Juliaetta Council Passes Dog Leash Law

With its publication in this week's Gazette, Juliaetta's recently passed leash law pertaining to dogs within the city limits becomes effective, reminded City Marshal Ervin Mabbott.

The continuation and enforcement of a city leash law was approved by Juliaetta voters last November. Since that time the City Council has been working on an effective ordinance and the completed city law is published on page 7 of this issue.

Basically the new ordinance provides that, with exceptions such as "seeing eye" dogs, no dog will be permitted to run at large within the city limits during the period of March 1 and October 15 of each year whether licensed or unlicensed. The ordinance also sets forth enforcement, impounding, disposition, and penalties if the law is broken.

Also changed is the licensing fees. Under the provisions of the new ordinance dog tags will cost $2.50 for males and spayed females, and $5.00 for unspayed females if purchased before February 1 of each year. If purchase is delayed until after February 1, the fee increases to $5.00 for males and spayed females and $10.00 for unspayed females.

The City of Juliaetta earnestly requests the cooperation of all pet owners regarding this ordinance.

Revised Tax Bill For Relief of Retired Persons

In the second session of the 40th legislature a bill was enacted granting relief from the escalation of taxes to persons over 65 years of age, meeting certain requirements.

These requirements are:
1. Applicant must be 65 years of age by January 1 of the tax year.

2. Retired with a gross income not to exceed $4,800. Combined income of husband and wife cannot exceed this figure.

3. The value of the dwelling must not exceed $15,000 and must be occupied by applicant. Owners of trailer homes qualify under the same requirements.

4. To be eligible for the rollback to the 1966 ratio of assessment the applicant must have been a continuous resident of Idaho for 15 years. Absence from this state for more than 12 months at any one time would automatically eliminate the granting of this relief. Application must be made in the office of the County Assessor each year by May 15th.

H. B. 644 as enacted by the 40th legislature is an amended version of the same bill that was passed in 1969. Persons having signed up for the 1970 rollback may not qualify under the revised act and should check their assessor's office before May 15th, 1970.

FWPCA Releases Report On Water Pollution From Logging Operations

The Federal Water Pollution Control Administration today released its report, Industrial Waste Guide on Logging Practices, a comprehensive but concise statement on logging operations as related to the degradation of water quality in the streams of the Pacific Northwest, according to James L. Agee, Regional Director for FWPCA's Northwest Region.

"Logging is one of the most serious sources of water pollution in the Pacific Northwest," Mr. Agee said. More than 70,000,000 acres of commercial timber lands, which are dotted with logging operations, blanket 40 per cent of the land area of the Pacific Northwest, according to the report.

Pollution of streams draining forest lands centers on sediment loads, temperature effects on fisheries, and organic leaching products. In addition, the aesthetic impacts of logging to the stream edge—even into and across streams—is a major limitation imposed on recreational uses by the general public.

"Logging operations are so widespread an occurrence and can be so detrimental to water quality that pollution control measures must be made effective on the spot and at the time of logging, by utilizing proper logging practices," Mr. Agee said. "Our logging guide spells out in detail what must be done in logging operations of we are ever to adequately cope with pollution of our valuable water resources," Agee pointed out.

Responsibility for abatement of water pollution from improper logging practices rests primarily with the owners of forest lands and secondarily with the logging firms actually conducting the logging operations, according to the report. Forest land owners must contract for and pay the added costs of proper logging.

Since 60 per cent of all commercial timber in the Northwest is in forest lands administered by Federal agencies, the Federal role in presenting the good example is of major importance.

"Federal agencies, such as the U.S. Forest Service and Bureau of Land Management, are presently instituting better programs to assure proper logging practices to prevent and control water pollution," Mr. Agee said. "But, Federally controlled logging programs to abate water pollution must be more far-reaching and instituted more promptly," Agee added. The Federal Water Pollution Control Administration has been working closely with the other Federal agencies on this problem and will continue to do so with redoubled efforts, Agee said.

The 40 page report, accompanied by some 40 photographs and illustrations, spells out the logging practices which must be involved if forest land streams are to be saved from further adverse pollutional impacts.

The report urges detailed logging plans be made before any logging is undertaken. It discusses the layout, construction and maintenance of logging roads; the cutting and handling of trees in logged areas; the unqualified necessity of leaving buffer or filter strips; and the restoration of logged areas to preserve the soil resource as the basis for reforestation and production of a new crop of trees.

The Industrial Waste Guide on Logging Practices may be obtained by writing to: Federal Water Pollution Control Administration, 501 Pittock Block, Portland, Ore. 97205

REPRINT
 The following article was taken from "Paris Pups" Napa Jobber and brought in by Robert Borgen, who thought it might be of interest to our readers.
U. S. Downfall Plotted 50 Years Ago

In May of 1919 at Dusseldorf, Germany, the Allied Forces obtained a copy of some of the "Communist Rules for Revolution." Now, fifty years later, the Reds are still following the rule. As you read the list, stop after each item and think about the present-day situation where you live, and all around our nation. We quote from the Red Rules:

A. Corrupt the young, get them away from religion. Get them interested in sex. Make them superficial, destroy their ruggedness.

B. Get control of all means of publicity, thereby:
 1. Get people's minds off their government by focusing their attention on athletics, sexy books and plays, and other trivialities.
 2. Divide the people into hostile groups by constantly harping on controversial matters of no importance.

3. Destroy the people's faith in their natural leaders by holding the latter up to contempt, ridicule and obloquy.
 4. Always preach true democracy, but seize power as fast and ruthlessly as possible.

5. By encouraging government extravagance, destroy its credit, produce fear of inflation with rising prices and general discontent.

6. Foment unnecessary strikes in vital industries, encourage civil disorders and foster lenient and soft attitude on the part of government toward such disorder.

7. By specious argument cause the breakdown of the old moral virtues, honesty, sobriety, continence, faith in the pledged word, ruggedness.

C. Cause the registration of all firearms on some text, with the view to confiscating them and leaving the population helpless.

Take time to think seriously of the above and draw your own conclusions

Road Agency Practices Defensive Driving Habits

BOISE-Many persons have the fatalistic attitude that if it comes their time to go there is nothing they can do about it. They are wrong according to Dale R. Tankersley, Safety Supervisor for the Idaho Department of Highways.

There is much the average law-abiding driver can do to prevent accidents and thus postpone "their time to go" a little.

Most fatal accidents involve good drivers, with seven out of ten having no prior violations and eight out of ten having no record of previous accidents. Of the more than 10,000 accidents in the county annually, over 90 percent involve what are considered to be good drivers.

Although traffic laws are necessary, and more are needed, the one major cause of accidents will remain human error. It isn't enough for a driver just to obey traffic regulations; he must learn to anticipate situations where the rules can't help him. He should anticipate by using his imagination in such a way that he becomes what safety experts call the "defensive driver."

While most Highway Department employees have been trained in defensive driving, any driver can develop the techniques by consciously practicing all the safety rules he knows. When an accident situation arises, he will then react automatically and correctly.

A way to develop a defensive attitude, according to Tankersley, is to ask yourself, while at the wheel what you would do if an emergency situation should arise. For example, suppose you are in a line of traffic moving along at highway speed when suddenly the car in front of you slams on brakes to avoid hitting a dog. Ask yourself, would you have time to stop or would you have to swerve? Where would you swerve, into the other lane or onto the shoulder? Would you have noticed beforehand that traffic conditions behind you would allow you to change lanes or use other evasive maneuvers?

Try this little test on yourself sometime, but remember that you must be honest. You can't cheat by giving yourself forewarning that a simulated emergency situation is about to occur. For best results, interrupt a tranquil daydream. You will be surprised at the indecision you will experience but the more you practice, the less will be your indecision. If you are sufficiently interested in safety, to do this, your chances of avoiding an accident will be much improved.

Census Information Is Confidential

Wash., D. C. — When Uncle Sam takes his decennial census photograph of the nation on April 1st, every American household will contribute its own uniquely important details. However, no individual household or any of its members can be singled out for viewing. That is because the Bureau of the Census, U. S. Dept. of Commerce, which clicks the camera shutter, also takes complete charge of the resulting snapshot. And these snapshots, used only for statistical purposes, cannot by law be disclosed to any person outside the bureau for any reason whatsoever.

When you receive your official census form through the mail, shortly before April 1, you can rest assured that no single fact about you can ever be identified in any published or unpublished data compiled by the Bureau of the Census.

True, you will be counted as one of so many million males, or million females in Uncle Sam's counting project. You will be numbered among the so many college graduates or high-school dropouts, as the case may be. No one can learn that you are 27 or 53, for example, or that you live in a house or apartment or at any particular address.

Furthermore, no other government agency may examine individual census records for any purpose whatsoever.

One exception can be made — and it is to help you. Suppose you have no birth certificate and you need proof of your age for Social Security, Medicare, or retirement benefits. Suppose you need proof of family relationship in claiming a rightful inheritance. Suppose you need proof of American citizenship for a passport or job requirement. In any of these circumstances, the law will accept as valid, a transcript of these personal items as they appear on your census record. However, only you or your authorized legal representative can secure such a transcript.

IDAHO DEPT. OF EMPLOYMENT

As the weather continued to improve, a slight increase in the number of Latah County workers being placed on jobs was noted. Frank J. Hartstein, Moscow office manager of the Idaho Department of Employment reported that his office assisted 10 workers in locating employment during the week. A week ago the total was 8 and during the week before, there were only four workers given job finding help. New jobs listed with the office totaled 22 during the week, and at the end of the week there were 37 jobs still open. Qualified workers in the area could find work as secretaries, cooks, waitresses, baby sitters, an alterations seamstress and domestic workers. Other openings are for experienced farm equipment operators, a dairy worker, a plumber, service station operator and salesman.

As conditions worsened somewhat in the area's forests, additional work

Ever tried Beef Bourguignon? No better time than right now, if you're planning a small dinner-party for friends or neighbors. This is a dish that can be made the day before. The flavor improves too, if made ahead of time. The recipe makes about 6 generous servings.

BEEF BOURGIGNON

one-fourth cup shortening
3 lbs. lean beef, cut into 1-inch squares
3 T flour
1 1/2 t salt
1/2 t pepper
1/4 t dried thyme
1 cup canned condensed beef broth, undiluted
1 cup dry red wine
1/2 lb. fresh mushrooms, sliced, or 1 3-oz can sliced mushrooms
12 small white onions
Heat oven to 325 degrees.

Brown meat in the fat then stir in flour, salt, pepper, and thyme scraping bottom of skillet well. Turn all into a 2-qt. casserole. Pour in beef broth and wine. Cover casserole and bake for two hours.

At the end of two hours add mushrooms and onions. (If mixture seems dry, pour in equal amounts of broth and wine).

Continue baking for an hour or more. Remove from oven and skim any fat from gravy. Serve right from casserole.

If you use canned mushrooms, add with juice last half hour.

ers were laid off by logging contractors. A total of 1 persons filed new claims for unemployment insurance during the week, most of them from the lumber industry. The total number of idled workers seeking jobs pay throughout the county is now 395. This is 100 more than the 295 who were on the jobless pay rolls at this time one year ago, and is up from the 376 who were filing claims one week ago. Most of the increase from the previous week, and from last year is in the Troy-Deary-Bovill area where the totals show 143 current, 128 last week and 121 last year, and in the Potlatch area where there are now 73 persons seeking benefits compared with 70 last week and 43 last year. In the immediate Moscow area the total number filing claims for unemployment insurance is now 135, a week ago the total was 134 and a year ago only 86. Few of the Moscow idle are woods workers and most are construction workers who have not yet been called back to work. Woods workers are expected to return to work about May 1, 1970 while construction workers could return at any time, depending on the pace of some of the on-going buildings jobs and the number of new starts in the immediate future.

Spray Program Seen As Wildlife Threat

Lewiston — The proposed spray program to control grasshoppers on a potential 75,000 acres in the Clearwater region is seen as a threat to upland game populations, according to Sam McNeill, regional game manager with the Idaho Fish and Game Department. Dale Turner, assistant regional game manager, made a statement to this effect at the hearing held Dec. 19, 1969. Although malathion, the chemical to be used in the spray operations, has not been found to kill chukars, quail, pheasants and other upland game directly, it does reduce the insects which the young birds require to survive their first six weeks of life. Sixty percent of the diet of young birds consists of insects.

Birds are very beneficial in reducing insect numbers. A survey of the food habits of game birds last year showed a high percentage of grasshoppers consumed.

Malathion is lethal to many beneficial insects. When questioned about the effect on bees, at the Dec. 19th meeting, Dr. Ronald Portman, University of Idaho, indicated bees should be removed a distance of five miles from the spray area for a period of two weeks to prevent injury. There was also concern expressed that the spray could kill the goat weed beetle which is beneficial in controlling this noxious weed.

The spray program will be conducted on about 20,000 acres in Nez Perce county, primarily in the canyons adjacent to cropland and grassy hillside that game birds prefer. It is hoped the spray program will be kept to the minimum acreage needed to accomplish the task, and only if there are excessive numbers of grasshoppers. — Stu Murrell, Regional Conservation Educator.

SOCIAL SECURITY NEWS

Remember April 15; this is an important date for persons who received social security checks last year.

Persons receiving checks and who earned more than $1690 during the calendar year 1969 must file an annual report with the social security office by April 15.

The Annual Report to Social Security has nothing to do with Federal Income Tax. A person receiving social security benefits who earned over $1690 in 1969 must make a report to Social Security regardless of whether he files an income tax return or not.

Under the present social security retirement test, a person who does not earn over $1690 in a year does not have to make an annual report to social security and will receive all of his social security checks for that year. If a beneficiary earns between $1690 and $2890 in a year, $1 will be withheld from his checks for every $2 he earns over $1690. When annual earnings go over $2890, $1 in benefits is withheld for each $1 earned over $2890.

There are two important exceptions to this rule. A beneficiary can receive his check for any month in which he neither earned over $140 in wages nor performed substantial services in self-employment. A person may earn any amount and still receive social security benefits beginning with the month of his 72nd birthday. An annual report of earnings is still required for the year in which he attains age 72 if his earnings for that year exceed $1690. Anyone with questions about the annual report requirements are urged to visit the social security office at 726 21st Street, Lewiston, Idaho, or call 743-9456.

WATCH THAT INCOME TAX REPORT

Boise — Many income tax mistakes are made by those who delay until the April 15th deadline, and then make out their returns too hastily, according to the I. R. S. information officer John C. Andrus. "Last Minute" taxpayers are advised to be extra careful and double check their returns before filing them, and also put their social security numbers on their tax checks.

Most of the errors are wrong social security numbers on the returns, incomplete addresses, missing signatures or M-2's, and incorrect figuring of the tax.

Faulty or incomplete returns delay refunds because of the extra correction work to be done on them after they are filed.

LOAD RESTRICTIONS OFF

Lewiston — Effective immediately load and speed restrictions will be lifted on the following sections of highway in District 4:

U. S. 12 Junction State Highway 13 at Kooskia bridge to Montana line. S. H. 8 — East city limits Bovill to Elk River.

Load limits still prevail on S. H. 9, Junction S. H. 8 west to Deary to junction U. S. Alt. 95 at Harvard. S. H. 14 — Junction S. H. 13 to Elk City.

U. S. SALES OF WHEAT TO JAPAN CLIMB

Boise — A new sales record of U. S. wheat to Japan for their fiscal year (March 1969 - April 1970) was made when the Food Agency of the Ministry of Agriculture and Forestry concluded their foreign wheat purchases for the year on March 11, it was announced this week by the Idaho Wheat Commission.

On a purchase basis the new record is 2,248,287 metric tons (82,602,084 bushels) of U. S. wheat, which tops the 1967-68 fiscal year record of 2,129,460 metric tons (78,236,360 bushels) with a margin of 118,827 metric tons (4,365,704 bushels).

Compared with last year the increase is a whopping 605,879 metric tons (22,248,972 bushels). Last year the low total of 1,642,708 metric tons (60,353,092 bushels) was the result of the Food Agency's purchase halt of over two months because of the amylose problem.

Total foreign wheat purchases by Japan also hit a new record total of 4,335,378 metric tons (159,281,788 bushels) and the U. S. share of this total came to 51.9 percent.

Western Wheat Association executive vice president Richard K. Baum and WWA board member from Nebraska Ervin Fricke were in Tokyo when the final purchases were made for the fiscal year. Both visited the Director General of the Food Agency, Osamu Morimoto and Deputy Director General Teiginobu the following day to express appreciation for the record purchases of U. S. wheat. Morimoto remarked that it was due to the fine service and cooperative effort of the U. S. wheat industry and particularly the growers as represented by the Wheat Association in Tokyo. Also the sincerity and concern in settling problems was a factor in the F. A.'s purchase decisions, according to Morimoto.

To the above figures for this fiscal year would be added the free wheat purchases made by the flour mills of U. S. wheat. The final figures are not yet in but it is expected to be roughly 50,000 metric tons (1,837,000 bushels). The flour mills are allowed to make direct wheat purchases in the amount of flour they export, thus by-passing the F.A. With the free wheat purchase figures added to the Food Agency purchases, the U. S. total will be close to 2,300,000 metric tons (84,502,000 bushels).

Based on the Food Agency purchases, the percentage increase is 5 1/2 percent over the previous record fiscal year (1967-1968) and almost 36.9 percent increase over the last Japanese fiscal year.

The Clarks report a wonderful trip "but it's nice to be home!"

Some of the music one hears these days does not suggest music.

A fellow from Lewiston had a horse who was in need of winter lodging and so the fellow was driving thru the Genesee Rimrock area looking for someone to board the horse for the winter. He stopped at a farm with a large barn and stock in the pasture and after chatting with the farmer for awhile asked what he would charge a month to keep Old Paint. The farmer thought and said he could keep the horse for $15 a month. "Sorry, but I can't afford that, even for such a good horse as Paint." Driving farther down the road he stopped at a farm where the farmer was sorting cattle in the corral. Thinking this would be a good place for his horse he asked the farmer what the monthly charge would be to board his horse.

The farmer, after much deep thinking, said, "I'll keep him for $10 a month and you can have the manure for your garden." The horse owner thought this was a much better price plus the manure thrown in, but being frugal of nature he traveled down the road to see if he could find a better deal. He stopped at the next farm and after much dickering and haggling the price arrived at $8 a month. The horse owner was elated over his bargaining but said, "$8 a month is a fair price but what about the manure for my garden?" The farmer looked at him scornfully and said, "Manure? Man, for $8 a month there ain't no manure."

S. B. A. Assistance To Be Available

Spokane — A representative of the Small Business Administration will be in Lewiston next Thursday, April 2, to assist individuals in resolving management problems and to aid businessmen who need financial assistance to strengthen their businesses. Harry G. Anderson will be at the Lewiston Chamber of Commerce in the Lewis-Clark Hotel between 11:00 a. m. and 3:00 p. m. to answer questions and to discuss various S. B. A. problems.

The Small Business Administration assists businessmen unable to secure financing from other sources by guaranteeing bank loans or by participating in loans with financial institutions.

Assistance with management problems also is available through personal counseling by volunteer members of SCORE, the Service Corps of Retired Executives, or ACE, the Acting Corps of Executives.

Businessmen should bring with them to the interview current profit and loss statements and a balance sheet for the last complete business year. Persons hoping to start a business should bring a current personal financial statement or copies of their tax returns for the last two or three years.

ready for the census takers when they start their rounds on April 1.

The form contains 7 questions about every person in the household and 13 questions about the dwelling. The personal information asked for is: name, address, sex, color or race, month and year of birth, whether married or single, and relationship to head of the household. The information required about the dwelling is: number of rooms, cooking facilities, plumbing, if rented or owned.

Most of the questions are answered by filling in the proper tiny circle with a common lead pencil, making a tiny black dot which can be "read" by Census Bureau machines. Residents should read the instruction sheet which will come with the questionnaire before filling it out.

The census taker will check the questionnaire to see that all questions have been answered and will give any assistance needed in filling out a questionnaire that is incomplete. At every fifth household, the census taker will seek answers to additional questions covering population and housing characteristics that are being asked of a 20 percent sample of the Nation's population. The sample questions include income, employment, income, and inquiries on country of birth, schooled items. The additional housing questions relate to rent or value of dwelling, heating equipment, water supply, and other facilities and equipment.

The District Manager pointed out that information about individuals and their homes furnished to the Census Bureau is kept confidential under Federal law. Only statistical totals and averages are published. No individual person can be identified in published reports and census information cannot be given to any other Government agency, local officials, tax collectors, police, health, welfare, or school officers, nor to anyone else.

AMPHETAMINES

Physicians testifying before a House Select Subcommittee on Crime have urged strict controls on the use of amphetamines, reports the Idaho Medical Association.

Some of those testifying have expressed the belief that amphetamines are easily abused and pose a health problem more serious than narcotics.

Students are generally thought to be the greatest consumers of these stimulants, however, witnesses stated that amphetamine abuse is as serious a problem among upper and middle-class persons, including medical personnel and middle-aged women.

It is also noted that although amphetamines are widely prescribed in the treatment of fatigue, depression and overweight, they may carry with them a serious risk of addiction.

Interstate Completion Tops Idaho Estimate

The cost to construct Idaho's 611.5 mile portion of the Nation's 42,500 mile Interstate Highway System is estimated at $365,327,000 or about $4.5 million more than the estimate two years ago.

Each state must estimate every two years the cost of completing its portion of the interstate system.

The estimate in 1968 was $360,778,000, including $174.1 million then authorized and $186.7 million estimated still to be constructed. The estimate for this year is $365.3 million, including $242.3 million authorized and $123 million yet to be constructed.

State Highway Engineer Ellis Mathes said 72 percent of the interstate mileage in Idaho has been completed.

He noted that the cost of completing Interstate 80 in Southern Idaho the cost of completing Interstate 90 had decreased by $6.2 million, but $10.8 million more because of ex-across North Idaho will be about tremely rough terrain.

Mathes noted that 1,500 additional miles of Interstate were authorized by Congress in 1968, none in Idaho, and that under the apportionment of highway trust funds based on mileage, Idaho will lose about $3.5 million in 1971.

EASTER

Across the dawnscape of my dreams
Bleat by the EASTER morn;
Comes strength to roll the stone

Not just the hope that happiness
Be yours this one glad day.

In the sunshine of HIS love;
May your EASTER prayers be

RETURNING STEELHEAD TO HATCHERIES NOTED

Checking station reports from North Fork indicate that just about half of the steelhead catch above the mouth of the Middle Fork this year are fish that got their start in hatchery facilities at Hayden Creek, a tributary of the Lemhi River, or holding ponds on the Pahsimeroi River, the Idaho Fish and Game Department reported today.

"This is about twice as many fish as were observed last year with hatchery identification marks which had been put on them as fingerlings," says Don Corley, Salmon, regional fishery biologist. "Either freeze brand marks or finclips are used on the fish. Hatchery production is part of Idaho's experimental anadromous fish restoration program in the Salmon and Clearwater drainages, which still is regarded as experimental even though promising indications of success can be cited."

Corley said that spring steelhead fishing normally is best about mid-March, depending on weather and the water conditions. So far this year it was best on the upper Salmon River the last week in February, when the average catch rate was about 13 hours per steelie. The next week the success ratio plunged to 32 hrs.

per fish. Since an average run of steelhead came over Ice Harbor Dam last fall, and the October-November fishing was good but not outstanding, he still hopes that more fish will come.

Writers will do well to avoid the intoxication of adjectives.

The happiest people go to church; there must be something to it.

Steelhead, caught in Idaho in the late fall and early springtime before snow runoff, entered the mouth of the Columbia River during the previous summer. Idaho's fall steelhead fishery is made up of fish that were in vanguard reaching the Snake River and the big waters of the lower Clearwater and Salmon rivers in October and November, when anglers take some of them.

Steelhead caught in the springtime are not ocean-fresh. They entered the Columbia River system about the same time the previous summer, but wintered-over in the deep holes of the lower rivers. The dark red hues of some of the spring-caught fish may be a sign that they have been in fresh water longer than other steelhead, but there is no documentation to prove it.
