4-H'ers Pitch Right in to Beautify Homes

S PRING, or any other time, is just right for adding a bit of cheery color, a cozy nook, draperies, or an entire new decor to the home. At least that's what scores of 4-H Club members are doing as part of their home improvement proj-

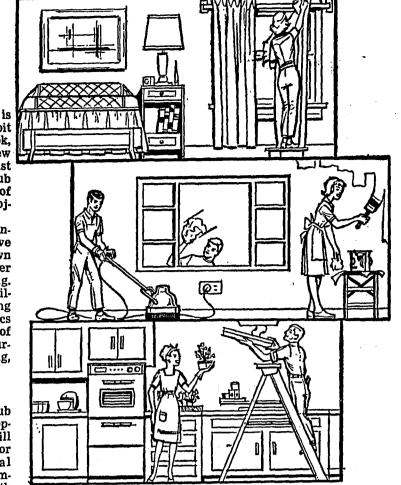

It is amazing what these teenagers, and even pre-teens, have done to beautify their own rooms, and often all the other rooms in the family dwelling. Projects vary according to ability and need, but the young homemakers learn the basics of painting, papering, choice of color, texture and design, furniture and floor refinishing, sewing and purchasing.

Awards Given

At the close of the 4-H Club year, the 4-H staff of the Cooperative Extension Service will judge completed projects for county, state and national awards. Donor of the home improvement awards for the fifth

Thor Research Center For Better Farm Living

Many persons live in rural areas because they don't like to be "fenced in" by crowded cities. Yet, when improving their home, they usually want to put up a fence.

This really is no mystery be-cause the right fence does much more than outline yard space. Like a picture frame, it improves the house's appearance. It keeps children and pets in the yard and out of trouble. It discourages trespassers.

And it provides a private spot for playing, sunning and dining that even the lover of wide open spaces can appreciate.

A fence is like a picture frame for your home.

The handyman can put up a fence with little trouble. You can get much of the fence materials precut. Even the chore of posthole digging can be reduced with attachments for larger power

Pick a design that harmonizes with architecture of your home. It should also blend with the neighborhood or surrounding countryside. A modern woven fence that enhances a low-slung ranch home could look odd around some large, old frame house. Naturally be sure your design fulfills actual fencing-in requirements and abides by any local ordinances.

CONSTRUCTION TIPS: Space fence posts according to length of rails to save lumber and sawing. Use rust-resistant nails, screws, bolts and hinges.

Use enduring wood like oak or red cedar for posts and treat with a good preservative like creosote. Pickets, rails and boards should receive a cover of lead and oil paint or preservative stain. You'll get the best protection from the elements if you prime and apply the first of two finish coats before assembling the parts.

THE FRIEND

A friend is the person who is "for you," always, under any suspicions. He never investigates you.

When charges are made against vou he does not ask proof. He asks the accuser to "clear out."

He likes you just as you are. He does not want to alter you. Whatever kind of coat you are wearing suits him. Whether you have on a dress suit or a hickory shirt with no collar, he thinks it's fine. He likes your moods, and enjoys your pessimism as much as your

He likes your success. And your failure endears you to him the more. He is better than a lover because he is never jealous.

He asks nothing from you except that you be yourself. He is the one being with whom you can feel safe. With him you can utter your heart, its badness and its goodness. You don't have to be care-

In his presence you can be indiscreet; which means you can rest. There are many faithful wives and husbands; there are few faithful

Friendship is the most admirable, amazing and rare article among human beings. Anybody may stand by you when you are right; a friend stands by you even when you are

The highest known form of friendship is that of a dog to his master. You are in luck if you can find one man or one woman on earth who has that kind of affection for you and fidelity to you.

Like the shade of a great tree in the noon-day heat is a friend.

Like the home port, with your country's flag flying, after a long journey, is a friend.

A friend is an impregnable citadel of refuge in the strife of existence. It is he that keeps alive your faith in human nature, that makes you believe it is a good universe.

He is an antidote to despair, the elixir of hope, the tonic for depression, the medicine to cure that "all lost feeling."

When you are vigorous and spirited you like to take your pleasures with him; when you are in trouble you want to tell him; when you are ill you want to see him.

You give to him without reluctance and borrow from him without embarrassment.
