She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Baumgartner. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Steen II, of Spokane.

Dorothy, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin gown with pale blue insets on skirt and bodice with embroidering lace. Her veil was full length, illusion. Her bridal bouquet was white roses and ivy with an orchid in center.

Lawrence Gee sang two numbers, accompanied by Jeff Diehl.

Tom Schmeizer was best man. Robert Schwenne, Genesee, cousin of the bride and Curtis Sams and Dave Carlson of Spokane, were ushers and candlelighters.

Donna Davis was flower girl. Mrs. Art Hasfurther, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Mrs. Duane Roach was bridesmaid. They all wore identical gowns of pale blue with empire waist and stand-up collar with blue velvet sashes and carried white fur muffs with blue poms on them and white fur head pieces in their hair.

Assisting at a church reception was Mrs. Wayne Schwenne, Mrs. Charles Baumgartner, Mrs. Dick Colbeck and Mrs. Joe Scholer.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Steen II, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Nolan, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stahl, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Carlson and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Sams of Spokane, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Colbeck and Toni of Moscow.

Mrs. Ethel Messer To Be Honored At Open House Sunday

By Millie Corkill

Mrs. Ethel Messer of Juliaetta, born in the famous mining town of Marysville, Montana in the era of pot-bellied stoves and pump organs will be honored at an open house reception in observance of her 85th birthday anniversary on Sunday, March 5, between 2 and 4 p. m. at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Knapik of Juliaetta.

Mrs. Messer still retains the good health which she has been so fortunate to have throughout her lifetime—being in the hospital only once—not because of illness but because of a fall from a swing when she was a small child.

She spent her childhood in the rich gold mining towns of Marysville and Drummond during the gold strike days and also at Bald Butte where her father was the superintendent of the gold mine there. "These towns," she said, "were located close together, but now they are only Ghost towns".

She was born March 7, 1887 and was the daughter of Harriet and Robert Luke. They moved later to Helena, Montana where she completed her education. She clearly recalls the one-room schoolhouse she attended, consisting of eight grades and one teacher and a stiff curriculum. "During the cold wintertime that prevailed in Montana, the most popular spot in the schoolroom, she said, was around the hot, pot-bellied wood stove where all huddled for an occasional warm up between classes."

While I was a very young girl and still living at Bald Butte," she continued, "my parents emphasized their desires for me to become a musician. In order for me to take piano lessons it meant having to walk three miles to Marysville, board a train there and continue on a 25-mile trip to Helena once a week."

"This I did," she added, "and at the age of 12 I was thrilled at having an invitation from members of the local church, which we attended, to serve as church organist. It was a pump organ so I got my exercise as well as a lot of extra joy and experience," said Mrs. Messer. Arthritis in her hands these past few years has forced her to discontinue playing the piano.

Following the completion of her schooling, she took employment in a tailoring shop beginning as an apprentice at the age of 19, working in Helena. In 1910 she married George Messer, a harness maker in Helena. They later decided to go into the business of farming, settling on a homestead near Sixteen, Montana.

With their six weeks old daughter they lived temporarily in a sod roof cabin until they completed the building of a new house on their claim. With her husband also being a musician they combined their musical talents by usually playing for the country dances—which were most often the main Saturday night entertainment.

"Hard work and faith kept us on the homestead for 12 years as we mustered the good times with the bad. Finally the hail storms and the drought forced us to move because of the increased crop failures," was Mrs. Messer's remark.

"The year of 1915 stands out most vividly in my mind," she continued. "The year when the crops looked best and our hopes were higher. Suddenly, one day, a flash flood and hail storm swept everything clean—our large turkey flock, a litter of little pigs and our spring house where our summer's supply of hams and bacon were hanging to keep them cool being swept away in the torrents of the nearby creek. At the end of 12 years we left the homestead and moved into the little town of Sixteen. We made our home there for many years while my husband worked as an employee for the Milwaukee Railroad," she concluded.

In 1988 they moved to Moscow, living there for several years while he worked as a carpenter at Farragut Naval Station near Coeur d'Alene. Mr. Messer died while they were living in Moscow. In 1987 she moved to Juliaetta where she made made her home in an apartment

Doug Harris Chosen Chairman of Festival

Doug Harris was selected chairman of the annual Locust Blossom Festival when members of the Lions Club met at the Fire Hall February 23. Darrel Brocke will assist as co-chairman of the festival which is scheduled for May 27.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by the 27-member mixed chorus of Kendrick High School under the direction of music instructor Floyd Williams. Selections presented by the group, with accompaniment by Lisa Lyons were "Scarborough Fair," "Who Am I," "The Little Trees Need Room to Grow," "Aquarius/Let the Sunshine In" and "The Sound of Silence". Vocal solos were performed by Susan Benjamin, Denise Brammer and Lisa Lyons.

The next Lions meeting will be Ladies Night, March 8.

there and where she is closer to her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Knapik.

"House work, caring for flowers, keeping in the trend with local and world news helps keep hands and mind busy," she said, "and of course, I throw in some time watching television". She still retains her keen eyesight without glasses as she can thread a needle easier than the average person with glasses.

The reception will be hosted by her daughter, Mrs. Rudy (Ruth) Knapik, and a grand-daughter, Mrs. Thomasine Frazier, Lewiston, and other members of her family.

Mrs. Messer had two children, a daughter Ruth and a son, deceased. She has 5 grandchildren; 19 great grandchildren and 5 great-great grandchildren. She attends the Juliaetta Community Church and was formerly a member of the Methodist Church in Helena, Montana.

Genesee Survives First Round of District Cage Tournament; Kendrick Forced Out In Three Games

The first weekend of play in the 1972 District 2, Class A-3 basketball tournament at Lewiston was completed Saturday evening at Booth Hall. After the dust of battle cleared, the tournament favorites still survived—Timberline, Lapwal, Genesee, and Prairie—but two teams, Timberline and Genesee had to fight back from first round defeats to maintain their rankings.

The tournament began last Thursday afternoon when Kendrick pulled the upset of the season by knocking off the league champion Timberline Spartans 56-54 in the first game when Tiger Kim Trout poured in six points and Tim Pelton hit a free throw to hustle the KHS team from a four point deficit to a two-point win in the last minutes of the game.

The game was close all the way with Timberline scoring in the last seconds to lead 14-13 at the end of the first quarter and 26-24 at the half. Kendrick took the lead back in the third quarter and outscored the Spartans 19-16 in that period. The lead traded hands several times in the final period before Timberline moved out to a 53-49 lead with a little over 3 minutes left. It was then that senior guard Kim Trout pushed home six points with Tim Pelton adding a free throw to give Kendrick that upset win.

Trout's 19 points led all scoring with Dave Wilken getting 11 and Dale Taylor 10.

In the second game Prairie High School of Cottonwood was forced into overtime play to defeat Kamiah 58-53.

In the third game Lapwal raced to a 62-29 win over Clearwater Valley.

Bulldogs Defeated
In the final game of the night the Potlatch Loggers, twice beaten by Genesee in regular play, stormed back in the second half to overcome a seven point deficit and then nip GHS 55-54 on a last second shot.

Genesee used superior height to control the boards in the first half but the Loggers came out hustling in the second half and began to chew away at the Bulldog lead, outscoring the home team 17-15 in the third quarter and then 14-8 in the wild, final period which culminated in the last twenty seconds as John Mills hit a long jump shot to give the Loggers their margin.

Craig Busch scored 18 points for the Bulldogs with Schlueter adding 15 more. Mills had 29 points for Potlatch.

Prairie Topples Tigers
In the second round of action Friday afternoon, the Prairie Pirates took advantage of Kendrick's cold third quarter to score 22 points while holding the Tigers to just 6. Kendrick recovered in the fourth quarter, but the damage had already been done and the Tigers were defeated 77-52.

Kendrick stayed within striking range the first half and was down by only 36-28 at the half before they came back on the court for the disastrous third frame.

Kim Trout collected 15 points to pace the Tigers and Dave Wilken had 10 points.

Timberline bounced Kamiah from the tournament with a 58-43 win.

Genesee Rolls Over CV
Coach Ozzie Kanikkeberg's Bulldogs, still smarting from their upset at the hands of the Potlatch Loggers held the Clearwater Valley Rams to just 8 points in the first half as they rolled over the game but out-gunned Rams 67-23 in the third contest Friday night.

Big Jim Hermann dropped in Genesee's first two points in a turning jump shot with just thirty seconds gone in the CV game. The Rams tied it seconds later at 2-all. After that it was all Genesee as the Bulldogs stormed out to an 8-2 lead before the Rams scored again. The Rams threw a full court press on the Bulldogs but guards Myers and Kanikkeberg had little trouble getting down the court.

Hermann had his best game of the tournament as he dominated the boards and scored 24 points on rebounds and tip-ins.

The Rams could manage just two points in the second quarter and the half ended with Genesee ahead 34-9. Kanikkeberg swept the Genesee bench clean in the second half but the Bulldogs continued to pour in the points.

Hermann's 24 points were high with Schlueter and Busch each getting 8.

In the final game of the night Lapwal rolled over the Potlatch Loggers 76-54.

Kendrick Eliminated

Saturday night the Timberline Spartans took advantage of a dead third quarter Tiger team to eliminate the Kendrick squad and gain revenge for the first night loss as they battered the Tigers 83-50.

The game was close all through first half and although the Spartans lead most of the way, there was little to choose between the two teams as the first quarter ended in favor of Timberline 14-11 and the Spartans had it 33-28 at the half. The Tigers were plagued by a nightmare third quarter which saw Timberline score 27 points while they could manage only 14. Timberline continued to pour it on in the final period.

Dale Taylor scored 12 points for KHS with Wilken getting 10 and Trout and Marty Clemenhagen 9.

Genesee Bounces Potlatch
After a close first half, Genesee broke the game wide open early in the third period and then coasted home to an 80-58 win over the Potlatch Loggers. The defeat finished the season for the Loggers who had upset the Bulldogs two night before.

Both teams were using excellent zone defenses, but Craig Kanikkeberg hit three successive long shot right after the third period got underway and the Loggers were forced to open their zone as they sent out their guards further to check him up. This broke open the zone and allowed Schlueter, Busch and Hermann to work effectively.

The game opened closely with neither team hitting well. Genesee scored only one point in the first three minutes—that a Busch free throw. Kanikkeberg finally hit a field goal with 2:40 left in the period. The first quarter ended with Genesee ahead 9-8. The contest was close in the second period and the lead traded hands several times before Schlueter hit a long shot from the side to put the Bulldogs out in front 23-22. Genesee led at the half 29-26.

After Kanikkeberg broke the game open in the third period, Bill Schlueter and Craig Busch each began swishing the nets regularly with Bill finally finishing up with 23 points to pace all scorers. Kanikkeberg had 17, Hermann 12 and Jerry Myers 11.

Sunday Service, Dinner Honors Dr. Christensen

Dr. D. A. Christensen, Kendrick's physician and surgeon for the past forty years was honored Sunday, Feb. 27, at a special service and dinner at the Kendrick United Methodist Church.

Dr. Christensen, who arrived here October 8, 1931 to begin his practice, retired December 31, 1971. In the space of those 40 years he has cared to the people of the community patient and dedicated service, making him one of the most respected and beloved members of our community.

During his years of practice, Dr. Christensen delivered 11000 babies throughout the area, the last being Derrick Eggers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Eggers, now of Bovill. Derrick was born June 20, 1967, and his parents were present for the special service.

Prelude to the morning service was one of doctor's favorites, "The Lost Chord", a piano and organ selection played by Mrs. Herman Schupfer and Mrs. Robert Magnuson. Another musical selection "How Great Thou Art" was sung by a choir composed to 16 of "Doctor's Babies".

During the service the congregation presented to Dr. Christensen the book, "Snake River Country", and to his wife, Irene, a lovely corsage. Miniature arrangements of moss, buttercups and vines made by Mrs. Howard Hoffman and Mrs. Norla Callison added a spring note to tables at the dinner held in the Church basement following worship service. In charge of dinner arrangements were Mrs. Paul Lind and Mrs. Gerald Ingie.

A poem written to Dr. Christensen on his retirement was read by Mrs. Elmo Elridge during the afternoon program. Mrs. Donald Eichner and Mrs. Robert Magnuson, accompanied by Mrs. Herman Schupfer, sang "My Best to You."

A capacity crowd was in attendance throughout the day to wish the Christensen's well during their retirement years.

FFA "Plow Boys' Ball" Is Saturday Night Mar. 4

Area Students Named To Honor Rolls

A total of about 1,338 students at the University of Idaho have been named to the Dean's List in eight university colleges.

Students from this area include: Kendrick — Debra S. Johnson, Richard L. Farrington, Janice K. Galloway.

At LCBC in Lewiston it was learned Douglas Pratt, Kendrick, was named to the Deans List of that institution.

FHA Dad-Daughter Date Night A Success

On February 22, the Kendrick chapter of the Future Homemakers of America held a Daddy-Daughter Date Night. Each FHA girl brought her father and also the ingredients to make a pizza. Together they made a joint effort at preparing a tasty pizza. From these father-daughter cooks came a variety of pizzas and lots of laughter.

Prizes, all in fun, were given to Jack Lohman and Janet for the neatest cooks. The sloppiest award went to Ernie Brammer and daughter Jolene.

Good Conservation Helps Trumpeter Swan Comeback

By Jim Humbird
Idaho Fish and Game Dept.

Killing swans and moose is equally heinous and illegal in the eyes of Fremont County residents—especially people who live and work along the North Fork (Henry's Fork) of the Snake River. These two remnant species of wildlife represent the largest members of the deer family (Alces americana), and the biggest swan in North America, the trumpeter (Olor buccinator), which unfortunately almost became extinct a few years ago.

This giant white bird is staging a slow comeback from near oblivion. At least 106 of them were on the swift open waters of the Upper Snake River early in January when workers of the Idaho Fish & Game Department made the annual statewide midwinter waterfowl inventory in cooperation with the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. They once were so plentiful that migrations were a common sight to behold, while populations could be numbered into the tens of thousands.

Originally, the trumpeter ranged over much of the interior of North America, with nesting grounds in Canada, in the northwestern United States, and in a few suitable areas east of the Mississippi River. It occurred as far south as northern Mexico. With the loss of suitable areas for breeding, nesting and rearing caused by the settlement and development of the Plains Country and the West, the trumpeter swan no longer had the isolation it needed. Year by year there were fewer wild lakes, marshes, and sloughs where solitude could be found.

Early settlers varied their monotonous diet of deer and bison with young trumpeter swans. Market hunters shot swans for their skins, a marketable item. Between 1853 and 1877, the Hudson's Bay Company sold 17,871 swan skins, many of which are believed to have been the skins of trumpeters. By 1920 most of the trumpeters were gone from the American scene. There remained, however, an area some 60 miles square, encompassing northeastern Wyoming, southwestern Montana and northeastern Idaho, where a few swans still persisted. This became the 40,000 acre Red Rock Lakes National Wildlife Refuge for Trumpeter Swans in 1935.

Nearly 7,000 feet above sea level, the refuge lies at the eastern end of Centennial Valley in Beaverhead County, just west of Yellowstone National Park. Some of the mountains in the Continental Divide rise more than 10,000 feet. Deep banks and fields of snow stay on them through the warmest summers, and the snow-melt feeds the lakes, and ponds of the refuge. The area is about 14 miles long and 5 miles wide, and for the most part consists of flat, marshy meadows—nearly 10,000 acres are lakes or marshes.

Trumpeter swan adults may have a wingspread of over six feet, a length of more than five feet, and a weight of 30 pounds or better. Except when stained by certain waters the plumage of the adult bird is pure white. The bill and feet are black and the eyes are dark brown. Superficially, the trumpeter looks much like the more common whistling swan, but is about a fourth larger and has a deeper voice. The trumpeter's windpipe has a loop extending into the breastbone that apparently causes this greater volume. Another difference between the two birds is the yellowish spot in front of the eyes of some, but not all, whistling swans. This mark is not seen on the trumpeter.

Though mentioned in the Bible, as well as inscribed in ancient Egyptian hieroglyphics, romantic accounts of swans were particularly prevalent in the lives of Norsemen, epitomized in their sagas, sayings, and deeds. The Scandinavian name of Swanson and derivatives are a common reminder of those days when the return of the swan to its northern nesting areas meant more than a passing flock of birds. In a way it was a spiritual promise of renewing life. The great flocks of graceful birds seemingly coming from nowhere heralded the end of another harsh, bleak, and dreary winter. Later these legends became well known, one of which was called the "Swan Maiden." Richard Wagner gave music lovers the romantic opera, "Lohengrin." He was the knight of the swan, the son of Parsifal, and a knight of the Holy Grail.

In 1935 there were 73 swans by actual count, and the trumpeter's chance for survival seemed slim. But there were people throughout the United States determined that the trumpeter should not follow the passenger pigeon, Labrador duck, the great auk, and the Carolina parakeet into oblivion. These people waged a successful campaign to save the trumpeter swan.

Last year the tri-state trumpeter swan was made August 23-26, 1971. A total of 499 trumpeter swans were counted on the historical range of this species, according to Neil T. Argy. Boise game management agent U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. This figure is down somewhat from other recent annual censuses, including 533 swans in 1967, and 588 in 1968. Other surveys found 2,200 trumpeter swans in Alaska, the Charlotte Islands and the western coast of Washington. Altogether, there are 12 to 15 hundred swans in the south 48 states of the United States. In Canada, scattered and isolated populations managed to survive in British Columbia and western Alberta.

Now rigidly protected by state and federal laws, including the Migratory Bird Treaty Act of 1918, the birds live for the most part on special refuges in southeastern Washington, Nevada, Oregon, and California. But they remain a valuable part of America's wildlife legacy, interwoven with advancing civilization in all sorts of literature, music and artistic expression.

Though their numbers are limited by habitat needs, trumpeter swan no longer is an endangered species. People generations hence may hear their wild outbursts of trumpeting, a living reminder of the wilderness days when swans winged through the sky, wild and free.

GOOD LAUNDERING NEEDED FOR NEW FABRICS

One of the best ways to appear well groomed is to have clean clothes. They result from good laundry procedures. Start by sorting your laundry. Even though this may seem an old-fashioned idea, today's new fabrics make it virtually a must, says Janice Buckner, University of Idaho extension clothing specialist.

Do not overload your washer. Clothes must circulate freely for good cleaning.

Choose the right detergent and laundry aids. Measure them; do not dump. Under use of detergents causes graying or yellowing because of a buildup of clinging soil. Over use wastes your money, says Mrs. Buckner.

If soaking is done, allow about 10 to 15 minutes. Otherwise soil will redeposit on the clothes. Be certain all the detergent and soil are removed from the laundry. It is not enough to loosen the soil; you must also remove it.

Dry carefully. Don't over dry. If you use a dryer, set it on the proper cycle. Don't allow clothes to remain in the dryer when the cycle is finished, as this adds wrinkles. When drying clothes on the line, smooth them out and pull them into shape. This insures quicker drying with fewer wrinkles.

WHEEZES AND GASPS

Wild sneezes and gasps go with certain allergies. Allergies, to pollen, fur, dust, and dozens of irritants. Asthmatics think they wheeze upon direct contact to pollen or other offending substances. But they would be wrong. The trouble may start after the substances gets to their stomach.

In experiments with volunteer asthmatics, researchers at the medical school of UCLA painted pollen with a radioactive material that registers dramatically on special cameras. When the volunteers breathed in the radiopollen, cameras picked up traces of pollen in the mouth. But none in the nose. Then the materials moved down the esophagus into the stomach. Not into the lungs.

Although the patients coughed a little with the first half-hour after inhaling the pollen, coughing cleared up quickly. Four to nine hours later however, they developed clinical signs of asthma. The severity of their coughing and wheezing was closely related to the dosage of pollen they had inhaled.

Dr. Harold S. Novey, assistant professor of medicine, presented these findings at a recent meeting of the American Academy of Allergy. "The allergic reactions, he said, "appear to result from late reabsorption of pollen particles from the gastrointestinal tract." "If the pathways can be worked out," says Dr. Novey, "then we may be able to develop means for blocking this allergens, preventing them from reaching the area where they do their damage."

IDAHO DEPT. OF EMPLOYMENT

Frank J. Hartstein, manager of the Moscow office of the Idaho Department of Employment reported today that for the first time in many weeks, the number of persons seeking unemployment insurance benefits has declined below the previous weeks total. Hartstein said that there are now 424 persons throughout Latah County seeking jobless pay compared with 466 seeking such benefits last week. A year ago the total was 351. Thirty eight persons filed new claims, he said, and added that 80 workers discontinued their claims. Most of these who quit filing had returned to work, primarily in the construction industry in the area. Some exhausted benefits, and others were declared not eligible for a variety of reasons. Most of the decline was in the immediate Moscow area where the drop was from 248 to 221. A year ago the total was 176. At Genesee the total is now 14, 15 last week, and 12 a year ago. In the Troy-Deary-Bovill area there are currently 106 workers seeking job insurance, last week 113 and last year 81. At Kendrick the total is 14, last week 16, and a year ago 12. Sixty-six persons are filing claims from the Potlatch area, compared with 71 a week ago and 82 at this time in 1971. At Elk River there are now three, last week the same, and last year eight.

Jobs continued to be rather scarce Hartstein's report continued, as the Employment office received only 8 new jobs during the week. Four persons were placed on jobs during the week and at the end of the week there were eight jobs still open. Most of these open call for workers with better than average skills, training or experience.

IDAHO HEALTH MEMO

Does a barbecued hamburger or hot dog sound just as good to you after sizzling as it does after swimming?

If so, don't let cool weather drive you and your grill inside into a poorly ventilated area, cautions the Idaho Medical Association.

A garage or other enclosed area can be dangerous, perhaps fatal, place to do your barbecuing.

Aside from the obvious fire hazard, there is a danger of carbon monoxide poisoning when charcoal broilers are used in unventilated areas.

Without proper ventilation, it is possible that enough carbon monoxide could be released to kill a person within 30 minutes.

Warmer at Last—The past week's warmer weather has made life more bearable in the area. Roads have widened as snow banks melt making it a little easier to pass oncoming vehicles. Several area rigs show the traces of minor "fender-benders." Park hasn't experienced as much trouble from high water as surrounding areas.

A few residents have had cases of the flu but no one reported more than minor discomfort for a few days.

OUR COMPETITION RECOMMENDS BRONATE.[®]

Our competitors think so highly of Bronate as a broad-leaf weed killer in wheat and other grain crops that they want you to tank mix their products with Bronate.

While we appreciate the compliment, we don't necessarily go along with the recommendation.

Because while the addition of less effective herbicides to Bronate may help the other herbicides, it doesn't help Bronate. Matter of fact, it can hurt Bronate.

Unlike many other herbicides, Bronate kills your weeds without damaging your wheat. And tank-mixing reduces Bronate's high degree of selectivity.

Also, unlike other herbicides, Bronate isn't restricted to any particular soil type or condition. And tank-mixing limits Bronate's wide range of application.

Use Bronate alone if your weed problems include Tarweed, Gromwell, Henbit, Dogfennell, Crowfoot, Purple Mustard, and the rest of the Mustard family. Or any of the 23 other kinds of weeds listed on the Bronate label.

Our experience has shown that Bronate used alone has increased productivity for Northwest wheat farmers by as much as 20 bushels per acre.

Is it any wonder our competitors recommend Bronate?

For more information on how Bronate can help you, see your supplier or write Mr. R. P. Rich, Rhodia/Chipman Division, 120 Jersey Avenue, New Brunswick, N.J. 08903.

Kindergarten News

The Kindergarten class finished up a unit on animals and pets last week. At the conclusion of the pet unit, unusual pets were brought to class. Jan Howell showed his guinea pig and told how to care for it. The real thrill was when Mr. Robert Lapeen, David Lapeen's father, brought two snakes to class. The first was a small Rosy Boa and the second was a large Boa Constrictor. Mr. Lapeen assured the children that the snakes didn't bite and let the class handle and pet them. We watched them move and found out what they ate. Some of the children even let Mr. Lapeen drape the snakes around their necks. The whole class and especially the teacher want to thank Mr. Lapeen for a very exciting and informative morning.

Second Grade News

The second grade class has planted several kinds of plants in terrariums. These terrariums are small gardens with several different kinds of plants in each one. The children have chosen the plants and placed them where they feel they look the best. The boys planted one and the girls planted one. We also have several small terrariums planted. We have used these kinds of plants—Peperonia, Aluminum plants, Baby tears and some vines, and Piggy-back plants.

We will watch to see how they grow and observe their reaction to light. We are also looking for our tulips to bloom. Our pink hyacinths have already bloomed and are gone.

We will also study these in science to observe how they grow and multiply. We will also study the work of each part of the plant. We have several plants growing in a closed terrarium. It will be interesting to see how they grow compared to the uncovered ones.

Lori Slead brought in some buttercups for us to enjoy. They are still growing and blooming.

Committee For Restoration Formed In Latah County

A group of Latah County sportsmen has organized the Committee for Restoration of Pheasants in Latah County and is trying to convince the Idaho Fish and Game Department there are better methods to create quality pheasant hunting than to release game-farm-reared birds under the guns of hunters.

Like many Eastern Washington scatter-gunners, the Idaho hunters feel that shooting birds which haven't learned to take care of themselves is a bit distasteful.

Harvey C. Neese of Troy, Idaho, compiled a 27-page mimeographed report for the committee a few days ago. The report is to be presented to the department for its consideration.

The put-and-take method of placing cocks before the hunters' guns a few days prior to opening of the hunting season has not been popular nor effective with local sportsmen," Neese said in the report.

"The economics of put-and-take releases and the difficulty of labeling such a program a complete failure are two reasons why this type of program appears to be heavily promoted by various game departments.

"The other alternative—the long, sometimes arduous process of establishing the species to match habitat conditions and the careful regulation of seasons—is the hard way. The popular of the latter method seems to have fallen to the wayside, although it is the only logical long-term solution for perennial low-cost pheasant hunting.

"Many sportsmen are questioning the economics and ethics of releasing cocks year after year in a self-perpetuating program of planned fertility."

Neese said sportsmen of Latah County are "ready and willing" to participate in the pheasant restoration program as a welcome substitute for the distasteful put-and-take method," and added: "The Game Department needs only ask for their help."

Neese said the Idaho department has shown little interest in improving habitat for pheasants in Latah County.

He said that potential pheasant habitat is in the southern part of Latah County. Some of the best areas are in the vicinity of Troy, Park area, Kendrick, Potlatch, Genesee and Southwick-Cavandish. For the most part, they are south of the Troy-Deary Highway No. 8.

Neese outlined a five-point program for the county. It includes identification of suitable pheasant habitat, predator evaluation and control, release of mature breeding pheasants, careful regulation of hunting seasons and participation by sportsmen in a pheasant restoration program.

"Numerous sportsmen and landowners have indicated they are willing to participate in a pheasant restoration program," he said. "Depending upon the detailed program that is finalized, this could mean participation in raising some pheasants for release, predator control and development of more suitable habitat.

"This enthusiasm is encouraging and should be examined carefully so that sportsmen's efforts can be included in the program. The Game Department can immediately establish a partnership with these sportsmen."

The Latah Pheasant Restoration Committee is contemplating incorporating into a non-profit organization in the future. Initial emphasis will be placed on pheasant restoration. Other action-oriented projects will be planned in the future. Depending upon the reaction of the Game Department to the report/proposal, pheasant restoration could mean the actual raising of young chick pheasants to the 6-week release date, planting of small acreage parcels in feed and cover crops and predator control.

For this type of organization and program, the combined efforts of a large number of sympathetic sportsmen are needed. Contributions will be needed in time, money, land for habitat, facilities for pheasant rearing, feed, legal work, organizational and board and any charges made for the first three pints of blood. Medicare would pay for processing the blood but not for the blood itself.

Then the hospital would bill you for what Medicare did not pay. Your bill would be $160, $60 board and board and $30 per pint of blood. You really expected a bill for only $60 because you didn't know you would need a blood transfusion. That extra $90 hurts.

Had you been a member of a blood bank you never would have been billed for the blood. Any other hospital in the country might bill you but you wouldn't have to pay the charge. The blood bank would simply transfer blood to the other hospital, wherever it might be.

But you don't like to donate blood? Or can't donate because of your physical condition? That's fine—you don't have to. As a matter of fact, the rules of the blood bank prohibit taking blood from anyone over age 60 except in unusual circumstances. But not being able to donate blood does not prevent you being a member of the bank.

All you need do is sign an application for membership. You will not even be asked to submit to a blood test. You will be sent a membership card to present to any hospital in which you choose to have surgery.

There is no cost or obligation to you. I would like to see every Medicare beneficiary enrolled in a Blood Bank.

PALM READING

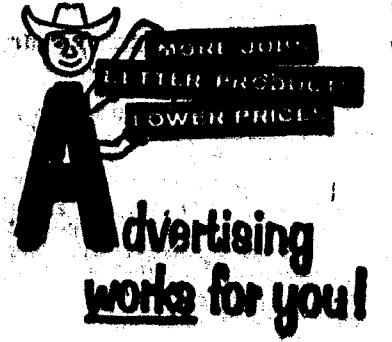

Palm reading may be gaining respectability as a diagnostic tool for pediatricians, reports the Idaho Medical Association.

An Idaho researcher has reported that abnormal creases in the palms of children are often associated with defects in other parts of the body.

Writing in Clinical Pediatrics, Dr. Charles F. Johnson of the Department of Pediatrics at the University of Iowa, emphasized that hand irregularities do not necessarily indicate more serious defects, but their presence should alert a physician to search carefully for associated abnormalities of structure or function elsewhere in the body.

In discussing the reason for the connection between the hand and other defects, Dr. Johnson pointed out that the hand is defined during the first three months of life, when other organs that may have defects are also formed.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on Tuesday, the 7th day of March, 1972 at the hour of 8:00 o'clock p. m., Pacific Standard Time, a public hearing will be held in the Fire Station in the City of Juliaetta, Latah County, Idaho, at which time and place any citizen of the City of Juliaetta may express his objection, if any he shall have to the necessity or desirability that the City of Juliaetta, Idaho sell at public auction the following described property situated in Latah County, Idaho, to-wit:

Lot 1 and 2 of Block 12, of the original Village of Juliaetta as shown by the original recorded plat thereof; the appraised value being $1,300.00.

It is proposed by the Council of the City of Juliaetta, Idaho that the said property shall be sold at public auction for cash to the highest bidder and no bid shall be accepted for less than the appraised value as hereinabove stated. The City Council of the City of Juliaetta, however, reserves the right to reject any all bids therefor.

This notice of public hearing is given pursuant to Ordinance No. 181, adopted February 10, 1972, of the City of Juliaetta, wherein the City Council of the City of Juliaetta expressed its intent to sell said real property and in which said ordinance, it was declared that before such sale should be made that a public hearing would be held to determine the necessity of desirability of such sale and in which ordinance, further provision was made that notice of said hearing shall be given for publication for two (2) successive weeks of the time and place of such hearing in a newspaper of general circulation within the City of Juliaetta, Idaho.

DATED this 10th day of February, 1972.

FOCUS . . .
— By Rev. Ron Ozler —
Dear Focus,
At what age should teenagers be permitted to date?
Protected

Dear Protected,
It is impossible to give a certain age at which one should begin dating, because, obviously, some persons mature emotionally quicker than others. I doubt if it is really wise for girls to date prior to the end of their freshman year in high school, and even then dates should be carefully planned, perhaps with another couple. Most young men don't really get into the dating game until they are able to drive an automobile, because they feel that they must demonstrate their independence to the girl. No one likes to think he has to rely on another in order to date.

I think every parent should find a mutually agreeable time by which the date should be over, after discussing this thoroughly with the date. This need not be an inviolate hour, but may be changed as the type of date demands. For instance, if a movie is planned, with perhaps a sandwich or pizza to follow, then eleven doesn't seem unreasonable. If the date is to a function which isn't over until twelve, then perhaps one is reasonable. These times should be set by the boy with the girl's parents prior to leaving, in addition to getting his parent's agreement.

Dear Focus,
What is your opinion of the recent movement on the part of many denominations to consolidate into one "mega-church?"
Chris

Dear Chris,
The "ecumenical emphasis" of the past few years has both its good and bad aspects in my mind. Although the United Methodist church has been somewhat a leader in this area, I personally think that it is unwise to create a "one church" religious society. People like to have a choice, both in church administration and in church worship and belief. I think that all denominations should attempt to seek means of uniting their efforts in common programs of a specific nature, but this need not mean they totally unite. In religion, as in politics, difference of opinion is the key to a better understanding of the truth, and how it can best be translated into human action.
