

Driver Escapes Injury As Truck Brakes Fail On American Ridge Grade Tuesday

A 29-year-old school teacher and summertime truck driver escaped injury early Tuesday morning when the tanker truck he was driving lost its brakes, failed to make a curve and plunged down a steep embankment on Highway 99. The accident occurred at 5:40 a. m., a quarter of a mile from Kendrick at the exact same spot where an Oregon man was killed when his truck rolled down the grade after its brakes had failed July 27.

Malaya, 29, Spokane, told investigating officers from the Latah County Sheriff's office that he was travelling down the grade, had shifted to a lower gear and then noticed that his brakes were "fading" as he neared the curve. The truck swung wide, knocked the already battered guard rail down and went over the embankment.

The truck and trailer are owned by Black Line Asphalt Sales of Cody Wyoming. Preliminary estimates put damage to the rig at $5,000.

Different views show the aftermath of the wreck Tuesday morning when a truck and trailer belong to an asphalt firm from Cody, Wyoming lost its brakes on the American Ridge Grade and rolled down the steep embankment almost to the riding arena in the west end of Kendrick.

Tuesday Rain Halts Harvest

A moderate but steady rain which began falling shortly before seven o'clock Tuesday morning brought an abrupt halt to harvest operations in this area. The pea harvest was virtually complete and spring barley and wheat were just getting a good start when the moisture forced the delay.

The morning rain lasted about an hour in the Kendrick area and then the skies partially cleared and there were periods of sunshine. But, at 8:00 Tuesday night the skies were again pouring rain.

Bill Wood, manager of Genesee Union Warehouse reported the rain had stopped all deliveries except those that had been cut the day before. Wood estimated that one-fourth to one-third of the wheat had been cut by Monday night. He added that the grain was looking very good this year.

Brocke and Sons, Kendrick, also reported a stoppage in deliveries because of the rain. Herb Millard said Tuesday afternoon there are still Austrian Winter Field peas, clover seed and lentils to come in.

Bob Watts down at Kendrick Road-dale said he estimated their grain deliveries were 80 to 85 percent complete when the rain started. Bob said both the barley and wheat were "looking good" this year.

School Board Met Thursday Night

Mike Hedler's Mobil Oil Service received the contract as low bidder on fuel for Joint School District No. 283 last Thursday night as sealed bids were opened at the regular meeting of the board of trustees. The bid called for approximately 12,000 gallons of regular gasoline at 24.10 cents per gallon and approximately 13,000 gallons of furnace oil, number two grade or better, at 15.13 per gallon.

It was revealed that Doyle Whittig, the vocational agriculture instructor at Kendrick Junior-Senior High school, has been invited to represent the vocational agriculture teachers of Idaho at the FFA Operations Update Workshop at Washington State University in Pullman on August 30 and 31.

The purpose of the workshop is to improve communications between the national FFA organizations and the states and teachers and potential teachers of vocational agriculture.

Teacher Assistant Hired
Mrs. Carl (Arlene) Conway, Juliaetta, was hired as a teacher's aide to assist Mrs. Robert Heppner in the Multi-district special education program that is being set up in the Kendrick Junior and Senior high school this year.

A portion of the school board members and Supt. Don Blakeley, plan to travel all district bus routes to set up the final bus route schedule next Thursday.

A bus driver training session for the surrounding area schools is set for Monday, August 21 at KHS. The training session will begin with a dinner in the cafeteria at 6:30 p. m. Carl Warner from the state department of Education will instruct the class.

Because of the spiraling food cost and salary expense, the board approved a raise in the price of student lunches at Kendrick high school from 35¢ to 40 cents. Lunches for school personnel or others who eat at the cafeteria, have been raised from 40 cents to 50 cents and if milk is taken, another 5 cents will be added. For the present, the board voted to keep the Juliaetta elementary school lunch charge at 35 cents.

The school mill levy this year is 42 mills compared to 43 mills last year. The one mill reduction will be made in the bond interest and redemption fund.

It was reported that school rooms have been painted and other cleaning chores almost completed and that the physical plant is in readiness for the beginning of school on August 28. New stainless steel drain sinks have been installed in the school kitchen to meet health department requirements. It was reported.

All bills, totalling $5,031.07 were approved for payment.

Two Fires In Area

Fire fighters from the Kendrick Fire Protective District were dispatched to battle two fires the past seven days, reported Dick Benjamin, District Fire Warden.

Lightning set a fire in the timber three miles above Spring Valley last Friday night and about an acre was burned before it was extinguished.

A combine apparently set fire to wheat and stubble on the Bertha Techantz property Wednesday night in the Bedrock area and burned four acres of stubble and grain and 10 acres of hillside before it was controlled. Benjamin said seven men from his department plus farmers and other volunteers fought the fire. Later, Benjamin said he extended his thanks to all the farmers who helped on the fire. "Without their help and cooperation the fire would have done far more damage and would have been much larger," he said.

Housing Project For Juliaetta Appears Reality As FHA Approval Received

Mayor Harold Freeman of Juliaetta stands on the site of the new Johnson Manor housing project, a $295,000.00 project which will soon be constructed in Juliaetta to provide 22 units of low-cost housing for the elderly and handicapped. Mayor Freeman and the Juliaetta council together with the CEDA have worked hard to secure government support for the units—and the project was given the green-light this week.

Juliaetta Mayor Harold Freeman announced this week that Cedar Investment Co. of Spokane has received a letter of feasibility from the Federal Housing Administration assuring the construction of the Johnson Manor project in Juliaetta. The project will provide housing for low-income elderly or handicapped people of the region.

The two-story structure, consisting of 22, 1-bedroom units with additional recreation and laundry facilities will be erected on Water St. Construction of the building is scheduled to begin in January, 1973.

Each unit is 570-square feet in area and contains 1 bedroom, a kitchen, bath, dining and living area.

Each is fully carpeted, with the exception of the kitchen and equipped with range, refrigerator and kitchen fan. Drapes are also included.

The Johnson Manor project, which is authorized at $295,000.00, has become a reality largely through the efforts of Mayor Freeman and the Juliaetta city council working with the Clearwater Economic Development Association.

The tentative completion date for the project is June of 1973.

Mayor Freeman told the Gazette Tuesday that 35 people have indicated an interest in the apartments and that he would accept inquiries from all who feel they might qualify as renters.

Employment Picture In Latah County

25 Latah county workers were given job finding help during the past week through the Moscow office of the Idaho Department of Employment, Frank J. Hartstein Moscow office manager reported today that this was a few more than the 21 given such help during the previous week, and above the 16 persons who were placed on jobs during the same week on year ago. Hartstein's report indicated that 35 new jobs were listed with his office during the week and that 40 jobs remained unfilled at the end of the week. Most of these jobs available at this time require skills, training and experience, he explained. Needed in the area are a TV repairman, an appliance serviceman, carpenter, cooks, waitresses, office workers, domestic workers, and a variety of others. Here are still a large number of young workers seeking jobs for the balance of the school vacation.

The number of persons filing new claims for unemployment insurance declined, as did the total number of persons seeking such benefits. During the week, only 17 persons filed new claims indicating new unemployment, compared with 18 a week ago and 23 during the corresponding week in 1971. At the end of the week there were 211 persons claiming jobless pay checks, compared to 228 at the end of the previous week and 212 at the end of the same week a year ago. In the immediate Moscow area, the totals were 127, currently 136 last week and 146 last year. At Genesee the totals were 9 now, 8 last week and 10 a year ago. In the Troy-Deary-Bovill area there are currently 40 persons claiming benefits, fewer than the 47 of last week, but considerably more than the 27 filing claims this time last year. At Kendrick there were two persons claiming now, last week and last year. One person is claiming benefits from the Elk River area. Twenty-eight checks are going into the Potlatch area compared with 34 last week and 27 last year.

Hartstein predicted that the number of persons filing claims for jobless pay will continue to decline for the next several weeks and will rise again only when the current good weather leaves the area.

EMPHYSEMA COUNTRY

One cigarette upsets the flow of air and blood in your lungs. Years of smoking can cause emphysema. And in the last decade deaths from emphysema almost tripled in this country.

To investigate the relationship of smoking and emphysema, two prominent researchers—Dr. Oscar Auerbach and E. Cuyler Hamond—studied whole-lung section from autopsies of 1800 men and women. Then they checked the lungs for the degree of emphysema that might be present. Later they found out from relatives the smoking habits of the dead persons.

How closely did smoking habits correlate with the extent of emphysema in the lungs. Very closely.

Of the persons who had never smoked regularly, 90 percent had no emphysema at all. The air sacs, where oxygen and carbon dioxide are exchanged, were not damaged and torn. The walls of the small blood vessels around the air sacs were not abnormally thickened. In contrast, of the persons who smoked 20 or more cigarettes a day for years, 99 percent had some degree of emphysema. And 20 percent of these smokers had advanced emphysema. Their lungs looked lacy, dotted with holes where thousands of air sacs had ruptured and broken. Among persons with the same smoking habits, the degree of emphysema in their lungs increased with age and the number of years they had smoked cigarettes.

Other studies cited by the U. S. Surgeon General show the chances of dying from emphysema are 25 times greater for people who smoke two packs a day than for nonsmokers.

BUILD ADJUSTABILITY INTO CHILD'S ROOM

Plan your child's room carefully so it can grow with him says Wilma C. Shryack, extension home furnishings specialist, U. of I.

At all ages and stages, a child's room should fit his needs with furnishings at the right height to develop good habits of neatness, cleanliness and grooming, Miss Shryack explains.

Properly chosen accessories—toy and book shelves, rods and pegs for clothing, a mirror, can be placed low for the toddler and adjusted as he or she grows. Be sure to include a good sized bulletin board for showing off the child's artistic efforts or for collecting the teenager's pictures and mementos.

Stackable furniture is practical as pieces can be added as the child and inevitable collections grow. Bright, enamel-painted and polyurethane top coated furniture is cheerful, scuff and stain resistant and needs washable. Furniture with tough, washable laminated plastic surfaces is also good.

Fabrics are the most economical way to change the atmosphere of the room. While major expense items such as furniture and flooring can be simple and stay suitable for years fabrics can be used to create room personality. Pattern themes are almost limitless. Change nursery A, B, C's to ballerinas or racing cars or some popular motif for the early school years. As youngsters get older, they want to decorate their own rooms.

Because children of all ages spend much time on the floor playing, visiting or studying, floor coverings should be easy to care for, safe, and warm and attractive. The newer durable and scrubbable carpeting are worth considering. Vinyl in combination with washable scatter rugs is in good choice.

Whatever the final scheme is for decorating your child's room, plan for room livability and easy upkeep and the child's anticipated activities.

PROVIDE HABITAT NEEDS AND HOLD GAME NUMBERS

By Jim Humbird

Idaho Fish & Game Dept. Game managers now know enough about wildlife ecology to hold fish and game populations at whatever levels people are willing to pay the price to have—financially and other wise.

Stated negatively, this proposition means that nobody wants to see a return of buffalo herds so large that bison would repossess the Great Plains, or grizzly bears in such numbers that hunters would have to go out in groups for mutual protection.

Of course it is much too late to help some 48 extinct species of American mammals, birds, and fish by providing habitat or any other need. They are gone from the face of the earth, exterminated for all times.

It may be too late to save some of the rare and endangered species of fish and wildlife that are listed by the Department of Interior, and embodied by Congress in Public Law 88-689, the Endangered Species Preservation Act. Probably a safe generalization is that more suitable habitats to give them places to live would be the best of all possible ways to save grizzly bears, a remnant species still found in Idaho, and 16 other mammals in other states, listed as endangered. These include the timber wolf and blackfooted ferret.

The California Bighorn—a coastal strain of wild sheep related to the Rocky Mountain bighorn which was transplanted from British Columbia to the Owyhee Mountains several years ago, is the only Idaho mammal listed as "rare." There are however, 15 rare species in other states including two kinds of prairie dogs and several strains of seals and whales.

Mountain caribou, found on the northern edge of Idaho's panhandle region, occur in large numbers in Canada, but have limited distribution anywhere in the contiguous United States, are found on the peripheral list. Pine marten, fisher, wolverine and Canada lynx all occur in the Gem state though in remnant numbers.

Most of the extinct species of birds, mammals and fish, disappeared forever before 1900. However, there are several examples of remarkable come backs made in recent years, including the magnificent trumpeter swan in adjacent corners of Idaho and Montana.

In some cases, over-hunting played a part in the disappearance, notably the buffalo, though sharp changes in habitat triggered most of the drop-outs. Factors that change environment are such things as converting prairies, forests and range land to agriculture, urban sprawl, shopping centers, new freeways, water and air pollution, light aircraft, jet boats, trailbikes, all wheel-driven vehicles, snowmobiles—and more money and leisure time to "get away from it all" for a weekend, a week or a fortnight.

When wildlife managers and conservationists and other professionals in the field use the word "habitat" they are bringing together for simplicity the four great needs of all life, whether bird or mammal or fish. These needs are food, cover or protection from weather and enemies, water and living space. To benefit fish and wildlife-creatures these four great needs must occur where they live—in the wild.

Here are ways you can help provide habitat-places where wildlife live: Encourage and support the research on wildlife and its living areas. Cures for wildlife scarcities are discovered through studying each animal's needs and the ability of the land to satisfy these. Every habitat improvement program should be based on the lands developed through careful research.

Show people who are using the land—the farmers, ranchers, lumbermen, homebuilders, engineers, industrialists—how they can manage their lands without destroying wildlife living areas. See that sound methods are taken for planning food and cover and making the land produce health crops.

Encourage citizen groups (conservation and sportsmen clubs, youth organizations, etc.) to carry out wild life habitat improvement projects in the field. This work, of course should be done in close cooperation with state and federal fish and wildlife and land management agencies.

Get behind programs of state and federal conservation agencies. They need help to stop wasteful destruction of natural habitats. Work toward public wildlife areas where these are threatened.

Recognize and support sound policies for using lands and waters to insure protection and improvement of wildlife habitat. Strengthen the Coordination Act (Public Laws 7-32) to make certain wildlife values will be protected and developed in connection with federal drainage and water projects. Make sure that wildlife areas are improved as part of water conservation programs. Stop wasteful drainage of marshes and swamps—vital to the survival of ducks, geese and other "wetlands" species.

Protect and defend state, federal, and private sanctuaries, refuges, parks, forests, wilderness, and management areas. Stop the invasion of primitive habitat which provide living quarters for endangered species. Make it your duty to learn about Idaho's pollution laws and whether they are enforced. Fight to keep waters clean and useful for wildlife and healthful recreation.

DOVE, RABBIT SEASONS START AUTUMN HUNTING

Idaho's mourning dove and cottontail pygmy rabbit seasons start September 1, the Idaho Fish and Game Department reminded sportsmen today.

Except for a special early chukar partridge hunt, now underway along parts of the Middle Fork and Main Salmon River canyons, which began August 1 and will continue until the regular chukar season begins statewide September 16 these are the first hunting seasons in the state this fall.

Mourning dove season runs from September 1-17, with a daily bag limit of 10 birds and a possession limit of 20 after the first day. Closing date for rabbits and other small game seasons will be fixed at a spe-

I had occasion a short time ago to spend 3 days in the NezPerce Craigmont area helping with hall adjustments and while there I had the opportunity to meet and visit with Jack Tacke, of Cottonwood, an old timer who told me the following story:

During World War I, a company of German soldiers had been in the lines for many months and had not only suffered many casualties, but were a dirty, ragged outfit. One day the Captain called the remnants of his company together in an underground bunker and addressed them as follows:

"Men, we have gone through a lot together in this terrible war and have been without a bath, clean clothes or a rest for about 3 months, however, I have some very good news to announce to you today and hopefully it will do a lot for the morale of this outstanding company of German soldiers. Unfortunately men, I also have some bad news to report to you, too, but I know that men of your caliber will take the bad news unflinchingly. Now, men, for the good news. Every man in the company will have a change of underwear."

After the cheers had subsided, the Captain again addressed the men: "Men, now for the bad news, Heinrich, you change underwear with Otto; Otto, you change underwear with Herrmann, and Herrmann you change with ..."

FISH FIELD PREPARATION TOLD FOR TROPHY MOUNTS
 Anglers can have their fish—and eat it, too—by following these steps in the preparation of a nice catch for mounting.

First, make measurements, color notes, and a traced outline of the fish on a sheet of paper. Before skinning, wash the fish with a saturated solution of alum water to remove the slime. Select the best side for exposure and make a cut on the opposite side along the middle from head to tail. The fish can be opened on the belly if both sides are to be shown.

When skinning, care must be taken not to cut the skin or injure the silver lining next to the skin.

After the body has been removed (and saved for the skillet) clean out the inside of the skull, taking out the eyes and gills. Then immerse skin in a salt water bath to remove any blood. Drain well and salt both sides thoroughly, leaving for a couple of days.

After this, remove the old salt and resalt. In order that the specimen reach the preparator in a good, pliable condition, it should be well padded and securely wrapped in cloth, keeping the fish straightened out at all times.

If skinning is not possible, freeze the fish and ship in dry ice to its destination. Special care should be taken in the packing of a frozen specimen, padding well, so as not to break the brittle fish.

WILD ANIMAL EXHIBITS UNDER NEW REGULATION
 Operators of roadside zoos, private game farms, or an commercial establishments with a public display of live animals, birds or reptiles, must obtain free permits from the Idaho Fish and Game Department by September 1, 1972.

According to Hawley Hill, chief of conservation enforcement the new law and the regulations on care of wild animals, applies also to private state-licensed game farms or parks and is in addition to the annual licensing fee of $10. It does not apply to city or county zoos, pet stores or traveling circuses.

Hill commented that stipulations in the permits should help prevent abuses such as those caused by unsanitary, crowded conditions. Permits are valid for one year, but can be revoked whenever regulations are violated. The operator may be charged with a misdemeanor.

In order to obtain a permit, the operator must agree that birds, animals or reptiles will be confined in escape-proof cages of such size that captives are not crowded and have ample space for exercise. The minimum length of the cage or enclosure must be four times the body length of the animal, reptiles excepted and the width at last three-fourths of the length.

If you have social security but you do not have to drive to the office. Just call 746-2333, Lewiston.

FISH HATCHERIES START BIG PART OF SALMON RUN
 Anglers are reminded by the Idaho Fish and Game Department that some chinook salmon fishing in the uppermost reaches of the main Salmon river and tributaries closed July 15 and the remainder of the chinook salmon season ends in all state waters there they occur July 1.

Despite rapidly dropping waters, the rate of catch by fisherman last week was down somewhat from the previous week. Evan Parrish, Riggs, Rapid River hatchery superintendent, disclosed that about one-third of the spring chinook observed through the counting facility at the last dam on the Snake River were products of the Rapid River program. Another seven to eight percent of fish counted past the last dam on the Snake River were hatched in artificial hatching channels in the Clearwater River system. Jerry Mallet, anadromous fishery supervisor says that the result is a somewhat smaller run of wild chinook salmon in the Salmon River drainage that was expected.

Parrish called the program this year of transporting jack salmon and some surplus adult salmon to the river from Hazard Creek downstream for fishing successful, adding that there have been a few problems.

"Sanitary facilities were inadequate when large numbers of fishermen concentrated in the area," Parrish declared, "and littering was a problem." The salmon run has passed its peak in the Little Salmon River and very few surplus salmon will be available for stocking, resulting in fishing success the rest of the month being down.

UCEDA ANNOUNCES NEW ASSISTANT DIRECTOR, NEW URBAN PLANNER

Carl Moore, President of Clearwater Economic Development Assoc., has announced the addition of two new staff members. Jerry Raderstorff will assist Executive Director Lonnie Williams and H. Wayne Gibbs will direct the Association's Urban Planning Program.

Raderstorff, 35, worked with the U. S. Foreign Service for 5 years after completing a two-year Navy tour. He was a communications clerk with the U. S. Embassy in Cairo, Egypt, served two years in Montevideo, Uruguay, and completed his stint with one year in Washington, D. C.

A native of LaCrosse, Indiana, Raderstorff attended Purdue University for two years before receiving a B. S. in agricultural economics from the University of Idaho this year. Jerry and his wife, Frances reside in Troy.

Gibbs, a native of Florida, spent five years as a Marine Corps aviator before coming to Idaho. He has a B. S. in education from Troy State University, Troy, Alabama and earned a M. S. in geography from the University this year.

As the Association's Urban Planner Gibbs will work closely with the planning commissions and other officials of Moscow and Lewiston. Since the local share of funding for the project was supplied by Moscow and Lewiston the main commitment is to these cities Gibbs said. Assistance to smaller communities in the District will be on a part time basis.

Gibbs and his wife Bonnie live in Moscow.

CONTROLLED HUNT PERMITS WILL BE PROCESSED SOON

Don't phone the Idaho Fish and Game Department and ask if your name was drawn for a controlled hunt permit for antelope, deer or elk.

It may be a week before you get your permit in the mail—if you lucked out and drew one—but it will save time if you let the workers get on the job without bothering them with telephone calls they can't answer at this time, because the thousands of data processing cards are being processed by the machines and are unavailable.

Controlled hunt applicants who attended the public drawings and helped draw names were allowed to check the files to see that their names actually were there and included in the drawings, according to A. Kay Belknap, chief of business administration. All of the eligible data processing cards were brought into the meeting room for the inspection of the public.

Belknap commented that it was interesting to have a goodbye number of people show up and assist in the drawings enabling them to attest to the integrity of the system.

He added that this year all of the trophy hunts were over subscribed except for 13 goat permits, 29 antelope permits, and 1,669 deer permits. A second drawing will be held Aug. 23, for the unfilled goat permits, and another drawing will be held September 13 for the unfilled antelope and deer permits.

SMALLMOUTH BASS PLANTS SPAWN AT ANDERSON RANCH

Six hundred adult smallmouth bass have set up housekeeping at Anderson Ranch Reservoir on the South Fork of the Boise River where they were transplanted this spring after being caught on hook and line in Brownlee Reservoir in Hells Canyon of the Snake River. Explorer Scout No. 60 members and Department of Fish and Game personnel collected the bass at Brownlee.

Female smallmouth bass are very prolific and make nests by scooping depressions out of the bottom before laying about 10,000 eggs. The eggs which were guarded in the nest by the male, now have hatched, producing swarms of fry which are protected and herded by the male. Department scuba divers are observing and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Newt Heath this past week.

YOUR GAME DEPARTMENT By Jim Humbird Idaho Fish and Game Dept.

BIRD, FUR SEASONS
 Closing dates and regulation details for upland game bird hunting seasons and trapping regulations for furbearing animals will be established at a special meeting of the Idaho Fish and Game Commission in Boise, August 16-18. Opening dates for big game hunting seasons were fixed last May to help sportsmen plan vacations. There will be a public meeting the afternoon of the first day to hear testimony regarding the management of wildlife resources. This will be held in the meeting room of the headquarters building of the department in Boise, 800 South Walnut beginning at 1:30 p. m.

TROPHY FISH MOUNTS
 Anglers can have their fish—and eat it, too—by proper field order prior to that time it gets into the hands of a good taxidermist. First, make measurements, color notes, and a traced outline of the fish on a sheet of paper. Before skinning, wash the fish with a saturated solution of alum water to remove the slime. Select the best side for exposure and make a cut on the opposite side along the middle from the head to the tail. The fish can be opened on the belly if both sides are to be shown. When skinning, care must be taken not to photographing these activities. In addition to the 600 adult smallmouth bass transplanted from Brownlee, some 28,000 fingerlings 2-3 inches in length were obtained from a federal hatchery and released in June into the same area of Anderson Ranch Reservoir.

Gill net sampling in the reservoir indicates that kokanee, a landlocked blueback salmon, inhabit midwater offshore, while squawfish prefer surface and shoreline — so there should be little bass-kokanee conflicts. Small mouth bass habitat requirements are similar to those of squawfish so they may replace this rough fish.

Shoreline spawning area at Anderson Ranch Reservoir have been treated annually with rotenone 3 times at two-week intervals in years past, to kill newly-hatched squawfish fry in a control program; however, many squawfish fry and fingerlings survived the rotenone. Catch rates of anglers and gill nets indicate substantial reductions in squawfish populations, but chances for significant squawfish control by rotenone are limited. The competition-predation between bass and squawfish will be closely watched to evaluate the effects.

Bass will also provide anglers with a fish they can catch from the bank.

cut the skin or injure the silver lining next to the skin. After the body has been removed (and saved for the skillet) clean out the inside of the skull, taking out the eyes and gill, then immerse skin in a salt water bath to remove any blood. Drain well, salt both sides thoroughly, leaving for a couple of days. After this, remove the old salt and re-salt. In order for the specimen to reach the taxidermist in a good pliable condition, it should be well padded and securely wrapped in cloth, keeping the fish straightened out at all times. If skinning is not possible, freeze the fish and ship in dry ice to the taxidermist.

WILD ANIMAL EXHIBITS
 Operators of roadside zoos, private game farms, or any commercial establishment with a public display of live animals, birds, or reptiles, must obtain free permits from the Idaho Fish and Game Department by September 1. This is in accordance with a new law and the regulations on care of wild animals which applies also to private game farms or parks, and is in addition to the annual licensing fee of $10. This does not apply to city or county zoos, pet stores or traveling circuses. Permits are valid for one year, but can be revoked whenever regulations are violated. In order to obtain a permit, the operator must agree to meet certain standards for confining.

Mrs. Ernest Steigers

Mrs. Newt Heath celebrated her birthday anniversary August 11 by "eating out birthday dinner" at Kendrick. Joining her there were Mrs. William Inghram and daughter, Patti, Mrs. Lee Heath, Mrs. Buck Batterson and Newt Heath. Numerous long distance and otherwise phone calls and cards were received and enjoyed during the day, from early to late.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Heath, Nez Perce, were supper guests on Aug. 7. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Heath and two sons of Pottlach were Thursday dinner guests. Mrs. Mildred Heath is able to direct "kitchen traffic" from a seat nearby.

A surprise birthday party honoring Harley Leachman was held Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Pfeiffer and was attended by the Lloyd Stevens family and Mrs. Edna Greene of our community.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Steigers and sons of Seattle were Thursday evening callers of Grandpa Albert and grandma Mystie Heimgartner.

A Special Invitation To 25th Anniversary

The congregation of the Cottonwood Creek Community Church will be celebrating its 25th anniversary at the church on August 27. Former pastors of the church will be the special speakers for the day, and a potluck dinner will be enjoyed on the church grounds.

A cordial invitation is extended to all former members and friends of the Sunday school and church to come and enjoy the fellowship of this special day!

Fran Carpenter of St. Paul, Minn., was a Saturday evening and overnight guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Stevens.

New Arrival

Mrs. Leslie Heimgartner left Sunday to help care for her new granddaughter, Lyn Dee Jean Lyons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Lyons of Kootenai, who was born Aug. 8, at Grangeville, and weighed in at 8 lbs., 1 oz., "stripped for gym". Mrs. Lyons and babe were returning for further checking on Monday of this week.

Daryl Zumhofs was a Thursday overnight guest in his father's home enroute from Yakima to his new location in Utah for his employers, Stromberg-Carlson Electric, a Calif. firm.

Reunion Held at Othello

Approximately 50 members of the Steigers and Schneider "clan" gathered on Sunday, Aug. 13, at the Moses Lake State Park for their annual family reunion.

This being a central point for those from Vancouver, Wn., Walla-burg, Bothell, Puyallup, Spanaway, Tacoma, Cullacac, Juliaetta, Clarkston and other "seaports", it is chosen each year, and kindly Mother Nature seems to furnish a pleasant day.

A card was signed by all, to be delivered to Mrs. Robt. Steigers, Sr., unable to attend because of a broken leg, and confined to a hospital at their home in Vancouver.

All four brothers, Robert, Henry, Ernest and Alvin Steigers and Lloyd Schneider and sister Mrs. Cushman (Arlene Schneider) Davis were present, as usual.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Steigers and sons Chad and Curt, Seattle, returning from a six-week vacation tour of Alaska, visited relatives in our area, before attending the gathering enroute home.

Watching construction and final erecting of Bonneville Power Line towers has been a favorite pastime of guests in the Helena Brown home, among them Ernest and Nellie Steigers.

Merle Cooper visited her mother on Saturday. On Sunday the Don Brown family spent the day. Assisted by Cecil Daniels, Don worked on the yard watering system from Pine Creek for her.

All Stonypointers are very happy over our cooling trend in the weather (knock-knock), and harvest is drawing toward a successful closure.
