Rep. Brocke Reports On Legislative Activities

The House and Senate went through the process of passing House Bill 498, the farm labor act, which was a warmed over version of the one they passed last year with a March 1, 1972 deadline. The Governor vetoed the bill, and his veto was sustained with instructions to come forth with another satisfactory bill or he would appoint a committee to prepare one and then call of special session of the legislature for its enactment.

Another bill is in the hopper concerning this, but it is still the same old bill with a March 1, 1973 deadline.

Governor Andrus said in his veto message that he wanted assurance that the seasonal crops of the state would not be jeopardized by labor strikes.

The 18-year-old adult age bill, HB 483, came back from the Senate amended changing the age to 19 for the consumption of alcoholic beverages. This bill then went to a conference committee and its fate is uncertain. There are, however, separate bills concerning majority age at 18 that could be passed separately.

The Coyote bounty matter, HB 378, finally went down to defeat in the Senate, so we will be spared the "coyote howls" the balance of this session.

The Criminal Code repealer, HB 492, after lengthy debate, was passed in the Senate, and is now on the Governor's desk with an April 1 effective date. The Governor has 10 days to sign or veto the bill after it is received in his office, but his signature is expected soon. This means that we will, no doubt, laboriously start amending the old Code, which will be time consuming. Thousands of dollars have gone down the drain in this particular case, including a fee of $12,000 paid for writing the criminal code which went into effect the first part of January this year, plus a great amount spent for hearings and other details in the matter. Now we are faced with the expense of printing the voluminous old code and many amendments which it will need.

House Bill 631 for school reorganization, which many people opposed through telegrams and letters, was set for third reading last Monday, (March 6), after being sent out of the Educational Committee on March 1. The bill calls for a school reorganization study. They took some of the bugs out of HB 423, which this bill replaced, but it still didn't meet with my approval.

Don't look for me home until you see me. Being faced with settling the criminal code, and a great number of other bills yet to be considered, it doesn't look too hopeful for another week or ten days.

Annual KHS Senior Smorgasbord Saturday

The senior class of Kendrick High School is sponsoring a smorgasbord at the school cafeteria this Saturday, March 11. Serving will be from 5 until 7. Cost for the dinner is as follows: Adults, $2; Grades 7-12, $1.50, Grades 1-6, $1.00.

The senior smorgasbord, which is becoming an annual affair, is one way the senior class earns money to defray senior expenses. The meal will feature ham and chicken with a great variety of side dishes, all prepared by mothers of senior students.

As an added attraction three basketball games have been scheduled for the evening. The 7th and 8th grade girls will tangle at 6:00 followed by a game between the sophomores and junior boys at 7.

Faculty members will be called upon to show their athletic prowess when they go against the senior boys in the 8 o'clock game. A donation of 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students will be requested at the door.

The drill team will display its precision routines during the half-time of the senior-faculty game.

The seniors have an exciting evening planned for you and would appreciate your support.

Timberline Edges GHS Out of Tourn.

Genesee was forced out of the District 3-A basketball tournament at Lewiston last Wednesday night as a single free throw in an overtime period defeated them at the hands of Timberline 53-52.

Timberline led at the end of every quarter and early in the final period had the Bulldogs down by 11 points before GHS stormed back in the final minutes to tie the score and force the game into overtime. In the overtime period each team called a field goal but the Timberline center was fouled and he missed the first shot but made the second with just 6 seconds remaining to edge out the home team.

Bill Schlueter dropped in the first points of the game with a short jumper from the key. The score went to 9-8 in favor of Timberline with first one team, then the other leading. Timberline took the lead the remainder of the quarter which ended 14-12.

Bill Schlueter tied the game at 17-17 all and GHS then went ahead 19-17 on a short shot by Busch. Genesee moved out to a 23-19 lead on a jump shot by Herman and Timberline called time out. The Spartans quickly caught up and tied the game 23-23 and then surged ahead and were leading 32-27 at the half.

Timberline put a fine zone defense on the Bulldogs and lead by as much as 11 points in the second half. The Spartans went cold, or Genesee got hot, in the fourth frame and GHS started moving up on them. Bill Schlueter finally tied the game 50-50 on a shot from the corner with 3:15 on the board. Neither team could hit again and the regular time ran out 50-50.

In the overtime, Timberline scored first with 1:30 left in the three minutes of play. Then Schlueter tied it again 52-51. With 17 seconds left, Raykovich of Timberline was fouled. He made his second shot and that was the game.

Schlueter had 17 points, Busch 12, Herman 10, Myers 5 and Kanikkeberg 8.

The Prairie Pirates won the tournament by defeating Timberline.

News Items From Juliaetta Schools

Let it be known that the talent show put on last Friday was completely under the direction of the 6th grade class. We are all pleased that it was so well attended by the people in the community. There were approximately 250 spectators. The sixth grade planned, programmed and directed the entire show. They did all of the rehearsing and set up time schedules. I believe this is one example of what students this age are capable of. Many times we do not give them enough credit. All participation was voluntary and all acts were original and planned by the performer or performers. The show was a success and I, for one, am extremely proud of all who took part and supported the program.

Darrell Manfull

First Grade Topic
The first grade students are enjoying watching wheat and barley grow.

The students are busy making St. Patrick's decorations. They will soon start making spring flowers. The first grade students enjoyed listening to Melica Downs and Linda Williams singing a song for the talent show.

Second Grade Chatter
Since we missed getting our news in on time last week, I'll review it. We studied proper care for our teeth. We saw a filmstrip entitled: "Let's Talk About Teeth" and "The Mouth I Live In".

This past week we've given special attention to Clock and Telling Time. We also studied about our eyes.

And of course a big event was the talent show Friday evening. I was very proud of all in my classroom who participated.

We made and sent get well cards to David Wolff who is in the hospital.

W. M. Thomas, Kendrick Pioneer, Passed April 24

Funeral services were held last Saturday for Walter M. Thomas, 82, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Thomas, were pioneers of the Kendrick area.

Mr. Thomas was the retired music director with Central Valley high school and was a member of the Valley Rotary. He had also spent nine years as band director with Lewis and Clark high school in Spokane and three years as music instructor at Post Falls following his retirement from Central Valley.

He was born in Kendrick and learned music here, playing piano for the silent movie theaters of Moscow and Pullman when he attended college. Upon joining the Navy, he organized a band aboard the cruiser St. Louis and served as its bandmaster.

Mr. Thomas' father operated a hardware store in Kendrick and had interests in the old Kendrick State Bank.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Robert Iler, Spokane Valley; a son, Walter M. Thomas, Jr., Portland; 5 grandchildren and a brother in Lewiston.

Wet Weather

March, the month of winds, roared in like a lion, bringing rain, high winds, snow and the threat of flooding—as area residents were beginning to wonder if Spring would ever arrive. The heavy rains and the runoff from melting snow—there is still some of that on the north slopes—has caused heavy washing in almost all sections of the region.

In the past week, Kendrick, Juliaetta and Genesee have endured rain, snow, sleet, winds and bright sunshine. Temperatures have ranged from almost sixty degrees down to below freezing.

John Luedke, who maintains a rain gauge in the Genesee area, reported that total rainfall in that area for February totaled 3.77 inches. This is much above the 1.54 inches for the same period in 1971. The highest amount of rainfall recorded by Luedke was in 1961 at an even 4.00 inches.

Both American Ridge and Big Bear Ridge exceeded that 4 inch figure this year.

Dick Benscoter, up on American Ridge recorded 4.31 inches during February.

Chas. Bower, over on Big Bear Ridge, recorded 4.70 inches last month for the second highest amount in the fourteen years he has been maintaining the figures for the SCS. In February of 1968 he recorded 5.17 inches.

Districts Battle Consolidation Move

Administrators, board members and taxpayers in the Kendrick and Genesee school district are waging a solid battle against a proposal which could be the first step in consolidation of schools in this and other districts throughout the state.

Pending before the legislature in Boise now is House Bill 631 which would authorize and direct the State Board of Education to establish a state commission for school district reorganization. The bill would appropriate $51,000 for this purpose.

Certain that passage of this bill could spell the end of high schools in Kendrick and Genesee, agitated citizens and school officials are besieging Boise and the legislators with personal calls, letters and telegrams urging defeat of the bill.

Luther Parks, trustee of District 283 was in Boise earlier to testify against HB 423, which was a forerunner of the current bill, and from Genesee's District, Supt. Les Diehl and trustees Tom Boyd, Ray Stout and Ray Wedin have been in Boise battling the issue.

In a letter to Geo. Brocke, Jr. (who has publicly announced his opposition to HB 631) Supt. Don Blakeley wrote, "... In event HB 631 passes, many districts will be forced to consolidate and therefore will have little or no control over mill levies or necessary operation taxes ... Another serious disadvantage; it will take local control away from district and zone elected trustees. The schools belong to the people, but they will even be deprived of policy development ..."

All interested ones in district 283 and 282 are being urged to express themselves on this issue.

Open House Well Attended
An open house for Ethel Messers 85th birthday anniversary was very well attended in spite of weather and road conditions. She received many compliments on how young and nice she looked. Maybe it was because it was such a happy occasion for her. She enjoyed visiting family members, old and new friends, and seeing for the first time, a two month old great-great grandson, Travis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Frazier of Clarkston.

She also enjoyed a special kind thought for the very nice book entitled, "So, Who's Afraid of Birthdays" presented to her by the United Church of Juliaetta.

One granddaughter, Mrs. J. R. Anderson of Spokane was unable to attend because of a severe beating her step-son received Saturday night. The 17-year-old was returning home from a basketball game in the valley when attacked. Dean is manager of the winning team (seems a dangerous position). He suffered a badly broken leg and hip and will be hospitalized for some time.

Tuesday evening a family gathering was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Johns to honor their grandson and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Emmonds, Cal. They are both in the service, he is a Marine and is to be transferred to Japan for a year when they return. Mrs. Emmonds is in the Navy. The children and grandchildren of the Phil Johns were guests.

At a dinner party a shy young man had been trying to think of something nice to say to his hostess. At last he saw his chance when she turned to him and remarked, "What a small appetite you have tonight, Mr. Jones."
 "To sit next to you," he replied gallantly, "would cause any man to lose his appetite."

Shortly after one Vermonter had had a telephone installed, a neighbor dropped in and found him immersed in the business of filling out a form from a mail-order catalogue. The telephone was ringing persistently, but its possessor took no heed whatsoever.
 "Alex," the caller ventured, "ain't that your number?"
 "Ehnyah, 'tis."
 "Wal, aintcha goin' to answer it for gossakes?"
 "William," said the other, looking up, "I'm busy and I had that durn thing installed for my convenience."

HUNDREDS ASSIST IN SOCIAL SECURITY WORK
 By John S. Jennings
 Field Representative

A friend of mine asked me recently how large an area I cover for Social Security. When I told him we were responsible for Latah, Clearwater, Idaho, Lewis, and NezPerce, in Idaho and Asotin and Whitman counties in Washington he was impressed. "Isn't that a big job for you?" he asked. "You bet," I told him, and left it at that.

I wasn't really being honest. Sure, I have a big job and I think I do it well. But we get a lot of help. The overall responsibility for the Social Security program in the counties rests with District Manager, D. Gene Shaw, of the Lewiston District Office. Most of our claims processing is done by his staff.

Through the Lewiston offices we are connected to a huge regional and national organization. A simple phone call can, in effect, plug our operation into the largest computer system in the world. Seven payment centers around the country, the Treasury Department and the United States Postal Service work around the clock to make sure that the 8,000 people in our two counties receiving social security checks receive them on time and in the right amount.

In the field of medicare, most of the local work is done by the Medicare departments of Medical Service Corporation of Spokane, Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, Boise, and the medical community itself—hospitals, doctors and nursing homes.

But there is another kind of help that comes from outside our agency that we could hardly do without. Countless hundreds of hours are spent each year by people in the community helping to make the Social Security program go. Except as voters and taxpayers, these people have no connection with social security. They don't get paid a dime for the work they do for us. But their work is no less meaningful for that. We think it's vital.

What sort of work do they do? Well, let's suppose that we are having difficulty establishing someone's age. We learn that they were married in Challam County in 1926. We call upon the county auditor to search the marriage records and supply a verification of the age shown on the marriage license application.

The county clerk provides us with evidence of divorce, guardianship, adoption, and child legitimacy. The various school districts search their vaults for old school records which might establish a claimant's age. Or they might supply us with reports of psychological testing—valuable evidence of childhood disability.

Employers provide us with earnings information and advice as to work capabilities or disabled workers. Hospital record librarians and local physicians are our main source of medical reports for the disabled.

Since the Social Security Administration does not include an "advertising" expense in its administrative budget, we must rely upon our local news media—newspapers, radio and television to deliver our message. They, as well, are asked to contribute their work and time and space without reimbursement.

Local offices of state agencies both Idaho and Washington, Departments of Social and Health Services, Labor and Industry, and Vocational Rehabilitation to name but a few, contribute many hours to making social security run efficiently.

So as you can see, social security is a large operation. We actually have quite a large staff. We think it's the best anywhere.

"REALISTIC" FOOD PRICES

The retail cost of the "market basket" of U. S. farm foods may rise about 3.5 percent in 1972, according to a recent government report, but farmers will get only a small part of that increase if 1971 is any yardstick.

Farmers received only $1 of a $21 increase in 1971 over 1970 from a $1,000 market basket of food items, a report from the U. S. Department of Agriculture shows.

In 1971, farmers got only 88 cents of each dollar consumers spent on food, which was one cent below 1970.

One of the big factors in food prices is the cost of labor, all the way from the farm to the consumer's table.

Unit labor costs in the marketing of farm-food products rose from an index of 100 in 1960 to 140 in 1970.

The farm-to-retail price spread of the market basket of farm foods increased $120, or 20.3 percent from 1965 to 1970.

Strangely enough there has been little outcry on wage boosts recorded in the last 10 years even though it is quite obvious they have played a large part not only in the price of food, but in most consumer items.

Perhaps one of the reasons that food price increases create some adverse consumer reaction is that Americans have come to expect low prices as the result of efforts of previous Administrations to promote "cheap food policies."

Many farmers remember when Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman expressed pleasure at the prospect of lower food prices. The Secretary claimed that he was misquoted at that time, but his disclaimer did not seem to ring true in the light of some of his previous actions, including orders to the Defense Department to cut pork and butter purchases to halt rising prices.

It's time for the U. S. consumer to take a realistic view of food prices in relation to the rest of the items that make up the cost of living, and the part that labor cost plays in prices.

For example, Ray D. Evans, president of the Kansas City Livestock Exchange, said recently that the increase in livestock prices in the past month to six weeks were "very realistic" in comparison to expense costs facing farmers today.

David also pointed out that the reference in recent cattle prices as "record high" is misleading because the former record was set over 20 years ago and the farmer has been far behind the economic pack since then.

Get all 3 pea poachers with one shot.

One shot of Treflan®, a single preplant application, gets wild oats, pigweed, lambsquarters. Protects your peas against these three, plus 24 more, for a whole growing season. Rain or shine. Saves you the added expense of coming back after your peas are up and hitting them with a broadleaf killer for pigweed and lambsquarters. Treflan has caught on fast with pea growers. Mainly because it's the efficient way to handle troublesome weeds. Helps you to a better return on your investment. Treflan for peas.

MAN'S HEAVY HAND ON THE LAND
By Jim Graham,
Regional Conservation Educator
Idaho Fish and Game Dept.

A great deal is said about man's heavy hand on the land or man's impact on his environment. It's mouthed so often that sometimes these facts go in one ear and out the other. Not until an individual actually witnesses a dramatic instance of man's zest for progress and the impact of progress is shockingly portrayed, does anyone stand up and shout. The shouting sometimes goes on long and loud until soon the major issues are buried.

Some very interesting things are happening in the reservoir pool area at Dworshak Dam in north Idaho. Dworshak Dam is located a short distance upstream from the mouth of the North Fork of the Clearwater River near the town of Ahsahka. The dam is constructed by the Army Corps of Engineers and is nearing completion. The reservoir pool area will inundate several thousand acres of the big game winter range and in fact is in the process of doing that right now. The reservoir pool is now filling. Since Christmas, cold winter temperatures have prevailed and an ice cover has formed on the steadily rising pool. Heavy snows have forced whitetail deer down the North Fork of the Clearwater River to lower elevations to escape deepening snows. This movement is not unusual in this area when these kinds of weather conditions exist.

What is different is that prior to the construction of Dworshak Dam and the existence of a reservoir pool the deer could move down to river level which no longer exists. The only place left to go now is on the reservoir ice and here they are flirting with death.

The high water areas of Dworshak pool have been cleared of all timber and vegetation. In the lower pool areas, the area from the old river channel half way up to full pool level only the marketable timber has been cut and the rest left to stand buried under thousands of acre feet of water. The felled saw timber floats to the surface and will be skimmed from the pool and shipped to the mill.

As the water rises through the timbered area, ice is continually forming. The shoreline area is undergoing constant change as the ice is lifted by incoming river flow backed up by the dam. Unstable rotten ice rings the shoreline and also around the tree tops and unlimbed logs poking through the ice. The deer forced down onto this ice platform use it as a highway and also feed on the cedar trees poking through the ice. Often times a deer stops forward to munch a tasty morsel and steps through the slushy ice surrounding the tree and struggles in vain to get back on the ice, only to die of exhaustion. Hundreds of deer are to be seen on the ice.

Along with this unusual animal behavior precipitated by the growing reservoir pool are large numbers of coyotes that run in various size packs from two to six, taking advantage of a man-made opportunity to take deer. Until the coyotes showed up, the reservoir ice was an evil killer and the public was shocked at the deer drowning in the slushy ice hole. Then a jured Tuesday while working at the Farmers Union elevator when a foreign substance from the belt entered the corner of his eye.

Frank, Steve and Gerhard Broemeling and Pete Johann left Thursday morning for Cadogan, Alta., Canada after a several weeks visit here with relatives and friends.

few deer carcasses were found on the ice, coyotes were observed chasing deer, killing deer, and the rest of the animals of the forest who also live here showed up on the scene for dinner. Ravens, magpies, bald eagles, and golden eagles helped pick the bones clean. Almost over night the visions of deer drowning were wiped out of the eyes of man and wrath and scorn blossomed against the predators. The coyotes soon upstaged the drownings and now the cry became: "Don't blame the reservoir, blame the coyotes!"

How soon man is to forget the power and might and the grip of his heavy hand on the land.

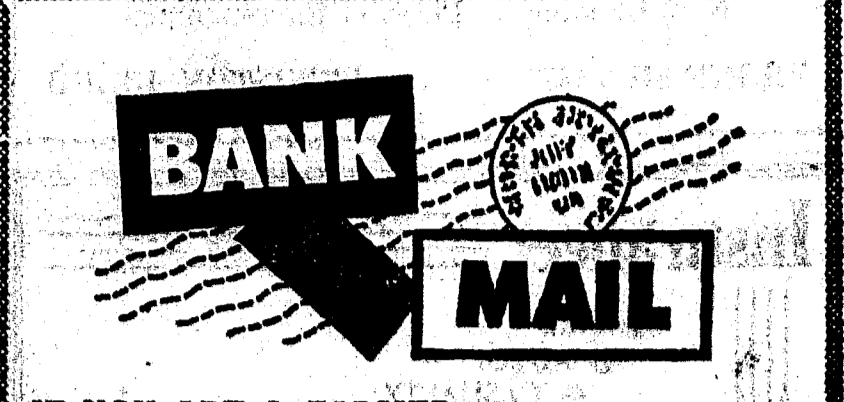

Of course the predators were always a part of nature's realm before the dam was constructed and they also harvested some deer during the critical winter months. But never before did a coyote have his work cut out for him in such an easy fashion. A large concentration of deer on a relatively narrow band of ice is not typical whitetail deer behavior, nor is a large concentration of predators typical of their behavior. Predators are opportunists and thanks to conditions on the reservoir, the predators have had a stellar opportunity.

Because of the unusual situation, the Fish and Game Commission authorized Wildlife Service, a branch of the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, to initiate a coyote control program on Dworshak reservoir. Snow, rain and fog the past week and a half have hampered this program. Rains have reduced snow depths and increased the open water areas around the shoreline of the ice covered pool to allow the deer to swim off of the ice and get back on terra firma where they can again move about to feed with greater mobility. It is difficult for the coyotes to get onto the ice so few coyotes are now seen on the ice. Conditions in the wilds change from day to day. Winter is not over and a sudden spell of cold weather and more snow again can put things right back to where they were.

THE OLD COUNTRY DOCTOR IS JUST A MEMORY

In his worn black bag, he brought relief from the common illnesses of the day. To long bedside vigil, he brought devotion, dedication and prayers. He was the family's hope for miracles.

The old country doctor is gone — as are many of the diseases he fought. Modern scientific developments have increased our life span and our quality of living.

Today, we can enjoy clean, healthful total comfort in our homes with ELECTRIC HEAT plus CENTRAL AIR CONDITIONING the year 'round. We can preserve this good life today, and in the future with wise, efficient use of the energy that makes it possible.

A few simple precautions can help you cut heating costs considerably.

- Let the sun shine in but keep drapes and shades drawn at night over large window areas.
- Set the thermostat at 65 degrees during the night and turn down heat source in unused areas.
- During the day, set the thermostat at a comfortable temperature and leave it there.
- Close fireplace damper when not in use to prevent heat from escaping up the flue.
- Seal all air leakage around door and window frames and apply weather stripping. Storm doors and windows are a wise investment.
