LOG GOING INTO NEW DEBARKER

The log travels on a feed chain to the debarker, where it travels in a lengthwise motion through the machine. Five "spring loaded" tools remove the bark, which is actually rubbed from the log rather than being peeled or scraped. On leaving the debarker the log continues on a feed chain where it is cut into 16-foot lengths. The cutting is done by means of a vertical 5-foot bar and chain that is "lowered to the log."

Also pictured is Dick Groseclose at the "console controls" of the debarker, where he controls all the operations of the debarker and the cutting bar.

POLLUTION KILLS

Boise — Death of habitat often comes from water pollution, as well as from land-use abuses. The result is the same whatever the cause — destruction of fish and wildlife forms.

Pictured is part of the estimated 30,000 fish killed by pollution in Idaho's Portneuf river during May of this year. The value of the fish loss, mainly suckers and squawfish to commercial fishermen was placed at $6,000. Despite efforts by many conservation agencies to restore or improve habitat for animals, birds and fish, the negative effects often exceed conservation management and improvement work, according to the Idaho Fish and Game department.

MAGNESIUM IN DIET

The effect of magnesium in the diets of adolescent boys will be studied under a four-year U. S. Department of Agriculture contract awarded to the Universities of Connecticut and Wisconsin. Previous research with human volunteers and animals indicates that males have a greater need for magnesium than females and that as more protein is added to the diet, the body's need for magnesium increases. The mineral is needed to activate many of the enzymes involved in major metabolic processes.

POWER OF WATER

Wash., D. C. — Microscopic quantities of water can produce gigantic effects. Single drops of rain exert many pounds of pressure per square inch on surfaces they contact, and, the U. S. Geological Survey says, even single drops of water freezing in narrow crevices can split rocks. Such micro-effects, including solution by dissolved carbon dioxide, are responsible for major changes in our landscape.

ANCIENT PRESS WAS GIFT FROM HAWAII

Boise — Crossing the ocean from distant Honolulu, then carried on horseback into the Oregon Territory, the first printing press in the whole of the Northwest was placed in the Lapwai Mission run by the Spaldings.

The press was a gift from a native church in Hawaii to Henry Spalding, who was intent upon translating into the Nez Perce language the Gospel and a code of laws for the Indians.

Rev. and Mrs. Hall from the Hawaiian Mission came with the press, type, binding material and paper in 1839 to help the Spaldings with the printing. Because of the lack of sufficient type it was necessary to make up an artificial alphabet, which was found to be impractical since the missionaries could not agree on standard substitutions for the letters. They did manage to print an 8-page book, which later had to be revised, and was expanded to 20 pages at the same time.

The indefatigable Spalding succeeded in printing a code of laws and a presentation of the Gospel of St. Matthew in the Nez Perce language.

The press is now on exhibition in the Oregon Historical Society at Portland, Oregon.

THE FAIR SEX

The 'Fair' sex is just that, says a Pennsylvania State University anthropologist. The scientist, a woman, found that women have lighter skins than men. She reports there seems to be very little difference in the skin tone of youngsters but as girls grow into adolescence their skin appears to become lighter. Past studies point to hormones as a major influence on skin pigmentation in human beings.

FAIR BOARD MEETS

The Latah County Fair Board met Tuesday, Oct. 4th, and set the date of September 14-15-16 for the 1967 Latah County Fair.

Evaluation of the 1966 Fair showed exhibitor's interest and attendance very high. The horse show and riding contest, new this year as a county-wide event, created much interest and plans for an expanded program in 1967 are underway.

The rock collectors' exhibits highlighted the fair, and with the interest shown, this exhibit area will be increased.

The new riding arena was plagued with a dust problem this year, and the board is taking action to prevent a recurrence of this situation.

PARK PATTER

BY MRS. JERRY SMITH

(Delayed from Last Week)
WEATHER AND ROADS — Park residents noted that "the frost was on the pun'kins" for the first time this fall Monday morning. Most gardens were flattened by the chill. Rain Saturday night and Sunday morning turned some newly repaired sections of Park road into "gumbo mud," but all roads are passable, though rough and "washboardy" in most areas.

OTHER ITEMS — Guests at the Stratton home for Sunday dinner were their two son-in-laws and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gudmunson and family of Colfax, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rasch and son of Moscow, and Charles Jelleberg.

The Thompson family spent the week-end visiting relatives at Whitebird and Grangeville.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Smith and family visited his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Hunter and family at Lenore, Sunday.

Mrs. Ted McKinney and Mrs. J. D.

Baumgartner were Moscow visitors on Monday.

Charles Jelleberg was an overnight guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Mabbott in Juliaetta, Wednesday.

G. W. Truck To Visit

The first fall meeting of the Boulder Creek Club will be with Mrs. Hattie Hamilton, Thursday. Under discussion will be a special pick-up trip by the Good Will Industries truck, sponsored by the Club and endorsed by the Bovill-Deary P. T. A. The truck will visit Deary and Bovill, October 24. More information will soon be available as to where donations of repairable discards should be left.

CHRISTMAS TREES ARE BIG BUSINESS

U. of I., Moscow — Idaho's Christmas tree industry is booming as growers enter their sixth year in national markets, according to Vernon Burlison, extension forester at the University of Idaho.

Burlison addressed members of the Idaho Christmas Tree Growers Association at a meeting at the university last week-end. Growers are already beginning to cut an estimated 170,000 trees for markets in California, Arizona, Utah, Colorado and Oklahoma. More than 10,000 trees will also be shipped to southern Idaho, according to Burlison.

He said the industry growth in the last six years has been remarkable. Idaho growers never knew they had a market for their trees until the regional buyers got in a pinch. Burlison attributes the industry growth to reliable growers and good quality trees. In a few short years the growers' financial returns have more than tripled.

Burlison said: "I am encouraged by the progress of the industry. We are not totally mature, but making progress."

Idaho growers are marketing four native tree species, and are developing marginal lands for the production of Scotch Pine, Norway Spruce, Austrian Pine and blue spruce.

SCOUTS TO SEE IDA.
MINING EXHIBITS

U. of I., Moscow — Plans are being made now for Idaho mining exhibits to be displayed next summer at the World Boy Scout Jamboree at Farragut, Reid, dean of the College of Mines at the university, and a director of the Idaho Bureau of Mines and Geology, at a meeting with Boy Scout leaders in Sandpoint, said the university, the Idaho Bureau of Mines, U. S. Geological Survey and Idaho Mining Association are cooperating in an earth-science exhibit for the jamboree.

One highlight of the exhibit, according to Dr. Reid, will be a gold panning exhibition, in which the Boy Scouts will pan for gold. A full scale model of an operating mine will be developed and displayed, and earth science literature, rock and mineral displays and related materials will also be a part of the exhibit.

So, say the experts, instead of resenting a go-go driver who wants to get out in front, other drivers should be thankful for such a leader.

DRIVE DEFENSIVELY

Drive defensively — don't be in such a hurry to pass the car ahead, safety experts advise motorists, and go on to say that in city traffic the car at the head of any platoon is the one most likely to be involved in an intersection collision.

Especially at signalized intersections, stress the experts, the first car to enter is often in jeopardy, for cross traffic might not yet have come to a stop. Following cars, on the other hand, seldom have to worry about a vehicle on the cross street running a red light.

Suggesting a similarity between city streets and football fields, the experts point out that running blockers are as significant in traffic as in a good football game. The smart driver, as with the clever halfback, takes fullest advantage of all the interference he can find.

Safety experts offer the following advice for drivers preparing to turn a corner: Slow down, signal your intention and proceed directly with your turn. Do not swing out.

PLAY IT SAFE

The wide end run works well on the football field, but can lead to a serious accident when executed by a driver in turning a corner. Many otherwise excellent drivers tend to swing out in the opposite direction before executing a turn, say safety experts. The result is that the car suddenly swerves into the adjacent traffic lane, risking a collision with cars approaching from behind.
