SCHOLARS

For leadership in local, state and national affairs, all the world looks for the "uncommon man"-the man with vision, character, and the depth of understanding to meet the problems of today and tomorrow. In this increasingly complicated world, this means educated men and women. At the Washington Water Power we encourage young scholars by offering college scholarships, 4-H campships, Science Fair tours and by participation in programs of assistance to teachers. We cooperate with universities in research programs, workshops and seminars. In the past half century and more, WWP has been able to help scores of deserving young people and teachers further their education. It is our pleasure and privilege at WWP.

HANDLE PROJECTILES WITH CARE

All the talk about unsafe autonobiles is rather amusing. There are four major causes of car accidents regardless of car safety: 1. Discourtregardless of car safety. I. Discontinery of the average driver. 2. Just ordinary drunks. 3. Disregard of all highway speed and warning signs.
4. Car speeds beyond the ability of most drivers to handle.

Don't blame the car when the news story says, "car left road on a curve, passenger killed." The car wasn't doing the driving.

REUSING IS SAVING

Recondensing carbon dioxide before it is used provides a constant supply of saturated and sub-cooled liquid at the point of application, reports Cardox, Chicago. Pressure in a bulk storage tank fills the recondensing system's receiving unit with both gaseous and liquid carbon dioxide, dropping the pressure in the receiver and drawing liquid carbon dioxide into it from the higher pressure storage tank. At the same time. the liquid carbon dioxide is subcooled by a thermostatic balancing control

PEELING EASTER EGG CAN BE DIFFICULT

Moscow — Among other things, Easter means a lot of hard-cooked eggs. One problem often encountered is difficulty in peeling them. Tips on overcoming that obstacle are offered by Nancy Palmer, county home economics agent, on the basis of suggestions from Robert Black, poultry

In the first place, she said, an egg that peels hard is usually one of high interior quality. That's a matter of satisfaction that helps overcome the disappointment of peeling until all you have left is a yolk. Here are some ideas on separating the shell so you will wind up with a
