NORTHERN IDAHO BLACK BEAR SEASONS

Seasons this year open for black bear in the Northern Idaho counties on September 2 according to Regional Game Manager Gary R. (Sam) McNeill of Lewiston. There is an area of confusion in the 1972 Idaho Big Game Regulations on the use of dogs in the Clearwater Region, as lines were not drawn between paragraphs. Therefore, hunters are perplexed as to what units are open or closed to the use of dogs.

The following is the correct regulation on bear hunting seasons for the North Idaho counties:

USE OF DOGS:

It shall be unlawful to use dogs to trail, pursue, hunt or kill bear in any unit during a general or controlled deer or elk season. All dates are inclusive.

BAG LIMITS:

It shall be unlawful for any person to kill more than one bear per year, EXCEPT as otherwise provided.

FEMALE BEAR WITH CUBS:

FOURTH ANNUAL IDAHO CONSERVATION CONVOCATION TO CONVENE ON SAWTOOTH NATIONAL FOREST

"On September 18, the fourth annual Idaho Conservation Convocation will get underway for a 3-day session at Redfish Lake on the Sawtooth National Forest," Forest Supervisor Ed Fournier said today.

An in-the-field workshop, the Convocation is sponsored jointly by the State Federation of Garden Clubs and Idaho Federation of Womens clubs in cooperation with the U. S. Forest Service.

Mrs. Kenneth Sadler of Nampa, Idaho, is chairman for the Garden clubs and Mrs. Earl Harmon of Boise is chairman for the Federated Women's clubs.

The agenda will focus on selected environmental issues and the role of women as makers of environment.

Mrs. Wendell O. Winger of Springville Utah, will deliver the keynote address. Mrs. Winger is recording secretary of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and immediate past chairman of the General Federation's community improvement program.

The program is approved by National Council of State Garden Clubs as a landscape design refresher course for re-education of NCSGC landscape design critics.

Mr. Roger E. Baerisch, Boise, executive secretary of Idaho Beautification Council, will serve as master of ceremonies.

The modern facilities of Redfish Lake Lodge have been reserved for the Convocation at a special off-season, group rate of $15 per day per person (lodging and three meals).

This rate is double occupancy, which means sharing a bed.

The Convocation begins with luncheon September 18 and ends before noon September 20. To attend, pre-register with Mrs. Earl Harmon, 416 North Pacific, Boise, Idaho, 83704 by mid-August.

Make lodging reservations directly with Mr. Bob Tucker, manager Redfish Lodge, Stanley, Idaho 83278.

It shall be unlawful for any person to kill or capture a cub black bear or kill a female black bear with cubs at side EXCEPT during the period of September 2, 1972 to December 15, 1972.

It shall be unlawful at any time of the year to pursue, hunt, shoot, capture, kill or attempt to pursue, hunt, shoot, capture or kill a bear within 200 yards of the perimeter of any dump ground or sanitary landfill.

There is no open season on grizzly bear in Idaho. A bear tag at a cost of $2.00 will be required after January 1 1973 to hunt black bear, McNeill said.

WATCH FOR NEW FLAME RETARDANT GARMENTS

As a result of the new flammability standards, you'll soon find three different kinds of children's sleepwear on store shelves, reports Janice I. Buckner, extension clothing specialist of the U. of I.

Federal standards now require all children's sleepwear (sizes 0 to six) to be flame retardant or to be labeled "flammable". The standards went into effect July 29.

For the next year some garments in stores will meet the flame retardant standards. Some will not be flame retardant, but will be properly labeled flammable. The third group will be garments from old stock, not labeled flammable. This group does not qualify under federal standards.

In addition, three major fall catalogues offer flame retardant items. All sleepwear in sizes 0 to 6x and boys sleepwear up to size 18 in one catalogue are flame retardant. Catalogue features fire retardant sleepwear on one page. The third offers a sleeper in either flame retardant fabric or in regular, non-flame retardant fabric.

After July 1973, flammability standards require all children's sleepwear to be flame retardant or it will be banned from the market.

However flame retardant fabrics cannot do the job alone, reminds Mrs. Buckner. It's important to use common sense to prevent fire in the first place. Teach your family fire safety rules.

... Mail's moving faster. For a lot of reasons. But I'd say the reason behind it all is Zip Code.

Sherry Gladney, Postal Worker, Chicago, Ill.

How to mail a letter today when you want it delivered tomorrow.

Out of town.
 Be sure to use Air Mail. And remember to include a Zip Code in the address. Mail before 4:00 p.m. from any specially marked Air Mail box. Or by 5:00 p.m. at your Main Post Office. You'll get next-day delivery to major cities within 600 miles almost all the time. And, second-day delivery anywhere in the country.

In your town.
 Again, be sure to include a Zip Code in the address. Mail by the last pickup before 5:00 p.m. That's it. You'll get next-day delivery in your town and the area around it, most every time you mail.

These Zip Code tips can help you.

If you don't know a Zip Code, just look in the handy Zip Code Section of your phone book. Or call your local Post Office. Always put your Zip Code in your return address. So people can copy it down. People really depend on the mail, and the mail depends on Zip Code. Un-Zipped letters can slow down all the mail. So put a Zip Code on everything you mail.

Help us help you. Use Zip Code.

DEPARTMENT OF SOCIAL AND REHABILITATION SERVICES

Dr. John R. Marks, Commissioner
All possible steps are being taken to correct a projected deficit of more than $1.8 million in the fiscal 1973 budget of the State Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services, according to Dr. John R. Marks, commissioner.

Measures that Department officials hope will result in a balanced budget come next June 30 include a reduction from 90 to 80 percent of need in payments to families with dependent children and stricter enforcement of standards for public assistance, coupled with improved procedures in determining eligibility.

The Department requested a general fund appropriation of $13,749,344 for its public assistance programs from the Legislature for fiscal 1973 (which began July 1) but received only $11,898,150 in State funds.

After other sources of revenue are included in the current SRS budget, Department income from the State is $1,852,371 below projected requirements.

(Because the full Department request for State funds was not granted, SRS has been unable to take advantage of additional available Federal matching funds. Lost Federal funds change the actual SRS deficit on paper of $4,947,218).

Department officials are still studying the impact on current SRS programs of the August 10 decision to withhold 1.9 percent of the General Fund appropriation to each State Department.

The withholding of funds is an attempt to ward off an anticipated State deficit at the end of fiscal 1973. Dr. Marks said that to meet the additional reduction in State funds available to SRS, it anticipated that reductions in other public assistance programs will be made.

Referring to the original funding of SRS programs for the current fiscal year, Dr. Marks said the Legislature apparently found it impossible to appropriate adequate State funds to meet the rising demands being placed on public assistance programs without implementing a thorough revision of Idaho's tax structure—something the lawmakers avoided doing this year.

The increase in Idaho's public assistance caseload—which accounts for much of the current fiscal problem—was projected by the Department, he emphasized.

The budget request that SRS submitted to the Legislature was predicated on this case load increase.

The public assistance case load has increased as predicted and continues to rise, according to Dr. Marks.

He said the growing problems facing public assistance programs in Idaho are based on three factors, the first of which is related to the depressed state of the economy at the national level which has its greatest impact on people at the lower income levels.

Idaho has always been an exporter of its young people, he said, but with the tight job market, they can no longer find work out of state. These young people are now either returning to Idaho or are not leaving the state in the first place, thus, worsening Idaho's already limited job market.

A second factor contributing to the rising public assistance case load according to Dr. Marks, is that a changing social standard makes it more acceptable today for people to break up families for economic reasons.

Also contributing to the problem is the lack of a medically needy program in Idaho. Constantly rising medical costs place back-breaking burdens upon many lower-income families which, with help from a medically needy program might otherwise stay off public assistance.

Dr. Marks said that of the optional public assistance programs available to SRS a medically needy program for Idaho will receive top priority when the Department submits its fiscal 1974 budget request to the Legislature.

To alleviate the problem resulting from a combination of rising need and underfunding by the State, SRS is implementing several measures aimed at balancing its budget by the end of the current fiscal year.

The major action at the present time is the reduction in Aid to Families with Dependent Children payments, that will go into effect September 1.

The reduction in AFDC payments was justified by Department officials because this is the only public assistance category in Idaho that received an increase during the preceding 12 months.

A four-person AFDC family that was receiving $246 a month prior to December 1, 1971, will receive $256 a month, or 80 percent of need, on September 1. (Before the cutback, these families were receiving $288 a month).

Dr. Marks noted that even with the AFDC cutback the amount above last year's payments that these families will be receiving keeps up with cost-of-living increases over the same time period.

A reduction of the public assistance case load through higher eligibility standards and stricter investigation procedures, and a reduction of cases involving overpayment or fraud should result in a considerable savings to the Department.

Increased collections for child support from separated and divorced fathers, and additional monies received from interagency contracts generated by Federal participation in programs mean additional income for SRS.

When coupled with steps to conform to the new 1.9 percent reduction in State funds, these measures should enable SRS to avoid a deficit and realize a balanced budget next June 30.

A petition for exemption for such cause may be initiated by the child or by its parent or guardian. Before the board of trustees may exempt any child who is an habitual truant whose conduct would disrupt school order or discipline, the board shall notify the parents or guardian and afford them an opportunity to appear and show cause why the exemption should not be granted. When exempted for such cause, the probate court shall be notified and said child shall come under the purview of the youth rehabilitation law.

NATURE OF OLDSTERS CHANGING VERY FAST

The basic character of the aging populations—persons 65 and over—is changing rapidly and radically, reports Ruth Spidahl, extension home economics leader, U. of I.

They seem younger and more numerous because of increasing life expectancy. They want to continue meaningful activity, including some form of gainful employment. Their level of education is rising.

These changes are strengthening the aging population's desire for independence. By 1975 there is likely to be a downward trend in construction of nursing homes, but an increase in the number of residences or apartments for the aging.

The aging are already changing their life style and societal role. They are experiencing a new political power as government begins to pay attention to the problems of a segment of the population that can vote and turns out in large numbers for elections. If retirement programs and increases in social security benefits link up with a national health program, the nation's elderly may find themselves on the verge of a new consumer power as well.

America's future aging population will be more mobile, active and better educated than any in our history. Because this population will be less inclined to social or psychological withdrawal, it will be increasingly involved with the whole of American life, Mrs. Spidahl says.

ADVANCED PROMOTIONS GIVEN IN MARINES

Gunnery Sergeant Earl McGeoghan, US marine corps recruiter for Lewiston and the Clearwater area, announced that the marines are now giving advanced promotions to applicants who have completed at least 1 full semester of college with a C-plus or 3.0 on a 4.0 scale. The Marines who qualify will be enlisted at the rank of Private First Class rather than Private. It means increased responsibility and pay upon enlistment.

Sergeant McGeoghan also said that Marine Corps is looking for recently discharged veterans of other services who may have critical skills needed by the Marines. These veterans, if qualified, would be re-enlisted at the rank they held upon their discharge from service. E-3's and below would attend basic training before assignment to their specialty. E-4's and E-5's will not attend basic training but will be assigned to Marine School prior to assignment to work, E-6's and above will attend Marine Staff Noo school before assignment. For further information "Gunny" McGeoghan can be contacted at the Federal building in Lewiston or can be reached by phone 743-7611.

DEPT. OF LAW ENFORCEMENT

The Department of Law Enforcement and the State Liquor Dispensary are receiving information indicating that liquor is being transported into the State of Idaho in considerable quantities exceeding the limitation set by Idaho law.

Apparently this practice is becoming more prevalent since the raise in the cost of liquor in the State of Idaho became effective July 1, 1972.

The Department of Law Enforcement and the State Liquor Dispensary are making an effort to advise people that under Idaho law, residents cannot transport more than 2 quarts of liquor into the State of Idaho that does not bear the State of Idaho stamp.

Those people transporting liquor, in amounts greater than 2 quarts, into the State of Idaho, are committing a misdemeanor which is punishable by a fine, jail sentence or both. Persons traveling out-of-state and returning with alcoholic beverages, limit of possession.

Blessed are they who have the gift of making friends for it is one of God's best gifts.—Thomas Hughes.

The big point to make at this time is that a wheat grower in the 1973 wheat program can go one of two ways: One—Maintain required set-aside and conserving base acreage with no limit on his wheat acreage. Two—Maintain required set-aside, additional set-aside, and conserving base acreage and limit his wheat acreage. The ASC Committee chairman said, "He should check with the county ASC office for full details."

lotment if he fails to plant for a 3rd successive year.

Substitution provisions are spelled out. Soybeans, corn, grain sorghum and barley may be substituted for wheat to preserve allotment history.

"Then, too, I want to remind producers that set-aside acreage—both the required and any additional set-aside—must be of the same average quality as the other cropland on the farm," Glenn said.

Producers may ask for set-aside inspection and measurement service from the county ASCS office in order to assure themselves well ahead of the time that set-aside land is acceptable. This service is offered at cost.

Allotment notices to wheat producers are sent several months before sign-up at which time farmers give official notice of their intent to participate in the set-aside program and designate their set-aside acreage. The official sign-up period has not yet been announced.

A number of other important items are covered in the official explanation, including a reminder that 1973 is the year when a farmer who did not plant a program crop during the past two seasons can lose his allotment if he fails to plant for a third consecutive year.

BEER SALES BOOST FARM ECONOMY

Beer sales during 1971 in the seven western states of Arizona, California, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon, Utah and Washington, poured more than $50 million into the region's agricultural economy.

According to figures released by George W. Ossoke, western region VP of the U. S. Brewers Association, beer sales in the area reached an all time high of 18 and a quarter million barrels, which meant that brewers purchased 863 million pound of malt, corn, rice, hops and other agricultural products used in the brewing process.

For every barrel of beer produced the association official said, the industry uses 27.72 pounds of malt barley, 10.34 pounds of corn, 3.59 pounds of rice, 23 pounds of hops and 1.44 pounds of other farm products which are grown in the Western United States.

Nationwide, Ossoke said, the output of more than four million acres of farm land are used each year by the brewing industry. For example, the output of one acre of land producing barley is required for each 75 barrels of beer produced.
