awards, will be on exhibit at the University of Idaho Student Union Building Feb. 10-25.

Each of the artists has been awarded a $100 purchase prize by a card company, co-sponsor of the annual scholastic competition. Oils, drawings and mixed media, and were chosen from more than 200 prize winners in the Scholastic Art Awards competition.

The Scholastic Art Awards are now in their 39th year. An estimated million junior and senior high school artists participate annually with about 170,000 pieces of work submitted to regional juries and about 35,000 reaching the national jury.

A funny thing, inflation. It makes balloons get bigger, and nickel candy bars get smaller.

If at first you do succeed, try something harder.

A diamond is a chunk of coal that stuck to its job.

The hardest thing to open is a closed mind.

N. P. RAILWAY HAS PROFITABLE YEAR

St. Paul, Minn. — Northern Pacific Railway Co. net income of $28,032,787 for 1965 was the highest since 1918, and the third highest in the company's history, it has been announced by Robert S. Macfarlane, N. P. president.

In its report filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission, Northern Pacific listed earnings of $4.65 per share in 1965, as compared with earnings per share of $3.90 in 1964.

The near-record figures were due in a large part to the high level of freight traffic during the year, and a $1,745,000 credit to freight revenues in the fourth quarter in connection with partial settlement of the Transcontinental Divisions Case.

Operating revenues for 1965 were $197,913,432, up 7.39 percent, or $13,612,641 over 1964.

Freight revenue for 1965 was $178,005,730, up 8.43 percent over 1964, amounting to a gain of $13,838,142.

Passenger revenues for 1965 were $7,214,549, up $393,231, a 5.76 percent gain over 1964.

This latter item will be of particular interest to area residents — as the N. P. owns thousands of acres in Idaho — a gift from the federal government — yet claims it cannot afford to operate the local "bug."

FRATERNITY 'BULL'

College of Idaho, Caldwell — Russell Magnuson, a sophomore at the College of Idaho, Caldwell, recently elected pledge bull of his social fraternity, the Orions. New officers were named early in February and serve through 1966.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Magnuson, now of Kamiah, and is a graduate of the Kendrick High school.

This is tree country — where the healthy and protected growth of trees means forests for America's needs, now and for the future.

Growth of the forest industry has kept pace with the increasing demands for wood products — still, more trees are being grown each year than are harvested. With all the industry's progress, none has been more meaningful than the recognition that trees are a crop.

1966 marks the 25th year of the American Tree Farm System, established and sponsored by wood products industries. As part of this vast system, Potlatch invests many thousands of dollars annually in forest protective measures. This is our commitment, now and in the future.

The American Tree Farm System begins its 25th year with a national total of 29,381 tree farms with 66,780,061 acres. When the system is celebrating its golden anniversary, greater and more significant strides will have been made. The forest resource will last 'til then . . . and forever.

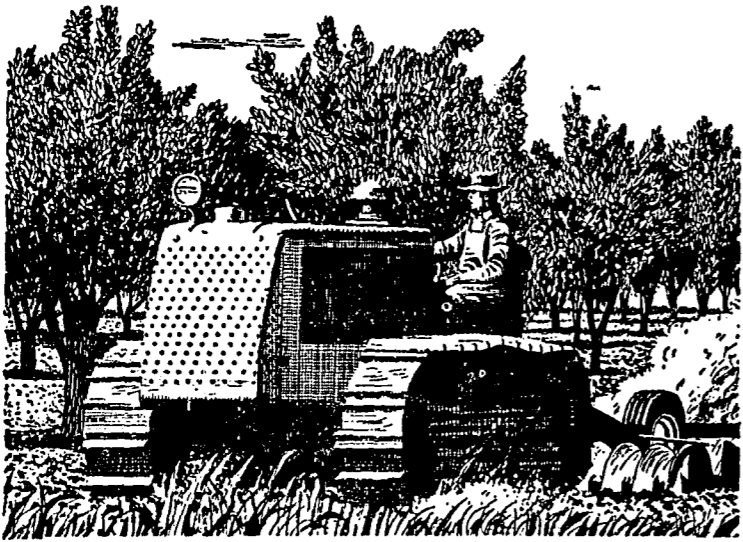

This is our Commitment, 1991.

SPORTSMEN OBJECT

Sport fishermen showed their opposition to commercial netting of salmon and steelhead on the Columbia river at the recent meeting of the Oregon and Washington Fish Commissions at Portland, Ore., recently. Some spoke, some picketed and some displayed signs such as this one seen on a car from Idaho.

Picketing was organized by the Northwest Steelheaders Association. About 70 Idahoans were represented among the 700-800 people who attended the meeting.

4-H LEADERS HOLD TWO RECENT MEETS

Moscow — Leo Berge of Princeton was re-elected president of the Latah County 4-H Leaders organization. Other officers elected include Frank Eveland, Moscow, vice president; Mrs. Ellis Emerson, Potlatch, secretary, and Mrs. Eric Kirkland, Moscow, treasurer.

Jerry Howard reported to the Leaders Council about his trip to Korea as an International Farm Youth Exchange Delegate (IFYE). During his stay in Korea, Howard lived and worked with farm families. Howard indicated that the quickest way to learn the language was to live with a family that didn't speak English.

Howard's trip as an IFYE was made possible by the cooperative efforts of the 4-H members and leaders of Latah county and the National 4-H Club Foundation.

Junior Leader Council Meets

Members of the Latah County Junior Leader Council met in Moscow at the Fair Grounds food booth Monday night of last week, to elect four Moscow area members to office. Marvin Eveland heads the new slate of officers as president; Dianne Lindsay, vice president; Helen Pavel as secretary-treasurer; Alice Pope, historian.

After showing a film strip on "Shared Leadership," Leonard Burns, Latah County agent, led a lively discussion on leadership techniques. Burns reported that the enthusiasm of the group was high as 48 junior leaders from clubs throughout the county signed up for the many and varied county jobs.

Junior Leaders are given the opportunity to help plan and conduct such county 4-H events as camp, where they gain leadership experience. Over 75 junior leaders are expected to take part in the county program during 1966.

MALTING BARLEY EXEMPTION IS SET

Milwaukee, Wis. — The United States Dept. of Agriculture announced on January 25, 1966, that the malting barley exemption has been granted for 1966 plantings. This means that a historical producer of malting barley, who plants a malting variety in 1966, can plant 110 percent of his 1959-60 base acres and retain eligibility for price support.

Granting the malting barley exemption gives the grower an additional choice to increase his acreage of a commodity which is in good demand and commands premium prices.

In announcing the malting barley exemption, the U. S. D. A. based the decision on the fact that much of the 1965 crop of malting barley failed to meet the quality requirements because of prolonged rains at harvest. Also that both domestic and export requirements have increased and that granting the exemption will help insure supplies to meet the requirements.

Because of the favorable dollar returns per acre from malting barley in 1965 and the expected continuing good demand for malting barley because of increasing needs of industry, the Malting Barley Improvement Association urges barley growers to take advantage of the malting barley exemption as a means of increasing their income in 1966.

BUILDING PROGRESS

U. of I. Moscow — Construction of the new art and architecture building on the University campus is progressing on schedule with no major problems, according to George Gagon, director of the university physical plant.

Contractors are currently installing the window wall on the north side of the four-story building. With weather permitting, the brick on the west wall of the one-story administration quarters will go in soon.

Work is also being done on the block and brick installation of the main building, as well as on the interior stair wells. Gagon indicated construction has met with no problems, although little is being done now due to cold weather.

Art and architecture facilities will be moved from a temporary classroom building after the July completion date.

DOUBLE WELL USE

Long Island, N. Y. — Salt contamination of ground water is being prevented by deep buffer wells, U. S. Geological Survey report says. A new 500-foot deep well — the first of a series — is designed to inject about 400 gallons of renovated water per minute into ground near Long Island's south shore in order to recharge the deep sands near the coast and prevent salt water from seeping inland.

MY THANKS TO YOU

WORLD DAY PRAYER TO BE HELD FRIDAY

Many churches of this area are getting together for the World Day of Prayer Services to be held at the Juliaetta Methodist Church Friday afternoon at 2:00, when churches around the world will be uniting and holding services that day.

Among those participating are the Cameron and Juliaetta Lutheran Churches, the three area Methodist churches and the Juliaetta Adventist Church. It is hoped that men and women of all faiths will attend this annual service.

The Meaning of This Day
The World Day of Prayer, observed each year on the first Friday in Lent, is sponsored by the United Church Women of the National Council of Churches. It is truly world-wide in character. Basically, the same service is used by groups in all countries and areas of the world. The service each year comes from a different part of the world. This provides an extraordinary opportunity for Christian fellowship at a deep level and the experience of Christian unity in prayer.

How Gifts Are Used
All World Day of Prayer projects are interdenominational. Most of them are continued each year, but there is one for overseas and one within the United States each year that is varied and particularly timely. The gifts (monetary) are channeled through divisions of the National Council of Churches.

Baby Sitting
Free baby sitting will be provided for the afternoon.

FOREST FIRES BURN 666 ACRES LAST YEAR

Missoula - Forest fires last year burned a total of 666 acres in the 16 National Forests of the Northern Region, Neal M. Rahm, northern region forester, announced here.

The National Forests are in eastern Washington, the western Dakotas, Montana, and northern Idaho. The area protected by the 16 National Forests includes more than 30 million acres.

"The 666 acres burned in 1965 is the lowest burned acreage ever recorded in the Northern Region," Rahm said. "Over the past five years the average annual acreage burned is 14,741 acres."

There were 708 forest fires in the Region last year: 549 (71%) were lightning caused and 159 (29%) were man caused.

Only two of the 1965 fires exceeded 100 acres in size. Both fires were in the Nezperce National Forest in Idaho and both were man caused.

Northern Region smokejumpers made 329 jumps on 103 fires in 1965 and spent 858 days fighting forest fires. A total of 177 Forest Service smokejumpers were employed at the Missoula Aerial Fire Depot. Within one ten-day period smokejumpers made 126 jumps on 40 different forest fires. During part of the fire season smokejumpers were based at the Interagency Air Operations Base at West Yellowstone, Montana, and at the subbase at Grangeville, Idaho.

Fixed-wing aircraft dropped 39,400 gallons of chemical fire retardant on 14 different fires. Aircraft were also used to drop 27,300 pounds of fire fighting cargo by parachute and to deliver 539,000 pounds of other air freight.

BALANCED DIET IS HEALTH ESSENTIAL
New York — Experts say everyone should eat a "balanced diet." Why is a balanced diet so important? What do you have to eat to balance your diet? How can you plan balanced family meals?
Science studies have established that the body needs about fifty different food factors, called nutrients, to function in best vigor and health. The nutrients include vitamins, minerals and common foods such as proteins, carbohydrates and fats. About fifty essential nutrients are known now, and scientists predict that it is probable new ones will be discovered in the future.
Only a trace of some of these nutrients are needed, while others are required in large amounts. Some nutrients must be eaten each day, and others can be stored by the body for short periods. Many foods consist of a mixture of nutrients, but no single food provides all the nutrients in the amounts needed. The trick in balancing a meal select the mixture will provide you with all the needed items.
Fortunately, you need not keep track of fifty different nutrients when planning a meal — that would kill all the pleasure of eating. A balanced diet is assured simply by eating everyday foods — including proteins, carbohydrates, fats, and one or more common vegetable and fruit.
HOT WATER
Wash, D. C. — Natural hot water isn't rare. There are about 5,500 known thermal springs (naturally heated spring waters) located about the world, reports the U. S. Geological Survey. About 1,350 are in North America, 500 in South America, 700 in Europe, 1,300 in Asia and 400 in Africa. Iceland itself has more than 500; the West Indies about 65; Java 150; Philippines 90, and New Zealand 70.
