Grover C. Danforth, 76, Southwick Pioneer, Dies At Walla Walla Sunday

Grover C. Danforth, 76, a rancher of the Southwick area, died on Sunday at 8:35 at the Veterans Hospital at Walla Walla. Death was caused by cancer, following a long illness. He had been at the St. Joseph's Hospital in Lewiston for some time before entering the Veterans Hospital two months ago.

Danforth came to the Southwick area in 1940. Previously he had operated a cattle and sheep ranch, and also had resided at Julietta, Cameron and Leland in this area, and also at DeSmet, Montana.

He was born on May 12, 1893, at Stevensville, Mont., to Enoch and Mattie Fry. At the age of 12, he was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Danforth of Stevensville, an uncle and aunt.

On Nov. 22, 1922, he was united in marriage to Miss Nellie M. Thornton, at Lewiston. He served with the U. S. Army during World War I.

He was a member of the Emmanuel Lutheran Church at Cameron.

He is survived by his widow, at home; a son, James G. ## Mud Slide Damages House, Car, Church Saturday Morning

A thirty-foot wide slide of earth, mud, water and trees dropped from a hillside in Kendrick Saturday morning, pouring tons of debris into the rear of the Walter Brocke property on East Main Street. The slide engulfed the Brocke's flower garden, patio, driveway, and extensively damaged their automobile. Part of the slide broke through a rear basement window and fell onto the family's washer and dryer. As a result of the slide mud and water was also forced into the basement of the Kendrick United Methodist Church next door. No personal injuries were sustained. Mrs. Brocke and a granddaughter were home when the incident occurred.

The hillside gave way under the soaking of heavy rains and tumbled down at 9:03 Saturday morning. The slide was first heard as a low, rumbling sound as it tore, fell and pushed down almost 100 feet to the Main Street, uprooting trees and bushes and a concrete retaining wall in its path. The Brocke's car was slammed from its position several feet into the side of another retaining wall in the driveway and half buried under mud and earth. Hundreds of gallons of water, apparently trapped in the hillside above, gushed out of the debris and out onto the street.

Smaller slides occurred shortly after the main portion of the "cliff" gave way, and it was from these that the water and mud entered the church, where a basement window was smashed and mud and water poured into the basement, reaching a depth of about four inches in the church kitchen. Built-ins were inundated as the water and mud poured in, and will probably have to be completely rebuilt.

Clean-up operations began before the noon hour, and continued Monday. Lloyd Farrington and Bruce May were in charge of the operation at the Brocke home. At least 12 truck loads of material was hauled from the main slide area in the Brocke's driveway.

Volunteer workers helped clear the church basement, and church services were held as usual Sunday morning in the sanctuary, which was not damaged.

Since the slide, the Brocke's have been staying at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Parks and family.

Shower Honors The Arthur Fosters

A "household" shower sponsored by the Kendrick Grange, Masons and Eastern Stars was held Sunday, Jan. 25th at the Fraternal Temple for Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Foster, who lost their home and all belongings by fire, Sunday, January 18.

Guests were entertained with music furnished by the Latah County Old Time Fiddlers, which was very much enjoyed by all.

There was also a mock wedding (to be sure the guests of honor were properly "wed-up") performed by the "traveling judge" — Gilbert Sproul of Julietta. Gifts were opened and displayed by two of the Fosters' daughters, Mrs. Clarence Alexander and Miss Dorothy Foster, and Mrs. Foster's sister, Mrs. Wm. Cuddy, assisted by Mrs. Manning Onstott.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster received many lovely and useful gifts.

Approximately 210 attended and signed the guest book.

First Buttercups Are Blooming!

The warm rains and periods of bright sunshine have apparently fooled the buttercups into thinking that winter is over and spring is here. Darel Hazelton stopped into the Gazette office last Thursday morning and had a small can full of newly-bloomed buttercups he had found out on Texas ridge. He said he just happened to spot them as he was driving back into town.

Streets, Parking, Community Day Topics At Civic Association Meeting

Six members of the Latah County Technical Action panel were present at the January meeting of the Genesee Civic Association to tell a few of the services available to rural communities, groups and individuals through cooperative government agencies. Over 50 members of the Genesee group met Thursday night at Carter's.

Millard Swales, Moscow, chairman of the County Technical Action panel briefly outlined how this recently created panel hopes to benefit groups throughout the county by offering advice, planning and financial aid information.

Street Paving Discussed

Prior to the program the association had heard street commissioner John Myers, Jr., ask if the city property owners present were interested in forming a local improvement district whose goals would be the complete paving of the 6.7 miles of streets in Genesee. Most of the property owners present were favorably inclined toward this. Further cost information will be obtained by the city if interest warrants.

After the Association voted to again sponsor the annual Community Day Celebration, president Leonard Singhose named John Luedke and E. A. Morken as co-chairmen of the 1970 event. Louis Herman and Mrs. Mercedes Roach will also serve on the general committee.

Following a discussion of parking on Main Street the Association voted by a 2 to 1 margin to oppose the present parallel parking and seek a return to diagonal parking on the Main Street. A letter will be written to the council informing them of this consensus vote.

D. F. Scharnhorst, mayor of Genesee and chairman of the 1970 Latah County Snowmobile Derby set for Sunday, February 1 in Genesee, said most preliminary plans had been completed and all that was needed now was 5 to 6 inches of snow. An alternate site elsewhere in the county may have to be used if no snow falls in Genesee.

Needs Greatly Surpass Available Funds For Idaho Highway Programs

A look down the Nation's highways through the next decade shows them crowded with more than 130 million motor vehicles travelling 1.3 trillion miles a year, an increase of 1/4 in both vehicles and travel in just 10 years. This trend is also evident in Idaho.

The Idaho Board of Highway Director's recently announced 1970 highway construction program outlines an ambitious schedule of highway improvements throughout the State. Unfortunately, many sections of highway needing improvement are not included in the 1970 program. The reason is very simple and basic — money!

The 1970 Idaho program estimates that projects could be scheduled for expenditures of about 30 million dollars on the Interstate Highway System and about 14 million dollars for improvements on the Primary, Secondary and Urban road systems if the normal Congressional authorization of Federal Aid highway-user funds and the expected yield of State highway-user funds are sustained during 1970.

The current emphasis on Interstate highway construction in Idaho results from the provisions of Federal law earmarking over 2/3 of the entire Federal Aid Highway program for Interstate work.

Idaho's Highway Board looks to the time, during the mid 1970's, when a much larger portion of the highway program can be directed to improving important Primary and Secondary routes in rural as well as urban areas.

Advocates who suggest diverting State highway user funds to non-highway programs are apparently unaware of the dramatic need for accelerated highway improvement. These funds are dedicated constitutionally and cannot be used for any other purpose except for the public highways of Idaho.

Many critical highway needs are evidenced in our everyday driving. A study made by the Highway Department in 1967 shows that to achieve the desired level-of-service for all State, County and City systems in Idaho would involve the construction or re-construction of 12,990 miles at a cost of some 875 million dollars. Inflation, spiraling wages and increased building costs in the intervening years have undoubtedly increased the 1967 estimate.

Vitally needed improvements on the Primary, Secondary and Urban systems in Idaho are, however, being made as funds become available. Highway Department planners are well aware of the narrow bridges and roadways; curves that cost money to be eliminated; increasing traffic congestion in our cities and the fact that many of our highways were built in the late 1920's and early 1930's.

The Department is in complete agreement with highway user groups throughout the State that improvements are needed in almost every County. Without adequate funding for highway improvements, present dollars must be stretched as far as they will go to meet only the very basic project needs that can be programmed annually.

Some examples of much needed work in Central Idaho include:

A section of U.S. 95 South of Riggin's needs about seven miles of improvements costing almost 3 million dollars.

Another 3.5 million dollars is needed for construction on White Bird South to Slate Creek on U.S. 95. More U.S. 95 improvements in the

Mrs. Cora Simons, 96, Mother of Carl Simons, Passes January 17

Funeral services for Cora Lee Simons, 96, a resident of Corvallis for 57 years and a life-long member of the Methodist Church, were held on Wednesday, January 21 at 1:30 p. m. at First United Methodist Church with the Rev. William O. Walker officiating. Interment followed in the IOOF Cemetery, north of town. Mrs. Simons died at Good Samaritan Hospital Saturday evening following a brief illness.

The daughter of Adelia Antonette Petty and Fleming Saunders Doughton, a Methodist minister, she was born October 22, 1873, near Sparra, N. C. She lived there for 10 years before she came to Oregon with her parents by emigrant train and settled near Albany. She was married to Louis Allen Simons in 1899 near Lebanon in the Spicer community where the couple lived until 1923 when they came to Corvallis where she had since lived. Simons preceded her in death in 1935.

Mrs. Simons was active in the First Methodist Church for many years. She was also a member of the Oregon Historical Society.

Survivors include five sons, Glen of Lebanon; Avery of Newport Beach, Calif.; Carl of Genesee, Idaho; Harold of Phoenix, and Victor of Portland; two daughters, Mrs. Adelia Ervin and Miss Floraine Simons of Corvallis; 12 grandchildren and 20 great grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Simons returned Thursday night from Corvallis, Oregon where they were called by the death of his mother, Mrs. Cora Simons.

Eleven in County Given Job-Finding Help

Eleven Latah County job seekers were helped in finding employment during the past week through the Moscow Office of the Idaho Department of Employment. Frank J. Hartstein, Moscow Office Manager said that this represents somewhat of a comeback, in that only four persons were placed on jobs during the previous week, and six during the week before that. During the corresponding week a year ago 23 persons were given job finding help. At the end of the week there were 21 jobs still open.

Thirty-three workers filed new claims for unemployment insurance during the past week, as construction and some woods jobs were curtailed. Some of those filing new claims were workers who had come in from other areas, and some were students who were dropping out of school at the end of the first semester. The total number of jobless pay seekers rose from 237 last week to 258. This compared with 281 a year ago. Most of the 12 persons who closed their claims had returned to work during the past week or two.

White Bird area include 4-1/2 million dollars needed for completing the Hill Route; the structure over White Bird Creek and the connection to the community of White Bird.

Further North - 7-1/2 million dollars is required for 21 miles of construction, including the Lawyers Canyon section, between Cottonwood and Craigmont.

An Urban Transportation Study, in cooperation with the City of Lewiston, shows needs of over 7 million dollars in addition to a problem of providing navigational clearance on the Clearwater and Snake River.

Depending on the final location, between 7 and 10 million dollars is needed to improve the winding Lewiston Hill route. Over 2500 cars and trucks are using this roadway daily. New construction would result in considerable time and distance savings.

U.S. 12 has a very fatal accident rate partly as a result of being a river route with a rock face next to the highway. The 31 miles of improvements from the proposed Arrow Bridge to Kooskia would cost about 17 million dollars.

Other areas needing work include the relocation of State Highway 64 between Nez Perce and Kamiah at an estimated cost of 3 million dollars.

Another 8 million dollars is needed for 27 miles of construction from Elk City to State Highway 14. State Highway 11, Southeast of Orofino carries over 900 cars daily over Greer Grade and needs updating badly.

Over 7 million dollars worth of work is also needed on the North-South route from Moscow to the Benewah County Line on U.S. 95.

It should be noted that the cost of needed improvements on the Secondary System in Central Idaho alone exceeds the entire 14 million dollars programmed for all Primary, Secondary and Urban statewide construction in 1970.

The Board of Highway Directors is optimistic that when the Interstate era ends an equitable highway program can be developed to channel the necessary funds that have been utilized on the Interstate Highway System into improving the Nation's Secondary, Primary and Urban Systems.

Sen. Jennings Randolph (W-Va-D), Chairman of the Senate Public Works Committee and a key figure in setting the Nation's highway policy, is among the strongest advocates of prompt action to chart a new highway program so that it will be ready for the post-interstate era.

"It is imperative that we move ahead on planning," he says. "The basic decisions should be made within the next year."

Meanwhile, Congress must deal with pressing financial problems facing the Interstate program as a result of fund holdbacks, inflation and mileage added to the basic system.

A 1968 law raised the Interstate System mileage from 41,000 to 42,600. The completion date has slipped some five years and the cost has doubled nationwide since the inception of the Interstate Highway Program in 1956.

APOLLO CREW'S NAMES FOR CRATERS MAY BE CHANGED SOME of the intricacies of formalizing new names of craters and other features on the moon are reported by the U.S. Geological Survey. Names given to craters on the far lunar side by astronauts during Apollo missions have been "informal" and just temporary "working" names useful in an internal sense, but not representing formal proposals for names. The procedures for adoption of names for lunar features are rather complex and are still undergoing study in order to make them acceptable to international scientific communities. The key organization involved in the adoption of new names for features on the moon is the International Astronomical Union.

Salesmen for Idaho

During the past two years more than 100 representatives of the Union Pacific have visited Idaho to learn firsthand about the railroad's operations and also to get to know Idaho.

These very knowledgeable men are often in advantageous positions to recommend Idaho as the site for building or relocating a plant or setting up a distribution center.

Idaho, as a Freeport state, with relatively inexpensive industrial land, natural resources, water, power, and manpower, along with excellent transportation service and wonderful living conditions and recreation, has much to offer new industry.

It is important to get this information to the right people at the right time. Union Pacific's representatives are constantly on the outlook to tell the Idaho story to the right people.

This is just one of the ways that Union Pacific serves as a good industrial citizen and endeavors constantly to help build the economy of Idaho.

Needs Greatly Surpass Available Funds For Idaho Highway Programs

A look down the Nation's highways through the next decade shows them crowded with more than 130 million motor vehicles travelling 1.3 trillion miles a year, an increase of 1/4 in both vehicles and travel in just 10 years. This trend is also evident in Idaho.

The Idaho Board of Highway Director's recently announced 1970 highway construction program outlines an ambitious schedule of highway improvements throughout the State. Unfortunately, many sections of highway needing improvement are not included in the 1970 program. The reason is very simple and basic — money!

The 1970 Idaho program estimates that projects could be scheduled for expenditures of about 30 million dollars on the Interstate Highway System and about 14 million dollars for improvements on the Primary, Secondary and Urban road systems if the normal Congressional authorization of Federal Aid highway-user funds and the expected yield of State highway-user funds are sustained during 1970.

The current emphasis on Interstate highway construction in Idaho results from the provisions of Federal law earmarking over 2/3 of the entire Federal Aid Highway program for Interstate work.

Idaho's Highway Board looks to the time, during the mid 1970's, when a much larger portion of the highway program can be directed to improving important Primary and Secondary routes in rural as well as urban areas.

Advocates who suggest diverting State highway user funds to non-highway programs are apparently unaware of the dramatic need for accelerated highway improvement. These funds are dedicated constitutionally and cannot be used for any other purpose except for the public highways of Idaho.

Many critical highway needs are evidenced in our everyday driving. A study made by the Highway Department in 1967 shows that to achieve the desired level-of-service for all State, County and City systems in Idaho would involve the construction or re-construction of 12,990 miles at a cost of some 875 million dollars. Inflation, spiraling wages and increased building costs in the intervening years have undoubtedly increased the 1967 estimate.

Vitally needed improvements on the Primary, Secondary and Urban systems in Idaho are, however, being made as funds become available. Highway Department planners are well aware of the narrow bridges and roadways; curves that cost money to be eliminated; increasing traffic congestion in our cities and the fact that many of our highways were built in the late 1920's and early 1930's.

The Department is in complete agreement with highway user groups throughout the State that improvements are needed in almost every County. Without adequate funding for highway improvements, present dollars must be stretched as far as they will go to meet only the very basic project needs that can be programmed annually.

Some examples of much needed work in Central Idaho include:

A section of U.S. 95 South of Riggin's about seven miles of improvements costing almost 3 million dollars.

Another 3.5 million dollars is needed for construction from White Bird South to Slate Creek on U.S. 95. More U.S. 95 improvements in the

Mrs. Cora Simons, 96, Mother of Carl Simons, Passes January 17

Funeral services for Cora Lee Simons, 96, a resident of Corvallis for 57 years and a life-long member of the Methodist Church, were held on Wednesday, January 21 at 1:30 p. m. at First United Methodist Church with the Rev. William O. Walker officiating. Interment followed in the IOOF Cemetery, north of town. Mrs. Simons died at Good Samaritan Hospital Saturday evening following a brief illness.

The daughter of Adelia Antonette Petty and Fleming Saunders Doughton, a Methodist minister, she was born October 22, 1873, near Sparta, N. C. She lived there for 10 years before she came to Oregon with her parents by emigrant train and settled near Albany. She was married to Louis Allen Simons in 1899 near Lebanon in the Spicer community where the couple lived until 1923 when they came to Corvallis where she had since lived. Simons preceded her in death in 1935.

Mrs. Simons was active in the First Methodist Church for many years. She was also a member of the Oregon Historical Society.

Survivors include five sons, Glen of Lebanon; Avery of Newport Beach, Calif.; Carl of Genesee, Idaho; Harold of Phoenix, and Victor of Portland; two daughters, Mrs. Adelia Ervin and Miss Floraine Simons of Corvallis; 12 grandchildren and 20 great grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Simons returned Thursday night from Corvallis, Oregon where they were called by the death of his mother, Mrs. Cora Simons.

Eleven In County Given Job-Finding Help

Eleven Latah County job seekers were helped in finding employment during the past week through the Moscow Office of the Idaho Department of Employment. Frank J. Hartstein, Moscow Office Manager said that this represents somewhat of a comeback, in that only four persons were placed on jobs during the previous week, and six during the week before that. During the corresponding week a year ago 23 persons were given job finding help. At the end of the week there were 21 jobs still open.

Thirty-three workers filed new claims for unemployment insurance during the past week, as construction and some woods jobs were curtailed. Some of those filing new claims were workers who had come in from other areas, and some were students who were dropping out of school at the end of the first semester. The total number of jobless pay seekers rose from 237 last week to 258. This compared with 261 a year ago. Most of the 12 persons who closed their claims had returned to work during the past week or two.

White Bird area include 4-1/2 million dollars needed for completing the Hill Route; the structure over White Bird Creek and the connection to the community of White Bird.

Further North - 7-1/2 million dollars is required for 21 miles of construction, including the Lawyers Canyon section, between Cottonwood and Craigmont.

An Urban Transportation Study, in cooperation with the City of Lewiston, shows needs of over 7 million dollars in addition to a problem of providing navigational clearance on the Clearwater and Snake River.

Depending on the final location, between 7 and 10 million dollars is needed to improve the winding Lewiston Hill route. Over 2500 cars and trucks are using this roadway daily. New construction would result in considerable time and distance savings.

U.S. 12 has a very fatal accident rate partly as a result of being a river route with a rock face next to the highway. The 31 miles of improvements from the proposed Arrow Bridge to Kookkia would cost about 17 million dollars.

Other areas needing work include the relocation of State Highway 64 between Nez Perce and Kamiah at an estimated cost of 3 million dollars.

Another 8 million dollars is needed for 27 miles of construction from Elk City to State Highway 14. State Highway 11, Southeast of Orofino carries over 900 cars daily over Greer Grade and needs updating badly.

Over 7 million dollars worth of work is also needed on the North-South route from Moscow to the Benewah County Line on U.S. 95.

It should be noted that the cost of needed improvements on the Secondary System in Central Idaho alone exceeds the entire 14 million dollars programmed for all Primary, Secondary and Urban statewide construction in 1970.

The Board of Highway Directors is optimistic that when the Interstate era ends an equitable highway program can be developed to channel the necessary funds that have been utilized on the Interstate Highway System into improving the Nation's Secondary, Primary and Urban Systems.

Sen. Jennings Randolph (W.Va-D), Chairman of the Senate Public Works Committee and a key figure in setting the Nation's highway policy, is among the strongest advocates of prompt action to chart a new highway program so that it will be ready for the post-Interstate era.

"It is imperative that we move ahead on planning," he says. "The basic decisions should be made within the next year."

Meanwhile, Congress must deal with pressing financial problems facing the Interstate program as a result of fund holdbacks, inflation and mileage added to the basic system.

A 1968 law raised the Interstate System mileage from 41,000 to 42,500. The completion date has slipped some five years and the cost has doubled nationwide since the inception of the Interstate Highway Program in 1956.

Legislative Report From Rep. Brocke

The second week of the Legislature was more or less routine, most of the work being done by the several committees of the Legislature. The most startling news was the Supreme Court decisions on General Obligation Bonds, and the student fees that are charged by nearly all school districts. The Court ruled that the present bonding law was constitutional, and the qualifications of a voter being a property owner were legal. The decision has no bearing on the sale of bonds and it may be that it will be the desire of the Legislature that the Endowment Fund purchase all bonds offered at a reasonable rate of interest.

The school fee problem is more serious than the school bonding, as the loss of these funds will hamper, in most cases the school's financial operation. The only answer that appears now is for the State to replace this money from the General Fund. This will be hard to do, as many legislators feel that this is a local problem and should be taken care of on a local basis. In regards to the Court's decision, I personally feel that it is a just decision, I also believe that many schools got way out of line in charging student fees. This is why the case was put before the courts.

School legislation is now being discussed by the Education Committee. There is a bill to have trustees elected on a district-wide basis. A candidate would be nominated from his zone, then voted on by the entire district.

Another bill would raise the present emergency levy from 3 to 5 mills. There is a bill setting up a student fund to encourage students to go into the field of education to provide more teachers. The fund would advance $500.00 per year, and after graduation the student would have 5 years to repay the loan.

Other items being discussed include revision of the present school formula. These are only minor changes and will have little bearing on the present formula.

School consolidation is being discussed, with a plan being offered to set up a commission to deal with this problem.

A subcommittee was appointed to study the problem of transporting children going to a private or parochial school. This year we have 7180 children enrolled in private and parochial schools.

In some cases these schools are having financial troubles, and if by allowing these pupils to ride the buses we could continue their operation, the State would not have to absorb this enrollment in our public school system.

This coming week we will hold hearings on the Fish and Game Commission, the Water Resource Board and Bureau of Reclamation.

GENESEE EDGES KENDRICK 51-44

The Kendrick Tigers, with just one league victory this season, forced the league-leading Genesee Bulldogs to play catch-up ball, as the GHS team came from behind in the third quarter before going on to a 51-44 victory on the Tiger court last Tuesday night.

The Tigers boomed out to an 8-0 lead in the first minutes of the game and kept in front of the taller Bulldogs all through the first half. The Kendrick squad was leading 23-19 at intermission.

Genesee's strength, height and reserves started to tell in the third quarter and the Bulldogs pulled up even and then went ahead 34-33 at the end of that period. Genesee kept the pressure on the tiring Tigers in the final frame to post their 10th victory in 12 starts this season.

Fred Morscheck was the key man for the Bulldogs as he scored 19 points to lead both teams. Mike Eglund and Dale Hickman each had 8 points.

Don Parks paced the Tiger attack with 15 points, and Nels Sveve added 12 more.

In the preliminary game Genesee rolled to a 61-31 victory.

Mike Eglund's 24 points paced all scorers with Nick Eglund getting 12; Fred Morscheck 11, and Bruce Scharnhorst 10.

Genesee took the B game 62-50.

Increase Due In
Social Security Payment

Latah County residents will automatically receive about a $36,000 monthly increase in social security payments, according to D. Gene Shaw District Manager in Lewiston. The increase is due to the law signed by President M. Nixon December 30, 1969. No application for the increase will be required.

Increase amounting to 15 per cent for the 2,777 social security beneficiaries residing in Latah County will be reflected in the first check received April 3, 1970. This check represents payment for the month of March 1970. An additional check delivered during April will include the increase for the months of January and February.

Benefits for a single retired worker averaged $100 per month prior to the increase. This will be increased to $115 per month for the retired worker under the new law.

Monthly social security payments for a widow and two or more children will increase from $254 to $292.

The family of a disabled person with a wife and children will have the social security benefits increased from $237 to $273 a month.

Benefits for a man and wife reaching age 65 in 1969 amounted to $240.80 a month. Beginning in 1970, this will be increased to $277 monthly social security benefits.

About 1 out of every 8 Americans are receiving monthly social security checks. Refiguring the amount of benefits for the 25 million men, women and children is a huge task and required 3 months to complete, according to D. Gene Shaw.

Resident - Nonresident
Game Arrests Near Same

The ratio of nonresident license revocations in Idaho is about the same percentage as the number of out-of-staters is to resident fishermen and hunters, the Idaho Fish and Game Department disclosed today.

The current list of persons who have had Idaho hunting and/or fishing privileges revoked and are hereby denied the right to purchase a license to hunt or fish in the state for specified periods contains 95 names. Ten of them are nonresidents, according to Hawley Hill, chief of conservation enforcement. Three of them violated fishing laws and regulations, while seven violated hunting regulations.

"The percentage of nonresidents to residents who have had their licenses revoked is 11.7 percent," he pointed out. "That is about the average ratio of nonresident fishermen and hunters to residents the past few years."

While last year's data is not yet available, figures for 1968 show that one out of every seven persons arrested was a nonresident. Washington and California hunters and fishermen led the list, with Utah a close third. Making up the miscellaneous group of 1968 arrests if nonresidents were 1 to 4 people from each of 20 additional states.

In other words, it would appear that nonresidents as a group do not violate fishing and hunting regulations any more frequently than resident hunters and fishermen. Hill says more and more violations, he says in court result in license revocations. The 85 names on the list at the end of 1969 represent several times as many people whose fishing and hunting rights had been revoked than appeared several years ago.

MEN AND WOMEN once may have used natural body odors instead of perfume and after-shave lotions to attract mates, according to a biochemist at the University of Chicago. He bases his hypothesis on the fact that body odors of insects and animals often communicate sexual attraction as well as alarm or the discovery of food. "Olfactory communication is probably one of the oldest and, in some cases, the most efficient means of communication employed by animals. Among humans, this form of communication may have existed but was dulled by the evolution of verbal language and civilization," he said.

Open Winter Is Aiding Idaho Wildlife Reports Fish and Game Department

this could be one time when most wintering areas get a break and the animals come through in good shape.

Generally, regional game managers and project biologists say that so far, this has been an open winter in all parts of the state, without real snow problems and only short periods of low temperatures. Drainages south of the Snake River are well above normal for the snow fall at this time of year, but the remainder of the state to the north has a high snow pack, according to the January water supply outlook reports based on federal, state and private cooperative snow surveys. The moderate to light winter weather has been of great benefit to elk and deer and other game.

Rains came last week, even to the South Fork of the Boise River, where elk trapping operations were scheduled to start. As a result of a heavy snow pack and sub-zero temperatures the elk had moved into the trap site area. Successful big game trapping depends on enough snow and cold to concentrate animals near traps, whether on the South Fork of the Boise River or elsewhere in the state, according to Ralph Pehrson, game management supervisor. The South Fork project is under the supervision of Dale Turnipseed, regional game manager, Jerome.

Trend surveys likewise depend on snow cover to group the animals and make counting possible. What kind of a finish this winter will have is anybody's guess. But deep snows or not, some deer and elk will die and be listed as winter kills.

Forage on the steep rocky canyon walls and narrow floor of Hells Canyon range, for example, is mostly bunch grass. Aliens Must Register

Immigration officials are well pleased with the response of aliens in this state to Address Report requirements.

Mr. Hoffeller, District Director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, stated that although the program has been underway less than two weeks, the number reporting thus far is well ahead of the number reporting during the same period last year.

Aliens have until the end of January to submit their address reports to the government. Forms for the purpose may be obtained at any post office or any office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

All aliens, with few exceptions, are required to report. Those excused from this requirement include diplomats and persons accredited to certain international organizations.

Aliens who are minors must also report, but the parent or legal guardian should submit the report for an alien child under fourteen years of age.

weeds are left for thousands of wintering deer—and sheep—in the sheltered canyon.

Deer can make out for a short time on just green grass. It is high in protein, which they must have. But dry mature grass alone does not give them even a bare subsistence diet, whether in Hells Canyon, the Middle Fork of the Salmon River, the South Fork of the Payette River, Juniper Mountain or elsewhere.

Deer can live just so long on just one kind of food, even choice bitterbrush. They get by in fair to good shape when the mahogany, grass or bitterbrush is mixed with one or more other feeds, such as sagebrush.

The point is that all animals lose weight during winter months, even on good range and when the weather is moderate. Next to fawns, the highest winter die-offs occur among bucks. Here the reason seems to be that they have spent most of their energies during the rut. Mating season also causes bucks to lose interest in eating and their weight goes down.

All animals lose weight during the cold months, even on good range, because more energy is burned to replace greater body heat loss. Some animal losses occur every winter no matter how moderate the weather may be, with the greatest die-offs among the fawns and the bucks that have passed their prime of life.

In some areas, substantial deer losses occur every winter because both summer and winter range conditions are poor. One of these is the Juniper Mountain area (unit 42) of Owyhee County.

One big point in game management is that old plant and shrub growth found on winter range that was not produced last summer is high in cellulose. This kind of feed takes more energy to digest than it gives the deer in return.

Here is the root of a common misunderstanding. It is not true that green grass, weeds and new shoots kill deer in the early spring as the snows beat a reluctant retreat up the hillsides. Animal losses do occur on lush wild spring grass range. But more deer die if the winter has been long and cruel than if it was short and mild.

The big thing is that animal malnutrition is worse following a severe winter. Deer are so weakened from lack of the right kinds of feed, and from parasites and disease, that they cannot recover their strength no matter how much the range conditions improve.

Big game animals have as much as ten times the number of square miles of summer range as they do of winter range. This does not bring a stress situation every winter. Five or six years if nice open winters, like the present one has been so far, generally result in gradual increase in the fall, more hunting opportunity, and everybody is happy.

Then along comes a hard winter once more. Usually, bad winters with deep snows and bitter cold occur every 10 or 15 years. There is not enough food and cover to go around, and a more than average winter die-off can be expected.

Bronate: It's a simple matter of life and death.

Wheat should live.
 Weeds should die.

And that's the way it would be if most companies didn't have such a difficult time making a weed killer that leaves the wheat alone.

A New Kind of Weedkiller.

The first thing we did was start out with a whole new concept.

Instead of worrying so much about killing the weeds (that would come, we knew) we worried about the wheat.

Always the wheat.

After years of experimenting and hundreds of tests we finally were satisfied that we had a general weed killer for which wheat had an unusually high tolerance. A herbicide that also took care of the important broadleaf weeds that keep popping up with your wheat.

But that wasn't where we stopped.

Because then we took special aim at the 6 specific weeds that drive wheat farmers here in the Northwest crazy.

First, we took care of Tarweed. Then Gromwell and Purple Mustard. Then—always making sure that high crop tolerance was there—we conquered Henbit and Dogfennel, and even Crowfoot.

Then, and only then, were we satisfied.

Because after years of working we finally had a weed killer that not only kills the broadest range of weeds, but also gives you a much higher bushel yield per acre than you've ever had before.

Used in Real Life.

Bronate is way beyond the test stage. Bronate has been on the market now for four years. It is actually being used by hundreds of your neighboring farmers with great success.

Because with Bronate the wheat lives. And the weeds die. And that's the way it was meant to be.

Fish and Game Fees Haven't Increased

Some confusion resulted from the printing of last week's news release from the Fish and Game Department concerning fishing and hunting licenses, reported Jerry Gifford, local conservation officer. There has been no increase in resident hunting or fishing licenses and steelhead permit. The price mentioned in the article referred to non-resident fees. Non-residents now must purchase a yearly license to be eligible for the steelhead permit.

Gifford, who is back in the Kendrick area for the winter months, is now living up on Texas Ridge, and his phone number is 289-4629.

He said there have also been reports of dogs running deer in the area. He stated he is embodied with authority to dispose of any dog pursuing deer or elk. He added that it is also a misdemeanor for the owners of dogs knowingly or otherwise, to allow these animals to run deer.

Lettered on the back of a school bus: "Approach with care—driver under the influence of children."
