GOOD FOOD, FAST SERVICE

Have you ever stopped to note the numerous eating places, restaurants deluxe to greasy beaneries, which advertise "fast food, fast service"?

Actually, the two concepts do belong together. Good food could be enjoyed in leisure and quiet, not in haste and din. Our modern food habits, especially the shortened lunch of the working population, do not take this important fact into account. From top executive to the lowest employee on the industrial totem pole, the hasty lunch is the rule.

Even the executive, who is commonly reputed to take three hours for lunch, is more likely to bolt his lunch and use the remainder of the time drawing diagrams on the table-cloth, drinking martinis, and discussing business.

Banquets, Too
Even the ceremonial banquet is hurried; everybody sits on the edge of his chair until the tables are cleared and the speaking begins, and then everybody goes to sleep, sometimes including the speakers. Good food was made to be enjoyed. It should be served attractively. It should be eaten in appropriate leisure, and digested in a state of pleasant relaxation.

"Okay, friend," I hear you saying, "but try and do it!"

I know, I know. I too have stood poised behind the line of stools at the lunch counter, eager to pounce on the first empty place. I too have wolfed down the frankfurters and beans and even insulted the cool sweet milk by gulping it down instead of savoring it as should be savored.

I too have burped my way back to the office. I speak from acid experience—and you know what acid I mean. My stomach, after the busy-man's lunch, has felt like the distorted ads for you-know-what on TV.

Custom Hard To Break
I know, too, that it is hard to break the chain of custom, which has tended to reduce the lunch period to a 30-minute abomination, in order to allow 15 minutes earlier closing time. I know, too, that there is little use in exhorting workers to rise, even though they have nothing to lose but their dyspepsia.

Yet I would suggest that we remember the dietetic wisdom of Solomon, who declared "better a dinner of herbs, where love is, than a stalled ox and hatred therewith", and respectfully paraphrase his sound advice: "Better a luncheon at leisure, where time is, than a banquet in haste, and distress therewith." It can be done, too, if one makes the most of his limited time, and gets a bit of relaxation or a short stroll in the fresh air, even in the briefest of lunch "hours." Anyway, it's an idea. Try it some time: It beats an antacid.

HUGE LAKE POLUTED LASER TV PICTURES

Wash., D. C. — Widespread pollution of Lake Michigan by DDT and other insecticides is indicated in studies conducted by University of Michigan wildlife management specialists. After sampling bottom mud, crustaceans, fish and birds, the researchers conclude that insecticide pollution of the huge lake is considerably greater than is most smaller lakes.

Dallas — Electrical engineers at the University of Texas have discovered a method for receiving television pictures transmitted on a beam of laser light. They believe the discovery may be especially valuable in space communications. The engineers say that astronauts on the moon might be able to televise their activities and send the pictures back to earth on a laser beam.

J. V. MUSCAT GIVES TAXATION IDEAS

Larger Budget for 1967-69
Gov.-elect Don Samuelson will increase the general budget in his first two years in office. Cutting of the "Head Tax" and elimination of the Sales Tax on drugs, both of which have been pledged by the governor-elect, will bring the total budget down, but will still increase the budget over the 1965-67.

Gov. Samuelson will start his administration or term of office in an unique situation, with a $5 to $10 million surplus, due to sales tax collections which have surpassed all expectations. With Idaho's present rate of growth, and tax collections, the budget could exceed $160 million.

Idaho's general fund budget will have to be increased regardless — inflation, increased school enrollments, our universities and colleges growing in size and increased pressures of our times, people demanding more state services, and just the normal growth of all departments of the state. Idaho's budget will have to be increased. — J.V.M.

Objectives Set By Education Group
Six legislative objectives for 1967 were adopted Saturday, Nov. 19 by the Idaho Unified Education Council.

The Council, made up of the Idaho Parents Teacher Association, the Idaho School Trustees Association, and the Idaho Education Association, exists primarily to coordinate the educational legislative efforts of its members organization.

The objectives are as follows:
Level of State Support: That the state provide increased support for the public schools by approval of the 1967-69 budget recommendations for the elementary and secondary education of the State Board of Education.

Teacher Retirement Security: That all public school employees be included in the new Public Employees Retirement System with the employers contribution provided by the State.

Education of the Exceptional Child: That the definition of "Handicapped Pupils" who are entitled to the Handicapped Child Factor of 300 percent in the foundation program be more precisely defined in the Idaho Code, so there will be no unreasonable drain on funds for general education and provided further: That a separate appropriation independent of the foundation program be made ancillary personnel employed to serve pupils under the Exceptional Child Act of 1965.

Public School Kindergartens: That legislation be enacted providing state assistance for public school kindergartens which when added to local and federal funds may provide kindergarten classes at the discretion of local school districts.

Foundation Program Formula: That the quarterly apportionments of money from the public school fund be made directly to the school districts instead of to the counties; and that disbursements under the foundation program be computed on the basis of average daily membership instead of Average Daily Attendance.

The Education Commission of the States: That legislation be enacted which will make Idaho a member in good standing of the Education Commission of the States. — J.V.M.

BUILDING BLOCKS IN THE KITCHEN

Jimmy is playing with his building blocks in a corner of the kitchen, where his mother has put him to keep him out from under foot while she prepares dinner.

Jimmy's blocks are not acting right at all. Everything he builds falls down, and at last he shoves the whole mess aside and complains, "Mommy, I just can't build anything!"

"You have a book of pictures, darling," she says, "to show you how. Why don't you build something out of the book?"

"Aw, gee," he answers, "I want to do it my own way."

"That boy!" she murmurs under her breath. "Always trying to do things the hard way!"

At that point the doctor, if he were in the kitchen, might say, "Just like his mother . . ." to which she would respond indignantly, "What do you mean by that?"

Mother, Too, Has Problems

Here's what I mean. Mother, like Jimmy, is working all the time with building blocks—chemical blocks, which make up the important protein substances contained in the foods we eat, which are necessary for the growth and repair of living tissue. The chemical name for them is amino acids. They are part of a large group of similar substances with fundamentally similar composition.

The living substance of the animal body cell contains about seven to 10 percent protein. This protein is peculiar to each species, but it varies in different cells according to their function.

All protein is made up of a combination of constituent substances; these are the amino acids. The body is able to make only some of these; the rest must come from food. The best supplies come from meat, milk, cheese, eggs and fish; additional supplies come from cereals, nuts, fruits and vegetables, especially the legume (bean) family.

If the human body does not get an adequate supply of these building blocks, it cannot build and maintain its structure any more than Jimmie can build houses with his blocks if he doesn't know how, or if he insists on doing it his own way, regardless of directions from those who do know how.

Recommended Allowance

The recommended protein allowance per day, from the four food groups but principally from the meat and dairy groups, is stated on the basis of an adult male, moderately active, and weighing about 154 pounds. He should have 70 grams or about two and one-half ounces of protein per day. Adult women require about 80 percent of the recommended male quota; children require much more proportionately, to provide for growth. Activity does not ordinarily influence the protein requirement, since protein is not an energy food unless fats and carbohydrates in the diet are deficient.

So the doctor in the kitchen suggests that mother apply to herself the good advice she gave her boy—follow the suggestions of those who know, rather than learn by herself, the hard way.

IN THE NEW CARS

Chicago — Auto makers are using electronics to replace the glue pot and needle, and thread in one application — apply "heel kicker plates" (pads) to protect the auto carpeting on the driver's side from wear. Key to the method is dielectric heating. This is the uniform, rapid and controlled heating of an electrically non-conducting material in a high-frequency electromagnetic field. The combination of electronic heating and pressure applies the pads in one-third the time required by conventional sewing and gluing.

CONSOLATION

A wealthy but elderly spinster had finally taken the plunge and married a man some years her junior. After she returned from the honeymoon she was telling some friends about the trip.

"And do you know," she related, "that on the third day of our honeymoon Bill won first prize in the Irish Sweepstakes?"

"Good gosh," exclaimed a male listener, "three days too late!"

WOOL PROGRAM ENDS ON DEC. 31

Moscow — Roy R. Glenn, vice chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation county committee, today reminded growers that the 1966 marketing year under the wool and mohair program ends Dec. 31st, 1966.

This means that payments for the current year will depend on completing all details of marketing of wool mohair or lambs by that date. Marketing completed after Dec. 31, 1966, will become marketings in the 1967 year, and thus not eligible for payments until early 1968.

Mr. Glenn urges producers to make sure that all details for the 1966 sales are completed by the end of the year. This includes passing title to the buyer, delivering the wool or mohair to the buyer, and having available all the information needed to determine the buyer's total purchase price.

Application for the 1966 marketing year payments may be filed at the ASCS county office at any time. Payments for the 1966 marketing

NEW PIPING

Wrought Iron piping is finding increasing use in industry for mildly corrosive surfaces. It is widely employed, says Tube Turns, Louisville, in a variety of processing applications such as drainage lines in highways and bridge construction; in water supply lines and sewage treatment plants and in air conditioning; heating and refrigeration systems.

WATCH WHAT YOU DO ABOUT S. S.

Changes in the Social Security laws have made it more important than ever to "inquire before you retire" D. Gene Shaw, District Manager, advised today.

One important reason for this concerns Medicare. Even though a person is not planning to stop work at age 65 an application must be made in one of the three months before the birthday month in order to get full Medicare coverage. And delay in filing beyond this point results in a delay in the time when full Medicare benefits can be available. For example, a person age 65 in September, 1966 applying in January 1967 would not be eligible for the Medicare Insurance part of Medicare until October 1967, which is the next open season for those who failed to apply on time.

Hospital benefits, unlike the medical insurance benefits, do not require an advance application. It is still advisable to apply early for these benefits also. This permits issuance of the Medicare identification card in time to be used for any hospital of medical services needed, at age 65 or later.

Another important reason for inquiring before retiring concerns documents necessary to establish a person's right to Social Security benefits. Such items as birth or baptismal records, early school records, marriage certificates, or census records may be necessary. The person who inquires two to three months before age 65 to find out what is needed will be in a much better position to receive his first check on time when he does retire.

There is still another important reason for inquiring before retiring. The law now permits a person to earn considerably more and still receive some Social Security checks. The amounts a person can earn and receive some payment, are even higher if a spouse or children were also able to receive Social Security. For example: if a man, wife and children were eligible for $250.00 per month in Social Security and the man earned $4000.00 a year, the family could still receive $1100.00 or more in Social Security payments for that year.

As a final reminder, Shaw said, anyone, regardless of employment, past or present, should contact the Social Security office two or three months before his or her birthday. The office is located at 726 21st street in Lewiston. In addition to regular weekly hours, the office is normally open 8:00 a. m. to 12:00 noon on Saturdays for the convenience of those who cannot come in during the week.

STEELHEAD FREED

Young steelhead trout reared at the Hagerman fish hatchery were released in the Lemhi and Pahsimeroi rivers last spring to continue their journey to the Pacific ocean.

The transfer of steelhead from the Snake river to the Salmon river drainage is necessary because of the spawning areas blocked by hydroelectric developments.

Terry Holubetz, fisheries biologist from Salmon, Idaho, examines the fish as they are counted through the Lemhi weir.

"The '67 program is geared to a changed need for agricultural products," Procnier said. "It is aimed at crops with surplus implications such as feed grains. The emphasis will be on shifting land to public benefit and conservation of soil and water for future needs."

"Participating farmers will receive payments based on past use and productivity of land involved. For '67 and subsequent years, wheat and barley will be considered non-allotment crops."

To qualify in Latah county, Procnier said, a producer must first offer his corn base and if there is no corn base, he may offer his tame hay base. A farm with no feed grain base (corn only in Latah county) and no tame hay base, cannot qualify for a CAP agreement.

CROPLAND PROGRAM OPENED DEC. 1

Dec. 1 was the opening date to sign up in the 1967 Cropland Adjustment Program, Melvin Procnier, Latah ASC county committeeman said. The program involves shifting croplands not presently needed for agricultural production, into long-term conservation projects.
