Wins National Contest Mrs. Helena Brown, in a recent telephone call, was informed by her and Mrs. Sherrie Towles of Spokane, granddaughter, Shirley Cooper Prince that the entry in a national contest by her employer of a photograph and "write-up" concerning Shirley had won first place, resulting in serving as official hostess to the National Industrial Recreational Magazine Convention to be held in Indianapolis. Ind. on May 23, followed by a trip to Jamiaca Mar 24-27, all expenses paid, mainly through the contest. Feeling like Cinderella, Shirley also breathlessly related she'd won a

The only "fly in the ointment" is the fact that Shirley has a deadly fear of aeroplane transportation!

WILDLIFE VIEWPOINT By Dee Hibbert Regional Conservation Educator

If you were one of over 200,000 people in Idaho who purchased a big game tag last year, what did you do with the report card section of the tag? Were you among the 20% who completed the information requested and mailed it to the Idaho Fish and Game department in Boise?

January 9, 1973 was the cutoff date for the tags to be turned in for the 1972 season and there was only about 20 percent of the cards returned—there should have been many times that amount. This informabirthday. On Friday, the 13th, Steve Becker's mother brought cup cakes to the class to share his lucky birthday game; and if they hunted, where, and were they successful.

Data from these report cards repainted eggs is very pretty. We have some original and imaginative artists in our class.

Data from the tree trimmed with our name painted eggs is very pretty. We turned indicated the harvest was down substantially for the 1972 sea-son. The deer total was down 12 per cent and the elk harvest was down 16 per cent from the 1971 har-

Fifth Grade Achievement tests are finally over and are we glad. This week we enjoyed several movies about the Space program. The one we liked best was Sky Lab, which was about the next NASA launch in May. Friday morning Mr. Gary Moen, an NASA representative, presented an excellent program. Among the equipment he showed us was a space suit, a blood flow monitor, and a telemetry device which measures the meteorites or particles striking a space ship. Mr. Moen also pointed out some of the benefits we all get from the space program such as weather and communication satellites, "space foods," miniature electrical circuits and medical advancements. On Friday afternoon we gave Mr. Jones a surprise birthday party and had a class

Numbers, Sounds, Food And Easter Occupy Minds of Kindergarten Students

Student of the Week is Ted Denn-

We finished working on the number 4 this week, reviewed triangles, counted 1-10 and 1-30 on dot to dot

For our "sound books," we cut and pasted the letters P and Q. We also had to write our letters by memory again while Mrs. Abrams read them to us. Our only 1st prize went to Mr. and Mrs. Ross Armitage were Holly. Second prizes went to Glyna, unday dinner guests of the Max Ted, Penny, Melodie, Brian, Mark, Doug, Larry, Nancy, Patty and Kelly. Our teacher said she graded extra hard. In order to get a 1st prize, we couldn't have any letters

Our new phonics letters to study are P and N. We reviewed T and W wrong, missing or backwards.

We had to practice how to form the letters X-H and drew our computer paper alphabet.

The four kinds of food to eat each day are milk, vegetable or fruit, meat and bread. Did you know peanut butter and eggs are in the meat group and tortillas and rice are fornia. bread? Isn't that funny?

We are really getting ready for Easter. Mrs. Abrams has read us several Easter stories and poems we've learned two Easter Finger plays, colored several Easter pic tures, made Easter things out of clay, Bunny out of magazine pic-tures, rabbits out of construction paper and tuna fish cans (they are for our party on Wednesday), covered sue paper and glue, and made Easter cards. Hasn't it been a busy week?

We have a new number chart from 1-100 in our room, so that we can see how the numbers are formed. Also new posters are: "Tall, Big-Short, Small," "Cc," Rain, Rain, Go Away," "Friends," "Crazy Circles," and our wet paint prints.
