Have Narrow Escape Tuesday
Late Tuesday afternoon of last week Terry Skaggs, accompanied by Mrs. Tom Mabbott and children was ascending the Juliaetta grade in an IHC Scout. At a very narrow portion of the grade the drag link connecting the steering gear came loose and dropped to the roadway, allowing the steering gear to "go free."
In quick action Terry was able to stop the vehicle as a literally teetered on the edge of the grade — and the occupants climbed out to safety.
The wrecker from the Kendrick Welding & Machine Shop pulled it back onto the road. The Scout was not damaged.

WEGNERS OBSERVE 50TH ANNIVERSARY SUNDAY, JULY 3RD

Mr. and Mrs. Aug. F. Wegner of Kendrick plan to celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary on Sunday, July 3. Their children are giving a reception from 2:00 to 4:00 p. m. in the Cameron Emmanuel Lutheran Church social rooms. All friends and relatives are invited.

The Wegners were married in Lewiston at the home of her mother and stepfather, A. J. Hull, July 3, 1916. Mrs. Wegner was a daughter of Adolph and Augusta Schultz, born on Feb. 16, 1890, at Spokane, Wash. (Then called Spokane Falls). Her father died in a Spokane factory fire in 1892.

Mrs. Wegner, the former Meta Schultz, graduated from Spokane's South Central H. S., attended Cheney Normal and graduated from Lewiston Normal in 1914. She taught in Washington and Idaho for five years. Mr. Wegner was born at Arlington, Minn., on Nov. 5th, 1889, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wegner. He was one of twelve children who moved with their parents to Cameron, Ida., in Feb. of 1902. His father and his "Uncle Dan" brought 23 "Wegners" in an N. P. Immigrant Coach to Idaho. All settled at Cameron, but August F. is the only member of this group in the community now.

Mr. Wegner spent all his occupational years farming in the Cameron area. The Wegners have now retired and live in Kendrick. Their three sons, Vern, Wayne and Glen now own and farm their father's and grandfather's farms. Mrs. Gladys Sullivan of Cavendish is the only daughter.

The Wegners have seven grandchildren: Dr. Glen Wegner of Baltimore, Md.; Reg. L. Wegner, a physical therapist at Caldwell Hospital; Mrs. Jillian Huston of the College of Idaho at Caldwell; and Joanne, Lynda, Randall and Dale Sullivan of Lenore, and one great-grandson. GAZETTE TO GO UP

Faced with constantly rising prices of newsprint and inks — and postage, not to mention all other steadily mounting costs the subscription price of the Kendrick Gazette will go up on July 1 from $3.00 to $3.50.
This increase is the first one in 10 years, since in 1956 the price was set at $3.00.

We've tried our best to hold the price line — but forces beyond our control won't let us!

SMALL FIRE SUNDAY

Norman Lewis, deputy state forester, reported Monday that the local unit extinguished a small fire Sunday, a mile east of Spalding on Highway 3 — grass at the side of the road, probably started by a smoker.

One truck and two men answered the call and soon had the blaze extinguished.

ROUGH TIME AHEAD

This year the 4th of July comes on Monday — as did Memorial Day — which means that no mail will move from Saturday until Tuesday morning.

All this means that the faithful Gazette correspondents will not be able to mail any news until Tuesday, nor the Gazette receive any. Nor will places of business be open so that advertising copy may be obtained — so another "bob tailed" edition of the Gazette is in prospect.

This of course, means much local news will be of necessity left out (unobtainable and impossible to process by press time).

DEARY FESTIVAL

Deary Strawberry Festival buttons are a very popular item in Kendrick these days, with almost everyone wearing one of the gay "tickets."

From all reports, the Deary Boosters Club will have a bountiful amount of the luscious red berries at their disposal.

A full day of events is planned, and the day will finish up with separate dances for teen agers and adults.

GIRLS STATE TRIP VERY EDUCATIONAL

Pat Johnson, local delegate to "Syringa Girls' State" reports a very educational and enjoyable session: "Several bills were passed by Girls' State Legislators at the mock legislature in Boise, Friday, June 17th. An act creating youth juries to advise judges in the cases of juvenile offenders was one of the first to be signed by the Girls' State Governor. Bills favoring retention of the Sales Tax and supporting the United States stand in Viet Nam passed the House of Representatives, but there was no time to present them to the Senate for passage.

"We enjoyed many interesting speakers throughout the week. One woman in particular spoke on whether there are any young leaders in our world today. She read this short poem by Ralph Waldo Emerson, which I feel applies to every Girl and Boy's State citizen of the past, present and future:
So nigh is grandeur to our dust,
So near to God is man,
When duty whispers, "Lo, Thou must,"
The youth replies, "I can."

"Being a citizen of Syringa Girls' State was the first opportunity I have had to participate actively in our nation's government. It is a tremendously rewarding experience, and one which every young woman should strive to achieve.

"To remain a united nation, we must remain a united people, and this can be done only through education of youth."

VALUATIONS UP, ASSESSOR INNOCENT!

From Eugene Taylor, assessor of Latah County, comes the following concise explanation of increased assessments as shown on the tax statements just mailed:

"In order that taxpayers know why there is a change in the valuation statements, I am going to try to explain. Prior to the last session of the legislature, property values were placed on the basis of the dollar value of 1937-1941 base period. (A time when it was felt that the value was actual — neither inflated nor deflated). This established value was assessed at 40% to determine assessed value.

"Senate Bill No. 246 changes this procedure to make it mandatory that we assess on 20% of today's cash value. This value is arrived at by certain criteria given us in the new law. It also makes it necessary that the increase in value be reached within four years proportionately.

For example: Any piece of property which heretofore was assessed at 12% of actual today's value, will have to be assessed at 14% for 1966; 16% for 1967; 18% for 1969, and 20% for 1970. However, it cannot be assumed that all property was assessed at 12% — there are many variations in the percentages of actual value. We are in no position to argue for or against the present law, but I am sure the intent was to tax all property in direct proportion to its actual value."

— Eugene Taylor, Assessor, Latah County.

YOUR NEED FOR CALCIUM

Among the needs of the human body for mineral elements, one of the most important is calcium. Calcium is a metallic element which occurs in nature generally in combination with other chemicals. Calcium is particularly abundant in the soil overlying limestone formations. It is utilized by plants, and these plants are eaten by animals, some of which provide man with milk. In this way milk becomes a rich source of calcium; it is, indeed, the only really good source among natural foodstuffs.

Why It's Important

It is common knowledge that calcium is important in the normal development of teeth and bones. It is not so commonly realized that calcium is important also in the blood and in the functioning of the nerves, and through them, of the muscles. Calcium utilization in the body is governed by two pairs of tiny glands situated in or near the thyroid gland, and called parathyroids.

Must Be Replaced

Calcium, like other nutrients, is used in the body, and then discarded either through the bowels or the kidney. It must be replaced with a new supply. This is true at all times of life. The need for calcium is continuous throughout life, but varies from time to time.

Before birth, when the tooth buds are being formed in the gums, the need for calcium is great, especially since bones are being formed too. The need continues heavy during childhood, when bones and teeth are developing. The pregnant woman and nursing mother also need extra calcium.

Contrary to popular belief, even the aged and aging have a continuous calcium requirement. They tend to suffer from a bone disease known as osteoporosis, in which calcium is lost and the bones are thinned and weakened. The condition may be due to a prolonged inadequate intake of calcium.

While calcium is a major factor in this problem, deficiencies in protein foods also may play a part, thus emphasizing again the importance of maintaining the basic food group structure of the healthful diet. Vitamin D, necessary for calcium metabolism, is furnished for adults by vitamin D fortified milk. Fish liver oils are also a good source.

Youth Need High

Another time when calcium demands are heavy is during the growth spurt of the adolescent, when bones, muscles and glands are undergoing active changes. In populations where calcium intake is inadequate, there may be a slowing of growth and a limitation of average stature.

Dairy Foods Excellent

In practical terms, the calcium needs of the body are best met through whole milk and non-fat milk products. Two cups of whole fresh milk supply about three fourths of the body's daily needs in adult life. Adolescents, pregnant women and nursing mothers need more. Cheddar and Swiss cheese are good sources of calcium; cottage cheese, though lower in calcium, contributes an important amount. A serving of ice cream in addition to two cups of milk will bring the calcium intake up to the average adult recommendation.

Next to milk products, vegetables are the best sources of calcium. The best of these are kale, broccoli, collards, dandelion and mustard greens.

AUTO SYSTEMS ARE USED IN LABS

U. of I., Moscow — Electrical systems of modern automobiles can serve as excellent laboratory equipment to teach principles of electricity according to Prof. William R. Parish of the University of Idaho, department of electrical engineering.

Parish is proving that point in the university's electrical engineering laboratories with the aid of a gift from a major car manufacturer. The complete electrical system of a 1961 car was recently given to the university. The system, complete with lights and horns, is mounted on two large plywood sheets fastened together in an "A" shape. Everything is hooked up and operating from a battery or generator.

Much of the installation and adaptation to classroom use was done by student Clifford Day, Nampa, selected recently as the outstanding senior engineer of the year.

"General Motors used the board in their training programs," said Parish, "but Day has expanded its usefulness even beyond their intentions. He installed a variable speed drive and adapted the board to laboratory use by all engineering students in basic courses."

Parish said the apparatus strikes a responsive chord in many beginning students, whetting their interest in electrical engineering. Students are not only able to work out electrical principles they have learned in the classrooms, but they are also taught a little about automobiles.

One such study is the scientific evaluation of a conventional ignition system against newer transistorized systems to see the difference.

'TEEN HUNGER

When teen-age girls eat small breakfasts, they often end up the day, through snacks, consuming more total calories, reports Easter Wilson, nutrition specialist of the University of Idaho Extension Service. A good breakfast helps to maintain vigorous health.

IT TAKES MORE THAN A GREEN THUMB

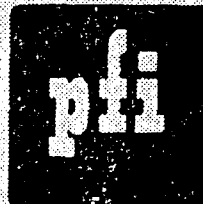

Tree farming requires far more than a magical touch of luck. It takes aerial photographers in helicopters, ground surveys by trained foresters and computation with electronic equipment just to survey the crop.

Such careful inventory is vital to calculate allowable cut; to plan logging budgets; to decide where mature trees are ready for harvest and where seed trees may be left to provide natural reseedling; to determine where planting of nursery-grown seedlings is necessary where young stands need thinning, where defective older trees should be removed and where competitive brush should be controlled.

Tree farming takes trucks, cranes, bulldozers and roads. It takes loggers, scientists and fire-fighters to nurture, protect and harvest the tree crop. And throughout the process, today's tree farmers must plan with much more in mind than the crop of timber and the jobs and products which trees provide. That timber crop plays an important multiple role as conservator of soil and pure water, as food and habitat for fish and game, a source of tax revenue to provide needed services and as a recreational site for all.

NEW OAT VARIETY READY FOR USE

U. of I., Moscow — A new oat variety selected for high yield potential and lodging resistance has been approved for release in Idaho reports Dr. R. D. Ensign, associate director of the University of Idaho Agricultural Experiment Station. The variety, named Bingham, was developed through the cooperative USDA crops research program at the University's Aberdeen branch experiment station. It is recommended for the irrigated and humid dryland areas of the state, Ensign says. While stiff straw and high yielding ability are the outstanding attributes of the new variety, Bingham also carries more disease resistance than any other oats commonly grown in the state, according to Dr. Frank C. Petr, USDA agronomist at Aberdeen. It is slightly later maturing and has a lower test weight than other common varieties. A medium-tall oat with a plump, white, good quality kernel, Bingham has consistently been the high yielding variety in six years of irrigated trials in Idaho and other western states, Petr's records show.

Bingham's excellent performance over a wide range of conditions in the western region indicates its adaptability to the different soil types and varying seasonal conditions in Idaho," Petr says. "However," he adds, "its yield advantage is greatest when you grow it on fertile land with ample moisture."

Seed supplies of the new variety were released to certified seed growers in Idaho this spring, Ensign reports. Seed should be commercially available for the 1967 crop season.

FARMERS REMINDED OF USE PROVISIONS

Moscow — Farmers who have signed up to take part in one or more of the 1966 diversion programs — feed grains or wheat — we cautioned this week not to forget about the conserving-acreage provisions of those programs.

Clarence Jensen, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation county committee explains that a farmer participating in the diversion programs agrees to devote an amount of acreage to conserving uses which is equal to the farm's normal base acreage in such uses in addition to the acreage signed up for diversion under each 1966 program.

For instance: If a farmer signed up in both the feed grain and the wheat programs, he would need to devote to conserving uses all of the land diverted under both programs in addition to his conserving base. Even though he is producing his full allotment and is not earning a diversion payment, any farmer participating in the wheat program sets aside diverted acreage at least equal to 15 percent of his 1966 farm allotment. (This reflects the farm's proportionate share of the difference between the 1966 national allotment and 55 million acres.)

Feed grain producers who have bases of more than 25 acres divert 20 percent of the farm base without payment under program agreements.

Failure to meet the conserving-use or any provision of the program could mean loss of all or a substantial part of the program payments for the crop — price-support loans and payments, wheat marketing certificates, and diversion payments. Compliance certifications and crop reports are now being accepted at the ASCS office.

REGISTRATION SETS SUMMER HIGH MARK

U. of I., Moscow — Summer school students seeking an ever-widening variety of courses at the University of Idaho exceeded the all-time high of more than 1,490 set last summer, according to J. E. Frazier, assistant university registrar.

Registration for the nine-week summer session began Monday, June 20, with the first full day of classes on Tuesday, beginning at 8:00 a. m. "Regular summer school students will probably top 1,600 this year," Frazier said. "However, with the addition of students in the Boise and Coeur d'Alene adult education centers, and the many workshops, summer school will probably provide the classes for upwards of 2,100."

Special music and adult education conferences, plus high school short courses, will bring the campus an additional 400 persons before the end of the school term, Aug. 12.

SPAWNING AREAS

Boise — Shaded map areas show separate spawning grounds used by Idaho's two main groups or races of chinook salmon — the springs and summers. A good run of spring chinooks is now in the Snake, Salmon and Middle Fork rivers and available to fisherman.

Summer chinook come to Idaho later and spawn from mid-August through most of September in the South Fork of the Salmon river, main Salmon river from the mouth of the Pahsimeroi river upstream to Stanley Basin, and the East Fork of the Salmon river.

Spring chinook salmon spawn earlier, use different gravel beds that are slightly upstream from those of the summer-run fish.

Check fishing regulations for details about variable seasons.

Smile, Mrs. Sebastodes
...you're on live TV

Sebastodes, or Rockfish, is one of many colorful species of the ocean depths where our underwater TV cameras and lights probe the night-black water at 600 feet.

These cameras are not for study of marine life, however. They're down there to help technicians aboard our anchored oil-drilling ships guide complicated, remote-controlled drilling equipment. TV receivers on deck enable engineers to observe these drilling operations at depths hazardous for human divers to penetrate.

600 feet — 100 fathoms. It's almost twice as deep as any ocean oil drilling ever attempted, until some very special techniques developed by Standard Oil scientists and engineers made it possible.

Our continuing search for new sources of oil takes us to mountains, deserts, and ever and ever deeper waters. For we must be certain that adequate supplies of oil are on hand to serve the Free World's growing energy needs, now and in the future ... an important part of our responsibility to you.

HISTORY OF DROP OF WATER UNUSUAL

Wash., D. C. - In the United States, a drop of water spends an average of 12 days passing through the air. It may remain in a glacier for 40 years, in a lake for 100 years, or in the ground for hundreds of thousands of years. Eventually, however, every drop becomes involved in the water cycle, says the U. S. Geological Survey.

PARK PATTERN BY MRS. JERRY SMITH

CLUB NOTES - Seven members and nine youngsters met with Mrs. Baumgartner Monday to tie a quilt to be given away at the Deary Strawberry Festival, Saturday. Other items will also be disposed of.

OTHER ITEMS - Mr. and Mrs. Duane Thompson and children returned a little earlier than expected from a two-week vacation trip to Yellowstone National Park - their youngest daughter, Tammy Linn, having come down with the measles!

Seven 4-H Club members met with Joy Baumgartner, their leader, at her home Tuesday, to work on Health Posters for the Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rasch and son Gerald of Moscow and Mr. Rasch's brother and sister-in-law and family, who are visiting here from Arizona, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stratton, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wise visited relatives in Grangeville over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Duane Thompson and family attended the Cattlemen of the Year picnic at Potlatch, Sunday.

Mrs. Jerry Smith and children and Joy Baumgartner were Moscow visitors on Saturday. Charles Jelleberg was a Deary business visitor Friday morning. WEATHER AND ROAD CONDITIONS - Warm weather during the first part of last week put farmers in a haying mood, but only one, J. D. Baumgartner, actually started. He had all 17 acres of his hay down and raked, Sunday evening, when it began to rain. Hay will have to be hauled around the south side of the "School Section" for another week at least, as the old railroad "hump" near the three-corners, is still too soft for any but a light load.

OUR THANKS TO YOU

We wish to thank everyone for their generous support of our quilt raffle during the Blossom Festival. - The Friendly Neighbor Club. 26-1

IT'S A NEW WORLD

Boise - Bright new world is seen for first time by these Canada geese goslings just emerging from eggs. They were found in nesting survey made annually on lower Snake and Payette rivers, and large eastern Idaho reservoirs to learn what the hatching success has been.

This year it is better than average, mainly because there were no flood conditions to destroy nests on the islands. Results from eastern Idaho are not available at this time.

FOUL TASTING

A little bottle of foul-tasting brown fluid can significantly cut the number of deaths and illnesses resulting from accidental household poisoning, says a University of Michigan authority on poisons. The fluid is syrup of ipecac, made from the roots of a South American plant. Syrup of ipecac induces vomiting, said to be the best first aid for most - but not all - poisonings.

FAMILY COST

Food in the United States costs the average family $21.17 a week, according to the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture.

By George Rogers Research Engineer Thor Research Center For Better Farm Living

A new dimension in do-it-yourself construction—whether it concern an entire utility building, a cattle ramp or a mailbox stand—is embodied in a cold-rolled galvanized steel with precise hole and slot patterns.

After several experimental projects with this material, the Thor Research Center found that the galvanized steel product has tremendous strength, but its chief attraction is a result of its utter simplicity.

One of many articles that can be constructed from perforated, cold-rolled galvanized steel is this cattle ramp.

The product is reminiscent of the erector set that children use to mount skyscrapers—but, of course, it is much more than a toy. It is functional, yet attractive when painted.

Because of the perforation, the cold-rolled galvanized can be linked to form numerous objects—stepladder, shelving, table, carport, cattle feeder, hog house, corn crib, a cart—with no more than nuts and bolts and the tools required to tighten them.

The galvanized steel is easily cut with a tool that usually can be borrowed from the supplier, and plans for building many structures from this material are available free.

One of them, the plans for a cattle ramp, shows just how easy this steel is to use. A ramp that is light enough to be moved with ease and strong enough to support a herd of Holsteins can be built in an afternoon. It's just a matter of using your portable power saw to cut a few boards to size and fastening carriage bolts in strategic positions to complete the job.

For information on this Key-Ram product, write to Thor Research Center, Marengo, Ill.
