Idaho FFA President Meets With Sect. Of Agriculture

Washington, D. C.—David Wilken, president of the Idaho FFA Association, was one of 82 FFA officers who met Wednesday with Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz. The hour-long meeting was a highlight of a week-long State FFA Presidents' Conference in the nation's capital.

The conference was sponsored by General Motors Corporation as a special project of the National FFA Foundation, Inc.

Secretary Butz and three members of his staff fielded questions on a broad range of subjects presented by a panel of five State FFA Officers and National FFA president, Tim Burke. Butz opened the discussion by expressing optimism in the future of America, saying that the nation is still a developing country and there are many challenges for young people today. "I only wish that I could have had the opportunity you're going to have in this challenging political experiment we call America," Butz told the group of young men and women who are preparing for careers in agriculture. "There's a lot right with America," he said, challenging them to put their talents to good use making the nation a better place in which to live.

Questions posed by the officers were indicative of the young agricultural students' wide range of concern about modern agriculture. They included questions on age of American farmers, the public image of farming, rural development, and economic issues affecting farmers and consumers today.

This is the fifth annual State Presidents' Conference and is the first FFA conference to be sponsored by General Motors Corporation, through the National FFA Foundation, Inc. GM Vice President Wallace E. Wilson was on hand to greet the FFA members prior to their panel discussion with Secretary Butz. "General Motors is pleased to sponsor this eventful week for FFA State Presidents," he told members. "We have confidence in the future of agricultural and General Motors wishes to actively support young people preparing for careers in this vital industry." As sponsors of the week-long conference stressing the development of leadership and citizenship, General Motors provided travel and conference expenses for State presidents.

The purpose of the State Presidents' Conference program was to improve leadership skills, develop an understanding of the national heritage, and prepare state FFA officers for more effective leadership roles in their State FFA Associations. The conference also provided a forum for the exchange of ideas among officers from every state in the nation and was an opportunity for officers to discuss National issues such as FFA constitutional changes before the National FFA Convention in October.

Prior to their meeting with Secretary Butz the officers toured a National Farm Safety Week display of farm equipment on the lawn of the U. S. Department of Agriculture building. The exhibit was a public demonstration of the progress that has been made in providing safer machinery for the nation's farmers. The display was set up by the Farm and Industrial Equipment Institute, the trade organization of the nation's farm equipment manufacturers and a sponsor of the National FFA Safety Award program.

Officers moved from the farm safety display to a conference room in the U.S.D.A. where they had a brief discussion on education issues with Michael Russo, Acting Director of Vocational and Technical Education from the U. S. Office of Education. Among many things Russo explained recent legislation which has made possible expanded educational opportunities in vocational training including agriculture. He expressed the need for youth organizations like the FFA for development of all vocational education students.

On Friday they visited the White House for a special tour of the Presidential Home, highlighted by a meeting with President Richard M. Nixon. Officers also visited historic and memorial sites in Washington placing a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

The week-long program concluded with a banquet and special program presented by the National FFA officers.

David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wilken of Kendrick. He was elected president of the Idaho FFA Association at the Idaho FFA Leadership Conference at Burley, Idaho, held in late March, 1972.

Man Killed As Truck Brakes Fail On Grade

A 24-year-old Nyssa, Oregon man was killed and a 37-year-old man injured when the brakes on a 2½-ton truck hauling a load of bricks failed on the steep grade going down American ridge grade west of Kendrick on State Highway 99 at about 6:15 Thursday of last week and rolled 480 feet down an embankment.

Dead is Wayne Takami, an Oregon State University student. Injured and listed in satisfactory condition at St. Joseph's Hospital with a broken right shoulder and multiple cuts and bruises is Keith Marple.

Latah County Deputy Sheriff David C. Wilson, who investigated the accident, said the 1964 Chevrolet truck was southbound down the grade with a 6-ton load of bricks when the brakes failed, the truck skidded 254 feet broadside down the highway, went over the embankment and rolled 480 feet, coming to rest on its top.

Takami, the driver of the truck, was thrown from the vehicle, Wilson said. Marple was found inside the truck, which was damaged beyond practical repair.

The truck broke off a telephone pole on the embankment and put telephones out of service in the west end of Kendrick for about one hour.

Juliaetta Bridge Closed To Truck Traffic

Federal inspection of all bridges is now in process, Nez Perce County Highway District foreman Lloyd Craig said Tuesday. Results of this inspection has forced the county workers to make a detour around the Juliaetta bridge for all truck traffic, he added. Nothing but cars and pickups are allowed on the bridge.

A detour through the creek above the bridge has been provided. Vehicles will travel through water about 8 inches deep. Motorists are advised to proceed with caution and there should be no problems.

The bridge will be abandoned in the future Craig added, but plans are indefinite as present.

The Sperry grade bridge into Kendrick has also been affected by the inspection. Weight limits for the bridge have been lowered from 18,000 to 5,000 pounds and will remain so until Federal inspection is complete.

Juliaetta Couples Return From Alaskan Tour

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Merrick and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Gruell returned last week from a two week tour of Alaska. They were part of a group of 39 who left Clarkston by bus for Prince Rupert, B. C. — a distance of 1400 miles. There they boarded the ferry "Wickersham" for a trip up the Inside Passage to Skagway with brief stops at Ketchikan, Sitka and Juneau.

A trip by train over the White Pass to Whitehorse, Yukon Territory, followed the Klondike Trail of 1898 — and which is visible in many places. Going on by bus to Fairbanks was over a part of the Alcan Highway.

In Fairbanks they visited Mrs. J. M. Murray's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Targerson; had a sternwheeler boat trip on the Chena and Tanana Rivers and visited Alaskanland.

They were disappointed in their visit to McKinley Park, as rain and fog obscured Mt. McKinley, the highest peak in North America, but they did see it later from Anchorage.

The Gruells visited Mr. and Mrs. Paul Combs, who have lived in Anchorage for 22 years. Paul was a Juliaetta resident many years ago, and a graduate of the high school there.

The Merricks took a sight-seeing plane trip over Anchorage. The return to Lewiston was also made by plane.

They were most impressed by the vastness of Alaska, the innumerable lakes and chocolate brown rivers, the long days and short nights and the lack of game, as they glimpsed only a moose and a coyote.

Local Girl Taking Part In New Teacher Training Project at U. of Idaho

A pilot project for the training of elementary teachers was conducted at the University of Idaho during the spring semester 1971-72, with 12 senior trainees taking part. It was judged highly successful by trainees, cooperating school personnel and college staff so will be conducted again 1972-73 academic year. A controlled environment is provided in the form of satellite laboratory schools for the induction of prospective teachers.

Jane Westendahl of Kendrick has been selected as one of 24 seniors to participate in the program.

The program provides a combined experience of methods instruction and public school classroom involvement during the first half of the semester (utilizing campus and classroom facilities in Moscow and Lewiston school districts) and full-time participation as an associate teacher during the later half in one of the regular cooperating schools.

The program personnel include selected cooperating school staff — twenty-four student teachers, university instructors of three special methods courses, audio-visual aids, science and social studies, and other institutional representatives as deemed necessary.

Johnsons Return From Class Reunion

Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson returned from a week's vacation which took them to Dutton, Montana, for the class reunion of Aileen's. The reunion included the graduation classes of 1930 through 1938. A dinner-dance was held Saturday evening at the Meadow Lark Country Club in Great Falls for the purpose of renewing old acquaintances. Sunday a picnic was held six miles north of Dutton (at the old swimming hole) on the Teton River. Some 120 were in attendance — so two days just didn't give enough time for all the visiting especially after seeing them all for the first time in 35 years.

On their return trip they visited Bill's sister, Mrs. Peter Siderius at Big Fork, Aileen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Flesham at Big Arm, both on Flathead lake, and also visited Bill's brother, Ed Johnson of Kellogg.

Just in passing, Aileen says if you want to feel young among old people — just attend a reunion — and you'll find you all grew old together.

ZEN MACROBIOTIC DIET

The Zen Macrobiotic diet and extreme example of the current trend toward natural and organic foods, has been termed a major health hazard, according to the Idaho Medical Association.
 The American Medical Association's Council on Foods, in a recent statement called the diet one of the most dangerous regimens, posing not only serious hazards to health, but to life itself.
 Rigid followers of the diet stand in danger of incurring serious nutritional deficiencies such as scurvy, anemia, lack of protein and calcium, emancipation and loss of kidney function, the Council said.

 The macrobiotic diet proposes ten levels of diet through which an individual can allegedly establish a happy and healthy life. The lowest level is a combination of animal products, vegetables, salads, fruits, soup, dessert and cereals. The highest level is 100 percent. Followers are told to avoid fluids to the greatest extent possible.
 The originator claims that the Zen diet not only helps followers achieve the ultimate sense of well-being but also cures cancer, mental disease and heart trouble.

SALMON FISHING ENDS

All good things come to an end, and this year's salmon fishing is no exception. What was previously billed as having rather dismal prospects, the 1972 chinook salmon fishing season turned out to be some better after high water subsided. Bag limits were liberalized at the end of June, and the real high point of the season was the big return of adult salmon to the Rapid River hatchery on the Little Salmon River tributary. Fishing success was reported extra good there.

Commission Holds Public Meetings
The Fish and Game Commission will conduct public meetings this week in Twin Falls, Idaho Falls and Boise. A meeting was held in Coeur d'Alene last week. The meetings will coincide with dates for the usual meetings of department personnel to discuss proposals for upland bird and furbearer trapping seasons.

Opening dates for game bird seasons were set in May, but bag limits, closing dates, and other details are yet to be established.

Controlled Hunt Drawings Held
Controlled hunt drawings for moose, mountain goat and bighorn sheep permits were held last week and successful applicants should receive their permits by mail within a week after the drawing. Applicants who do not receive permits and tags within 2 weeks should assume that they are unsuccessful and their fees will be refunded about four weeks following the drawing.

Dove Season Hours Listed

The 1972 mourning dove hunting season has been set for September 1 through 17. Shooting hours begin one-half hour before sunrise and end at sunset. Bag limit is 10 per day and 20 in possession after the first day. Shotguns capable of holding more than three shells in magazine and chamber combined must be 'plugged' to stay within the prescribed limit.

Bill Bendel, 44, Passes July 28

Bill Bendel, 44, owner and manager of Bendel's meat packing plant east of Troy, died Friday morning at his home.

Bill was born October 23, 1927, at Bonner's Ferry. He married the former Elizabeth McIntyre in 1953 in Moscow.

Bendel bought the meat packing and slaughtering plant on Noru Creek in 1963 from C. W. Edgar. Prior to that time, he worked as a farm hand for Elmer Guske. He credited Henry Guske with giving him the financial backing to make the original purchase.

Bendel enlarged the plant's capacity, and recently installed a sewage lagoon in compliance with State of Idaho inspection regulations. The state had closed his plant several times, but Bendel managed to meet the stringent requirements and reopened each time.

Bendel was planning to expand his plant even further, preparing a lot to feed his own cattle.

He trained a number of meatcutters at his plant, taking youngsters still in high school or just out of school, having them work part-time at first.

A dedicated worker in the Catholic church, Bill was active in the Knights of Columbus, and had earned the fourth degree. This year, he was named Knight of the Year by the Moscow Council, and he had served as State Deputy of the KC.

Bendel served on the Governor's committee for the Occupational Safety and Health Act this past spring and was chairman of the Whiteline School District Citizen's Committee for the two years it was in operation.

Bendel was also a member of the Troy Fire Department, the Troy Grange, the Troy Lions Club and the Moscow Elks Club. He was a member of the Moscow Fire Department for 23 years before moving to Troy. A former Jaycee of the Year, he was a member of the Latah County Chamber of Commerce. He was a 4-H leader for about 20 years.

Survivors include his wife, and a son, Archie Bendel, both of the Troy home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bendel of Moscow; five sisters, Mrs. Mabel Worley of Newport, Wash., Mrs. Ernest Barlow of Spokane, Wash., Mrs. Lewis of Walla Walla, Wash., Mrs. Les Stiles of Naples and Mrs. Everett McKerron, of Lewiston and two brothers Delbert Clark of Spokane and Dan Clark of Santa Paula, California.

Requiem mass was recited Tuesday at St. Mary's Catholic church in Moscow with the Rev. Fr. John W. Koalisch and the Rev. Fr. Urban Schmidt, officiating. Mrs. Robert Kinzer, soloist sang "Ava Maria," and "Our Father," accompanied by organist Judy Marineau.

Palbearers were Alden Holdel, Wm. Helbling, Len Bielenberg, Charles Scott, Wm. Oleson, Alfred Severson.

Home Cookin' ..

Zucchini is plentiful now and a vegetable that may be prepared in so many different and delicious ways. Have you ever tried it as a bread? We plan to as Marilyn Jenkins gave us a recipe for zucchini bread Monday—and some zucchini too. She says the bread is similar to banana or carrot bread, and adds that it freezes well just in case you'd like to make a few ahead and freeze them for this winter.

ZUCCHINI BREAD

- 3 eggs
- 1 cup cooking oil
- 1 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 cups grated zucchini (unpeeled and packed)
- *2 T. finely grated orange peel
- 3 tsp. vanilla
- 3 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon baking powder
- 2 teaspoon cinnamon
- Optional
- 1/2 cup chopped raisins
- 1/4 cup chopped walnuts

Beat eggs until light and foamy. Add oil, sugar, zucchini, vanilla and mix well. Add dry ingredients and orange rind. Mix until blended.

Bake at 325° 45 minutes to 1 hr. *Start out with a smaller amount and add up to 2T or leave one loaf plain and add 1T to the other to see if you like that much orange in it. I use 2 T. MJ.

Freight Rates Reduced; Wheat Growers Pleased

Idaho wheat growers have received a tremendous boost with the announcement that Union Pacific Railroad freight rates on wheat moving from Idaho to California will be reduced in the near future.

According to Harold Vos, of Boise administrator for the Idaho Wheat Commission, shipping rates will be cut nearly 10 per cent from various Idaho cities. He said that the commission hopes the new rates will go into effect within a few weeks.

The proposal for a freight rate reduction was first introduced to Union Pacific by the Idaho Wheat Commission. Idaho growers had become increasingly concerned during the last few years that their product was not competitive in the California market due to transportation cost advantages enjoyed by midwest producers.

Union Pacific spokesman John Stromberg of Omaha Nebraska described the new tariff as a result of careful study and painstaking negotiations.

"Idaho is a valued business asset," UP's grain traffic manager said "and we're extremely pleased that this action could be taken."

Robert L. Henry, Idaho Transportation Council administrator stated that an appeal to Interstate Commerce Commission for special permission to proceed with the new rate structure within a few weeks is being prepared.

The new rates will apply to the following cities: seven and a half cents reduction per hundred pounds on shipments from Pocatello, American Falls and Burley to California and nine cents reduction per hundred pounds of grain moving from Idaho Falls and Ashton.

Idaho wheat commission vice-chm. Sam Tyler of Tensed hailed the news as "one of the most important developments for Idaho growers in a good many years. An immediate gain is a savings of nearly five cents per bushel of wheat and about four cents per bushel of barley for the growers, he added.

Norman Dean, Wheat Commission member from Grangeville said that Idaho growers now "are expected to receive an increased $2.75 million for this year's crop." But, he added this tells only a small part of the story.

"Dramatic increases in production, marketing and living expenses have not been accompanied by gains in grower price," he explained. "That economic squeeze has been felt by local businesses and industries serving farm citizens. The rate reduction will help us all and give us a chance to protect our grain markets."

West pointed out the "as this increased money circulates through the business community it will add an estimated $7 million to Idaho's economy.

STATE LAWS PROTECT MOST WILDLIFE YOUNG

By Ted Chu, conservation officer Idaho Fish & Game Dept., Gooding This is the time of year when young wild animals of all types are starting to leave the safety of their dens or nests and make their first forays into the big world they must learn to survive in. They face many perils at this time; however, one which they should not have to cope with is the "helping" hand of well intentioned but uninformed man. Baby wild animals are extremely appealing and when found alone the temptation is often great to assume that they are lost or abandoned, and therefore should be taken home and cared for. This is very rarely the actual case, and in addition, possession incaptivity of any of Idaho's protected or game species is illegal.

Maternal instinct in animals is very strong, and they don't often abandon their young. When a young animal is found by itself, this merely means that its parents are off searching for food or that they have been frightened off and are watching anxiously from a nearby place of concealment. When the danger is past, they will return to care for their young.

Young or unprotected species are often taken home when found to become pets. Unfortunately or maybe fortunately, wild animals rarely make good pets. They require special care, special foods, and more time and attention than most people can give them. The sequence of events facing a young wild animal brought home to be a pet is easy to predict.

For a short time, he will receive too much attention, constant petting and handling, examination by all friends and neighbors and frequent thrusting of the wrong kinds of foods into his face. Then he must overcome a period of abandonment as he becomes no longer an object of interest, in fact he is now a burden. No one wants to feed him or clean his cage. If he is lucky enough to live to adulthood then he will probably be relegated to a zoo or to the backyard where he will spend the rest of his days pacing the front of his cage or at the end of his chain. He may also end up being returned to the wild where he will last only a short time since he has never learned to fend for himself.

If after reading this you are still determined that you should have a wild animal for a pet, please ask yourself these questions first: (1) Are you willing and able to spend a great deal of time with this pet; getting him accustomed to you and frequently supplying him with some of his natural food? (2) Do you live far enough out of town you can allow the animal to run free? (3) Are you willing to care for this pet thru out his natural lifespan which may be several years? (4) Is the animal you have your eye on of a species, sex, and age that may possibly make a good pet? For example, male coyote pups occasionally make good pets; however, they must be obtained before they open their eyes for the first time. Some animals can become dangerous as they get older and there have been a number of people in Idaho attacked and harmed by so-called pet deer and elk after a year or so in captivity. If you cannot give a definite "yes" answer to the above questions, then you should not try to take on a wild animal pet.

Unless you know for certain that a baby animal's parents have been killed please leave it alone. Locally we're very lucky in having high densities of breeding hawks, owls, and eagles all of which are protected by law. In the next couple of weeks, the young of these birds will be leaving their nests for the first time. It takes them several days to learn to fly during which time they often appear to be helplessly stranded on the ground. This is normal however, and they learn to fly by climbing to high ground, taking off and flying as far as possible, crash landing and then starting over again. All this occurs under the sharp watchful eye of the parent birds although they may be some distance away. The adults will continue to feed the young birds usually until September or October in decreasing amounts as they learn to hunt on their own. The only time that this process should be interfered with is if the young bird has picked a dangerous practice field maybe the middle of the road.

A government for the people must depend for its success on the intelligence, the morality the justice, and the interest of the people themselves. — Grover Cleveland.

CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF

Latah County

EXPERIENCE RECORD

Edwin L. (Ed) Pierson Age 59
Eighteen years in Law Enforcement.
Lewiston Police Dept. 5 1/2 yrs.
Nez Perce County Sheriff's Office 1 1/2 yrs.
Latah County Sheriff's Department 11 yrs.

I am a high school graduate and hold an advanced Certificate in Law Enforcement from the Police Officers Standards and Training School in Pocatello, Idaho.

For the past eleven years I have lived in Latah County and have enjoyed the friendly people I have worked for and with, first as a Deputy, then as Chief Deputy and since July 1971, as Sheriff. The policy of this office is and will continue to be HONEST, CLEAN, FAIR AND IMPARTIAL enforcement of the laws of this great state and Latah County in particular.

I, and every member of my staff, promise you we will do the best job we know how to do in every circumstance or case that should arise.

FUTURE PLANS—

We will continue to upgrade in every way possible. We are presently improving our records system to comply with the recommended standards for a department of this size and we expect to be fully operational by the time we move into our new Law Enforcement Center next year.

We will continue our training program to include all personnel.

POLICY ON HIRING PERSONNEL—

It is my belief that we have many qualified people right here in Latah County who might be interested in a career in law enforcement. Why not hire our own people? There are many advantages to this avenue of thought. They know the area, they know the people and we know them.

COOPERATIVE EFFORTS—

Beginning the first of this year a pilot program was initiated in Kendrick and Juliaetta in an effort to reduce traffic problems and improve security. The Sheriff's office has a working agreement with these two cities whereby we furnish a Deputy and a patrol car to be used for night patrol and security. The two cities pay a percentage of the total cost. This program has proven to be very beneficial. Traffic problems have been reduced and a closer security is being maintained.

This program could be expanded to other cities should enough interest be generated to merit expansion.

I assure you this department will continue to cooperate with other existing law enforcement agencies of this area and we are particularly proud of our rapport with the Moscow Police Department and the Idaho State Police.

The experience I have and my eleven years in this office I believe qualify me for a full hour year term as Sheriff.

May I Have Your Support In the Coming Election? I would appreciate your vote!

Candidates for political office are elected in this country by a vote of the people. People of all walks. Everyone. Not just those of us who are politically active.

That's why Rose Bowman is running for the United States Senate. She has the grass root support from the people in every corner of the state. Ordinary people. Housewives, attorneys, businessmen, students, farmers.

These people like her stand on the issues. The environment, the economy, excessive military spending, the rights of people.

These people like her, as a person. She talks their language. There's no political clap trap from her. Honest, straight-forward answers to their questions. In fact, they're supporting her monetarily—in $25 amounts.

EARLY PLANNING HELPS FALL HUNTING SUCCESS

By Stu Murrell, regional conservation educator
Idaho Fish & Game Dept., Jerome

It's that time of year when a big game hunter should start planning his hunt for next fall. Planning is one of the most enjoyable parts of a hunting trip and involves quite a bit of preparation, particularly if a hunter is going into a new area. The Idaho Fish and Game Department can quite often supply information on the number of animals bagged in each unit which provides the hunter with an indication of where some of the better areas are located for the species in which he is interested.

The next step and one of the most important is obtaining maps which show the type of features a hunter needs—such as trails, roads, prominent mountains, etc. If it is on National Forest Lands, one of the best is a large scale map of the forest which is printed 1/2-inch to the mile. There are also free maps of the National Forests that show main roads and some topographic detail, but as usually not as detailed as most hunters would like. Both of these types are available from the supervisor's office for that particular forest.

If your hunting area is on Bureau of Land Management lands their offices can provide a general recreation map showing public lands in the whole state which is valuable for showing the general location of federal and state lands. Again, it is not detailed enough for most hunters. The most detailed maps are available from the U. S. Geological Survey, GSA, Bldg., Washington, D. C. 20242 and are called quadrangles. The best way to find out which ones are available is to write them requesting the free index map of the state you will be hunting in. These show vegetative types which is very important for determining where your animals may be. One comment—the Fish and Game Department does not have detailed maps with the exception of some general handouts on lakes and reservoirs and national forest maps.

Once you have your maps, study them carefully so you will know where the landmarks are such as roads, streams, mountains, etc., and it will not only help you in planning your hunt but may prevent you from getting lost once you're hunting. An ideal situation is to take a scouting trip into the area during the summer to better acquaint yourself with any problems of the road conditions and use of areas by wildlife. If you can talk with the local conservation officer or local residents on expected conditions during the hunting season, it can be quite helpful.

The next item you should consider is equipment needed for the hunt. Does the road require a four-wheel drive in the fall for access—what type of clothing should you wear—are your regular hunting boots going to be adequate for the terrain and weather or should you get some specialized ones—is your gun and ammo proper for the job—do you have adequate equipment to properly dress out a bull elk, for example—if you're to use horses, are all the saddles, packs, etc. in good repair and what food will be needed. These are all questions you should ask yourself early in the year.

The next steps are sighting in your rifle and getting used to it. I like to sight in my 30.06 in at 3-inches high at 100 yards which puts it on at about 275, and is a good setting for most elk or deer hunting in Idaho. I also will shoot about 100 rounds at rocks or jacks at various distances while walking around the hills which gives me practice at range estimation, breaks in my new boots if I have recently purchased some, and familiarizes myself with the gun such as mounting it quickly, getting the sight in line, and working the action. Each year we have many cripples left in the woods because hunters failed to sight in their guns and are not familiar with its effective range.

Finally, you should condition yourself for the type of hunting you are planning. It may involve some summer backpacking if you are planning to backpack out your game or some horseback riding to get some other parts of your body in shape. Don't let a heart attack, or even a minor thing like sore feet spoil your hunt.

It is difficult to say what is impossible, for the dream of yesterday is the hope of today and the reality of tomorrow.—Robert H. Goddard.

ABOUT YOUR HEALTH

A recent poll indicates that many people know less about their health than they think, according to the Idaho Medical Association.

A national polling organization asked 1,609 adults how well informed they thought they were, then presented specific questions about health matters.

Sixty-six per cent said they were well-informed and only 28 percent felt they did not get enough information about health. Sixty-five percent said they could recognize symptoms of the most important illnesses.

When specific questions were asked, the results were quite different. Thirty percent could not name even one of the seven danger signals of cancer; 17 percent could name only one and only 13 percent came up with 4 or more. Only half could volunteer more than one symptom of a heart attack and 27 percent were unable to think of any at all.

People with high school educations and those between 30 and 50 were found to be best informed. Though most persons questioned said they and their families were well informed about the benefits of regular exercise but fewer than 40 percent said they followed any program of regular exercise.

IDAHO CHINOOK SALMON FISHING ENDS JULY 31

A good thing came to an end on Monday, July 31 when all fishing for chinook salmon in Idaho waters closed for 1972.

The total spring run was not necessarily larger than normal, but there was a greater rate of passage up the Columbia and Snake Rivers with less loss of fish than last year at the dams. Nitrogen supersaturation was reduced by physical changes in the dam spillway structures.

Over 8,000 returned spawner adults are being held at the Rapid River hatchery for egg taking purposes. It is expected that over 18,000,000 eggs will be taken—5,000,000 of which will remain at the hatchery for production this year. Plans call for rearing three and one half million to fry stage for release in the Lemhi River. The remainder of the eggs will go to other hatcheries for eyeing-up and planting in prepared hatching channels on the Clearwater and Lochsa Rivers.

Fry size salmon will also be placed in the Decker Flat rearing pond near Stanley. These fish will be released in the Main Salmon River at the smolt size stage.

Idaho salmon anglers had a fairly good sports fishing season in 1972, with bag and possession limits liberalized since the last week in June.

Bob Smylie was a Good Governor

Bob Smylie's record of performance in public service is unsurpassed in Idaho history. During his administration, the University of Idaho was enabled to grant the doctor's degree in several academic fields. Academic salaries increased and 27 buildings were built on the campus.

While he served as governor, Idaho made unprecedented progress in education, highway construction, state park development, environmental improvement and pollution control, public health programs, permanent funding for needed building, public school support, tax reform and conservation programs.

No other candidate knows more about Idaho's problems. No other candidate has the necessary experience and proven ability to get things done in solving Idaho's problems. No other candidate has the national stature and the respect of leaders in Washington, D.C., whose assistance is required to direct Washington's attention to the problems of a small western state. WASHING FLATWARE

IN A DISHWASHER

A dishwasher cleans flatware automatically. But if you are bothered by streaking, spotting, dull film, stains, or encrusted food residues, try these time-tested procedures, suggest Wilma Shryack, extension home furnishings specialist, U. of I. Mix knives, forks, and spoons in each section of the flatware holder, and be certain none are nesting together. Wash flatware as soon as possible after use; pre-rinse if dishwasher will not be operated for several hours.

Use only detergents specifically formulated for automatic dishwashers. Soap, vinegar, washing soda are no substitutes and could harm the appliance or items washed in it. Take care not to sprinkle detergent directly on flatware—and follow the manufacturer's label directions for the correct amount to use. In hard water areas, more detergent is usually required for satisfactory results.

To prevent spotting and streaking use a rinse additive. Also check to be sure water is hot, 140-160°F. When loading dishes and cookware into the dishwasher, make certain that no large bulky pieces block water action of the spray arm to the flatware holder.

Two common problems that may arise in automatic dishwashing are sulfide and bronze tarnishing. Silver sulfide is caused by the reaction of silver with sulfide from certain food such as mayonnaise or egg. Silver polish will remove the tarnish. Bronze tarnishing may be found on silver plated pieces where the silver plating has worn thin. To remove, soak the pieces in vinegar for about 10 minutes. This treatment is only a temporary one; replating silver is the only way to correct the problem.

If you have social security business you do not have to drive to the office. Just call 746-2333, Lewiston.

28, 1972. After that date and through August 5, 1972 the only place you may register is with the County Clerk at Room 101, Latah County Courthouse.

Notice is hereby given that on Tuesday, August 8, 1972, at the following listed polling places in the County of Latah, State of Idaho, a nominating election will be held.

Polls will open at 8:00 A. M. and close at 8:00 P. M. PDST.

SCOTTISH TATTOO

Mournful tones abound on the grassy field, As hills all around stirring echoes yield. Hear the lovely sound of pipes on the air, Nothing can be found to ever compare. Chanter's lonely wail sets off the ancient Tunes to tell the tale, and drummers accent, Over hill and dale, sweet harmonies sent. See the kilts swinging, as men tramp the glen. Bagpipes are singing, plaid skirts flare again. O see the dancing to spirited tune, Watch all the prancing, imagine the dunes— The Heather swaying—Bagpipers playing. —Lucille Magnuson.

Candidates Bowles Visits Kendrick

Allen V. Bowles, a Republican candidate for the office of Latah County prosecuting attorney was visiting and campaigning in Kendrick Monday.

A former school teacher and administrator, Bowles has a private law practice in Moscow and is presently Deputy Prosecuting Attorney.

Bowles said in an interview that in addition to this formal education—he holds two degrees in education plus a juris doctor in law—he feels his practical experience in school administration fits in especially well with his legal training to qualify him to meet and deal maturely and fairly with many of the problems the prosecuting attorney would face.

As Deputy prosecuting attorney, Bowles said he works closely with the Dept of Social and Rehabilitation Service, Youth Rehabilitation, traffic and is presently handling the legal aspects of ten drug cases now pending in the county.

Married and the father of two teenage children, Bowles has also worked as a logger, sawmill employee, small businessman and farmer while he was acquiring his education, all of which, he added, has helped him gain an understanding of the problems which face these occupations.

THE OLD ARBOR TREE

The sunshine shone down through the leaves long ago;
As we stood by The Old Arbor Tree;
You kiss't me and told me you wanted me so;
Loved no one the way you loved me.

You told me you'd love me through sunshine and rain,
Whatever the future might be;
Then I carved your name; with two hearts for a frame;
On the bark of The Old Arbor Tree.

The Old Arbor Tree was blown down yesterday
It was Nature's mistake I must say;
But I made a greater mistake I must say;
When I said GOODBYE TO YOU.
