Then she showed us what they do with the dirty trays to make them sparkling clean. Last we saw the giant mixer they use to mix up the bread and cookies. Boy was it ever big! We learned a lot from our tour and we are going to try to clean up our trays every day.

Second Grade News

The second graders have been busy writing stories and poems. We then edit our compositions with the help of the teacher This is done so that stories can be published and put into a book, which will be bound up for the teacher. The book will then be placed in our classroom library for the students to check out as they would any library book. Already we have many excellent stories and poems ready to be published. Be poems ready to be published. Be watching for our first book soon! We toured the kitchen of the school cafeteria on Wednesday. Mrs. Mayer told us many interesting things that we never knew before. Using volunteer students, faculty members, practicing professionals and local community volunteers, the CDC provides programming, research, planning, design and engineering services for projects approved by the CDC's advisory board. "We're hoping we can be catalysts to help people help themselves," said Paul L. Blanton, head of the university's Department of Art and Archi-tecture. "No program ever works without grassroots participation be-ing an integral part."

Both Blanton, chosen chairman of the advisory board, and Kip Eder, CDC executive director and an instructor in architecture at the university, emphasized the CDC does not replace professional services. Instead, a CDC "team" will help the community identify its problems and its goals as a framework for seeking professional assistance. "Many communities that have problems really aren't aware of their needs," Blanton said. Our class visited the hot lunch kit-chen last week Mrs .Mayer showed us the big oven stove, stainless steel sinks, garbage disposal, bread mixer, and freezer. She showed us the big storeroom for supplies. Everything was clean and shining. We saw big pans of rolls ready to be baked for lunch. The good smells made us hungry.

Back in our room we discussed good nutrition and well-balanced meals. We wrote menus using food from each of the four basic food groups.

Our favorite hot lunch menu is chili, crackers, applesauce, carrot sticks and cinnamon rolls.

PUT THE GOOD WEATHER TO WORK-FERTILIZE IN THE FALL

You're going to be busy as a bird dog next spring, right? So why not apply our Orthro Unipel 27-12-0 Fertilizer this fall. It' especially recommended for hay and pasture fertilization in this area and you'll enjoy these other benefits:

1. The product is in good supply now. Available in bag or bulk. You avoid that "sold out" situation that sometimes occurs in the spring.

2. You'll be fertilizing at a time when you have the time. Not during the spring rush.

8. You eliminate the problem of going into the fields in the spring when they may be soft and wet.

You avoid unnecessary soil compaction.

There are other advantages to fertilizing in the fall and we'd appreciate the chanec to discuss them with you.

Hope you'll come in for a chat.

Fighting pollution is a complicated and serious business. Abusiness every body should begin.

The chief function of our lungs is The chief function of our lungs is to deliver oxygen and remove aerbon dioxide from the blood. When we sleep, though, our breathing changes. The oxygen level in our blood drops. Carbon dioxide increases. This tilt in the balance of gases in the blood happens to everyone during sleep. But people with severe respiratory disease already have this imbalance of blood gases even when they are Does sleeping cause an even awake. greater tilt?

Until recently no one had explored this question. But Dr. Benjamin In-teriano of the University of Rochester Medical Center conducted experiments with patients with severe lung disease as well as those with heart discase and others with obesity problems. The comparisons during sleep were surprising. Dr. Interiano found that during sleep obese patients had drastic drops in oxygen levels almost four times greater than that of normal subjects. Drops for patients with congestive heart failure were almost as great. Both could profit from oxygen ther apy at night. But among patients with sovere respiratory disease, chauges in blood gas levels during sleep were not much different from normal subjects.

Nobody knows why but Dr. Inter-iano speculates that an unknown protective mechanism prevents further imbalance of blood gases in respira-tory patients while they are asleep. Guriously enough, the protective me-chanism can be blocked by taking sleeping pills. Some effect from the pills causes a precipitous drop in ox-ygen levels and a rise in carbon diox-ide. With such patients taking the pills may cause serious complications.
