MORE POLICE ASKED BY GENESEE GROUP

GENESEE — Members of the Genesee City Council heard a request that additional police protection be furnished by the city at the regular monthly meeting of the council held Monday night, October 7.

The request was made by Leonard Singhose, Asgrow Seed Company manager and Jon Cantamessa, manager of the Genesee Food Thrift Store. The two said they had been appointed by the Genesee Civic Association to come before the council and discuss the matter with city officials.

Both Singhose and Cantamessa stated that the recent bank robbery in Genesee was only partially responsible for the concern that many people felt over what they felt was inadequate police patrolling. They also cited an increasing number of traffic violations and the danger these traffic conditions present to the citizens.

Jack Magee, police and fire commissioner, said he was basically in agreement and said there had been thought of hiring a full-time man as police and fire chief "if the money hurdle could be passed." There is presently no funds allocated for this additional expense and the city will not receive much more in taxes for the next fiscal year. Mayor Scharnhorst said "I don't know how we'll finance extra help."

It was decided that the city will investigate the possibility of part-time police help while planning for a more suitable solution to the problem of police and fire responsibility.

John Luedke was also present at the council meeting to discuss matters pertaining to his granting the city permission to tap into his well located just off the road on the way to the cemetery.

Speed Limit Reduced
The council discussed and approved a suggestion to reduce the speed limit to 25 miles per hour on the highway leading through town. The current posted limit is 35 miles per hour. Signs will be placed designating the change.

Home Cookin' ...

Our young cook for this week is Miss Jeanette Taber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Taber, of Juliaetta, and a senior at Genesee High School.

At a recent Girls Club initiation, Jeanette's punch recipe was made and served, and was met with such high praise from the guests that she was asked to submit her recipe to this column.

Thank you, Jeanette, and we more than welcome recipes from young cooks for they might give some refreshing new ideas to we long-time cooks.

PUNCH:

- 1 1/2 cups sugar
 - 8 cups water
 - 1 can (46 ounces) unsweetened pineapple juice
 - 6 cans frozen orange juice (12-oz)
 - 3 cans frozen lemon juice (5 3/4 oz)
 - 5 bottles (7 oz.) 7-Up
- Mix sugar and 2 cups water in a pan and simmer five minutes; chill. Chill pineapple juice and 7-Up. Mix remaining water, sugar syrup, and juices in a bowl. Let sit for a few hours in refrigerator. At serving time, slowly pour in 7-Up.
- Makes 7 quarts or about 60 punch cups.

VOLUNTARY SUPPORT AIDS GUN SAFETY INSTRUCTION

By Milt Williams, Information Supervisor Idaho Fish-Game Department.

Idaho is a typically western state in which most forms of gun use play prominent roles in the outdoor recreation picture. Even by western standards, though, the relatively sparse human population and excellent stocks of a variety of wildlife combine to make hunting a top outdoor sport in this state.

Because of this, guns are commonplace to the average household. With very few exceptions youngsters in Idaho grow up with more than a passing interest in and knowledge of firearms. To cope with the resulting familiarity of guns, Idaho has a unique, overall gun safety training program. It is aimed at giving basic safety training in the handling and use of firearms to all young people, boys and girls alike.

A statewide hunter safety training program was adopted by Idaho in 1956. With the help and support of organized sportsmen's groups a series of instructor clinics was held throughout the state. It was intended to be a voluntary program and the goals were to coordinate existing local training and to expand into areas. Initially, enthusiasm was good and a satisfactory beginning was made. After the first several years, however, the universal problem of waning interest was apparent and by 1965 it was agreed that a new approach must be made.

In many communities, particularly the larger ones, district conservation officers and field conservation educators had established the practice of presenting hunter safety training in the schools. Almost without exception school administrators welcomed these courses, which were given to boys' and girls' physical education classes primarily at the junior high level.

Since those programs were so successful and well-received, it was decided in 1965 to shift emphasis and rebuild the entire statewide program along those lines. Beginning in 1966 it was an assigned duty of district conservation officers to present this training to all students. Regional conservation educators act as coordinators and assist the officers whenever needed. Emphasis is placed on the seventh grade level. Conservation officers are sometimes assisted by state and local law enforcement officers and local sportsmen in the training sessions.

The classroom courses adhere rather closely to the basic NRA Hunter Safety Course with a few minor variances. The Idaho program is intended to teach youngsters (1) safe and sane hunting practices, (2) general safe handling and storage of firearms, (3) sportsmanship, and (4) respect for private property and the rights of others. It is felt that such training effectively combines hunting safety and gun safety in the home.

A minimum of three hours of classroom work is specified and this includes sessions on knowledge of guns, proper gun handling, good shooting practices, the hunter's responsibilities, survival sportsmanship, and general gun and hunting laws. Respect for private property and landholder-sportsman relations are an important part of the section covering the hunter's responsibilities. Instructors have the option to include instruction of wildlife conservation and game identification, and many do.

With the use of our standard training report form the numbers of students trained, their grade level, extent of training, who did the training, etc., are readily available. Totals for the training season just completed indicate that statewide coverage is nearly complete. The Idaho State Department of Education supplied the figure of 15,714 students enrolled in all schools at the 7th grade level during the 1967-68 school year. The previous year there were 13 more 7th graders. This year a total of 15,082 students received training and last year, the first full season of the re-emphasis program, the figure was 18,202. The latter figure included a lot of catching up with students who otherwise would not have received the training without the extra effort.

In Idaho during the calendar year of 1967 there were 165,183 licensed resident hunters. The total number of students trained last year represents 9 percent of the licensed hunters. This is an excellent percentage, but it tells only part of the story.

The important point is that almost all Idaho school students are getting the training as they pass through the school system. Eventually all Idaho hunters will have received training in hunting and shooting safety.

There are two factors which definitely have affected the hunter-accident statistics. One is that hunting opportunity has been gradually increased overall by roughly 75 per cent. That is, from 1953 to 1967 lengths of the various hunting seasons, big game and birds, have nearly doubled. This logically would have a bearing on the number of hunting accidents. The other factor has to do

BEHAVIOR ON THE HIGHWAY

"Your behavior on the highway and your motor manners may save a life," says Idaho State Police Supt. L. Clark Hand.

"A traffic accident," he continued "pretty generally is a result of negative action—not heeding the law, of not driving defensive, or not adhering to simple good manners.

"There is no way of estimating how many lives might be saved every year by the exercise of a little consideration, tolerance, and patience, but the number probably would be staggering." Hand says it is not surprising Idaho is experiencing a rising highway death toll when one considers the discourteous acts and disregard of rights of others in use of roadways.

"Motorists and pedestrians alike are guilty of these actions," he says. Citing State Police statistics, the superintendent said, "In practically all traffic fatalities either the driver, the pedestrian—or both—was violating a traffic law or a safe practice.

"In any event, bad motor manners were involved."

Hand warned, "If we are to hold down this terrible highway death toll in the face of our increasing volume of traffic, we must all drive and walk with greater care and patience; whether on a long vacation trip or only going to the neighborhood shopping center."

The bravest thing you can do when you are not brave is to profess courage and act accordingly.—Corra Harris with more accurate reporting of hunting accidents. It is felt that with standard reporting methods and increased efforts to obtain information regarding accidents, the total number of non-fatal accidents reported in recent years are more inclusive and accurate than previously. This factor probably has had little effect on the accuracy of fatal accidents.

Generally speaking, it is felt that Idaho's voluntary hunter safety training program has had a beneficial effect upon the numbers of fatal accidents. This is reflected in the gradual downward trend in numbers of fatal accidents since the inception of the statewide training program.

X-RAY LASER

IS POSSIBLE

AN X-RAY LASER may be the next development in the rapidly advancing science of generating coherent light reports one of the laser's originators. Stanford University professor Arthur L. Schawlow said that an X-ray laser might consist of a column of active material only a millimeter long and about a micron in diameter. "Even without mirrors such a column should produce a fairly directional X-ray beam," he said. "Most likely the visible-frequency laser will be employed to raise atoms to the energy levels necessary for X-ray emission, as radio generators are used to pump the gas laser."

A TECHNIQUE to specifically suppress the body's 'immunity mechanism' has been developed by a medical research team at the University of Chicago. It may have far-reaching implications in organ transplantation if it turns out that the technique can prevent the body from rejecting a transplanted organ while preserving the self-immunization reaction responsible for fighting infections.

MODERN TECHNOLOGY requires improved wear-resistant products and, National Cylinder Gas says, one way many industrial companies are making their products last longer is by using a hardsurfacing process. In this process a layer of a harder metal is welded on a softer one.

EXPERIMENTS at the University of Pennsylvania indicate that small amounts of food substances go directly from the mouth to the brain. Rats were given sugar containing radioactive carbon 14 and the experimenters were surprised to discover that the radioactivity reached the brain in less than one minute. The sugar apparently traveled along a pathway that leads directly from the mouth to the brain.

IDAHO WATERFOWL COUNTS

WILL BE MADE 3-WEEKLY

With statewide hunting for migratory waterfowl scheduled to start October 12, scattergunners will harvest local or "resident" ducks until a sudden cold snap brings the first really big wave of ducks sweeping across Idaho skies from Montana and Alberta, the Fish and Game Department commented today.

Migrating ducks usually make a huge arc over the Snake River Plains to the Deer Flat Refuge in Canyon County to the southwest. So far the waterfowl movement has been leisurely. Spectacular concentration of ducks and geese on Idaho's larger counting areas are expected to follow the first storm and blasts of cold air from Canada and Montana.

As long as mild weather holds, there will be a steady drift of ducks and geese in fair numbers across the state. The first bi-weekly count of waterfowl this fall for the period ending September 7 showed a total of 233,400 ducks and geese on 11 concentration areas in the state, compared with 850,000 last year. For the week ending September 21, the waterfowl count was 206,794, compared with over a million waterfowl on the same date in 1967.

Elmer Norberg, state bird supervisor, explained that this year's bi-weekly waterfowl counts on concentration areas will show a most exactly the same kind of curve as last year's, which was made on a weekly basis. Purpose of the counts is to record waterfowl movements through Idaho. This data gives hunters advance information on when a big wave of ducks is coming and gives management workers important trend information from year to year.

This year four new waterfowl concentration areas in northern Idaho have been added to the list of major waters to be counted every two weeks. They are the lower Coeur d'Alene River to Killarney Lake, Benawah-Chatcolet area, Round Lake, and the Pend o'Reille River below Sandpoint. Other bi-weekly counting areas in southeast, southcentral and southwest Idaho are North Lake, Market Lake, Camas, American Falls Reservoir, Mindoka, Hagaman, C. J. Strike Reservoir and Deer Flat Wildlife Management Area.

Idaho's No. 1 Office Building
Rising above tall buildings in the Boise City area, the Idaho State Capitol Building dome stretches 195 feet in the air. The basic structure of the building, which began in 1905, is modeled after the classical style of the nation's capitol in Washington, D. C.
Completing the building in a record time of 15 years, it was finished at a cost of $2,290,000. It covers 50,646 square feet with over 2 acres of floor space for halls and offices. The rotundas of the 3 upper floors are unique in that they are supported only by marble pillars; Idaho sandstone covers the outside walls with Alaskan and Vermont marble used for inside trimmings and staircases.
Contained within the buildings are many displays and exhibits done by Idahoans and viewed by more than 40,000 visitors each year. Two of the special exhibits include a glass-encased mounted statue of George Washington which was carved from an Idaho Ponderosa Pine. The gilt statue took four years to complete and was done by the light of a pitch pine torch at night. It was presented to the state in January of 1869. Also of note is the marble Winged Victory of Samothrace statue donated by the City of Paris, France in 1949.

Courage is, on all hands, considered as an essential of high character.—Jas. Anthony Froude.

SPEED KILLS!

Expressing concern over the record number of traffic fatalities in Idaho this year, State Police Supt. L. Clark Hand says speeding was a contributing factor in a large number of fatal vehicle accidents.

"Our state troopers," he said, "are maintaining a maximum enforcement effort in an attempt to curb the highway slaughter in Idaho."

According to ISP records, more than one-third of the fatal accidents reported so far this year are attributable to one violation—speed.

"Along with the willfully dangerous drivers, of whom we have an abundance, we also have a vast number of drivers who apparently just don't know how to judge a safe speed," Supt. Hand said.

"The vehicle operator who chooses to drive without regard for his own safety or that of others will become either a statistic or a court case. There is hope, however, for the driver who wants to drive safely but never has acquired the necessary judgment," Hand added.

The superintendent suggests the following as aids to driver judgment:

Drive at a speed that will enable you to stop in the assured clear distance ahead.

Slow down before you get to curves and intersections.

At night, drive at the speed which will let you stop within your headlight range.

Drive with traffic. You probably are driving too fast if you are passing many cars—too slow if many are passing you.

Where children are apt to be playing, be able to stop in a car length or less. When you're tired or inattentive, stop.

Treatment Restore Quality Fishing

Chemical treatment two years ago to rid the waters of Island Park Reservoir of rough fish species resulted in the restoration of quality trout fishing in the popular resort area some 30 miles north of Ashton near Yellowstone Park. Comparative creel census statistics now rate Island Park Reservoir "the same quality fishery it was 15 or 20 years in terms of fish size and catch, and percentage of nonresidents."

Creel census estimates for the period running through September, 1967, are 31,585 fishermen, 8,881 nonresidents, 164,194 hours, and 94,579 fish. The catch was 75 percent rainbow trout, 20 percent coho salmon, and 4 percent brook trout. The average catch per hour was 0.59.

1969 Fishing Regulations Soon
The Idaho Fish and Game Commission will meet in Boise, beginning October 23, to establish fishing season dates, creel limits and other regulation details for 1969. As usual, a public hearing will be held the afternoon of the first day. New regulations do not go into effect until January 1, 1969.

The 1963 regulations will be in force through December 31, 1968. General trout season ends October 31, but year-round fishing waters and special seasons are found in all regions of the state.

Cove Lake Planned

A new trout fishery will be created on the C. J. Strike Wildlife Management Area this winter when an earth-filled dam is built across the Cove Arm of the reservoir near Crane Falls Lake. The new lake will have 76 surface acres of water, compared to 80 acres of water at Crane Falls. It will be chemically treated to rid water of trash fish, then restocked next spring and reopened to fishing. Cove Arm Lake already is linked by road to Crane Falls, and by another road to Highway 51. Both access roads will be remodeled this winter.

PENALTIES STIFF FOR CONTINUED LAW VIOLATIONS

W. A. Camper, local Justice of the Peace points out that laws for continued violations of load, height and similar laws are very severe—and from the Idaho Vehicle Laws of 1961, page 140. Section 49-909 quotes: "Penalties for violations—It shall be unlawful and constitute a misdemeanor for any person to violate any of the provisions of this chapter, and any person convicted of such violation shall be subject to punishment by a fine not to exceed $100.00 or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than 30 days and to the cancellation of registration of each motor vehicle operated in violation of any order for the regulation or suspension of traffic issued under the authority of this chapter, and the cancellation of the license of the operator."

Further, Mr. Campbell says that he believes most drivers are not aware of the new violation point count for traffic violations, and he quotes as follows:

Backing without reasonable safety, 1; driving on wrong side of road, 3; flashing red light (failure to stop), 3; following too closely, 3; failure to obey police traffic order, 2 one-way island (failure to obey the markings), 2; passing on wrong side, 3; passing without sufficient clearance, 3; passing on hill crest, 3; passing at intersection or grade crossing, 3; passing with view obstructed, 3; passing violation of white line, 4; failure to yield right of way at an intersection, 3; failure to yield right of way on left turn, 3; failure to yield right of way from private road, 2; failure to yield right of way to an emergency vehicle, 3; failure to yield right of way to pedestrian, 3; right of way failure to use due caution for pedestrian, 3; failure to stop at railroad crossing by school bus, bus or gas truck, 2, and failure to stop for a school bus, 4.

In the line of "variable point violations are: Failure to signal, 3 to 4; speeding, 3 to 4; failure to reduce speed for curve or hillcrest, 3 to 4; violation of posted bridge speed, 3 to 4; failure to obey local posted speed zone, 3 to 4; failure to stop at stop sign, 3 to 4; failure to stop when coming from alley, 3; pulling out from curb without being safe, 2; failure to obey traffic light, 3; turning right from wrong lane, 3; turning left from wrong lane, 3; turning without 500 feet visibility, 3; failure to yield when being passed, 3; failure to yield when entering through highway, 3.

He recommends that all study the law and obey it.
He added that the law says: Departmental action indicated by accumulated violation points—Total of 6, first letter addressed to licensee; total of eight, personal interview or examination; total of 12 or more, license suspension.

ASC COUNTY COMMITTEE ELECTION CONVENTION SET

The county convention where farmer-chosen delegates will elect farmers to fill vacancies on the Latah County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee will be held on October 4, 1968 at 10:00 a. m. at the Latah County Courthouse, Moscow, according to Elvin Lindsay, chairman, of ASC County Committee.

The convention will be open to the public, and any person interested in observing the voting procedure may attend. However, only farmer-delegates to the convention may participate in the election process. Election is by secret ballot.

County committeemen are elected for 3-year staggered terms, and the service of each county committeemen is limited to three consecutive terms. Each year the convention also elects a first and a second alternate committeeman, each for a 1-year term.

After the county committeemen are elected, the delegates vote again to determine which of the regular committeemen will serve as chairman and vice-chairman for the coming year. These positions are redetermined annually.

The delegates to the county convention and the communities they represent are: Farmington; Earl Falmer, L. W. Johnson, Harold Fisher, Kennedy Ford; Lawrence Curtis, Gary Nygard, Jerry Rohn. Deary: James Bower, Alvin Sundstrom, Homer Ailor. Troy: Stanley Hilliard, Bert R. Nelson, Clarence Smith. Cornwall: Hjalmer Olson, Raymond Jensen, Andrew Schumaker.

Moscow Sherman Clyde, Ray Gormsen, Fred Nelson. Genesee: John Stout, Eugene Wodruff, Dale Iverson. Kendrick: Wayne Davis, Jack Parsley, Harley V. Perryman.

ASC county and community committeemen are in charge of the local administration of such farm-action programs as the Agricultural Conservation Program, the Cropland Adjustment Program, the feed grain program, the wheat program, acreage allotments, the national wool program, the sugar program, commodity price-support loans, and storage facility loans.

A qualified candidate for service on the ASC county committee, the Chairman explained, is one who is a resident eligible to vote in one of the community elections in the county, and who meets other eligibility requirements.

Eligibility to vote or hold office as a committeeman is not restricted by reason of sex, race, color, religion, or national origin. Other details as to qualifications of candidates are available at the ASCS County Office.

Any questions on eligibility to hold office as an ASC county committeeman will be decided by the incumbent county committee subject to appeal to the State Committee; the convention would proceed, however, on the basis of the county committee decision.

AUTUMN LEAVES

When autumn leaves return they find we shaken,
Grieving for summer's glory past and gone;
Leaving within my empty heart forsaken
A vacancy that lingers on and on.

And yet I know this autumn tide
Will drift away like swallows on the wing;
When AUTUMN LEAVES have helped me re-envision
The lengthening days that tide me on Til SPRING.

Ammunition Shoots Idaho's Economy to the Top

In Lewiston, Idaho's only seaport, two ammunition firms have found excellent markets for their products. In the bullet, handbook, and ammunition business for 25 years, the Speer, Inc. Company specializes in 72 types of sporting and target bullets used by reloaders all over the world. The firm also publishes a manual for the loaders.

Having a mailing list encompassing the North American continent, millions of the pistol bullets are used by police department training programs.

Under the leadership of Raymond G. Speer, the present manager, the firm employs 40 people and imports and distributes rifle ammunition from Europe.

In January, 1967, Cascade Cartridge, Inc., was acquired by Omark Industries, Inc. of Portland, Oregon, and now operates as the sporting arms and ammunition division of the Oregon-owned firm.

The company's 235 employees help produce a full line of .22 calibre power loads and primers for use in all types of center fire pistol, rim fire, rifle, and shot gun ammunition.

Distribution includes the United States and Canada, and other foreign markets. The firm has been operating since 1952 and is presently under the management of Harley E. Steiner.

Get Ready For The Snow!

What a way to plan to enjoy the winter snowfalls!
H. L. Wiese, while everyone is thinking of autumn hunting and fishing, is thinking ahead as he is the present manager of the Wiese Snow Plane Shop in Swan Valley. The firm has been in operation for 25 years with only two employees. Together they specialize in the manufacturing of snow planes or wind driven snow sleds for sport and other activities on snow or ice.

They also do fibreglass and welding work on snowplane and snowsled skis, water skis, and aircraft construction. Serving as the skidoo dealer for the local area, the firm also distributes to the northwestern states and Alaska.

The specially designed snowplanes are built with aircraft tubing, mounted on 3 skis, and powered by airplane motors and propellers. The crafts may be of a cabin-type or open-air depending on the customers' specifications. The planes can hold up to 4 passengers and may easily exceed speeds of 75 miles per hour.
