COUGAR HUNTERS BAG THREE IN TRIP

A recent mountain lion (cougar) hunting trip in the upper Selway section netted four area men three large cougars.

Making the trip were Claude King and Albert Altmiller, both of Orofino, and Jake Altmiller of Anshakka, and Lester Wahl of Peck. The trip was made by plane from Orofino.

King reported the game seen was in good condition. Most of the elk were spotted between Seminoe Range and North Star. The cougars, however, have been taking a heavy toll of the game. The group saw several cat kills of both deer and elk and saw "more cat tracks than deer tracks."

The group reported more snow in the area than last year. King said the party planned to stay longer than a week, but came out early because the cold weather had made travel hazardous and hunting conditions poor.

BUILDS HANDGUN

Jeeter Candler, Cavendish, was in town Tuesday morning of this week displaying a beautifully made cap-and-ball handgun to friends. Mr. Candler built the single-shot pistol from an old rifle barrel, which bore the date 1873, a hammer from an old shotgun, and pieces of brass, which included sparkplug caps!

The butt of the pistol was made from a chunk of solid maple. All is carefully fitted and beautifully finished. And, although heavy, the balance of the weapon is very good.

The bore of the weapon is approximately .45, and fires a round ball using a "patch." Mr. Candler said the accuracy of the pistol is "very good," and from the care and fine workmanship used in its building we believe just what he says.

It is a hand gun of which anyone could be proud, and a real "collector's item!"

W. W. P. REPORTS FINE BUSINESS YEAR

Spokane — With sales of both natural gas and primary electric heat making the best showing since 1959, the Washington Water Power Co.'s 1965 annual report states that the utility "prospered along with industry, agriculture, wood products and construction business, mining and retail businesses." The attractive 24-page report is being mailed to the company's 25,163 shareholders, which includes 719 of its 1,083 employees.

The company points out that its 1965 gross revenues totaled $51,967,000, of which $11,193,000 resulted from the sale of natural gas.

"At the end of the year we were serving a total of 152,056 electric customers and 34,544 natural gas customers of all classifications," Geo. M. Brunzell, W. W. P. president said. "With 3,283 residential gas meters set and with 1,103 residential electric heat installations made in 1965, we experienced our best sales year since 1959."

The W. W. P. spokesman said the company is now serving 17,113 residential electric heating customers, an all-time high.

W. W. P.'s average residential customer, according to its annual report, used 9,735 kilowatt hours of electricity at an average cost of 1.36c per kilowatt hour. The usage is approximately double the national average and the cost to the customer is about one-half the national average!

The company reports that it spent $11,740,000 for additions and improvements to its facilities in 1965. Of the total, $7,669,000 was charged to its electrical operations and $3,427,000 to natural gas. Of the electrical expenditures $600,000 went to the purchase of all remaining properties of the Montana Power Co., in Idaho.

As it has in previous reports, W. W. P. highlights the industrial and recreational potential of the Inland Empire.

NEW DORMITORY TO BE BUILT AT U.

U. of I., Moscow — Vern W. Johnson & Sons of Spokane, Wash., apparently presented the low bid at the University of Idaho for the construction of a six-story, 315-student dormitory. Bids will now be submitted to the Board of Regents for approval. The dormitory will be Unit E of the Wallace Residence Center at the northwest edge of the campus. It

SCIENCE BELIEVES

"Before the Century ends it will be possible to introduce or eliminate, enhance or diminish, specific hereditary qualities in the living cell - whether viral, microbial, plant, animal or human," predicts Dr. John R. Dunning, dean of Columbia University's School of Engineering and Applied Science.

There is no substitute for good food, and you will find every kind to tickle your palate at Blewett's Grocery in Kendrick.

NEW WHEAT HAS BEEN DEVELOPED

U. of I. Moscow, A new stripe rust-resistant soft white spring wheat has been developed by scientists at the University of Idaho's Aberdeen branch agricultural experiment station.

The new variety, named Lemhi 66, was developed cooperatively by the Idaho experiment station and the crops research division, USDA Agricultural Research service. Dr. Donald W. Sunderman, USDA agronomist at Aberdeen, was in charge of the work.

Lemhi 66 closely resembles Lemhi 65, one of its parents and the variety it is expected to replace, reports Dr. R. D. Ensign, associate director of the Idaho agricultural experiment station.

Sunderman's test show Lemhi 66 is a strong-yielding, beardless wheat, tall but moderately resistant to lodging. Milling and baking qualities are good.

Its one great advantage over the old Lemhi is resistance to stripe rust. When stripe rust infection is as widespread as it was in the 1962-64 period, this advantage can mean a difference of 50 per cent of yield, Ensign adds.

Lemhi 66 was approved for release by the Idaho Foundation Seed committee at its meeting this winter. About 1,400 bushels of seed will be distributed to certified seed growers this spring, so seed supplies will be fairly adequate for spring 1967.

Lemhi 66 is a tailor made answer to the wheatgrowers' demand for a rust-resistant pastry wheat. Ensign points out. Although the original cross was made in 1961, cooperation of the Wheat Commission and other agencies helped speed its development. The Commission made a special research grant to aid the project.

This is the second rust-resistant wheat variety developed in Idaho and released in the past year, Ensign noted. A hard red winter wheat, Itana-65, was approved for release in time for seeding last fall.

These two varieties - plus others such as Gaines, a soft white winter wheat; Thatcher, a hard red spring wheat - give Idaho growers a varied group of wheats resistant to the stripe rust disease.

ed into a war of survival for the fish and for the economic lifeblood of the communities of the Columbia and its tributaries.

Sportsmen spent $25 million in the Columbia River system last year, but the sporting goods industry predicts that if the migratory runs are rebuilt, the expenditures could be increased to $150 million annually in less than 10 years. — John A. Barr, Oregon Membership Chmn., Association of Northwest Steelheaders.

DISAGREES WITH PROPOSED CUTBACK

Boise — Idaho wheat grower Dick Smith told the House Agricultural Appropriations Subcommittee Monday that cutbacks in agricultural research programs could threaten the nation's vitally needed future crop output. The Rexburg farmer said research was the prime factor in the remarkable food production record of U. S. agriculture. He appeared before the sub-committee as spokesman for the Idaho Wheat Growers Association.

Proposed federal reductions announced by the U. S. Department of Agriculture would cut $24,000 from Idaho's wheat experiment program and nearly $82,000 from the Wheat Quality Laboratory at Pullman, Wn. Research programs in Montana, Oregon and North Dakota would be reduced nearly $240,000.

Smith also noted if instructional fund cuts are approved the University of Idaho would lose at least 15 instructors.

The former Idaho legislator told committee members in Washington the production 30 and even 40 years from now must be increased on a scale with the past 50 years.

"If it isn't increased at this rate, we will be a food deficient nation with no surplus to share with any other nations," he said. "The proposed reductions are in the only area which offers possibilities for meeting these growing food problems."

Smith said these federal funds formed the basic structure for the vast programs of instructions and research in agriculture. In a very few instances does the government get more for its money than in agricultural research, and to withdraw any of these funds would seriously cripple the program, he added.

He emphasized the constant threat of serious production problems facing the farmer and the time needed to develop solutions to these problems. "The dangerous results of the proposed cuts for the 1967 budget would not be apparent for many years. When they do become apparent it would require a much longer period of time to catch up, he said.

The Idaho wheat grower emphasized the importance of continued research programs to solve these problems with an example of a wheat disease which infests areas of Oregon and Idaho.

"The root rot disease could possibly spread to the entire wheat producing areas of the United States, and no one can even guess what the solution might be," Smith said. "But when the solution comes, it will be from the result of knowledge gained in the laboratory and classrooms of agricultural research which are the experimental stations of our land grant colleges."

HARDENING STEEL

Hardened steel can be cracked by molecules of hydrogen, reports Alloy Rods Company, York, Pa. If hydrogen is present in appreciable amounts in the gas surrounding a welding arc, it is turned loose in the steel as individual atoms that diffuse through pores and unite to form molecular hydrogen. Hardened steel cannot stretch to accommodate pressure so enough accumulated gas cracks it. An atmosphere low in hydrogen provided by iron powder electrodes prevents the faulty welds.

TIMBER RECORD SET

Missoula — Timber harvests from National Forests set a new record in fiscal 1965. The harvest of 11.2 billion board feet exceeded the cut of any previous year and was 3 billion board feet above the fiscal year 1964, which was itself a record year.

Anything that saves dollars makes sense

A Checking and a Savings Account at First Security Bank can help you in many ways

A Checking Account makes it easier to control your expenditures in a businesslike way, because you'll always know just where your money goes. It safeguards your cash against loss or theft and eliminates the need of carrying cash all over town to pay bills. Also, you'll never have to pay a bill twice because you have lost a receipt. Your cancelled check is legal proof of payment.

Choose one of our two Checking Account plans - Regular or pay-as-you-go Checkway.

Part of everything you earn should be yours to keep. Pay yourself first each and every payday by putting part of your income in a First Security Savings Account. In no time you'll have a tidy nest egg for the future.

W. S. C. S. WORKS ON THREE PROJECTS

Fourteen members of the Women's Society Circle met at the home of Elsie Darby Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Ben P. Cook was co-hostess. Projects worked on were bandages for missionaries, and sewing kits for Chilean women. It was decided to send Reader's Digest and other small men's magazines to wounded U. S. military men at Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines. The magazines are to be left this week on the front porch of the Ben P. Cook home, to be boxed for shipment.

GRANGE TO MEET
The next meeting of the Kendrick Grange will be on Tuesday, April 5. It will be "Candid Camera" night — at the Fraternal Temple.

CARBON DIOXIDE HAS NEW USE
Potentially explosive mixtures of air and propane gas are eliminated when propane tanks are started up or shut down for repairs by inerting the vessels with carbon dioxide. The tanks are inerted by removing liquid propane and diluting residual propane vapors with carbon dioxide so that the admission of air will not create a combustible mixture.

FANCY NAME
Graduate Student Gerald W. Lowery constructed an elaborate project to obtain data for his master's thesis at Auburn University. The long-winded name of the project is "forced convection heat transfer facility." It's a wind tunnel.
