

Debra Johnson Named For Kendrick High Homemaker Of Tomorrow Award

Kendrick's 1971 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow is senior Debra Sue Johnson. Selected for her performance in a written knowledge and attitude examination administered to senior girls on Dec. 1st, Debra will receive a specially designed award from General Mills, sponsor of the annual education program. Additionally, she is now eligible for state and national honors, including one of 102 college scholarships totaling $110,000.

The national first-place winner — the 1971 Betty Crocker All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow — will receive a $5,000 educational grant. She will be chosen this spring from 51 Homemakers of Tomorrow representing each state and the District of Columbia at the close of an expense-paid educational tour of Washington, D. C., and Colonial Williamsburg, Va. Each of the state winners will be accompanied on this tour by a school advisor. Second, third and fourth place winners will be awarded $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000 scholarships and the other state winners will receive $1,500 grants.

State judging centers on scores of school winners in the Dec. 1 test, with personal observation and interviews during the tour added factors in national selections. Second ranking Homemakers of Tomorrow in each state receive $500 educational grants. The school of every $1,500 winner receives a set of Encyclopedia Britannica.

All judging and selection of winners is done by Science Research Associates, Chicago, which all constructed and graded the written examinations.

The Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow is the only national scholarship program exclusively for high school girls.

Begun by General Mills in the 1954-55 school year to emphasize the importance of homemaking as a career, it will with the 1971 grants, have awarded more than $1,750,000 in scholarships during its 17-year history.

Linda Kimbley was high scorer with 14 points, followed by Frances Spencer with 6.

The girls have a 4-win — 6-loss record for the season. Deary and Troy with better league records qualify for the tourney at Orofino. Kendrick will be a strong contender next year, however, as they had no seniors on the squad. Most games were lost by one or two points. The Junior Varsity won 3 and lost 4 for the season.

Rule changes to permit full-court play made for some very interesting games, and good crowds were present to cheer the girls on.

Seventh And Eighth Grade B. B.

VOLUME 81 KENDRICK AND GENESEE LATAH COUNTY, IDAHO THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1971, NO. 7

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Mattoon To Observe Golden Wedding Anniversary Sunday, Feb. 21

(By Millie Coridill)

Troy: The chorus of a lovable old song: "Put on your old gray bonnet with the blue ribbons on it. While I hitch old dobbie to the shay Through the fields of clover we'll drive up to Dover. On our Golden Wedding Day —" could well have been the fitting theme 50 years ago for Mr. and Mrs. Perry Mattoon of Troy, as he recalled their courtship began with a ride in the country in a borrowed horse-drawn white topped buggy, "but now I will be taking her in the car," he said.

The couple will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on Sunday, February 21st, at the Troy Grange Hall between the hours of 2:00 and 5:00 p. m. Their five daughters and sons-in-law and families will host the happy occasion.

Married February 24th, 1921 at Lewiston they made their first home on Moscow Mountain, living there for about a year. They cut and sold wood from there to Moscow business firms for around $5.00 a cord for 4-foot wood, delivered. "After receiving the money for the wood, we always had a little of it for a treat which we would eat on the way home. It nearly always consisted of a package of ginger snaps, some cheese and some salted peanuts," they remarked with a chuckle.

In the latter part of 1922 he found work on a farm near Lapwai where they lived until the fall of 1923, when they moved to American Ridge to accept employment on a farm working for the late Dora May. Hoping to eventually have a farm of their own some day, opportunity knocked. They were given the chance to rent a farm on the ridge. Filled with enthusiasm the couple proceeded to get a few of the necessities to set up housekeeping. With a hearty chuckle the couple remarked: "All that we had to start with was a rusty wood cook stove, a rocking chair, an old table, a bed and a straw mattress covered with a feather tick; one pig and 25 pounds of peanut butter that we bought from Morgan Brothers. If any two people have ever tried to consume 25 pounds of peanut butter they can clearly understand why we didn't get rid of it all, and why our taste buds do not yet cherish the flavor of peanut butter and jelly sandwiches."

Without the luxury of electricity on the farm and the chore of washing lamp chimneys blackened from the kerosene lights we thought we had taken quite a step forward when we promoted ourselves to a new Aladdin lamp with two mantles for better lighting and cleaner burning," Mrs. Mattoon said. "Through the hardships of the 1930's we sold five gallons of cream for $1.50, eggs for 12c to 15c a dozen, beans for 11-2c a pound, and hogs for about 3c a pound. Apples were mighty cheap, too," he said, "as we traded a sack of beans for four sacks of apples. Like the other farmers we hauled enough wheat to the Cuddeback flour mill for grinding for a year's supply of flour."

When the week-end rolled around and time for the regular Saturday night scrub-down, most of the family had to join the bucket brigade and carry water from the outside well, since there was no running water in the farm home then. The wash boiler was filled and heated on the old wood stove, while the big round washtub took its place in the middle of the kitchen floor, as each one of the family waited their turn for a soaping.

"I farmed with horses until 1941, when I replaced them with a Model E Cletrac tractor," Mattoon said. "I thought the machine was great until I put it in reverse and backed over a spring-tooth. I found out it wouldn't stop when I hollered 'whoa', but it was a great work saver as well as time saving."

The Mattoons farmed on American Ridge until 1950, moving to a farm near Cavendish where they lived for three years. Their final move was made when they bought a farm near Troy, Idaho, on which they still live. They retired in 1967 and rented their farm ground out. For a pastime he feeds a few cattle and she-does fancy work in his hobby, besides her other household chores.

Mrs. Mattoon, youngest of 8 children, is a daughter of George and Mary Goldner of Lapwai, and is the only living member of the family. In 1896, like many of the other early settlers they loaded their six children and all of their worldly belongings into a covered wagon and left Minnesota to come west. After weeks of travel and hardships encountered on the trail they arrived at Kippen, Idaho (now Reubens).

After about nine years of living there they bought a small farm near Lapwai. Her father later went into business as a fuel dealer in Lapwai and served as town constable from 1916 to 1921. Mrs. Mattoon received her education in the Lapwai schools.

Mattoon, the youngest of six children, pioneered from Boise with his parents to the Nez Perce prairie by way of covered wagon train. While living in Boise he recalls some of the hardships his father encountered as driver of a horse-drawn freight line. "One that stands out in my mind was when my father and two other freight drivers became lost in a Nevada sand storm, since this was the state they worked in. Not knowing for sure the direction to take they unhooked the horses from the wagons, trusting they would take them to town, which they did. After the storm subsided the drivers harnessed their horses and returned to find their wagons. It was not all that easy, as it took them three days of searching before they located them, partially buried in the sand. Father drove 32 head of horses in his freight line. They were divided into 16 teams. He rode the wheel horse and guided the lead team with only a jerk line, as the horses were trained to the verbal order of their driver," Mattoon said.

Looking for a better future the family left Boise and traveled north via the Salmon River and the Whitebird Hill. We almost lost our wagon in the river when the edge of the road caved in. The wagon hung precariously over the edge, but with the help of others in the train it was pulled back onto the road, and we were again on our weary way."

Mattoon recalls the anxiety shared by everyone in the wagon train. He said: "For three days outlaws followed us a few miles distant, so precautions had to be taken to protect our horses at night from the thieves. At the end of the day's travel the men and boys did the chores while the women prepared the chow line. The gong was sounded and the plates filled to the satisfaction of ravenous appetites. At nightfall we made our beds on the ground and the women and children slept in a circle around the horses and wagons, while men stood watch all night in case of trouble with horse thieves."

The family settled on a small farm on Nez Perce prairie, later trading it for a home in Volmer (now Craigmont). Mattoon received his education at Volmer and in Clarkston. After his schooling he worked on farms until holy matrimony entered his life, following courtship with Miss Carrie Goldner.

The couple's five daughters: Mrs. Everett (Connie) Fey, Kendrick; Mrs. Calvin (Carol) Halterman, Pagosa Springs, Colo.; Mrs. Neal (Bev) Stammer, Kuna, Ida.; Mrs. David (Kathryn) Shove, Juliaetta, Ida.; and Miss Helen Mattoon, Moscow. A son, James, lost his life while serving his country in the Korean conflict, in 1953. They also have 15 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Accounting for their 50 years of happiness Mattoon said: "We have had our hard times and our good times, which we always shared together as a team. I hope we can share as much happiness in the future as we have in the past. I would like to have 80 more years just like it."

The couple requests: "No gifts, please, just bring your happy smile."

Wild Turkey Planting In Pottlatch Canyon

By Stu Murrell

I had the opportunity to participate in a wild turkey trapping and transplanting project last week that took place in this Region. We trapped 13 turkeys from a flock near St. Maries and transported them to Pottlatch Canyon near Kendrick, releasing them within four hours after they had been trapped. There were about 20 sportsmen from Latah County that helped in the release and it was fun for all.

How do you trap turkeys? The most important part of the plan is to find an area that a wild flock is using that is reasonably accessible. Then you set up a trap and start baiting them into it with grain and hay. The trap is made of nylon netting and placed on a rectangular pole frame. It has two drop-down doors, one at each end, which can be tripped from a long distance away by pulling a wire. The netting protects the birds when they fly against it after being trapped.

At St. Maries, Howard Livengood, Area Land Manager, started baiting them in about a week ahead of the time we intended to trap. We arrived early in the morning and got the cardboard boxes ready for transporting the turkeys and checked the trap to make sure something hadn't tripped it during the night. Shortly after we got set up, a group of gobblers moved into the trap for a short snack. We didn't trip it since we wanted a mixed flock of toms and hens. It is a common sight to see the old gobblers separated from the hens and young ones during most of the year except during the mating season, which extends from March to early May.

We then waited about four hours for something to happen. During this time there was a lot of tall tales told by the five biologists present. My favorite story is about the first general turkey hunt in Idaho when three other biologists and myself were trying to find some birds on Slate Creek. We heard some shooting above us and thinking some other hunters had scattered a flock of turkeys, we moved toward them. Then we thought we heard a turkey yelping from a nearby thicket. The four of us closed in from each side and watched the bush closely. Then a little Stellar's jay jumped up on a twig and imitated a turkey call perfectly from the thicket. Four biologists had been carefully stalking a blue jay! Incidentally, I never hunted so hard in my life and didn't see a turkey that first season. I consider them the ultimate trophy for the bird hunter.

Back to the turkey trapping at St. Maries. About 11 A.M. a blinding snowstorm developed and we saw a group of turkeys rushing toward the trap. I guess the snow made them hungry! We tripped the wire and began to catch the birds and placing them in their individual boxes. Howard Livengood has made a special kind of catching rod that has a hook on it for placing around the leg. It works very effectively and allows the bird to turn freely without hurting it.

Merriam turkeys are quite selective in the area they prefer. It has to have a minimum of 10,000 acres of turkey habitat to support a flock since they are wide ranging birds and may cover miles in their travels. It should have a fairly warm winter climate, some open ponderosa pine habitat for roosting and the pine nuts they produce, shrubs for berries and cover, grassy hillides for grazing of green shoots, and some readily accessible springs and water areas for the youngsters to concentrate near during the hot summer months.

We have attempted to trap and transplant our turkeys into the best sites in Idaho and preferably on public lands so when the population reaches a suitable size the hunters will be allowed access to hunt them. Some of the recently stocked areas in the past two years include Boise and Payette drainages in southern Idaho, where they have reproduced rapidly.

Turkeys are not native to Idaho but our flocks came from 49 birds trapped in Colorado and transported to Idaho beginning in 1961 through 1963. We traded some mountain goats with Colorado to obtain these birds and sportsman dollars financed the whole operation. Therefore, the sportsman and hunter should be able to hunt them when the birds have reached huntable populations. One of the problems of these birds is that they can tend to become semi-domesticated if they remain too close to ranches and feedlots. Hunting is beneficial in breaking up these flocks and making the turkeys more wary. It also helps to scatter them into new areas of suitable habitat. History on turkey plants in Idaho has shown that if the Pottlatch Canyon area proves to be suitable for turkeys, we should have huntable populations in about two or three years.

Professional Meetings
Three annual planning meetings brought numerous field workers to Boise last week. These were regional game and fish managers, hatchery workers and wildlife land management supervisors. Following the Boise meetings at the headquarters building of the department, these professional wildlife and fisheries management technicians attended a two-day professional meeting of the Wildlife Society at Boise on current research programs, and another of the American fisheries society in McCall.

Fish Restoration Fund Up, But Down For Game

Idaho's 1971 federal air allocation for approved fish restoration projects is more than $30,200 over the previous year, but new allocations for wildlife restoration in the state are down by $8,100, it was announced today by the Idaho Fish and Game Department.

This money comes from excise taxes on guns, ammunition and tackle and presently is appropriated to the states at the rate of about $50 million annually.

The U. S. Treasury Department collects the money then turns it over to the Interior Department's Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife for allocation to states following a formula based on the area of the state and number of hunting and fishing licenses sold.

The hunting equipment tax began with the 1937 Pittman-Robertson Act.

and since its enactment more than $50 million has been collected. In Idaho, over $7 1/2 million in "P-R" funds have been spent. The 1971 P-R allocation for Idaho is $604,072.62 which is down $8,171.82 from the previous year according to Vernon Rich, federal aid coordinator.

Examples of P.R. work in Idaho include big game trapping and transplanting; management investigation studies on all big game species; rehabilitation of winter range, including controlled burning; and land acquisition.

The fishing tackle box was provided by the 1950 Dingell-Johnson Act. It has resulted in the collection of more than $100 million. Of this, $1,973,876.79 has been spent in Idaho in "D-J" funds. The D-J allocation for Idaho for the 1971 fiscal year is $223,659.92, which is up $30,238.31 over the previous year.

Examples of Dingell-Johnson projects include construction of Horsethief Dam, which was completed last year; studies of salmon and steelhead, and other anadromous fisheries investigations; lake and reservoir investigations; evaluation of catch and release regulations for cutthroat on the North Fork of the Clearwater; cutthroat and squawfish studies on the St. Joe River; statewide fish harvest studies; and harvest acquisitions.

Drinking Driver Study Being Conducted In Idaho

A research project about the role drinking plays in fatal automobile accidents is being carried out by the Idaho Department of Health. The study was ordered by the Legislature in 1969, and testing started in June, 1969.

Blood samples are tested for alcohol content. A certain amount of alcohol in the blood is considered to indicate intoxication, under legal rules. In this study, blood samples are taken only from those who die in the accident and who were also drivers or adult pedestrians. No blood from dead passengers is included. While law enforcement officers may have alcohol tests done on survivors, such tests are not included on drivers who die more than four hours after an accident, since such tests must be taken within a few hours to determine alcohol levels which were present at the time of the accident.

The law directs funeral directors to furnish samples for the study. Results cannot be identified with the name of the victim, and are used for statistical purposes only. Now that the tests have been underway for a year and a half, some significant statistics are available. Almost half (49 percent) the dead drivers or pedestrians had been drinking. More than one-third (34 percent) were at or above the legal definition of intoxication.

Only a few pedestrians were included in the study, but of those 43 percent had been drinking. All the pedestrians were men. Only a few tested were women and only a few of the women drivers killed in auto accidents had been drinking. (11 percent). 62 percent of the men in the study had been drinking and 41 percent of the men were above the legal limit for intoxication.

The age group with the highest number of dead drivers was 20-25. Of those, 48 percent had been drinking and 29 percent could be defined as intoxicated. The age group with the lowest number of deaths were ages 50-59. In this group, however, 88 percent had been drinking, and one-third were intoxicated, by legal standards. Of those age 18 and under (legally not supposed to be able to obtain beer or liquor), 40 percent had been drinking and 22 percent were above the legal definition of intoxication.

At present, it is planned to continue the study, to obtain more complete statistics and establish trends. Current indications are that drinking drivers do contribute heavily to traffic fatalities, which are the leading cause of death in young people in Idaho.

It has been noted that there were fewer dead drivers with blood alcohol levels above the legal limit for intoxication in 1970, than those tested in 1969. It will be interesting to

Baked Onions Add Zing To Winter Meals

Baked, pickled, souped or frozen onions can add some zing to your midwinter eating and also take some of the sting out of your food bill.

Idaho sweet Spanish onions, which are on the plentiful foods list now, can easily be prepared in out-of-the-ordinary ways. Esther Wilson, extension nutrition specialist at the University of Idaho, offers some ideas for using this vegetable, which is high in Vitamin C.

Baked onions can make a nice change in vegetables at dinner. Peel, cut in half and arrange cut side up in a greased casserole. Add enough water to cover the bottom of the casserole, cover and bake 30 minutes in a 375 degree oven. Then uncover, sprinkle with one cup buttered bread crumbs and bake 15 minutes, or until crumbs are brown and onions are tender.

Pickled onions are handy to have around for garnishes or for munching. Just drop peeled onion slices into a jar of dill pickle juice and refrigerate for two or three days. When the pickled onions are gone, start some more—the juice may be used over and over.

Onion soup makes a good lunch, supper or featured attraction at a midnight snack. The mild flavor of Idaho sweet Spanish onions is good in any onion soup recipe. Mrs. Wilson suggests making onion soup in quantity, then freezing it.

Onion rings in the freezer are also handy to have around, especially for party snacks or hamburger suppers. To freeze onion rings, fry, drain them on paper towel-lined cookie sheets, then put the whole works in the freezer. After they are frozen lift the rings into a foil-lined box, putting a paper towel between layers. Seal the foil and cover the box. When you're hungry put frozen onions on a cookie sheet (do not thaw) and put immediately into a 375 degree oven. They'll be crisp and hot in a couple of minutes.

Unemployment Continues To Climb In Area

Unemployment in Latah County continues to climb, reports Frank Hirtstein, manager of the Moscow Office of the Department of Employment. Area residents seeking jobs pay total 392 compared to 369 last week and 322 last year. During the week 45 new claims were filed including 16 applications for benefits under the combined Federal-State Extended Program. Moscow residents receiving benefits total 198 in addition to 15 in Genesee, 80 in the Troy-Deary-Bovill area, 17 in Kendrick, 76 in Potlatch and 6 in Elk River.

During the week six persons were placed on jobs through the Moscow office. Seventeen new jobs were received during the week and at the

William T. Platt, 86,
Retired Rancher,
Passes In Lewiston

William T. Platt, 86, a retired Tucannon rancher, died of a heart ailment Thursday at 10:25 a.m. at St. Joseph's Hospital. He had been ill for three months.

Platt owned and operated cattle ranches for 54 years. The last ranch he operated — from 1940 to 1962 — was on the Tucannon River near Pomeroy.

After being graduated from Whitman College, Walla Walla, in 1908, Platt bought a ranch in the Salmon River area where he built up a herd of about 1,400 cattle. He remained there for 20 years.

In 1916 he married the former Vivian Jones at Genesee. They were divorced in 1920.

Platt sold his Salmon River ranch and cattle in 1928 and moved to the Sweetwater Creek area outside of Lewiston where he bought a ranch and raised purebred Hereford cattle for 12 years.

He sold the Sweetwater Creek ranch in 1940 and moved his cattle to the Tucannon River ranch. He retired there in 1962.

On Sept. 18, 1940, Platt married the former Hazel VanPool at Okanogan, Wash.

Platt was born to Edward T. and Carrie (Harris) Platt on July 14, 1884, at Genesee. His grandfather was a Methodist minister. He was graduated from Genesee High School in 1904 and won an education scholarship to Whitman College.

He was a lifetime member of the Methodist Church and a member of the Lewiston Elks Lodge, the Washington Cattlemen's Association and several Pomeroy farmers' associations.

After retiring from ranching, Platt and his wife moved to Clarkston where they lived at 845 Beachview Blvd.

Survivors include his widow at home at Clarkston; a son by his first marriage, Thomas M. Platt, Modesto, Calif.; eight grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at Malcolm's Brower-Wann Memorial Chapel Saturday, Feb. 13, with the Rev. E. Paul Hovey, pastor of the Congregational, Presbyterian Federated Church, officiating. Burial was at Norman Hill Cemetery.

Seed Treatment Helps Produce Better Crops

Seed treatment of wheat, oats and barley helps to prevent seed decay. Several materials are approved, Harry Fenwick, University of Idaho extension plant pathologist, advised growers this week.

Of the several fungicides registered for seed treatment, only one contains mercury, a substance that is causing concern because of toxic effects. That is PMA. It is a "soft" mercury that does not accumulate in the bodies of warm-blooded animals. It is much less toxic than ethyl or methyl mercuries. However, Fenwick said, instructions should be read and followed carefully.

In general, seed decay is a minor problem in cereal production in Idaho, the specialist said. It is possible that close of the week there were 14 jobs available. Workers needed include housekeepers, babysitter, cocktail waitress, cook, office clerk, stenographer, fallers, and insurance salesman.

such decay could occur in winter cereal plantings on dryland in the area from Cassia County throughout eastern Idaho in a dry fall. It is also possible that decay can happen in spring seedlings if the weather is cold and wet immediately after seeding and before germination.

With regard to smuts of cereals, some are seed contaminants, others are soil borne. A few are seed-borne. That is, the fungus is inside the seed at the time of planting because there was infection when the plant was in bloom. This is "loose" smut.

Selection of fungicides and their application depends on the cereal to be protected, the area, and the infection that may occur without treatment.

Bald eagles mate for life and often use the same nest for many years, adding to the structure each year.

REP. BROCKE REPORT ON LEGISLATURE

The Legislature is now beginning to move at a faster pace. While major legislation has not been placed before the legislature for action, it is in the committees and the committees are holding hearings to get the public reaction to such proposed legislation.

This legislation is in the area of farm labor, school teachers negotiations, kindergartens, surface mining and the repeal of House Bill 304 which is the so-called four percent law.

This week the Education Committee has before it a bill that would increase the school equalization levy from the present 22 mills to 23 mills during the school year of 1971-1972; to 24 mills for the school year of 1972-1973, and 25 mills for the school year of 1973-1974.

Should this legislation pass it will have an adverse effect on every school in Latah County. It would mean a lesser amount of state funds from the school foundation program, with an increase in the local funds derived from property taxes.

Legislation is coming up that will allow all qualified voters to vote in bond elections. As it is now, only property owners can vote. The Supreme Court has ruled the procedure illegal.

Next week more action will be occurring in the legislature.

Home Cookin' . . .

Planning meals this time of year is a problem, and its difficult to find some thing different that pleases every member of the family. Regardless of how you prepare it, hamburger has always been an old stand-by. This week try some barbecued meat balls for a change, and accompanied by beans, they are especially economical and nutritious.

And everyone from the youngster to the adult enjoys the rich, spicy taste of molasses cookies. Make a batch soon, and see how quickly the family will empty the cookie jar.

BARBECUED MEAT BALLS

1 pound hamburger
1 egg
1/2 cup bread crumbs
2/3 cup milk
salt and pepper to taste
Shape in balls and brown in heavy skillet or pan. Add 16-oz can beans, 1/2 cup catsup, 2 Tbls. brown sugar, 2 Tbls. vinegar, 1 Tbl. Worcestershire sauce, 3/4 cup onions. Cover and cook slow about 1 hour.

MOLASSES CRINKLE COOKIES

3/4 cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
1 egg
1/4 cup light molasses
2 1/4 cups flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1/4 cup granulated sugar to dip cookies in.

Thoroughly cream shortening and sugar. Add sifted ingredients; mix well. Chill. Shape into balls the size of walnuts and dip one side in white sugar. Place sugared side up on cookie sheet. Bake in moderate oven 15 minutes.

Canada geese, probably because they are usually seen at high altitudes, appear to be loafing along, but they are actually moving 70 to 80 feet per second.

This classified advertisement received much attention when it appeared in a rural newspaper:

"For Sale: Slightly used farm winch in good condition. Very handy. Phone Joe Rimrock."

The next day the newspaper printed a correction:

Correction: Due to an unfortunate error, Mr. Rimrock's advertisement last week was not clear. He has an excellent winch for sale. We trust this will put an end to the jokers who have called Mr. Smith and greatly bothered his housekeeper, Mrs. Linville who lives with him."

The following week this advertisement appeared:

Notice: My winch is not for sale. I put a sledge hammer to it. Don't bother calling 2456. I had the phone taken out. I am not carrying on with Mrs. Linville. She merely loves with me. Joe Rimrock."

Nobody doubts it!

Steigers and four sons of Lewiston; Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Sauer, Moscow; Mr. and Mrs. Don Ailes, Coeur d'Alene; and the Ken Steigers family. Kite flying, enjoyed by all, ended in the successful recovery of two large run-away kites, which, after ascending approximately 1000 feet, broke the string to which both were attached, and landed down-river in the Clearwater! Young Jim Steigers, racing down the railroad tracks, leaped instantly into the icy river and swam to recover the kites, much to the consternation of his elders, who were following at a more leisurely pace! After a hot soapy bath to help his chill and prevent poison oak encountered in the river bank, he was ready to rest for the remainder of the day! Jim's iconic comment was: "Those kites cost money!"

Lyndon, Orofino, spent a few days with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Heimgartner and family this week, after having visited son Harold Lyndon, during time off from Mr. Lyndon's employment at the Richardson Mill, Orofino. REP. BROCKE REPORT ON LEGISLATURE
The Legislature is now beginning to move at a faster pace. While major legislation has not been placed before the legislature for action, it is in the committees and the committees are holding hearings to get the public reaction to such proposed legislation.

This legislation is in the area of farm labor, school teachers negotiations, kindergartens, surface mining and the repeal of House Bill 304 which is the so-called four percent law.

This week the Education Committee has before it a bill that would increase the school equalization levy from the present 22 mills to 23 mills during the school year of 1971-1972; to 24 mills for the school year of 1972-1973, and 25 mills for the school year of 1973-1974.

Should this legislation pass it will have an adverse effect on every school in Latah County. It would mean a lesser amount of state funds from the school foundation program, with an increase in the local funds derived from property taxes.

Legislation is coming up that will allow all qualified voters to vote in bond elections. As it is now, only property owners can vote. The Supreme Court has ruled the procedure illegal.

Home Cookin'

Planning meals this time of year is a problem, and its difficult to find some thing different that pleases every member of the family. Regardless of who you prepare it, hamburger has always been an old stand-by. This week try some barbecued meat balls for a change, and accompanied by beans, they are especially economical and nutritious.

And everyone from the youngster to the adult enjoys the rich, spicy taste of molasses cookies. Make a batch soon, and see how quickly the family will empty the cookie jar.

BARBECUED MEAT BALLS
1 pound hamburger
1 egg
1/2 cup bread crumbs
2/3 cup milk
salt and pepper to taste
Shape in balls and brown in heavy skillet or pan. Add 16-oz can beans, 1/2 cup catsup, 2 Tbs. brown sugar, 2 Tbs. vinegar, 1 Tbl. Worcestershire sauce, 3/4 cup onions. Cover and cook slow about 1 hour.

MOLASSES CRINKLE COOKIES
3/4 cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
1 egg
1/4 cup light molasses
2 1/4 cups flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1/4 cup granulated sugar to dip cookies in.

Thoroughly cream shortening and sugar. Add egg and molasses; beat well. Add sifted ingredients; mix well. Chill. Shape into balls the size of walnuts and dip one side in white sugar. Place sugared side up on cookie sheet. Bake in moderate oven 15 minutes.

Canada geese, probably because they are usually seen at high altitudes, appear to be loafing along, but they are actually moving 70 to 80 feet per second.

FARMERS INSURANCE GROUP

This classified advertisement received much attention when it appeared in a rural newspaper:
"For Sale: Slightly used farm wrench in good condition. Very handy. Phone Joe Rimrock."
The next day the newspaper printed a correction:
Correction: Due to an unfortunate error, Mr. Rimrock's advertisement last week was not clear. He has an excellent wrench for sale. We trust this will put an end to the jokesters who have called Mr. Smith and greatly bothered his housekeeper, Mrs. Linville who lives with him."
The following week this advertisement appeared:
Notice: My wrench is not for sale. I put a sledge hammer to it. Don't bother calling 2456. I had the phone taken out. I am not carrying on with Mrs. Linville. She merely loves with me. Joe Rimrock."

A Wonderful Valentine!

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Stevens proudly announce the arrival on Valentine Day morning, Feb. 14th, of their first grandchild, Wesley Todd Carpenter, born to their eldest daughter, Glenda, and husband, Dr. and Mrs. Richard L. Carpenter at St. Paul, Minnesota.

The boy weighed in at 7 lbs., 12 oz., and all are reported in fine shape!

Lenore Willing Workers Meet

Twenty-one members, three guests, four children and one man met at the home of Mrs. Leslie Maguire on Thursday, Feb. 11th, enjoying a lovely pot-luck dinner at noon. Quilling and fancy work were done.

Mrs. Helena Brown, Mrs. Emma Weichmann and Mrs. Ernest Stelgers were those attending from this area.

A few quilters returned on Tuesday of this week.

Further Examination

Newt Heath underwent X-ray tests and further medication, plus a strict diet, in hopes of soon regaining his ability to "watch over the cattle." We hope springtime will help him feel his former ambitious self!

Other News

Mrs. Lee Heath and Mrs. Buck Batterson "hiked" from the Batterson home in Juliaetta to the old George Stedman ranch near the foot of Hubbard Gulch, recently. Nobody doubts it!

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rugg and family of Lewiston enjoyed Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Newt Heath. Just at noon Mrs. Forest Gibbs (Flora Heath) arrived from Spokane, bringing her father a bouquet of carnations!

Friday guests in the Eldon Heimgartner home were Mr. and Mrs. Everett Custer of Clarkston. The Heimgartners had visited in the Custer home on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heimgartner, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Stelgers and many others were among those attending the farewell party held Sunday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Heimgartner in Juliaetta, honoring their son Mark Heimgartner, who was departing for the Service.

Stelgers and four sons of Lewiston; Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Sauer, Moscow; Mr. and Mrs. Don Ahlea, Coeur d'Alene, and the Ken Stelgers family. Kite flying, enjoyed by all, ended in the successful recovery of two large run-away kites, which, after ascending approximately 1000 feet, broke the string to which both were attached, and landed down-river in the Clearwater! Young Jim Stelgers, racing down the railroad tracks, leaped instantly into the icy river and swam to recover the kites, much to the consternation of his elders, who were following at a more leisurely pace! After a hot soapy bath to help his chill and prevent poison oak encountered in the river bank, he was ready to rest for the remainder of the day! Jim's ironic comment was: "Those kites cost money!"

Lyndon, Orofino, spent a few days with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Heimgartner and family this week, after having visited son Harold Lyndon, during time off from Mr. Lyndon's employment at the Richardson Mill, Orofino. State Active In City Urban Renewal

BOISE—The Idaho Department of Highways reported today that major urban transportation planning studies are currently underway in Pocatello and Boise. Other studies have been conducted and are in a continuing phase in Idaho Falls, Nampa and Lewiston. Special traffic studies have been conducted by the Highway Department in Moscow and Twin Falls. Other cities in which future studies have been planned include Caldwell, Coeur d'Alene and several smaller cities.

Planning Survey Manager Edward W. Equals said that the urban transportation planning process includes data gathering, analysis of existing transportation facilities and forecasts of future needs in principal Idaho cities. The Department works closely with local city officials and other groups in conducting the studies.

The bulk of the work in conducting the transportation studies is done by technicians from the Highway Department which then assumes a share in financing the construction of the highway facility consistent with the jointly developed transportation plans. This includes construction of facilities which will meet the total goals of the community.

In Twin Falls, for example, the city has undertaken an urban renewal program designed to create a mall on Main Street which had been a portion of U. S. Highway 30 and a part of the State Highway System. To make the mall development possible, the Highway Department committed State highway funds to move U. S. 30 to a parallel street system to complement the total planning effort of the city of Twin Falls.

Highway funds have also been committed to moving the State highway to an adjoining street in Lewiston to accommodate development of super blocks as desired for total community improvement.

In Boise, the Highway Department is cooperating with the Boise Redevelopment Agency to realign Grove Street to create a regional shopping mall in the central business district.

To further assist the cities and urban areas, the Highway Board of Directors created the position of Urban Engineer, Norman Crossley, who has had several years experience as a city engineer in Idaho.

The Urban Division also administers the local Federal Aid Secondary road program within the cities, assisting in the development of projects and the utilization of funds which are available for city streets assigned to the Federal Aid Secondary road system.

With a little over 306 miles of State highways located entirely within Idaho cities, the Department of Highways is continually engaged in a program to provide funds and personnel to assist the cities in accomplishing their total goals for urban renewal and development on those portions of the State Highway System that are the Idaho Department of Highways responsibility.

Weather Stays Good For Idaho Wildlife

Moderate temperatures and snowfall through the first half of February add up to some "easy living" for elk and deer on most of Idaho's winter ranges, according to field reports from all parts of the state.

The Idaho Fish and Game Department said that spring-like conditions prevail in many places with south-facing slopes up to 4,500 feet or more baring and greening up. Following are regional reports covering the first part of February:

Panhandle Region: No bad weather. It is really good so far with no problems with elk and deer.

McCall Region: No changes or additional problems since last report. Bare hills on many south-facing slopes up to about 4500 feet or more depending on location in Snake and main Salmon rivers or Middle Fork, South Fork, Weiser Middle Fork and Little Weiser much improved.

Western Region: Everything looks good—good weather and no problems with elk and deer.

Magic Valley Region: Conservation Officer Larry Keezey, Shoshone reported 100 deer near Patterson ranch southwest of Magic Reservoir. These deer appeared to be in good condition.

Some nights have been cold in Hailey-Ketchum area, but hills south of Hailey baring up, relieving conditions south of Hailey. North of Hailey, deep snow and continued problems remain.

A few elk losses noted. Feeding operations maintained. There is considerable time left before relief comes.

Elk in the Muldon Creek area off Little Wood River have moved back into hills and eased off on haystack predation.

Trapping of elk on Warm Springs Creek continue through February 8th, with another attempt to trap and remove elk out of area. Trapping elk in South Fork Boise continuing with 11 elk tagged and released by February 5. Elk are in good condition and moving out of bottoms onto baring slopes. About 8 inches of snow fell in vicinity, which will probably help trapping conditions for a few days.

During trapping operation over 200 elk observed between Lightfoot and Warswick.

Blake and Auther neith conducted mortality study on ducks in Hagerman Refuge and found high crippling loss area from past hunting season.

Give Me The Mad-Glad March

Give me the mad-glad March with tempests raging,
 With daffodils to bloom and nod and sway;
 Give me the Vernaltides that knows no aging,
 And change the winter in my heart to May.

Give me a lane along the wind-swept willows
 And walk beside me in the twilight gloam;
 When nimbus clouds are tost in stormy billows,
 And budding startflowers light the pathway home.

Give me your kiss with stress of longing broken;
 The wedge of wild geese plowing mad-March skies;
 Silence, through which loves ultimate is spoken;
 By sweet surrender in your love-lit eyes.

How much a bushel?

You spend a lot of time and money to work the soil, plant and fertilize the wheat, and maintain your equipment. You get a good year with near perfect weather for good growth. In fact, everything is right.

Except your herbicide.

So you end up paying through the weeds for smaller yields. Poorer grades. Less profits. When you could be bringing in a higher grade. Because you're using a more effective, more selective, more profitable herbicide.

Like Bronate.

Bronate is more effective because it kills a broader range of broadleaf weeds. Including the six specific weeds that are the biggest problem for wheat farmers here in the Northwest. Which means you kill Tarweed and Gromwell and Henbit and Dogfennel and Crowfoot. What's more, you don't leave Purple Mustard or any of the mustard family around to rob your wheat of moisture and nutrients like one leading herbicide does.

Bronate is more selective because it doesn't get rid of the wheat while it's getting rid of the weeds. It won't damage the crops or carry over in the soil like another leading herbicide.

Which is what makes Bronate more profitable. Because it brings you a higher yield. A better grade. And more money. It's as simple as that.

All you do is apply Bronate post-emergence. The earlier the better after your crop has reached the 3-leaf stage. Then sit back and watch the wheat grow. Nice and healthy. Weed free.

What it adds up to is this: You only pay $3.45 an acre for Bronate. To get rid of all the broadleaf weeds. To be kind to all the wheat. To bring in a better grade. And to get up to 12 to 20 bushels more per acre. Which is a pretty good investment for the right herbicide.

Don't you think so?

TIGERS LOSE TO TROY, OROFINO

Kendrick's Tiger basketball team dropped both of their games this past week, but went down fighting in each of the two contests. Last Tuesday evening the Tigers were edged out by Troy 72-62. Saturday night they were back on their own court and lost a 76-74 thriller to Orofino.

In the Troy game the Trojans used a hot third quarter to give them their margin of victory. In that period Troy outscored Kendrick 21 to 9. This was a non-league game for the Tigers.

Don Parks scored 25 points in the game to lead all scorers that evening.

Kendrick's B team took a 50-47 decision in the first game.

Orofino Thriller

Kendrick, leading by 16 points at the half, watched as the Orofino Maniacs got red-hot in the third period and scored 25 points to cut the margin to only a single point going into the final quarter.

Orofino, who shot a cool 25 percent from the field in the first half came back to hit 60 percent of their shots from the field in the second half. Chad Easterbrook took 9 of his 27 points in the third period.

In a close and frantic final quarter, Dave Wilken missed the first shot of a one-and-one foul shot offer and then, just seconds later, Chad Easterbrook dropped in a 15-foot jumper from the key to give Orofino their 76-74 win.

Don Parks' 22 points paced the Tigers, while Alan Kimbley scored 18, and Dave Hutcherson and Kim Trout each added 12.

Orofino won the B game 84-51.

A Grandfather's Dilemma

Pity Roy Glenn, proud grandfather who had to witness the Orofino-Kendrick game Saturday night. Roy is the grandfather of Orofino's Chad Easterbrook, who scored 27 points against the Tigers. But Roy is also the grandfather of Kendrick's Dale Taylor, so for Mr. and Mrs. Roy Glenn there was a real dilemma. Chad's mother is the former Bernadine Glenn; Dale's mother is the former Dorothy Glenn.

Steve Thornton, another fine Orofino player, had his own Kendrick cheering section too. Steven is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Thornton, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Thornton of Leland. Steve's mother is the former Judy White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill White.

GENESEE STOPS KAMIAH 23 TO 22

Genesee — Kamiah took a leaf from the pages of some of the college teams as they fought the Genesee Bulldogs down to the wire Friday night before dropping a 23-22 decision to the unbeaten G. H. S. team. This was Genesee's 18th win of the season and their 9th league victory.

The Kubs, out to hang the first defeat of the season on the Bulldogs, used a slow-down technique against the Bulldogs, pressing hard and when in possession of the ball, not shooting unless almost sure of a basket. The Kubs took only eight shots from the floor during the entire game, and managed to hit five of those shots. Genesee took 34 shots and connected on only 9 of them.

The Bulldogs had moved out to a 5-4 lead at the end of the first quarter and were ahead 21-17 at the half.

Mike Egland scored 10 of Genesee's points with Bill Schlueter getting 6 and Bruce Scharnhorst 5. Ron Hopkins and Alan Odenberg each had a single point.

Genesee's B team had an easier time of it as they won over the Kubs 65-51.
