Rep. Brocke Reviews Accomplishments Of 40th Legislature's Second Session

Boise, March 7 — The Second Session of the 40th Legislature is now coming to a close. This should be the time to make a report on the accomplishments of this session. The number of legislative bills, resolutions and memorials handled totaled nearly 600.

Major legislation which came before the Legislature included tax legislation such as changes in the 4 percent limit, which included outright repeal, and changes in the percentage, a broader method of appeal. The first repealer which passed both Houses was vetoed by the governor; the second repealer failed to pass the Senate.

No major legislation was passed in the field of public schools. The Legislature failed to handle the bills which would have given the teachers the right of negotiation with school trustees. I feel that the Legislature was wrong in not passing this legislation.

Very little legislation was passed in the field of Agriculture, the main bills being the noxious weed law and the bulk shipment of potatoes.

The major legislation passed in the field of Resources and Conservation was the Dredge Mining Law, which will prohibit dredge mining on streams that are in the Federal Wild Rivers Concept. No major changes were made in the Fish and Game Department.

In the matters of State Affairs, the major legislation was the bill which deals with the probation of estates. Under this law, only one probation will be necessary. In the State Affairs was the re-writing of our election laws.

The Transportation and Defense Committee held several hearings on the formula of distribution of highway funds. The cities are wanting a larger share of these funds, and an attempt being made to take a flat 4 percent of all highway users monies and allot this 4 percent to the cities. Along with their present allotment, this plan would curtail our State Highway Construction Program and would also cut the State Funds to Counties and Highway Districts.

In the field of Public Health, the major legislation passed was the setting up of seven Health Districts, and the financing of Mental Health Centers; also money was allotted for the purchase of artificial kidney machines. This money would purchase 10 machines.

In the area of Appropriations, the sum of $5,000,000 was appropriated; most of this was supplemental appropriation, but some was for new programs. The total requested of the Legislature was in excess of $12,000,000, and by legislative action this was cut to a figure just above $5,000,000. In most cases, the real need for additional money was met.

Legislation in regard to Insurance and Banking was all of a technical nature, with no major legislation being passed.

The Counties and Municipalities had legislation in regard to annexation of property to a city by granting a vote to the people being annexed. Hearings were held. However, the committee held this legislation in the committee.

In regard to Constitutional Resolutions. It now appears that the only resolution appearing on the ballot this November will be the Constitutional Revision, which, if adopted, will mean that the State will have a new Constitution. Several resolutions have been offered and one passed the Legislature the last session. This resolution provided for four-year terms for assessors. Resolutions in this session included four-year terms for County Treasurers; allowing nineteen-year-olds to vote; changes in the Investment Law; and two or three others. The four-year assessor terms will be on the ballot this fall.

Major legislation not taken care of included Bonding Legislation so Idaho Bonds can be sold; teachers right to negotiate contracts; proper adjustment in the Tax Laws and the School Foundation Formula. — Geo. F. Brocke, Sr.

Old Warehouse Comes Down; To Be Replaced

Last week-end the last of the old Kendrick Rochdale Co., Inc., east end warehouse went up in smoke. It had been in the process of being torn down for some time, and after salvage operations were completed, the remainder was pushed into a pile by a tractor and "went up in smoke."

The spot occupied by the warehouse will be filled by metal fertilizer tanks, says Robert Waits, manager. These tanks, if not needed for fertilizer, can be used for the storage of grains — thus serving a double purpose. Installation of the new tanks will begin very shortly.

Garden Club Begins Work On "Mini-Park"

The Hill & Valley Garden Club, with a small crew of volunteers, made good progress on work started toward a sidewalk "mini-park" on Kendrick's Main Street, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of last week. The work is being done on the Oscar Medalen property which has been fenced off from the street, since a fire destroyed the store many years ago.

Charred boards were cleared away which were still clinging to the wall against the Olderness store. The fence was taken out and later replaced 35 feet into the lot. The area was cleared of debris and a heavy creamery machine, Lloyd Farrington moved the old creamery machine and hauled in fill rock to level the area with the sidewalk.

Those working Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, all or part time were Kendrick's Marshall Buzz Nye, Harold Olderness, Roy Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. Werner Brammer, Mr. and Mrs. Rollin Armitage, Mrs. Stanley Hepler, Bob Waits, James Hoogland, Marion Rowden and Lloyd Farrington.

Roach added that in order to make the day a success, all preliminary work should be started immediately. Although most of the activities for this year's big day are still in the planning stage, it was reported that several new additions have been discussed and will be printed in the Gazette-News as soon as they are released.

School Mill Levy Vote Faces Genesee April 13

GENESEE — At its regular board meeting Monday evening, March 9th, the Genesee School Board adopted a tentative budget for the coming school year. The budget will ask the taxpayers of the district for a plant facility fund of 3 mills for 5 years. The three mill levy will be used to help purchase school buses, replace windows in the high school and elementary building and remodel the library in the high school and elementary school to help meet accreditation standards. The purpose of the plant facility levy is for maintenance only. Due to a loss of enrollment and loss of book fees and some vocational funds, it was decided that to maintain the present educational program, it would be necessary for the 3 mills for maintenance of the buildings and transportation program. The election will be scheduled for April 13, qualifications to vote include being a property owner, a resident of the state 6 months, and of the school district 30 days.

The board also approved a relief allowing for Teacher Parent Conferences next year. The conferences will be held the 1st and 3rd nine weeks in grades 1 through 8.

The board looked at the school calendar for the next year. It was decided school will open August 31, but some of the vacation days will have to be worked out before next board meeting and final adoption of the calendar.

A letter and some clippings came to the Gazette-News this week from Mrs. Janie Joekel (nee Janie Carroll), daughter of Jack and Jo Carroll. The Carrolls were Kendrick residents in the early '30's, where he was cashier of the Farmers Bank.

Kendrick Grange Hears Special F. F. A. Program at March 3 Meeting

Kendrick Grange No. 413 met at the Fraternal Temple, March 3rd for a delicious ham supper, served by the serving committee of the month — Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Frankie Benschoter, Mrs. Edd Kent and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Johnson, with the assistance of Mrs. Roy Glenn, chairman of Women's Activities.

Doyle Whittig, Vocational Ag. instructor of Kendrick High School attended with five of his F. F. A. students. Steve Hoogland honored the group by giving his prize winning speech "Training for Leadership in F. F. A." David Wilken, Kim Trout, Dale Taylor and David Hutchison spoke on "The Basic Principles of Farmer Cooperatives." Everyone enjoyed these talks very much and found them most informative.

The film "Seed Time and Harvest" depicting the origin, history, and some of the accomplishments of the Grange organization was reviewed. This was acquired from the State Grange and was shown by Jerry Brown.

Twelve members of the Princeton Grange were present for visitation. Charles Bower, Pomona Master, and a member of Mt. Deary Grange was also present and spoke on "Environment Control and Conservation."

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Denner were initiated into Grange. Mary Petrie of the Princeton Grange sang "How Great Thou Art."

The Grange discussed some laws being considered in the Legislature now, and they are opposed to an excise tax on automobiles until such time as they are given satisfactory assurance that this increase in tax revenue will replace other taxes.

There were 36 members of the Kendrick Grange present.

It was announced that the annual Farm Institute Day will be held in Kendrick on March 18th.

The next meeting will be held at 8:00 p. m., Tuesday, March 17th, St. Patrick's Day (don't forget to wear green!) This will be Talent Show night. Please, all Grangers having a number to offer for the program, contact the Grange Lecturer, Mrs. L. W. Heimgartner.

Cake and bread contests will also be held at this meeting. The cake is to be a two-layer, with filling and frosting, with the recipe.

In the cake contest, there will be a Junior and Senior division. Contestants must be Grange members or children or grandchildren of Grange members.

The bread contest is six "yeast" dinner rolls, any kind, accompanied by the recipe. All contestants in the bread contest must be Grange members. There will be prizes for both bread and cake contests.

The cakes will be sold at the meeting with the proceeds of the sale to be used for Women's Activities projects. Anyone wishing more information on the contests may contact Mrs. Roy Glenn.

Pomona Grange will be held Saturday night, March 14th at Kendrick in the Fraternal Temple, beginning with a 6:30 supper. The Fifth Degree will be put on by the Pomona officers. All Grange members that have not yet taken the Fifth Degree are urged to be present and do so.

Genesee Wins District Cage Crown With 50-48 Victory Over St. Gertrude's

Trailing by as much as eight points early in the fourth quarter, the Genesee Bulldogs staged a final five-minute rally that scored 12 points and gave them a 50-48 victory over St. Gertrude's Academy of Cottonwood and the District 2, A-3 basketball championship Friday night at Lewiston's Booth Hall.

Genesee will meet Wendell High School Thursday night at 9:00 p. m. in the first round of the State Tournament at Booth Hall. St. Gertrude's will also be in the tourney and will meet Sugar-Salem at 3:00 p. m. on Thursday.

After falling behind in the third quarter the Bulldogs were never able to catch the Panthers until Nick England dropped in a field goal with 2:51 left in the game, that tied the score 47-all. Mike England's free throw finally put Genesee ahead 48-47 and the Genesee team held on for the win.

The game was close all through the first half with the score tied four times, and the lead changing hands seven times in the first quarter, which ended with St. Gertrude's leading 14-13. Kashmitter scored the first point of the game after he was fouled by Nick England. Mike England put Genesee on the board seconds later with a field goal from in under the basket. The score was tied at 4-4; 6-6; 7-7, and 9-9 before the Panther's Gary Rehder put his team ahead 12-11 and they held on for a 14-13 advantage at the end of the first eight minutes of play.

Both teams were using tight and effective zone defenses and it was the scoring of Bulldog guard Bruce Scharnhorst that kept the Bulldogs in the game at this point.

Both teams kept the pressure on in the second quarter with Morsch's baskets giving Genesee the lead at 15-14, and Mike England, on a beautiful fake under the net put the Bulldogs out in front 17-14. St. Gertrude's went back into the lead 22-21 and then stretched it out to 25-21 before Morsch brought it up to 25-23. Mike's free throw put it 25-24 and Tim Magee's free throw with three seconds left in the half tied it at 25-all.

Paced by the scoring of their flashy guard Lindy Hinkelman, the Panthers moved out to a five to six point lead in the third quarter and Bulldog Coach Ozzie Kanickberg began substituting in an apparent calculated gamble that he could rest his first string and still keep the score within recoverable reach. The reserves did their team proud and were holding their own when Ozzie finally put back in his entire first string with slightly more than five minutes left in the game. St. Gertrude's were ahead 40-36 at the end of the third quarter and at one point in the final frame led 47-39.

Genesee's slow comeback began to climax as they pulled to within two points at 47-45 with 3:21 still on the clock. At 2:51 Nick tied the game at 47-47 and Mike's free throw in the second — made it 48-47 for Genesee.

With 56 seconds left in the game Nick was fouled and made the second of his two throws for a 49-47 score. Tim Magee fouled Gary Rehder with 38 seconds left on the clock and Rehder scored to bring the game to 49-48. With 28 seconds remaining Genesee controlled the ball and called for a time out. Genesee then went into a stall and Tim Magee was fouled with 8 seconds left. On a one-and-one shot Tim sank the first shot and missed the second, and a final desperation shot by Hinkelman missed the mark and Genesee had the 50-48 win and the District Championship.

Bruce Scharnhorst's 22 points led all scorers that night. Fred Morsch had 10 for Genesee, and the England boys each had 7 points.

Ten Years of Change In Idaho

Ten years of change in Idaho's population and housing will be measured by the Nineteenth Decennial Census to be conducted throughout the Nation in April 1970 by the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce. The new statistics will update information last collected in the 1960 census.

One-Way Mail Method
As in 1960, most householders will receive census forms by mail and will fill them out at home. Census takers will begin calling at homes on April 1 to pick up the completed forms or to enumerate any households that did not receive forms in the mail.

Idaho's Early Censuses
When first organized as a Territory in 1863, Idaho included what later became Montana and Wyoming Territories. The State attained its present boundaries in 1873 and was admitted to the Union in 1890 as the 43rd State. Its population in the census that year was 88,548, by 1900 it was 161,772. In the 20th century, the greatest numerical increase (163,822) and the most rapid rate of growth (101.3 percent) both came during 1900-1910. At mid-century the population stood at 588,637.

The 1960 Census
In the 1960 census, Idaho, with 687,191 inhabitants, ranked 43rd in population among the States and the District of Columbia. Of this total, 5,231 were Indian, 2,254 Japanese, and 1,502 Negro.

Of the total housing units in the State, 61.2 percent were owner occupied, 25.5 percent were renter occupied, 86.4 percent were one-family structures, and 26.8 percent had been built during the 1950-60 decade. #### FISH PROPAGATION GETS QUESTIONS FROM ABROAD

Idaho trout and salmon are of international interest, judging from the number of requests for information received by the State Fish and Game Department.

During the past 12 months, requests for information on how to rear salmon and trout were received from as far away as Chile, India and Guam, as well as many more requests from residents of all 50 American states.

The item most commonly requested is the formula for the Idaho open formula trout diet, according to Paul Cuplin, state hatchery supervisor. The diet was developed by department personnel at the department's 15 trout hatcheries. It does a fine job of providing a square meal for trout, but not salmon. Spring chinook salmon require a moisture content of 30 per cent of the diet.

Cuplin says the salmon diet requirements are met by the Oregon Fish Commission especially for salmon.

IDAHO DEPT. OF EMPLOYMENT
 Job opportunities improved somewhat in the Moscow area during the past week. Frank J. Hartstein, Manager of the Moscow Office of the Idaho Department of Employment reported today that his office found employment for seven local workers during the week. He said that this compared with only one worker placed on a job during the previous week. At the end of the week there were 24 jobs still open, the same number as were available at the close of the previous week.

Hartstein reported that 17 persons filed new claims for unemployment insurance through his office during the week, but that the total number of workers continuing to seek jobless pay fell from 382 to 370 during the week. A year ago there were only 215 workers seeking unemployment insurance. Muddy conditions in the area's forests account for most of the current unemployment. Little change was noted in the number of idled workers from any of the county's communities over the past week.

In Moscow, the total is now 187 compared to 139 last week and 101 last year. At Genesee, the total is the same, at 10. In the Troy-Deary-Bovill area, there are 119, a week ago there were 128, and a year ago only 56 persons were receiving unemployment insurance. At Kendrick, the total now is 13, last week it was 18, and last year 11. Seventy-two checks are going into the Potlatch area compared with 69 last week and only 31 last year. At Elk River, there are now 19 persons seeking benefits, last week there were 17, and last year there were only 6. Most of the 29 workers who discontinued their claims during the week had returned to gainful employment. Some exhausted their benefits, and some were made ineligible for various reasons.

DEPT. OF LAW ENFORCEMENT
 Highway deaths in Idaho at the end of February were 13 ahead of the same period in 1969, the Idaho State Police reported.

At the end of last month the road death toll was 40, compared with 27 at the end of February, 1969, the ISP said. So far this year, 23 were killed in January and 17 in February.

Last month's 17 victims died as a result of 15 accidents and the total included two pedestrians, according to ISP reports.

In February there were six single-car fatalities, seven killed in two-car accidents, one in a three-vehicle crash, and one in a five-car accident, plus the two pedestrians.

State Police said 10 of the victims were not using seat belts, that four vehicles had no safety belts installed and that one victim was wearing his seat belt.

LETTERMENS CLUB TO SPONSOR GREAT MERLIN MYSTERY SHOW

GENESE—On Monday, March 16, the GHS Lettermen's Club will sponsor The Great Merlin Mystery Show. Awe, skepticism, bewilderment, are just some of the thrills in store for those who attend the performance of the Great Merlin. Merlin will present many of his famed hypnotic demonstrations including mass hypnosis using volunteers from the audience.

He will cause a person to become intoxicated on a glass of ordinary water; another to eat an onion believing it to be a peach. Those who volunteer to be hypnotized will feel the weather change from 40 degrees below zero to 120 degrees above zero all in the twinkling of an eye. After it's all over, the volunteers remember the demonstration as though it had taken place in a dream. Merlin, who often hypnotizes individuals with single glances, claims that if you can concentrate he can read your thoughts and hypnoize you.

Merlin also has the power of reading the minds of people right in their own seats in the audience and predicts the future.

The price of tickets is $1.00 for adults and students if purchased in advance from a Letterman. Tickets at the door will be $1.50. Curtain time will be 8:00 P. M. in the GHS multi-purpose room.

Easter Seal Campaign Now Underway In Idaho

The 1970 Easter Seal campaign will begin February 22nd and will continue until March 29th, Easter Sunday. It was announced today by Robert S. Gibb, President of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Idaho.

During these weeks a statewide appeal for funds will be made by the Easter Seal Society to finance their programs for the treatment and rehabilitation of handicapped children and adults in Idaho.

These programs include speech and hearing centers in Boise, Idaho Falls, Twin Falls, Lewiston, and Coeur d'Alene, where over 3700 children received services in the past year. Direct aid in the form of wheelchairs, crutches, braces and financial assistance for transportation to medical centers is provided in each of the states 44 countries.

The Easter Seal Society also cooperates with Washington State University in the operation of Camp Easter Seal on the shores of Lake Coeur d'Alene. Here, over 50 crippled children from Idaho are given an opportunity to enjoy two wonderful weeks in Idaho's beautiful outdoors.

The Society also administers the Information and Referral service with funds provided by the Idaho Office of Aging. This service provides help for persons in finding the assistance needed to solve their problems.

Troy Wins A-4 District Tournament

Paced by the 35-point effort of Bob Abbott, the Troy Trojans rolled to an 83-63 victory over the Prairie Pirates and won the District 2, A-4 basketball championship at Kendrick Friday night. Troy will be in Burley this week for the State Tournament.

Prairie went out in front 21-14 at the end of the first quarter, but a 22-point scoring burst in the second quarter tied the score at 36-all at the half. Both teams battled on even terms in the third period, with Troy coming out of it with a slim one-point lead. A thirty point scoring spree by the Trojans, while holding Prairie to 11 in the final quarter gave the Troy team the margin of victory.

Abbott's 35 points was high for the game with teammates Mike Frederick getting 14, and Wendell Minkler adding 13 more. Reiner had 15 points for the losers.

Recreational Use High
A joint study by the Oregon Game Commission and the Idaho Fish and Game Department indicates that more than 50,000 man-days of recreation time were spent last year in the High Mountain Sheep and China Gardens reaches of Hells Canyon. In addition, many people viewed the canyon or gained access from points not sampled in the study. A boat checking station was operated at Cache Creek, and sample checks were made below Hells Canyon Dam. People were interviewed on the lower Imnaha-Dug Bar area road and in the Pittsburg Landing area, where the U. S. Forest Service also maintained a car counter.

Fish Handling Pump Obtained By Agency

The Idaho Fish and Game Department said today it has ordered a fish handling pump to help in the work of transferring and grading fish in hatcheries, and a similar device will be purchased by Idaho Power Company for use in handling steelhead trout at the Niagara Springs hatchery.

One of the devices, manufactured by a pump manufacturing company in Portland, Oregon, was demonstrated recently at the Dworshak steelhead hatchery on the North Fork of the Clearwater River. It easily graded thousands of 6-7 inch steelhead quickly and without injury to the fish according to Wait Bethke, assistant state hatchery supervisor. Jack salmon, up to 18 in. in length, also have been moved with this pump.

The new fish handling pump will be in operation at the Hagerman fish hatchery near Hagerman before the end of the summer, according to Bethke.

In another demonstration for the fish management agencies of Oregon and Washington, the fish handling pump loaded 8½ million fall chinook salmon (6,000 pounds) into six trucks at the rate of about 300 pounds a minute. A larger sized pump of six inches, instead of five inches, handles a proportionately larger number of fish in the same amount of time.

Little Change In Snow Conditions on Mountains

Snow surveys for the month of February have been completed in cooperation with the Latah Soil and Water Conservation District.

With rain and warm weather during the past month, the snow depth has decreased, especially on the lower elevation courses. There has been no change in the snow-pack on the Moscow Mountain snow course, which is at the greatest elevation of the six which are measured. There is less than 1 foot of snow at the lower elevations and about 40 inches on the Moscow Mountain course.

The water content and the density of the snow have increased significantly as a result of the rain and warmer temperatures. The soil under the snow, although quite damp, does not seem to be saturated.

Although the snow depth is considerably less than it was at this time last year, it is about normal for the past ten years.

Two more snow surveys remain to be taken this year, one in March and one in April.

There are so many different recipes for rolls and hot bread, but whatever recipe you follow—the results are usually good and also inexpensive to make, and most of all will receive many compliments from your family when you serve them hot at the dinner table.

Our cook this week adds two more good recipes to our list. She says she has used them many times and they turn out tender and delicious, so are favorites of her family. She prefers to have her name withheld as she says there weren't her original cipes. Well, after all, very few, if any of us have original recipes. Mine, I know are those handed down to me by my mother or some I've exchanged over the years with a friend or neighbor.

We don't care where they came from—just send or bring them in and we'll gladly withhold your name.

Easter will be coming along in a little over two weeks and that means planning for a family or pot luck dinner. So, while you have your recipes files handy, please share a few with our readers.

Your Game Department

By John R. Woodworth, director Idaho Fish-Game Department Spring Bear Hunting

Most of southern Idaho is open year-round for black bear hunting. Some protection and status as a game animal is given this species of bruin, however, in the 21 game management units of the Panhandle and Clearwater regions, and four units located south of the main Salmon River. These are units 22, 32, 32-A and 33. In these units, spring black bear season ends May 31, reopening again for the fall season September 5. Grizzly bears are protected at all times throughout Idaho except when killing livestock or otherwise destroying property. Some 3,000 black bears a year are shot and reported on the annual hunter questionnaire.

License Increases Effective May 1
In line with recent legislative action, non resident combination hunting-fishing licenses will be hiked in price from $100 to $135—but not until May 1. Existing non resident combination licenses will be available from vendors all over the state for $100 until May 1, the effective date of the new law. This also applies to non resident bird hunting licenses, which the state legislature increased in price from $25 to $35. These will be sold throughout the state at $25 through April 30.

Litter Season Now
Litter season is now. A good time to focus attention on it is during the Idaho observance of National Wildlife Week, March 15-21. Fishermen and hunters generally are blamed for littering, though they contribute only a small part of the mess on public highways, waterways and campsites. Cleanup campaigns across the nation cost millions of dollars a year.

Weippe Business Changes Hands

The former International Dealership building and trailer court in Weippe owned by W. L. Fleming of Juliaetta and Jack Minkler of Pomeroy recently changed hands in a complex real estate transaction handled by Fran and Darrel Olson, real estate investment counselors with Clearwater Investments, Inc., of Orofino.

The new owners include Dr. and Mrs. Henry Furston of Sherman Oaks, California; Diana and Kay Olson of San Diego, California; Everett Olson, and North Idaho Investment Co., Inc., both of Orofino. Fleming and Minkler received several properties in exchange including two residential lots in Lake Havasu City, Arizona; 3 lots in Riverview Heights; 16 acres in Flume Creek Canyon near the new high school, and some farm machinery.

National Wildlife Week Spotlights Big Problem

By Jim Humbird
Idaho Fish-Game Department

It's easy enough for most people to respond negatively to the question being asked across America this week, "Seen any wildlife lately?" The majority of Americans live in big cities. Some critics enlarge upon the answer, saying "the game's all shot off," or "the waters are all fished out." This rarely, if ever, is true, and "National Wildlife Week" is set aside each spring to explain some of the problems of ecology and wildlife management, both state and national.

Of course, it is true in Idaho, as elsewhere in the United States, that too much change often wipes out fish and wildlife habitat. Fish and game populations are killed outright by environmental question "Seen any wildlife lately?" is a good slogan for National Wildlife Week, March 15-21 because the presence or absence of wildlife, is a measure of the quality of man's environment.

In Idaho, for example, pollution-caused fish kills were noted for each of the nine years since 1960 when the U. S. Department of Interior started keeping records on such matters. During five of those years, Idaho was in the category of major fish kills—100,000 or over. In 1961, the Gem State had the second largest reported fish kill in the U. S.

During 1968, the state's big fish kill was in the Boise River, where an estimated 200,000 fish died. It resulted from a meatpacking plant releasing anhydrous ammonia into the river.

Stacy Gebhardt, fisheries management supervisor, says that spectacular fish kills show that something toxic is in the water and probably can be corrected. Widespread public attention is focused on the matter. The real danger to lakes, rivers and streams is the undramatic gradual and complete deterioration of water supporting game fish to water that supports only nongame fish and eventually to water devoid of all fish life.

"Many rivers in industrial areas of this state and country do not report fish kills because there are no fish left to kill," Gebhardt avers. He added that "Idaho's great fishing will not survive unless the waters of the state are protected. In areas that already have been polluted and destroyed, the problem should be corrected immediately."

Gebhardt comments that most people will notice dead fish, but not silt, sludge, bacterial or aquatic slimes. These are the agents that destroy game fish habitat, smothering food production, and prevent successful spawning.

When a road or housing project replaces critical big game winter range and a large winterkill of deer or elk follows, the story makes the headline. For example, the state of Michigan lost thousands of deer a few years ago because too many animals crowded down on depleted winter range. The incident was regarded as top news but little attention was paid to the fact that Idaho elk and deer were coming through in good shape in all regions of the state.

In Idaho, for example, some housing developments are beginning to infringe on deer winter range that is critical to the survival of the Boise deer herd. Elk and deer that winter on lower Warm Springs Creek near Ketchum have suffered severe encroachment on their winter range due to housing developments. Such reductions in habitat make very poor news stories, but their effect on the number of game animals is far more drastic and long-lasting than any other factor.

Both summer homes and year-round residences are crowding the Big Wood River flood plain above and below Ketchum. Home owners and other property owners crowding the river have altered 22 percent of this stream to protect their properties. In the process, the Big Wood trout fishery has declined significantly. The aesthetic value of the river has been compromised. Sadly enough, people continue to compound this situation on streams and lakes throughout the state. The quality of the environment continues downward.

Who needs wildlife? In the sense that many wild creatures are a step ahead of mankind in their sensitivity to polluted air and water, chemical pesticides and the absence of naturalness—in a sense an indicator of environmental quality—everybody needs wildlife for survival. For when these other creatures are gone what's left is a squalid environment for people.

As plans are made for future highways, cities, jetports, and shopping centers without pollution and with a diversity of green spaces, the hard core won't go away—too many people. Yet world population now doubles itself every 35 years, more water use, housing, supermarkets, freeways and all the things that hordes of new comers will need when they get here. All this draining, irrigating, filling, cutting, bulldozing and developing to populate the shrinking wide open spaces of earth creates a much bigger problem.

Each time a new project is carved out of wilderness or desert, each time more land is cleared and irrigated, each time a tract is made more suitable for human habitation, it will lead to more population growth and greater drains on all resources.

Last fall, the Idaho Environmental Council, a group representing several conservation organizations, proposed an environmental bill of rights as an addition to the pending revision of the state constitution. A frontier philosophy prevailed at the time the constitution was drafted, and territorial residents were not too concerned about the natural environment except for the need to tame it. Now Idahoans, like all Americans, are learning that economic progress can have negative side effects such as the destruction or fouling of the environment. Waters and the atmosphere are becoming polluted.

The countryside is being spoiled, often torn up.

At one time an environmental bill of rights might have been considered a radical idea. Now, with the abuse of the environment threatening to make the earth uninhabitable, it doesn't seem radical at all.

National Wildlife Week, March 15-21, sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation and its 49 state affiliates, asks "Seen any wildlife lately?" The answers are vitally important, because abundant wildlife is more than America's heritage. It is America's key to survival.

WHEN MARCH WINDS BLOW

When March winds blow, they guide me
To childhoods fair domain;
Through clouds that fail to hide me
From BLUEBIRD DAYS again.

And like a fairy story
I fly my kites once more;
On wind-swept hills of glory
Gone on so long before.

Memories that nought can sever
Stand out in afterglow;
And kites fly on forever,
In dreams

WHEN MARCH WINDS BLOW.

—Bert Gamble

DRINKERS aren't safe at home. There, too, the chances of getting smashed by "getting smashed" are pretty high, according to a study made at Massachusetts General Hospital. Researchers there report that about 8.5 million Americans get banged up in home accidents each year, and nearly one-fourth of these have been drinking at the time, actually over 22 percent. Naturally, where alcohol is involved, some of the cases are more than a little unusual. There was the woman who climbed atop her refrigerator to retrieve something from a shelf, forgot where she was, and just walked off.

MOTORISTS who are peeved at the way new superhighways disintegrate during the winter should be glad to know that the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads, in its search for better materials, is going to recommend additional tests for cement aggregates. It seems that recent research found 20 types of gravels peculiarly sensitive to frost cracking, a characteristic not detected by the usual highway materials testing programs.

ABOUT 90 PER CENT of deadly hepatitis from blood transfusions can be traced to the use of commercial blood, says a Stanford University surgeon, and he urges federal action to stop its use. He wants it to take steps to remove commercial blood from the market or to label it a "high-risk product" if its use must continue. At present there is no federal requirement to distinguish commercial from volunteer blood. (Commercial blood is that from donors who receive a payment from a commercial blood establishment; volunteer blood is given without payment, to community blood banks.)

A GOOD TURN for divers who install underwater pipelines is a special fitting called a swivel-ring flange. It has a rotating outer-ring that simplifies alignment of bolt holes. Valuable diving time is saved in connecting piping sections, say its designers at Tube Turns, Louisville.

ABOUT THREE-FOURTHS of all the fresh water in the world—equivalent to about 60 year's precipitation over the entire globe—is locked in glacier ice, says the U.S. Department of Interior. In North America the volume of water stored as snow and ice glaciers is many times the amount stored in all lakes, ponds, rivers and reservoirs on the continent.

THE LAND MASSES of the earth rise and fall, as the ocean does, every day, pulled by the sun and moon and pushed by the sea, say Columbia University geologists. They have found that earth tides are greatly influenced by the action of ocean tides, more than previously believed, even at points for inland. Results of the study may lead to development of new techniques for predicting earthquakes, prospecting for oil, and measuring the little-known tides of the open ocean.

PATIENTS may some day use computers to help the physician diagnose their own illnesses, says a Brown University medical researcher. He said it would help eliminate the need for a physician's listening to medical history and symptoms at the beginning of a patient's visit to his office. This would save precious time for the physician, permit him to learn more about the patient as a person and help him zero in on a solution to the patient's specific medical problem more quickly.

TREMENDOUS GROWTH in the use of welding by new, automated shipyards that will use vertical welding processes such as the electroslag method is predicted by National Cylinder Gas, Chicago. In the continuous electroslag process, which involves the deposition of molten weld metal under a fused slag covering, steel plates up to 20 inches thick can be welded economically. NGG says entire ships will be placed on mechanisms that will move them into position for welding.

THE COMPLICATED, ultra-microscopic effects of viruses on bacteria cells may hold clues to how cancer starts and how cancer cells differ from normal cells, reports a University of Southern California microbiologist. She is studying how phage, a bacterial virus, acts on the host cells it infects. There are striking similarities between this process and the way other kinds of viruses cause animal cancers. "The viruses known to form animal cancers don't kill the animal cells, but rather alter them," she said. "Particularly, they change the surface of the cells, and also change the frequency at which the cells divide. Thus, individual cancer cells and groups of cancer cells often look quite different from the corresponding normal cells." remove the gold.

Income Tax Refunds To Be Audited

All income tax refunds are paid subject to later auditing or investigation of the returns, according to Internal Revenue Service information officer, John C. Andujar.

Therefore, taxpayers receiving refunds are advised to save their records to prove the returns are correct when called upon to do so.

The returns are checked by electronic accounting machinery before refunding. However, full verification with the taxpayer would delay payment so they are completely audited later.

Wheat Reseal Loan Announcement Made

Extension of price-support loans will be available for both farm-stored and commercially stored 1968-and-1969 crop wheat, Clarence A. Jensen, Chairman of the Latah County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, has announced.

He also announced that reseed loans will continue to be available on 1967-crop farm-stored wheat, but not on older crops.

Extending or resealing price-support loans provides a longer period for producers to market their crops enabling better management of supplies. Producers may apply at the Latah County ASCS Office, for reseed extensions.

Reseal loans will not be continued after the 1970 loan maturity dates for farm-stored wheat from the 1964-65-66 crops nor for commercially stored wheat from the 1967 crop. Approximately 97 million bushels of wheat from these crops are currently under price-control loan.

Maturity date for the 1966 and 1967 crops under reseed loan is MAY 31 1970 in Idaho. For the 1964 and 1965 crops the maturity date is March 31. Producers may liquidate such loan by delivery of the wheat to the Commodity Credit Corporation or by repayment.

Mr. Jensen said it is normal policy for the CCC to drop older crops from the annual loan extension (reseed) programs as newer crops become eligible for loan extensions. It is a good management practice insuring that only the fresher supplies are continued in storage.

CCC sales policy on wheat for the marketing year beginning July 1 also was announced by the ASC Committee Chairman. Sales of storable wheat will be made for unrestricted use at not less than the 1970 loan rate where stored, plus an 18% cents per-bushel flat markup plus carrying charges of 1 and one-half cents per bushel per month for nine months beginning in the second month—or the market price if higher.
