STUBBLE FIRE ON POTLATCH RIDGE

Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 9, the local Forestry department was called to a stubble fire on ground owned by Ernest and Adolph Denner on the point of Potlatch ridge, above Juliaetta — a blaze which is estimated to have burned about 20 acres. When the Kendrick equipment arrived on the scene, volunteers had the blaze well under control, and the locals made use of pumper equipment to put out burning posts and telephone poles.

While engaged in this work they received a radio call for another fire north of Potlatch, and left the stubble fire to the volunteers.

When they reached the scene of the reported fire they discovered it was in Washington, and they were not needed on it.

Norman Lewis, State Forest Warden said Thursday: "We would much rather residents would report fires to us immediately on discovering them, even though they may be out of our territory — than to let them go. The sooner we can get to a blaze, the easier it is to control.

"Too, when reporting a fire, please give us specific information on its locality, such as on the west side of such-and-such ridge or creek — it may save us having to back-track on side roads to reach it — or tell us which side of the farm and field it may be burning."

KENDRICK FORESTRY BUSY WITH FIRES

The State Forestry Department reports no fires burning in our district at the present time (Monday) that they know of, but the "spread index is up very high and the situation is explosive." "We're sitting on pins and needles," says Norman Lewis, State Forest Warden.

On Saturday afternoon a grain fire was extinguished by neighborhood volunteers and the Forestry department at the Ernest Andrews farm on American Ridge. The fire was started by a truck in the field, and approximately 30 acres of standing grain was burned before the blaze was put out.

On Monday a fire of unknown origin burned a few acres of peat and grain stubble at the Bob Smith ranch, also on American Ridge. Here again, volunteers and the Forestry Department extinguished the blaze.

Fire Near Potlatch

A fire, ten miles north and west of Potlatch was reported in about 5:15 p. m. Monday.

Beginning in a wheat field, about 125 acres of stubble and wheat, and five acres of timber were burned. The fire is now under control and is in the "mopping-up" stages.

AND THEN IT WARMED UP A BIT

From a Tuesday of last week low of a mere 86 degrees, "Old Sol" began to turn it on again Wednesday, the "official" thermometer recording a high of 95 degrees.

Thursday the mercury column said 99 degrees.

Friday, under over-cast skies, the indicator said 101 degrees, with not a breath of air stirring until about 5:40 p. m., when a brief, gusty wind filled the canyon with dust, probably from the Pasco area. Not until about 9:30 p. m. when our regular breeze arrived, did the temperature drop very much, and then only to a mere 84 degrees. During the night, however, it fell to 60 degrees.

Saturday was almost a repeat of Friday, except for the gusty wind and dust, with a reading of 101 degrees.

Sunday, under cloudless skies the reading was 102 degrees.

Monday, almost a repeat of Sunday, the mercury column said 101. Tuesday was another 101 day!

CHILDREN MUST BE 6

A regulation made necessary by the large number of children using the Area Living War Memorial Swimming Pool now must be brought into use, say local authorities. It reads:

"Any child under six years of age, using the pool must be accompanied by an adult. Also, the adult must stay within the swimming pool enclosure with the child and must assume full responsibility for the child. Lifeguards on duty at the pool will not be responsible for children under six years of age.

Never mind how old you are — it's how old you feel that counts!

HARVEST NEARING END SAY LOCAL WAREHOUSEMEN

Said Bob Watts of the Kendrick Rochdale Co.: "Harvesting is nearing an end in this area with the exception of spring barley, and very little of it has come in. Wheat and fall barley is now almost all under roof."

"Grades have been on both barley and wheat, with the exception of fowl matter (mostly wild oats). Not enough spring barley has come in to get an idea of its quality."

Ben Westendahl of the Lewiston Grain Growers said that wheat and fall barley was now almost all in. The fall barley, like wheat, has been a good quality, many lots grading No. 1. Yield, however, was down due to the huge quantities of wild oats and the extreme heat.

Some farmers said in certain of the "damp" areas the wild oats grew so rank they pulled down wheat and fall barley to the place where those spots were hardly worth cutting — thus reducing field yields.

Ben said spring barley was just now beginning to come in.

In speaking of peas and lentils Brocke & Sons, Inc., said that the Austrian-Winter pea crop was about two-thirds complete; spring or green peas were almost at an end and lentils now pouring in, with the crop estimated at about one-third harvested.

George F. Brocke, Jr., said that the quality on "everything" was good.

Of course the percentage of fowl matter is much higher this year than last.

CAMPER KARAVAN HAS FUN ON TRIP

The Kendrick Camper Karavan spent the week-end at Green Flats on the Lochsa.

Those going were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kuykendall, Mrs. Orville and son Tom, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Brocke, Sr., and granddaughter Terri Brocke, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Clemenhagen and her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wilson and children, and Mrs. James of Spokane; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Gruell and Mrs. Lily Lowry; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Crocker, Mrs. Elmo Eldridge, Mr. and Mrs. Manning Onstott and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Craig.

All enjoyed a pot-luck dinner Friday evening and again Sunday at noon, with Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Flesman of Clarkston joining the group for dinner Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Bud Eichner and family were "drop-ins" on the group Sunday.

Saturday afternoon several of the Karavan drove to Walton Lake, and others drove to the White House camp ground and watched square dancing and enjoyed a Wildlife Picture shown by "Smookey Schultz."

The rest of the time was spent in picture taking, sightseeing, visiting and fishing (which was good). A marvelous time was had by all.

PARK PATTER

BY MRS. JERRY SMITH

ONE DOWN — Harvest has taken its first toll for the year, with miraculously minor results. The road maintenance man, Mitchell Griffin, met a loaded Park Ranch & Cattle Co. truck, driven by Gordon Gudmunson on the Park road just north of the old trestle curve. Griffin swerved too far out on a fill to avoid Gudmunson, and upended the county gravel truck, load and all, over the side of the fill. The truck received little damage, and Griffin got by with a few scratches and bruises.

LAKE TO BECOME FISHING SPOT SOON

Boise — Choker setters are Cottonwood Job Corps boys Willy Crane of Pinehurst, Georgia (left) and Larry Stricklin of Kennett, Missouri. The log is on the edge of Winchester Lake, near Winchester, Ida., sometimes called Lapwai Lake by old-timers. It was hauled and burned, along with hundreds of others, to make the site more suitable for outdoor recreation. The waters were recently chemically treated to rid them of rough fish such as bullheads and carp.

The lake will be re-stocked with trout later this fall, to provide fishing and recreation in the years to come.

UNMARKED POLICE CAR NOW IN USE

Boise — The first Idaho State Police unmarked patrol car, put into service Saturday, July 1, participated in 66 traffic violation arrests, it was reported by Warner C. Mills, Idaho Department of Law, Enforcement commissioner.

Operating in the McCall area during the recent holiday, the trooper manning the unmarked car made three arrests for speeding and assisted in 51 additional speeding apprehensions with the use of radar. He said vehicles were clocked at more than 90 miles per hour on several occasions.

Idaho State Police joined the commissioner in expressing gratitude investigated a traffic accident.

Other violations included illegal consumption of alcoholic beverages by minors, three; passing over solid yellow lines, two; passing on a curve, one, and improper lighting, six.

The trooper said several motorists were issued warning tickets for various traffic law violations. The car was on patrol until Wednesday morning following the 4th.

The Trooper said: "Most motorists drove fairly well when in sight of marked patrol cars, but were exceedingly reckless when the unmarked car was in the vicinity. It is interesting to note that none of the traffic fatalities occurred in the area where the unmarked car worked."

Said the Commissioner: "It is too early to determine the extent of success of this venture. However, the program will be continued and unmarked cars will be assigned to other state police areas as soon as possible."

NEW STUDY PLAN

A new curriculum aimed at making the medical course more like other types of graduate study will be introduced at the University of Pittsburg this year. It will depart from the philosophy that all physicians need exactly the same basic educational program. Essentially, the new curriculum will give the medical student more time for independent study and greater freedom to form an educational program that fits his individual needs, indeed, the entire fourth year will be devoted to elective study.

Everything for that hot weather picnic will be found at Blewett's Market, Kendrick. adv to the majority of the motorists who drove safely on the highways during the Fourth of July holidays.

"Undoubtedly the good driving practices followed by most of the motorists helped hold down the number of traffic accidents over the four-day holiday period," they said.

TRAIL COMMISSION TOURS THE HISTORIC LEWIS-CLARK ROUTE

Missoula, Mont. — The Lewis and Clark Trail Commission was in Idaho and Montana last week to follow the historic trail through the National Forests, Neal M. Rahm, Northern Regional Forester, has announced.

During the four day trip (Aug. 11-14) to Idaho and Montana, the commission conducted business meetings and inspected portions of Lewis and Clark Trail in the Beaverhead, Salmon, Bitterroot, Lolo and Clearwater National Forests.

"The Forest Service welcomed this opportunity to show the commission members how this historic route has been identified in the National Forests," Rahm said. "Also, this did provide an opportunity to review outdoor recreation developments near the trail and discuss plans for future developments."

David Ainsworth, Salmon, Idaho, is the official host for the commission's visit to Idaho and Montana. Ainsworth, vice chairman of the Lewis and Clark Trail Commission is the Idaho governor's representative on the commission. Sherry Fisher, Des Moines, Iowa, is chairman of the commission. Orvin Fjare, Helena, Mont., advertising director and member of the Trail Commission joined the party for the tour of the trail through western Montana. Fjare is chairman of the Montana Lewis and Clark Trail committee.

Ralph Space, Orofino, chairman of the Idaho Lewis and Clark Trail committee joined the commission for their trip across Idaho on the Lewis and Clark Highway (U. S. 12). Space, retired supervisor of the Clearwater National Forest, is a charter member of the Idaho Historical Society.

The commission tour paralleled the 1805-06 trail down the Bitterroot Valley to Travellers Rest near Lolo. At noon they were guests of the Missoula Chamber of Commerce for lunch at Lolo Hot Springs on the Lewis and Clark Highway.

At 5,233-foot Lolo Pass, on the Montana-Idaho line between the Lolo and Clearwater National Forests, the commission tour stopped to review with Forest Service officials, plans for visitor information facilities at the pass.

Commission members were the guests of the Clearwater Historical Society for supper at Orofino, before proceeding to Lewiston, Saturday night.

The commission conducted business meetings Sunday, Aug. 13, at the Lewis-Clark Hotel in Lewiston, and were luncheon guests of the Lewiston Chamber of Commerce at noon. Business meetings were continued until noon, Monday, Aug. 14, when the commission ended its Idaho-Montana tour.

SAMUELSON ASKS IDAHO TO ATTEND

Boise — Gov. Don Samuelson is urging all Idahoans, especially those who use public land, to attend and testify at the September 2nd hearings in Spokane by the Public Land Law Review Commission.

In a letter to organizations throughout the state Gov. Samuelson explained that the Public Land Law Review Commission will hold public hearings in Seattle, Sept. 1st, and in Spokane the following day at the Ridpath Hotel. He said the Commission was established by Congress to study all public land laws and regulations and policies of the federal agencies administering them.

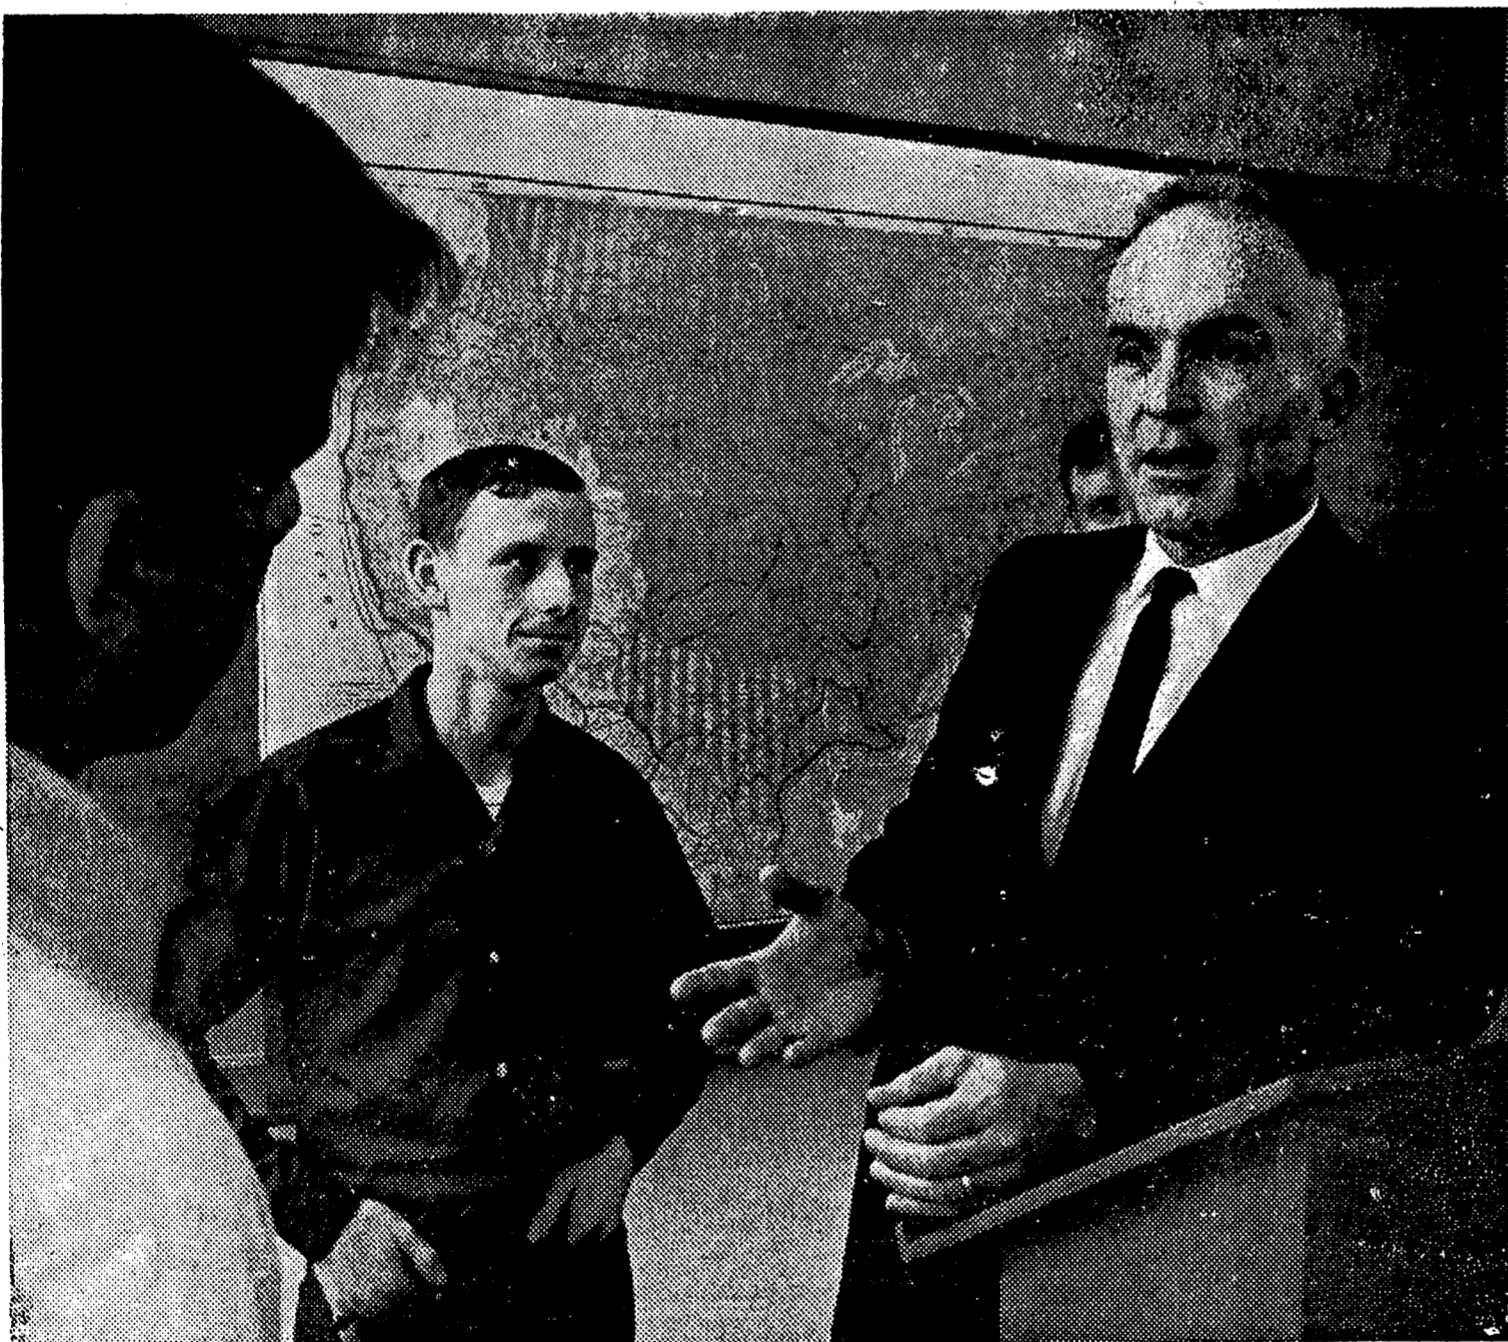

"The findings and recommendation to Congress by this Commission are of extreme importance to Idaho, which has over two-thirds of its land under federal ownership."

"I strongly urge every organization, representing public land usage, as well as the public at large, to give testimony at Spokane on Sept. 2nd," said Gov. Samuelson.

Those who desire to present their views by making or submitting statements should write to: "Director, Public Land Law Review Commission, 1730 K Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. 20006. They should bring to the meeting ten copies of all prepared statements.

All meetings will be open to the press and to the public.

PREPARING BLOOMS FOR FAIR DISPLAY

"Get flowers ready early for showing," is the advice of garden club members in Latah County. The following tips should help you make a better showing of your flowers at the Latah County Fair, Sept. 14, 15, 16.

1. Flowers should be cut early in the morning or late evening, using a sharp knife and cutting the stems on the slant.

2. Place immediately in very warm water in a deep container. Dahlias, poppies and any other flower that has juice in the stem should have the lower stem placed in boiling water for 30 seconds or sear end of stem with a lighted match. Handle so the foliage will not be wilted.

3. Keep flowers in dark, cool room — free from drafts for several hours or overnight. Then place in cool, clean water. Roses keep well with the addition of "RoseLife."

Roses and gladioli should be picked before fully in bloom. Glads may be picked with about one-third of the flowerettes open, one-third partially open, and one-third just showing the color. One flowerlet may be removed, if wilted, at base of stem.

4. Asters, dahlias, zinnias, marigolds and chrysanthemums should be well opened. Examine the back of the blossoms to be sure there are no wilted petals.

5. In showing flower specimens at the fair, be sure they have the foliage included and attached.

6. Always note the number of blooms required in the fair premium book.

7. Dahlias are to have side buds removed. This is best done as the buds form. Some judges will accept them if buds are freshly removed.

"This Is Our County" — so let our flowers at the fair be worthy of the show.

Flower entries will be received at the National Guard Armory between 8:00 and 11:00 in the morning of Sept. 14th.

FEEDING YOUR "SPACEMAN"

Today, the faces of our youths, at least the boys, are turned toward outer space. The plastic helmet has crowded the padded helmet out of the toy shops, or threatens to do so, and the feathered headdress adored by the boys of other days is almost a rarity.

The boys don't know it, and quite possibly their mothers don't realize it either, but the nutritional experiments now being carried out for the feeding of our men in space, will have and even now are having their influence on everyday dietary practices.

In the middle 1930's, when attention was centered on Admiral Byrd and his Antarctic expeditions, our family had a small and compact house trailer, with which we took the three children and their grandmother into the Canadian woods, left the youngsters and Grandma at the guide's home in an abandoned lumber camp, and took to the woods with canoe and pack.

Early Experimental Foods
 Owing to my connection with the American Medical Association, we were fortunate enough to get an experimental supply of dehydrated foods from one of Byrd's suppliers. These were among the earliest attempts at dehydration, other than the American Indian's "jerky" and similar primitive methods.

Some of these foods were good; a few were excellent; some were scarcely edible. The spinach had a nice green shrivelled up worm in it. The apple sauce was so tasteless that we put it out on a rock and watched a chipmunk devour it — and then realized suddenly that the hydration of this dried material could give him a king-size tummy-ache.

The point is that today, refined methods of dehydration give us commercially feasible and palatable, and nutritionally adequate foods in convenient form and pleasing variety — cake and pancake mixes, herb and spice flakes, scalloped and mashed potatoes, fat-free milk and — you name it.

Future Benefits
 In like manner, it may be expected that experimentation with the feeding of astronauts will bring extended benefits to the homemaker. More accurate knowledge of nutritional requirements should come from a three-year study recently carried out by the U.S. Air Force and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Food supplies were weighed to an accuracy of almost 1/3000th of an ounce. Chemical analyses were conducted of all food consumed and all body wastes excreted, and water intake and output were carefully measured.

Out of this research hopefully will come practical information which can be applied easily to everyday practice. The homemaker cannot be a combined physiologist-chemist-nutritionist-biologist-researcher. Fortunately she doesn't have to be, as long as the scientists do it for her.

for recreational purposes for men living in the cooperatives, but most of them had journeyed to war. The money was then placed in an investment fund and the earnings, including the principal, grew to $1,881.58 on June 30, 1966.

The Regents' scholarship will be presented to the top senior man living in the Campus Club cooperative who has attained the highest scholastic record for his first three complete years of academic work at the university.

In 1958 a scholarship award was established for women students residing in the Ethel Steel Cooperative House. The university now has two formal cooperative living groups on the campus, but during the depression years there were six.

Tanner conceived the idea of cooperative living in 1932, when as director of the Latter Day Saints' Institute, he fixed up a kitchen and dining room in the basement of the LDS's Institute so 21 boys could continue to go to college.

The boys lived like a family unit, sharing the work as well as the cost. It became a cooperative — the first in the nation. From that idea came a series of cooperatives at the U. of I. It started the college cooperative movement of the depression that was to bring national recognition to the university, enabling students to earn college educations during this dark era in American history.

U. OF I. TO GET NEW BUILDING COMPLEX

U. of I., Moscow. — Bids for construction of the first unit of the University of Idaho's new high-rise dormitory complex are expected in September, Financial Vice President Kenneth A. Dick told the Board of Regents.

The University has had $2,150,000 funds reserved by the Department of Housing and Urban Development on the basis of a preliminary application. Subject to approval of the complete application, Dick said, it is estimated that the project might be advertised for a bid opening in September, 1967.

The first tower will be 10 stories high and will house 416 students. Construction is planned directly north of the present Gault-Upton Hall, with the completed complex to reach from Rayburn to Line Streets. The long-range plan calls for construction of five new buildings, including a commons, in the area north of Sixth Street.

Approval was also given for architects to proceed with schematic plans for the construction of a new Forestry building at the university, subject to concurrent approval of the State Permanent Building Fund Advisory Council. At the last session of the state legislature $1,800,

HOT CAKE RECIPE

With the approach of the hunting season we have been asked to reprint "a bachelor's recipe for sour dough hotcakes, which we published several years ago. Here it is:
 Pour dough out of crock, let run 20 seconds.
 Add two handful of flour, if medium sized hand.
 (Wipe hand on overalls)
 Add half handful of sugar.
 (Wipe hand on overalls).
 Add middle finger and thumb of said.
 (Light cigarette)
 Add one egg and cooking oil; let run 1/10 of second.
 (Fish cigarette ashes out of mixture; it will kill the soda action).
 Stir to beat hell.
 Get griddle to 208 degrees, then add thumb, index and middle fingers of soda.
 Beat like hell again and bake.
 Makes 10 cakes.
 (Incidentally, it is said that the hot cakes are really good — by those who have tried the recipe).
