Ricky Renfrow Wins Eagle Scout Award

Sunday, Feb. 8th Ricky Renfrow was presented the Eagle Scout Award at the annual Latah District Scout Banquet. At the same time Ronny Renfrow was presented his Star Rank Award, and Kevin Renfrow his Second Class Award. All are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Renfrow, Little Bear Ridge.

Wildlife Club Asks River Pollution Control

The Kendrick Wildlife Club, at its Thursday evening, Feb. 19th meeting, asked that the J. R. Simplot clay plant at Bovill either control its pollution of Potlatch Creek, or action should be taken by the State Health department.

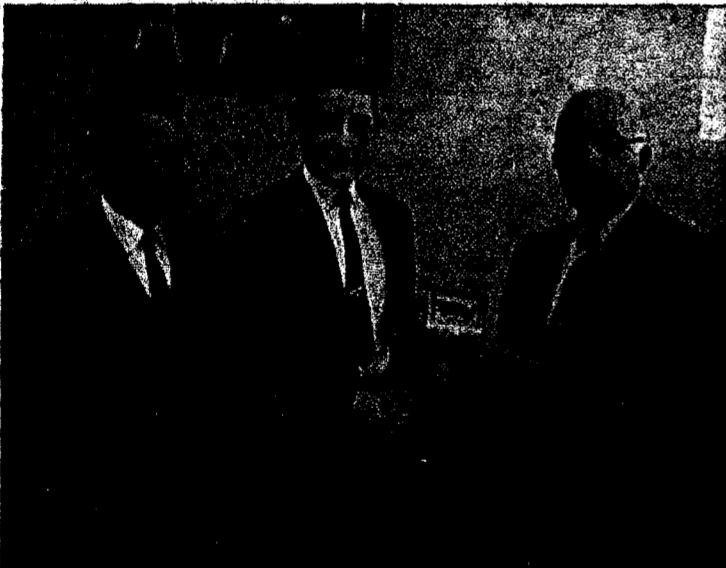

Letters have been written to Arthur W. Van't Hill, State Health Dept. engineer at Lewiston, and to the State Health Dept. at Boise, asking that action be taken.

The public health engineer at Lewiston inspected the creek in late December. A sample was taken, and it was found the water contained 86 parts per million of zinc, and the maximum that fish can stand is 10 parts. They also found the water contained a large amount of acid.

The Club also voted to ask that the proposed height of Lower Granite Dam be reduced from 100 feet to 70 feet. It will ask for a re-hearing on the project.

A collection to start a wild turkey project in the Kendrick area was taken. The turkeys will cost about $12.00 each. Approximately 50 attended the meeting at the Kendrick Fire Hall.

Tom Kinzer Wins Bank Foundation Award

Tom Kinzer, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Kinzer of Genesee, is the winner of the First Security Bank Foundation award for 4-H work in 1969. The award is based on projects and activities in 4-H.

Tom also participated in many activities in his 4-H Club, the Genesee Livestock Club. He has 35 purebred sheep of his own. He is a member of the Genesee F. F. A. chapter.

Old Warehouse Burned

One of the old "East End" warehouses of Brocke & Sons, Inc., Seedmen, has been going up in smoke for the past week. The old building, once a part of the old Lewiston Grain Growers operations, was no longer serviceable, and so was demolished by a tractor, pushed over to the edge of the Potlatch River dike, and set afire.

It will be replaced by a new and modern structure for use in the Brocke & Sons operations.

Chilberg-Reid Nuptials

Miss Darlene Chilberg and Eddie Reid were united in marriage at Coeur d'Alene on Monday, Feb. 16th. She is the daughter of Robert Chilberg of Cedar Ridge.

The young people will make their home at Elk River when logging operations begin again.

Firemen's Card Party

The Kendrick Volunteer Firemen held a pinochle card party at the Fire Hall for members and their wives on Wednesday evening of last week.

During play Mrs. Darrell Brocke twice held "1,000 Aces" as she went on to win high score for the women. Bud Eichner won high score for the men. Low scores went to Mrs. Roger Courtright and Bill Rogers. Mrs. Bud Eichner took home the "galloping goose."

Refreshments were served following play for some thirty who attended.

Move Into New Home

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Foster moved on Friday into their new 68-foot trailer home, which was placed at the site of their former home in east Kendrick. Their home burned several weeks ago.

Genesee Captures League Hoop Crown; Tournament Begins Wednesday

Genesee High School's Bulldog basketball team, with only one actual loss to mar their league record, will go into the District 2, Class A-3 tournament this week as the number one team. The Bulldogs, last year's 4-A state runner-up, lost only to St. Gertrude's early in the season. The other defeat was a pre-arranged win-loss trade with Highland because of scheduling difficulties. The District tournament begins Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 25, at 3:00 o'clock in Booth Hall at Lewiston.

As the top seeded team, Genesee drew the first round bye and will not play until Thursday evening at 7:00 p. m.

Teams from Genesee, Craigmont (Highland), Cottonwood (St. Gertrude's), Kamiah, Lapwai, Kendrick and Kooskia (Clearwater Valley) will compete to see which two schools advance to the state level. Tournament games will be played Feb. 25 to 28, and from March 4 to 7.

Two ties developed during the regular league competition in the 2-A play this year. St. Gertrude's and Kamiah each ended with 8 wins and 4 losses, and Kendrick and Clearwater Valley finished with identical 2-win, 10-loss records. A flip of the coin Saturday gave St. Gertrude's position number 3; Kamiah position number 4, and saved Kendrick from the cellar with a number 6 seeding.

Kendrick Plays Wednesday

The first game of the Lewiston tournament will be played Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 25, and will see St. Gertrude's go against Kendrick. That evening Highland will play Clearwater Valley at 7:00 p. m. and Kamiah will meet Lapwai immediately following.

Thursday evening the winner of the St. Gertrude's-Kendrick contest will meet Genesee at 7:00 p. m. At 9:00 p. m. the winner of the Highland-Clearwater game will meet the winner of the Kamiah-Lapwai contest in the winner's bracket.

The doors of Booth Hall in Lewiston will open one hour before each session. Admission price will be $1.25 for adults. Members of the Kendrick Boosters Club will serve as ticket takers and door keepers during this tournament.

Mild Winter Helps Big Game Animals

Boise — The same kind of weather that plagued hunters throughout Idaho during October and November now is helping big game animals and upland game birds through one of the easiest winters on record, the state Fish and Game department reports this week.

Moderate temperatures and below normal snowfall add up to the same "easy living" for elk and deer in all regions of the state. The snowline in many places is 7,000 to 7,500 feet and animals are still high and scattered on summer ranges, according to reports from regional game biologists.

Following are regional reports covering the month of January:

Panhandle — "Twelve inches of snow or less have accumulated on major winter ranges. Temperatures have been in the high 20's or warmer most of January. This all adds up to a very easy winter to date for all big game in the Panhandle." Ray M. Rogers, regional game manager, Coeur d'Alene.

Clearwater — "We are still experiencing mild winter conditions throughout the region. Some snowfall has occurred now in the upper Lochsa and North Fork areas, but it is still light. No fixed-wing aerial survey has been accomplished due to overcast weather. The South Fork of the Clearwater has also received light snowpack. Red River Ranger station has only about four inches of snow, which is very wet. Streams in this area are getting a lot of run-off presently. It is doubtful at this time if weather will ever permit a winter-type census, but perhaps a spring green-up count can be salvaged in the Salmon River breaks area." Sam McNeill, regional game manager, Lewiston.

McCall — "Winter conditions have been highly favorable for wildlife to date. Snow depth remained below normal on big game winter ranges. As a result, big game animals have been widely scattered over the upper winter range areas. For the most part temperatures also have been mild. This lack of snow and the mild temperatures have made wintering conditions very good for big game and no problems have developed. Wintering conditions also have been very favorable for game birds. Pheasant sex ratio counts have been difficult to make due to mild weather and no concentration of birds at livestock feeding areas." David Neider, regional game manager, McCall.

Western Region — "This month may well be the mildest January on record on the Western Region. All major big game winter ranges in the region are relatively free of snow with snow elevation near the 4,500-foot level. There has been no snow on the valley floor and the game birds are widely scattered. In fact, sex ratio counts were extended through February in order to obtain a sample size. All birds and animals are doing well as of January 31." Dick Norrell, regional game manager, Boise.

Magic Valley — "No problems with game birds in Magic Valley or on south central Idaho big game winter ranges. Critical areas at Soldier Mountain and Ketchum are well under control this winter due to the mildness of the weather." Dale Turnipseed, regional game manager, Jerome.

Salmon — "Received some additional snow, particularly in the higher elevations during the month. The critical winter range at the lower elevations and valley floors in the Salmon and Challis areas are still bare of snow. Big game are wintering high, well off the critical range areas, but are starting to drift downward as the upper snow depths increase. Field trips with snow machines find the deer moving well and scattered into areas containing over two feet of snow. Our problem this year is not enough snow to concentrate the animals, in order to obtain a field aerial census." William J. Davidson, regional game manager, Salmon.

Eastern Region — "Big game winter conditions are good throughout the region. Lower winter ranges have light snow cover. Some higher elevations for deer and elk winter ranges in Bear Lake and Caribou counties have near average snow depth. Big game are wintering in excellent condition at this date. For upland game birds, wintering conditions also are excellent with little or no snow in the areas. The mild weather caused the American Falls Reservoir to be free of ice, and the surrounding cultivated areas are also free of snow. Wintering conditions are very good." Dale R. Jensen, regional game manager, Pocatello.

Upper Snake — "Very good wintering conditions for big game animals. Snow level in western Custer county is 7,000 to 7,500 feet. Most south and west facing slopes are bare and helicopter game counts show deer are still high and scattered on summer ranges." Pete Prinz, regional conservation officer, Idaho Falls.

Hells Canyon Study

Moscow—A new U. S. Geological Survey publication, which objectively compares the uniqueness of Hells Canyon with other river sites in Idaho and the nation, was pointed out today by Dr. Roy E. Williams, associate professor of hydrogeology, University of Idaho, as a study which Idahoans should read.

According to Williams, "Most evaluations of controversial construction sites, such as Hells Canyon, are based in part on emotion and subjectivity. This study is one of the first which approaches the problem in a purely objective manner and should be very helpful to engineers and conservationists in planning for optimum utilization of Idaho's natural resources."

In the study, which was conducted by Dr. Luna Leopold, senior research hydrogeologist, Washington, D. C. 16 river sites are examined from five different standpoints including physical, biological, water quality, human use and interest factors.

Based on the data collected, the author concludes that "Hells Canyon of the Snake river is clearly unique and comparable only to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado river in valley and river characteristics. In Idaho, Hells Canyon is approximated only by the main Salmon River in its wilderness reaches."

The publication circular No. 620, is available from the U. S. Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

Savings Stamp Program Discontinued

The U. S. Savings Stamp program passes into history on June 30, 1970 but the treasury Savings Bonds Division will continue to encourage efforts to teach thrift and good citizenship in the classrooms of the schools of the nation.

As he announced the end of Savings Stamp Sales, Secretary David M. Kennedy urged youngsters to continue to save through the purchase of U. S. Savings Bonds. "There is no better way for young people to save," he said, "than buying and holding U. S. Savings Bonds."

A select committee of volunteers advocates has been planning a new curriculum approach to pupils from kindergarten through high school. The new program will be more sophisticated in content and oriented toward more in-class teaching.

In the meantime, Secretary Kennedy encourages parents and teachers to stimulate school students to complete their unfiled stamp albums and exchange them for U. S. Savings Bonds.

The Savings Bonds Division will be counting on its thousands of long-time Stamp Program volunteers to assist in getting the new educational materials into the hands of the classroom teachers.

Inspection Sticker

A new, more-identifiable vehicle inspection sticker will be issued starting in March, the Department of Law Enforcement said today.

Vehicles which pass inspection will be given a numbered sticker which identifies the month and the year the inspection was made, said Harold Davis, Boise, supervisor of the Vehicle Section.

The numbers, 1 through 12, will identify the month, with 1 indicating January, and so forth. The color of the number, which is black for 1970, will indicate the year. The color of the numbers will change annually, Davis said.

Under the new system, inspection station operators no longer will have to punch the month and year on the stickers, Davis explained.

The supervisor said overlay numbers have been issued to inspection stations so the new system can start with No. 3 in March.

When It Comes To Passing Don't Be A Failure

One motor vehicle passing another—particularly on one and two-lane roads—can be a chancy thing unless the driver of the passing vehicle uses caution and good common sense.

"You can pass yourself right into the next world," warns Ollie M. Arbelbide, Managing Director of the Idaho Motor Transport Association. "There are too many accidents and near-accidents as a result of what should be a safe maneuver."

Arbelbide advises motorists to follow four simple rules for proper passing:

1. Allow plenty of room to pull out, pass and return to the right lane.
2. Pass on straight level roads—never risk passing on a hill or curve. Obey the road markings that tell you it is safe or unsafe to pass.

3. Signal when passing—sound your horn when passing and, at night, flash your lights. Let the driver of the car ahead know your intentions.

4. Gain speed before passing. It is a good policy to drop back of the car you intend to pass and get a better look at the road ahead. Don't pull out into the left lane until you pick up passing speed.

"Borrow a page from the professional truck and bus drivers' book and always be alert for that other guy—the one who is going to pass you—perhaps without following these common sense rules," he advises.

"Whatever you do, don't set up a competition between you and the man trying to pass you. If he is being reckless, give him plenty of room. Pull over the right as far as possible and slow down if necessary so that he can get by without endangering the lives of others."

Courtesy and good common sense work wonders when it comes to passing, Arbelbide points out. "For example, in the city it is usually senseless to pass. To do so, you will more than likely have to exceed the speed limit and take a chance on conditions ahead. What happens? You have to stop for a light—and all those cars you passed are right up there with you."

Idaho Researchers Attempt To Create New Products From Bark

Scientists within the University of Idaho's College of Forestry, Wildlife, and Range Sciences are currently working on a project for the wood industry in which they are trying to transform a troublesome source of pollution into a valuable asset.

Working in cooperation with the Rocky Mountain Pole and Treating Association, university researchers are conducting a study of red cedar bark to determine whether or not this waste material, which is usually disposed of through burning, cannot be turned into some useful product such as pressed boards or insulating materials.

In carrying out this study, the investigators obtain strips of bark from the mills and subject it to a series of chemical and physical tests. Based on the data collected, they hope to learn its properties and possible applications.

According to Roy Adams, acting forestry instructor and principal researcher, "The study was begun to help Idaho's pole industries solve a very serious problem. As a result of Forest Service regulations, which no longer permit bark residue to be left in the forests, the industries are accumulating great quantities of cedar bark at their mills, something like 6,000 tons per year. In the past, the companies have burned this material. However under projected air pollution standards, burning will not be possible."

"We hope to provide industry with some ideas which will both solve the disposal problem and perhaps yield another source of profit."

Other university personnel participating in the project include Kenneth Sows, assistant professor of wood utilization, and Dr. James Cooley, professor of chemistry.

Industrial firms cooperating in the study are L. D. McFarland Co. and Joslyn Mfg. and Supply Co., both of Sandpoint; B. J. Carsey Co., Spokane; Poles Inc., Oldtown, and R. G. Haley Corp., Lewiston.

Bronc Bustin' Time

It's "bronc bustin'" time again in Idaho with the first rodeo for 1970 to be held on Easter Sunday at Murphy. Starting at twelve noon, events will include team and calf roping, girls' barrel racing, open and novice cow cutting. Chuck and Doris Tyson of Murphy, sponsor this annual open-competition rodeo with all proceeds from volunteer admissions going to the Elks' Rehabilitation Center in Boise. Entry fees make up prize purses.

Tax Due Date

Federal income tax returns for corporations operating on a calendar year basis are due by March 16 instead of the April 15 general filing deadline for individual taxpayers. Internal Revenue Information Officer John Anduiza said Wednesday.

Corporations are now required to pay their taxes by depositing them direct with their banks, as they do with their employers tax returns.

Phosphorus In Feed Boosts Cattle Income

Phosphorus in the feed boosts cattle income, says Morris Hemstrom, University of Idaho extension livestock specialist. It helps cows breed early. They have higher rates of conception. And calves born early in the year are heavier at weaning time.

Most range cows are deficient in phosphorus, Hemstrom says. The lack is most common if they are eating only alfalfa hay. Alfalfa is low in phosphorus and needs supplementing. Adding a mineral that contains at least 12 per cent phosphorus is recommended.

The best source, the specialist advises, is mono-sodium phosphate. It is high in phosphorus and low in calcium. More calcium is not needed because alfalfa has plenty. Another source of phosphorus is di-calcium phosphate. It is not as palatable to cattle and does not have as much phosphorus as mono-sodium phosphate. It is also high in calcium, which you do not need if the cows are on alfalfa.

Hemstrom pointed out that ranchers who get yearling heifers to breed early have heavy calves at weaning. The yearlings must be well fed as calves their first winter, he said. Gains of one to two pounds a day are desirable so they will weigh 650 to 700 pounds at breeding time. If they are lighter, don't breed them. And don't breed them if they are under-age. Heifers should be 14 to 15 months old before they are bred.

If your yearlings meet age and weight requirements, Hemstrom advised, breed them ahead of the herd by about 20 days.

There is no true security for the individual except as he finds it in the security of all.—Edwin Markham

Legislative Report From Rep. Brocke

Boise, Feb. 21 — I received a letter today from a party in Latah county in which he stated that this Legislature is made up of irresponsible spendthrifts. This letter in no way offended me, as I have the belief that he is correct in his analysis of the Legislature.

At the start of the session, it was agreed that only measures of an emergency nature would be considered where state funds were involved. It was a known fact that under present conditions some additional funds would have to be provided for our institutions of higher education; also some additional funds were needed in the mental health program.

This week we received the report of the emergency bills that have arisen this past year, and these funds must be provided or the functions of state government will come to a standstill. To list a few of these emergency requests — and by the way these have been approved by the Appropriations Committee — are:

$362,000 to buy an airplane; $50,000 for water study on the Lemhi River (this bill was killed when it came up for vote in the House); $50,000 for a study on the Raft River; $150,000 for aid to libraries; $53,000 to the Public Utilities Commission; $100,000 to take over the Youth Training Camps at Cedar Flats and at Mountain Home; $265,000 to the Penitentiary, and $200,000 to the State Parks Department. These are just a few of the items, which total something over $6 million.

It is the Legislature's responsibility to determine which of these bills are of an emergency nature, and pass them. It should also kill all of the bills that are not in the emergency class. The Governor has stated that he will approve a pending program of $4.9 million, which includes $300,000 to settle the fire claims that we have from the Federal Government. To express my own personal views, I am of the opinion that much of this spending is unnecessary, and could wait until next year.

About the only tax relief that we have given the local people lately was when last session we gave the counties 50 percent of the inheritance tax. This session we have taken this tax relief away. To me, this is a very unfair move on the part of the Legislature, when we have an indicated surplus which will be in excess of the inheritance tax money.

The bill to exempt the probating of an estate when one of a married couple passes away has now passed both Houses and is awaiting the Governor's signature to become law.

School Teachers' Negotiations with the school trustees is a real hot issue at this time. We have three bills in regard to this problem — one that would allow all state employees the right to negotiate; one by the Idaho Teacher Association, and one by the Idaho School Trustee Association. Hearings have been held and the Education Committee is now in the process of getting one of these bills out for a run in the Legislature. This is a must type legislation, and it is too bad that this problem is coming up so late in the session. The teachers have been stalling long enough in regard to this legislation, and deserve the consideration to have negotiation legislation at this session.

I note where the Kendrick Wild Life Club is requesting pollution control on the Potlatch Creek the pollution due to the operation of the J. R. Simplot Clay Plant at Bovill. This is great, and this could lead to a test of our water pollution control law which has been ignored by big business up to this time.

The Legislature is in the process of winding up. Last Tuesday the

Mrs. Happie Wilson To Observe 100th Birthday Anniversary

Plans for a 100-year birthday reception are being made for Happie Wilson, resident of Paradise Villa in Moscow, Idaho, who will be 100 years old on March 1, 1970.

Happie was born in Bradford County, Pennsylvania, on a farm. On the farm was a large orchard of apples, hazelnuts, hickory nuts, and butternuts grew wild in the area. She can still remember popping corn in front of the fireplace at her old home.

Happie had four brothers, Alfred, Frank, Julius, and Gordon G., and a sister, Roxie. Her father served in the Union Army after which he worked as a carpenter in addition to farming.

Happie remembers her father cutting grain with a cradle, a scythe which has four or five spindles to catch the grain when it was cut. After the cradle had plied the grain in small bunches, it was tied into bundles and stacked to be threshed on a treadmill. When the family needed flour they sacked wheat and took it to the mill. The miller kept a certain percentage of wheat for his labor.

Adjoining Happie's home in Pennsylvania was a toy factory. When she was about 10 years old, she earned money by doing piecework for the factory. Happie cut out rubber for pop guns and was paid by the gross. Another job was completing jump ropes, placing the ropes through the handle and tying the knot. The toy factory was purchased and the new owner, Mr. Kaiser, made a chair factory out of it. Happie wove the frames for the chairs when they brought in 1839 she saw her first automobile. It looked like an old fashioned horse-drawn cab. Two men were sitting out front wearing stovepipe hats. "I think I could have walked as fast as they drove," was Happie's remark. The second automobile she saw was one owned by Dr. Conant of Genesee. This was in 1907.

Happie came west in 1900 to Uniontown, Washington, when she was 30 years old. She hoped to do dressmaking and home work and live with her cousin, William Staupler and family. Instead, she filed a homestead on 160 acres of land near the Lewiston Hill.

In the fall of 1903 Happie married Milton Wilson. The couple moved to a rented farm where her two sons, Frank and Lloyd were born. Frank passed away September, 1969. Lloyd continues to live on the family farm near Genesee. Her husband, Milton, passed away in 1935. Besides her son, Lloyd and her daughter-in-law, Nelle, Happie has four grandchildren, Mrs. Raymond (Iris) Qualey, Mrs. Jerry (Phyllis) Hines, Merle Wilson and Donald M. Wilson, and five great grandchildren, all of school age.

After her husband's death, Mrs. Wilson moved to Genesee to live until she fell and broke her hip. The balance of her time was spent in various nursing homes. Her sight has failed and, according to Happie, "I never had good health all my life." Happie used to like to play checkers and knit, but, due to vision difficulties, is unable to pursue these hobbies now.

Happie Wilson secured a social security card and applied for social security benefits on her 90th birthday. She was able to receive the special age-72 benefits payable to older senior citizens who had never worked under social security. Benefits are used to help pay the costs of her care in the nursing home.

A birthday card from Robert Hall, Commissioner of Social Security, will be presented to Happie at a reception Sunday, March 1, 1970, in the Genesee Community Church Fellowship Hall from 2:30 to 4:00 p. m. All her friends will be able to visit with her there.

Social security records are confidential. Happie gave her permission for the Social Security Administration to use the facts in her life to better acquaint people in the area with the value of social security benefits.

Weather Excellent

Except for a few drizzling hours on Monday morning, the weather over much of the region can only be described as "Excellent" for this time of year. Heavy frost and a few patches of fog have not spoiled the warm, sunny weather which has given the area the look and feel of springtime. Here in the canyon crocus and snowdrops are in full bloom; tulips and daffodils are up six inches or more, and lilac buds are all but ready to burst.

The weather was warm last week, but there were more clouds and overcast days than there has been thus far this week. Sunday was a very warm and bright day, and many families took advantage of the good weather for an enjoyable drive in the country. The clear skies and lack of clouds caused heavy frost, even in the valleys, with the mercury dropping to the middle and low 20's.

The Potlatch River, which has been running high for several weeks, is still high, but is gradually clearing.

WILD PLUM TREES IN BLOOM

When overwhelming snows have passed.

With February's bloom; I dream of days too dear to last With wild plum trees in bloom.

And in a flight of fancy soar To scenes of pure delight; To happiness gone on before When orchardlands were bright.

Thus in my reverie sublime I find so little room; For wintersness, and cold and time, With WILD PLUM TREES IN BLOOM.

—Bert Gamble

Printing Committee decided only to print appropriation bills or a bill of an emergency nature. Maybe this next week will see the End. — George F. Brocke, Sr., State Rep., District No. 5.

Art Dawald, Former Kendrick Coach, Honored in Spokane

The Inland Empire Sports Writers and Broadcasters Association gathered at Spokane February 4th for the organization's annual awards banquet and among the honorees is a man who has earned the respect of all his colleagues — Richland Basketball Coach Arthur L. Dawald.

At the afternoon's AAU Awards Luncheon in Spokane, Dawald received a special 25-year coaching award for his meritorious achievement in the profession and specifically for the statewide acclaim he has brought to Richland with his Bomber basketball teams.

The start of his coaching career wasn't in Washington, but at Kendrick, Idaho, where his teams won several championships. Dawald went to Kendrick after graduating from the University of Idaho, where he played two years of varsity basketball as a 5-foot 9-inch, 150-pound forward.

Dawald coached at Kendrick through the 1930's, leaving in the summer of 1939. He was replaced here by Ross Armitage of Southwick.

In 21 years at Richland, Dawald's teams have won 13 Yakima Valley conference championships. The Bombers have gone to state 15 times during that period, winning the coveted title in 1958, plus finishing third 6 times. Richland ranks 10th for most state tournament appearances, all under Dawald. Several records set by his teams still stand.

Dawald, who was born in Waterville, Wash., turned 65 last December, and it's likely that he will retire after this season.

The installation of 75,000 square feet of synthetic turf called Poly-Turf was begun this week at Idaho State University's new "indoor" stadium in Pocatello.

The $2.8 million all-enclosed football stadium, to be completed later this year, covers 4 and a half acres of ground. It is the first of its kind on a university campus.

The Poly-Turf installation is being carried out by the American Bitrite Rubber Co., Inc., and its representatives. Trimming Trees

If a warm spell in winter encourages you to do yard work, satisfy the urge by pruning ornamental trees, suggests Tony Horn, horticultural specialist of the University of Idaho extension service. Winter is the best time for most trimming. Trees are dormant. There are few leaves to disguise the framework. By spring, the tree will be in good shape to grow vigorously in the right directions.

Use sharp tools, Horn advises. Make clean cuts close to main branches. Distribute cuts so that you preserve the tree's natural form. Hold off, however, on pruning spring blooming shrubs such as forsythia, flowering quince and lilac. Wait until after they have bloomed. This encourages production of wood for next year and permits the plant to provide the best show this year.

Early flowering of some of these plants can be stimulated by cutting branches late in winter—as early as February in some places—and placing them in water indoors in a moderately warm location.

When you plant trees in the spring, the specialist suggests be sure to support bare-rooted trees against dislocation by wind. Wire is not good. It will cut into the trunk. Newly planted deciduous trees need pruning. Usually about a third of the top is removed.

Balled and burlapped trees and shrubs seldom need supporting and they usually require little pruning because their development has been regulated by the nurseryman.

Wheat Commission

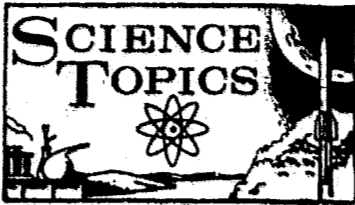

The immediate outlook for U. S. wheat sales to the Philippines has brightened considerably in the last few weeks, it was revealed today by the Idaho Wheat Commission.

The Philippines has been a trouble spot recently for U. S. wheat exporters. Since mid-1969, the highly competitive posture of other major world wheat suppliers has threatened the virtual monopoly the U. S. had on the Philippines annual 500 ton cash wheat purchase requirement.

A three-year, $18 million line of credit offered by the U. S. Commodities Credit Corporation has been accepted by the Philippine government. Wheat Commission officials said. It now appears as though the U. S. will supply a majority of the Philippine wheat requirement this year.

PRODUCTION OF MINERALS

The highest production value of minerals ever reported in Idaho for a single year was $126.1 million in 1969—an increase of 10 percent over 1968, says Lloyd D. Howe, industrial developer for the Idaho Department of Commerce and Development.

A portable ATOMIC CAMERA that can "see" through metals to spot flaws and also detect hidden quantities of drugs or narcotics has been developed at the Atomic Energy Commission's Pacific Northwest Laboratory. The 100-pound camera uses the radioisotope Californium-252 to generate the neutrons needed to take the picture. It records many things not visible by conventional X-ray, can easily penetrate most metals and other heavy opaque materials to detect weaknesses or foreign substances. It can detect drugs and narcotics hidden in metal containers or concealed in other objects, thus providing a valuable tool for customs or enforcement officers.

A new TANNING PROCESS can accomplish in one step what normally requires four to seven steps in the finishing of leather by hand methods. The process is a polymer finish developed at the University of Cincinnati. The polymer is applied in the drums in which leather is treated during the wet process. When the process is properly done the leather can be either plated or glazed without further finish coats, and the treated skin has improved abrasion resistance.

A REAL SNOW JOB on chickens will benefit packagers and distributors by giving them clean and dry poultry with which to work, says Carolex, Chicago. The snow is dry ice in particle form used in a new system developed by the company for packing fresh chickens for shipment from the farm to packagers and distribution centers. Liquid carbon dioxide is converted to snow and deposited in the shipping cartons, cooling down the chickens. Since dry ice does not melt during transit, the chickens arrive at their destination dry and clean.

MASS FAMINE in both hemispheres is predicted by a University of Wisconsin climatologist. He points out that already the total number of American deaths in Vietnam is being surpassed every four days by the global toll of starvation. "Starvation is no more pleasant a death than being shot," he says. Our next major war may well be a war for survival, a war for food and resources. He thinks such a war will most likely break out in Asia where the population pressure on the land is greater than anywhere else on the globe.

THE WORLD'S LARGEST gamma ray telescope is being constructed by Cornell University physicists who plan to send the 2,500-pound instrument aloft by balloon next fall. The telescope—20 feet long and 10 feet in diameter—will be carried to a height of about 125,000 feet—more than 23 miles—in a 15,000,000-cubic-foot helium-filled balloon.

New Income Tax
Laws Affect Only
Few 1969 Returns

Many taxpayers are needlessly delaying their income tax returns and refunds by waiting for additional instructions on the new tax laws, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

IRS Information Officer John Anduzia explained most of the changes relate to 1970 and later years, and affect only a comparatively few individual income tax returns for 1969. He said, a new pamphlet "Highlights of 1969 Changes in the Tax Law" (IRS Publication 553) is available free at all Internal Revenue offices.

National Wildlife Week

The Fish and Game Department and Commission is proud to join once more with the Idaho Wildlife Federation and the National Wildlife Federation in the annual observance of National Wildlife Week, March 15-21. Increasing water pollution, persistent pesticides, nonplanned highways and urban sprawl are steadily gnawing away at American resources. A staggering 89 American species of wildlife are on the brink of extinction. During National Wildlife Week the National Wildlife Federation and its affiliates will be asking "Seen any wildlife lately?" The answer in Idaho can be 'yes' far more than often most places throughout America.

Idaho's cottontail and pygmy rabbit season, the longest hunting season in the state, ends February 28 after providing six continuous months of fun and good eating for youngsters and oldsters alike. Snowshoe and jackrabbits can be taken at any time of year, since they are unprotected. The bag and possession limit on cottontail and pygmy rabbits is eight in the aggregate.

Access Cleanup Job
Franklin County commissioners and members of service clubs are pointing the way for similar local action in accepting responsibility for maintenance and cleanup work on upwards of a dozen public access sites to reservoirs. Local civic clubs will contribute a fund for cleanup work, and this will be matched by county commissioners. Boy Scout troops will make a fund-raising project out of clean-up work, receiving one cent per bottle, can or other major refuse items collected on the access sites.

Joint Meetings Planned

Reports on current and past programs and joint planning for state-federal cooperation in future management of public lands and fish and wildlife resources filled the agenda of recent inter-agency meetings held in Lewiston, Boise, Salmon, Idaho Falls and Twin Falls.

Hosted by the Idaho Fish and Game Department, the series of meetings was attended by representatives of Regions 1 and 4 of the U. S. Forest Service, the Bureau of Land Management, and the State Department of Public Lands. Arrangements for this series of meetings were similar to those for similar meetings held in the state last year, according to John R. Woodworth, director, Idaho Fish and Game Department.

In addition to representatives from state and federal land and resource management agencies, the meetings were attended by officials of various civic and sportsmen's groups and farmers and ranchers.

GENERAL STATEMENT ABOUT A CAREER IN MATHEMATICS

During the past 15 to 20 years there has been a startling increase in the importance of Mathematics in society and in the need for trained mathematicians at all levels. The phenomenal rise in the field of automation and computing has been a significant factor in this greatly increased need for mathematicians at the Bachelor's Degree level of training and more especially at the higher levels. The solution of many of the technological problems on which, to a high degree, our national survival depends in the atomic and space age, has become increasingly dependent on the solution of scientific problems involving a high level of mathematics. Thus business and industry have increasing need for mathematicians. Although the importance of Mathematics in the Physical and Engineering Sciences is well known, recent developments in the Biological and Social Sciences have made clear the great contributions that Mathematics can make in these areas also. There is a substantial demand for qualified people in teaching Mathematics in secondary schools, colleges and universities. In spite of the fact that the number of Bachelor's Degrees earned in Mathematics and Statistics increases from about 4,000 in 1965 to 20,000 in 1964, the shortage

STUDENTS TOUR

College of Idaho, Caldwell — A kaleidoscopic view — both literally and figuratively — of the San Francisco Bay area's cultural diversity was provided 25 College of Idaho art students and 13 sociology students last week during the cultural field trip which is a feature of the college's six-week winter session which ended Feb. 13th.

The group's activities during the six-day tour ranged from lectures at the California Institute of Asian Studies for the sociology students, to visits to the studios of noted artists for the art students, with the entire group attending performances of both the hit musical "Hair" and the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra.

Gary Draper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin N. Draper, Kendrick, made the tour with the 25 C. of I. Art students.

of qualified mathematicians appears likely to continue for a long time.

In industry, starting salaries for those obtaining a Bachelor's Degree with a major in mathematics are currently in the neighborhood of $9,000 per calendar year, and increase from year to year to considerably higher levels. For people with a Master's Degree in Mathematics starting salaries are higher. According to the November issue of the Notices of the American Mathematical Society, starting 12-month salaries for individuals who received their Ph. D. Degree in Mathematics during the academic year 1968-69 ranged as follows: In industry, from $12,500 to $25,000 with a median of $16,800. In research institutes they ranged from $12,500 to $23,500 with a median of $18,600. An in Government laboratories they ranged from $8,200 to $19,200, with a median of $13,000. In college level teaching the nine-month salaries ranged from $8,000 to $16,500, with a median of $10,600.00.

For the Bachelor's Degree with a major in Mathematics, most students usually start with a course in College Algebra and Trigonometry and then take Analytic Geometry and Calculus. At the University of Idaho they are required to take at least seven courses beyond this level. Some of the areas available for these additional courses are: Linear Algebra; Differential Equations; Digital Computers; Numerical Analysis; Higher Algebra; Postulational Geometry; Probability Theory and Mathematical Statistics; Advanced Calculus; Fourier Analysis; Advanced Applied Mathematics; Set Theory and Complex Variables.

A student also takes courses in other areas of his interest and is required by the College of Letters and Science to take courses in English, Humanities, Physics and Social Science.

The trucks were chained together in order to make their way, no one truck being able to force passage through some of the mudholes unaided.

Driver Attitude And Traffic Accidents

Driver attitude, in the opinion of the Idaho State Police superintendent, plays a leading role in the high percentage of traffic accidents.

Driver attitudes are not inborn but are created, and many times can be corrected if recognized in time, believes Supt. L. Clark Hand.

He said that in dealing with traffic violators and in our accident investigations we frequently find a driver who normally is a gentleman and considerate of others.

"Behind the wheel, however, he is transformed into a self-important daredevil, always in a hurry. His faulty attitudes have taken over and are most evident," the superintendent said.

Supt. Hand said faulty attitudes include over-confidence — assuming that everyone else will do the right thing at the right time.

False estimates—relying on guesses, estimates and fiction instead of facts.

Self-righteousness—judging his own actions and deciding in favor of himself.

Impatience — taking chances and using poor judgment.

"Poor attitudes can lead to accidents," the superintendent said, and concluded, "It's well to remember that unwise drivers expect the best and safe drivers the worst."

Solutions for Man's Environmental Ills

Moscow—The engineering profession will provide the eventual solution for man's environmental ills in spite of its critics, a University of Idaho engineering professor said Monday during National Engineer's Week — Feb. 22-26.

According to Dr. H. Sidwell Smith, dean of the university's College of Engineering, "Those who would make engineering the scape goat for environmental pollution overlook the fact that the tangible systems produced by the engineer are the result of technology applied within the constraints imposed by a demanding society. The engineering profession accepts the responsibility for their effects on human welfare in spite of having to work within societal limitations."

Smith said that engineers bear too many scars of rejected proposals for incorporation of pollution control systems into their works to accept the charge that the profession has been insensitive to environmental quality. "These proposals were rejected because social acceptance of the cost of environmental quality control was not forthcoming. Rejection was in no way related to inadequate technology or professional indifference."

"For many years the engineering profession has vainly sought help from the various life sciences in the form of reliable and quantitative criteria for system design to avoid the very problems we are now accused of creating. More recently, we have sought help from the social sciences, but here again we are still denied definitive guidelines. In the meantime, the engineer is forced to meet his professional obligation to produce tangible, usable systems within a finite and usually limited time and for investments whose amounts are usually dictated by forces beyond his control."

Smith said it was gratifying to see other disciplines moving toward responsible roles in shaping man's environment and noted that the engineering profession will constantly seek ways to perfect and strengthen the interdisciplinary effort which is needed to approach man's increasingly complex environmental problems.

"However, the essential role of engineering is no different today than it has ever been. Changing social values are generating new standards and value scales to guide decision making, but fundamental scientific and technological principles have not changed. In the last analysis, the solution to man's environmental problems will require application of these principles to produce the systems and devices to cope with increasing demands on our environmental resources. This is the province of the engineer; it always has been, it always will be," Smith said.

Mobile Homes

Mobile home manufacturing, a growth industry, showed an increase of 263 per cent during the 1960's in Idaho, states Lloyd D. Howe, industrial developer for the Idaho Department of Commerce and Development. This dramatic boom came from manufacturing of new mobile homes, truck and trailer campers, as new firms either relocated or established branch plants in Idaho. Howe points out.

Kendrick Grangers Busy During Past Week

Fifty Grange members and 15 guests met at the Fraternal Temple Tuesday evening, Feb. 17th at 6:30 and enjoyed a most delicious crab feed. Among the guests were the Grange Master of Troy, who spoke briefly, and his wife Mildred, who is Pomona Chairman of Women's Activities. She urged all Grange women to attend one of the workshops on Women's Grange Activities being held in the area.

Other visitors from outside Kendrick were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Ingler of Deary, and Mrs. Linnie Ingle of the Deary Grange. All were disappointed that the Latah County Old Time Fiddlers were unable to be present, due to illness. It is hoped they may come at a later date. The evening was completed by playing pinochle.

The supper was very ably served by Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Eldridge, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Foreman, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Cuddy and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Benjamin, assisted by the Chairman of Women's Activities Mrs. Roy Glenn.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, March 3, at the Fraternal Temple, beginning with a 8:30 supper. The Princeton Grange will be coming for visitation. Doyle Whittig, Vocational Ag. instructor at K. H. S. will bring some of his F. F. A. boys to speak on "Cooperatives." Also, Harold Gray of Moscow, State Grange Overseer, is bringing the movie "Seed Time and Harvest," which has been highly recommended by the National Grange, and should be of interest to all.

A good attendance is hoped for.

The bus was jammed when a very stout woman entered. She stood and glared at all the seated passengers.

"Isn't there a gentleman in the bus, she demanded loudly, 'who will offer me a seat?'"

A small sailor jumped up. "Well," he volunteered, "I'm willing to make a contribution."

Newlywed discussing married life: "So far all my wife can do is open cans and charge accounts."
