

Area's Harvesting Pace Picks Up Friday Rain Caused Slight Delay

Harvesting operations in the Kendrick and Genesee areas continued to pick up pace this week after a one-day slow down caused by rain in some sections last Friday. The rain wasn't too heavy and the farmers were back in the field Saturday. Some areas received no moisture at all. Temperatures took a welcome drop from the near 100 degree readings of a week ago and for the first two days of this week were hovering around the high eighties and low nineties.

Bob Watts of Kendrick Rochdale said wheat deliveries to the co-op were steadily picking up since Glen Wagner brought the first of the season in about last Tuesday. Watts said peas were just "pretty well over" and the fall barley was just about in, too. The wheat coming in looks to be of good quality although some shriveling was noted, due either to too much heat or too much fertilizer, or a combination of both.

Down at Lewiston Grain Growers Kendrick and Juliaetta warehouses, manager Ben Westendahl reported that wheat deliveries were just getting a good start and only a small amount of spring barley was showing up. From what amounts of wheat have come in, Westendahl was of the opinion that the yields might not be as good this year as last but he said "Quality-wise the crops look good." Adding the grain and peas were testing out well. He reported that one farmer who finished a lot of wheat on the lower end of Potlatch ridge averaged near 67 bushels per acre with his other fields running close to 60 bushels. Westendahl said that as of Tuesday afternoon, three farmers up in the Leland area were cutting wheat.

Peas were still reported coming in slow as Agrow Seed Company in Genesee. Leonard Singhose, manager, said Tuesday afternoon he didn't feel the peas grown under Agrow contracts were half in yet. Most of the cutting operation on the Rim were pretty well over. What deliveries were coming into the Genesee branch warehouse were from a general area. Quality was said by Singhose to be "not too bad," though he was of the opinion the quantity might be down this year. Some burning from the high temperatures of last week was noted.

What's Up a Dime
Wheat prices in the Genesee area jumped a dime this week, going up to $3.37 net to the farmer, said Genesee Union's assistant manager, Mike Martinez. "Just getting a good start," is the way Martinez described the harvest in the Genesee area. The Friday rain slowed some farmers down for a day, but "we're rolling again Monday and today," he said Tuesday afternoon.

Genesee Union reported that as of Monday they had taken in 35,000 bushels of wheat, for an estimated 3% of the total expected. Barley deliveries were 1600 tons for 19% of the total expected harvest and peas (small above) deliveries were said to come to 2300 tons for 19%.

Martinez estimated that about 8% of the harvest was in, as of Monday, "so you can see, we're just getting a good start," he said.

Quality of the wheat looks good, he said. Some shriveling as found in early deliveries, but even that appears to be lessening as the harvest progresses. Martinez said the warehouse has upped its estimate of the quantity of wheat and barley which would be coming in this year from its early summer estimate.

Planning and Zoning Commission Met Monday Night At Moscow

The regular monthly meeting of the Latah County Planning and Zoning Commission met at the Court House in Moscow Monday evening with seven members and three county commissioners present.

Following the reading and approval of the minutes of the previous meeting, Gerald Ingie, county commissioner, announced the appointment of Ruth Campbell to the county planning board. This will bring the membership up to its authorized total of 12.

Ingie also reported he had recently returned from Boise where he talked with the state Attorney General's office concerning the legality of the Commission. He said the conversations with the assistant who made the previous ruling which questioned the standing of the commission, led him to believe the lawyer had not had the opportunity to view the complete ordinance covering the commission. He added that the system of alternates would probably have to be discontinued.

In other action:
The commission reviewed the rough draft of the mobile home ordinance and suggested certain minor changes.

Heard a report from the Subdivision Committee concerning a tour of the Wilderlea development project.

Heard a report from the Recreation Committee concerning several proposed projects.

Temperature Takes a Drop

At least temporary relief from the heat wave which prevailed last week came with some scattered and intermittent showers Friday and temperatures moved down from near 100 to the high eighties and low nineties with some overcast skies and much cooler evening temperatures. Moderate to strong winds were also in weather picture.

Up until Friday the evening temperatures were very warm. Thursday night, near midnight, the mercury was still at 80 degrees with no breeze stirring. Tuesday morning of this week Genesee residents awoke to brisk 45 degree reading on the thermometer.

The rain Friday was apparently very spotty. The spots up at Camp Grizzly were drenched. The city of Genesee received enough Friday morning to wet the streets, but sections around the town received practically nothing.

Perhaps the best comment about the rain (or lack of it) came from Fire Warden Dick Benjamin. When asked how much rain the tinder-dry Moscow Mountain area received, Dick said, "We go a five-inch rain up there... about every five inches you could see a drop in the dust!"

Area Loggers To Be Placed On Hoot-Owl Shift Beginning July 25

Loggers in all Northern Idaho will be placed on Hoot-Owl shifts only beginning Wednesday, July 25, it was announced by Richard Benjamin, fire warden for the Kendrick Fire Protective District. The extreme fire danger resulting from lack of moisture and hot temperature forced the restriction, Benjamin said.

Under Hoot-Owl restrictions, all logging operations must cease by 1:00 p.m. No skidding or felling work is permitted, but loggers may still work on the landings, loading, etc.

Benjamin said all State and Federal agencies are working and cooperating together during these critical weeks, so all rules made are effective in all forest land. The fire warden said the Kendrick District is especially dry because they did not receive any of the rain which fell last Friday and despite the cooler weather the burning index has risen steadily.

The restrictions will remain in effect until such time as the danger is diminished. Campfires will be permitted at established campsites only, the warden said. In other than established campsites, burning will be allowed by permit only.

If the danger of fire increases at its present rate or accelerates, Benjamin stated, there is the possibility of a complete closure of the forest areas. This would mean no one but authorized personnel in the woods. Such a drastic restriction has not been placed since 1967.

Benjamin reminded that the Hoot-Owl restriction affects all logging operations, not only the larger outfits, but also the small individual operations. He also added that the shovel, bucket and axe rule will be strictly enforced by all forest agencies from now on. This means all vehicles traveling in the forest and wooded areas must carry an adequate shovel, bucket and axe at all times.

Fire danger in agricultural lands also brought a word of caution from the district warden. He suggested that all farms might have a tractor, plow or disc handy to help fight grain and grass fire and also suggested that weed sprayers might be kept full of water and in operating condition.

Two fires Monday
Two fires were reported in the Kendrick District Monday. An empty hay shed and approximately a half-acre of grass, brush and small timber burned on the Burt Wallen property two miles east of Robinson Lake.

Five acres of grass burned across the road from the Nez Perce Tractor Company building near Lewiston Monday afternoon. It was not known what caused either fire.

Use Care, Please
Once again Benjamin urged all motorists, loggers, campers, farmers to use extreme care to prevent any fire from starting during this very critical period. Only by the cooperation and help of all people can the danger of fire be kept to a minimum.

TAKE A WALK
Hear the chatter of the rippling stream
And the song of a bird's courting theme
See the flash of sudden lightning,
Startling, and sometimes too frightening
Feel the breeze upon your fevered brow,
The softest moss, as you're resting now,
Taste the salt of a splashing sea-spray;
Savor the flavor of fruit today;
Wild berries full of a tart appeal,
Or green apples in abandoned field,
Every sense will love to awaken
When your own nature walk is taken.
Listen and watch the season unfold,
Touch the dusty milkweed growing bold,
Enjoy some sourgrass or pulled stem sweet;
Most of us can find a peace of mind,
As gifts of the great outdoors we find—
Take a walk!

THE TRAP
They built a drunk trap on Highway 33.
A work of art that all should see,
It takes the drunk driver off the road,
And lightens the population load.
If you make it thru this trap,
Without getting the motor in your lap;
You have passed the driving test
And will not be laid to rest.

TEN WAYS TO KILL AN ORGANIZATION

1. Don't come to meetings.
2. If you do come, come late.
3. If the weather doesn't suit you, don't think of coming.
4. If you attend a meeting, find fault with the work of the officers and other members.
5. Never accept an office, as it is easier to criticize than to do things.
6. Nevertheless, feel hurt if you are not appointed on the committees, but if you are do not attend committee meetings.
7. If asked by the chairman to give your opinion on some matter, tell him you have nothing to say. After the meeting tell everyone how things ought to have been done.
8. Do nothing more than is absolutely necessary, but when members roll up their sleeves and willingly, unselfishly use their ability to help matters along, say that the organization is run by a clique.
9. Hold back your dues as long as possible or don't pay at all.
10. Don't bother about getting new members. Let someone else do it.

LAST SALMON FISHING SEASON ENDS JULY 31

One of the best chinook salmon fishing seasons in recent years ends July 31 in all waters still open, the Idaho Fish and Game Department reminded anglers today.

Waters still open for salmon fishing through July 31 include the Salmon River from its mouth upstream to the mouth of Redfish Lake Creek; the East Fork of the Salmon River; and the Middle Fork of the Salmon River.

Fishing for sea-run salmon ended June 30 on the Clearwater River and the Middle Fork of the Clearwater River, where the first chinook salmon fishing season in many years was held this year.

Other earlier closures came July 15 on the Salmon River from the mouth of the Redfish Lake Creek upstream to Hell Roaring Creek; Valley Creek, from Stanley Lake Creek downstream to several other tributaries of the Salmon River drainage.

There is no salmon fishing season

OATS AVAILABLE FOR FEED

Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) has oats for sale at the following warehouse locations: Craigmont, Kendrick, Tilsa, Worley, Harrison and Tensed. According to Lawrence Curtis, member of the Latah County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee (ASC) oats can be purchased by anyone at about $68.00 dollars per ton at the warehouse site. The cost will vary slightly among warehouses due to freight charges which are deducted from the coast price of $75.00 per ton.

CCC has made stored oats available at a time when cattlemen and dairymen are sowing up a shorter than average hay crop. Ample supplies of hay and grain are available, at present, but at higher prices than last year.

Grass set aside acreage can be hayed or grazed this year under the wheat, and feed grain programs by receiving approval from the ASC Committee, and paying a small charge, Curtis stated. Many farmers have received approval of their written requests to hay or graze their grass set aside, and paid the necessary 7 to 10 dollars per acre for the hay.

Grass set aside cannot be grazed without paying the small charge until September 1, 1973. The Agricultural Act of 1970 prohibits grazing set aside acreage between March 1 and September 1 and local and state ASC Committees do not have authority to change this requirement. The fact that grass set aside can be hayed or grazed this short hay year by paying a small charge will help greatly in meeting the feed needs of all cattlemen.

IDAHO DEPT. OF EMPLOYMENT
Frank J. Hartstein, manager of the Moscow office of the Idaho Department of Employment reported today that both placement of job seekers, and claimants for unemployment insurance were down slightly from the previous week. He said that 13 Latah county workers were sent on jobs during the week, compared with 21 during the previous week, and with 20 workers given job finding help during the same week a year ago. At the end of the week there were still 30 jobs open in the area. He expected that several of those would be filled during the weekend.

Only 10 persons filed new claims for unemployment insurance during the week. 15 persons discontinued claims for various reasons, and 272 idled workers continued to seek jobless pay benefits. A week ago there were 277 persons receiving checks, and a year ago the total was only 236. Most of the increase was in the Potlatch area, where there are currently 63 persons seeking benefits compared with only 37 a year ago. Other areas throughout the county remained fairly stable, with little change from either last week or last year's figure.

Hartstein reported that his office is in need of well qualified secretarial workers, particularly those who are permanent residents of the area. Moscow is also in need of auto mechanics, and calls are beginning to come in for a limited number of well qualified harvest workers. Conversely, he said, there are still a considerable number of young and inexperienced workers seeking work for the balance of the summer.

DEATH FROM DROWNING
The risk of death from drowning does not end once the victim has been revived, a specialist in underwater medicine told the American Lung Association at a recent meeting in New York City.

All near-drowning victims who require artificial respiration should be hospitalized for 24 hours immediately following the accident, warned Martin J. Nemiroff, M. D., department of internal medicine, pulmonary division, University Hospital, Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Lung damage can occur even if water is not breathed into the lungs, Dr. Nemiroff said. The brief period of suffocation and lack of oxygen during submersion can cause pulmonary edema an accumulation of fluid in the lungs, and damage to the lungs themselves. Untreated, pulmonary edema can cause death. Dr. Nemiroff believes that incidence of near-drowning and near-drowning deaths may be more common than realized. He studied 8 cases with one death in one geographic area. Near-drownings are not recorded by law-enforcement agencies, and related deaths are rarely attributed to near-drownings, Dr. Nemiroff said.

6 of the 8 persons walked away from the scene of the accident, only to be hospitalized following rapidly progressive shortness of breath 2 1/2 to 12 hours later. Another was hospitalized immediately and one died 1/2 hour after the near-drowning experience enroute to the hospital.

The amount of fluid in the lungs of the seven survivors varied, but in all cases increased during the first 24 hours following the near-drowning. The excess fluid hindered the exchange of gases in the lungs resulting in hypoxemia, a low level of oxygen in the blood, and metabolic acidosis, as well as excess carbon dioxide remaining in the blood. The near-drowning also caused damage to the lung's capillaries, small vessels which circulate blood throughout the lung, and all patients had blood stained sputum.

Continuous positive pressure breathing, which maintains increased air pressure throughout the breathing cycle, was used to prevent both lung collapse and the seeping of fluid into the lungs. Three patients whose x-rays showed the greatest amount of fluid in the lungs also required forced breathing of larger-than-normal volumes of air through a tube inserted in their wind-pipes. Antibiotics were given to prevent infection. Length of hospitalization ranged from 1 to 14 days and improvement was noted within 24 hours after treatment was started.

Robert J. Anderson, M. D. managing director of the American Lung Association, says since symptoms of near-drowning may not occur immediately medical observation is a must and he urged parents, lifeguards, and others present at such accidents to take all victims to the hospital immediately.

Formerly known as the National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, the American Lung Association is the nationwide Christmas Seal organization. The new name was effective May 20, 1973. The Idaho Lung Association is located at 2821 Camas St., Boise, 83705.

Ronald P. Rowley Promoted To PBX Man By GenTel
Ronald P. Rowley, an installation and repair man with General Telephone Co. of the Northwest, in Moscow has been promoted to PBX man, company officials said today.

Rowley, 37, has been with General for two years. He attended Spokane Community College with an electronic major.

Rowley, his wife, Nancy, and their five children live in Genesee.

A minister, substituting for a friend in a remote country parish was greatly surprised on observing an old usher, who had been collecting the offering quietly abstract a fifty cent piece before presenting the plate at the altar rail. After service he called the old man into the vestry and told him with some emotion that his crime had been discovered. The old usher looked puzzled for a moment. Then a sudden light dawned on him. "Why sir, you don't mean that old half-dollar of mine? I've led off with that for the last fifteen years!"

The teacher asked the pupils to write an essay, telling what they would do if they had five million dollars.

Every pupil except little Sammy began writing immediately. Sammy sat idle, twiddling his fingers and watching the flies on the ceiling.

Teacher collected the papers, and Sammy handed in a blank sheet. "How is this, Sammy," asked the teacher. "Is this your essay? Every other pupil has written two sheets or more while you have done nothing!"

"Well," replied Sammy, "that's what I would do if I were a millionaire

PRIVATE SWIMMING POOLS CAN BE LIABILITY FOR IDAHONANS

Backyard swimming pools, increasingly popular facilities in Idaho, become more inviting with each added degree of temperature during the hot days of summer. They provide recreation, relaxation and cooling-off places.

But they also can be death traps unless a few safety precautions are followed, warns the Insurance Information Institute.

Across the nation, as many as 600 persons drown in swimming pools each year, and about half of those occur in private home pools. Many more suffer injuries in pool mishaps.

The most frequent cause of swimming pool drownings is unintentional falling or slipping into the water, accounting for nearly half of the cases. But there is another danger for backyard pool users, says the Institute that is just as deadly as drowning and much less obvious, the hazard of electrical shock.

Pool owners should take extra care to prevent "fall-ins" according to the Institute. Whether empty or full, the pool should be enclosed by a sturdy fence to keep wandering neighborhood children from falling in. In fact, pool owners may even be held liable for injuries to trespassing children. Electrical equipment in pool areas can be dangerous. If the 115-volt standard household current passes through the body on its way to water—a perfect "ground"—it will kill. As a precaution against electrocution, keep all electrical appliances—radios, T. V.'s, record players—at least 10 feet away from the pool. All electrical pool equipment such as skimmers, filters and pumps should be installed by a licensed electrician and equipped with current interrupters that will cut off the current when there is a leak that can cause a shock.

Food should not be carried to pool-sides because spillage can cause slippery areas. And small toys, such as skateboard, along with other debris should be kept clear of the walk areas next to the pool.

Here are some rules the Institute suggests be enforced to ensure that private pools do not become the site of tragedy.

- * Never allow anyone—including adults—to swim alone.
- * Clearly mark the depth of all sections of the pool.
- * Keep all electrical appliances and sources of household current at least 10 feet away from the pool.
- * Keep close at hand an ample supply of safety equipment, including flotation rings, life belts, a long pole to aid in rescues and a first aid kit.
- * Discourage excessive roughhousing around or in the pool. Also provide adult supervision when children are swimming.
- * Keep diving boards and ladders in good repair.
- * Be sure the ladder leading into the pool is either removed or is of a type that can be made inoperable when the pool is not in use.
- * Be certain an unattended pool is NEVER accessible to young children.
- * Should a guest be injured in a private backyard pool, the homeowners policy, which covers personal liability and medical payments to others, will protect the owner, within its limits, against financial losses.

Apples will soon be in abundance—and as a dessert—apple pie still remains that all-time favorite. Made with an oats crust—it tastes better than ever!

Lattice-Topped Apple Pie

Filling:
 3/4 cup sugar
 2 tablespoons cornstarch
 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
 Dash salt
 6 cups, sliced, pared tart apples

Pastry:
 1 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/4 cup shortening, soft
 3/4 cup quick or old-fashioned oats uncooked
 5 to 7 tablespoons COLD water
 1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Heat oven to hot (425 degree F) For filling, combine sugar, cornstarch, cinnamon, nutmeg and salt. Stir in apple slices until well coated. For pastry, sift together flour and salt. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in oats. Sprinkle water by tablespoons over mixture, stirring lightly with a fork until dry ingredients are moistened. Form into a ball.

Divide dough in half. Roll out one half on a lightly floured board or canvas to form a 13-inch circle. Fit pastry loosely into a 9-inch pie plate. Spoon filling into pastry-lined pie plate. Dot with butter.

Roll out remaining half of dough to a 12-inch circle; cut into 1-inch strips. Place pastry strips over filling. Trim; fold edges under and flute. Bake in preheated oven (425) for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate (375). Bake an additional 30 to 35 minutes. Remove from oven and sprinkle lightly with sugar.

BEWARE OF GIFT DISCOUNT CERTIFICATES

Better Business Bureaus have found products offered through gift discount certificates are worth very little more than the check you send in with the certificate to complete payment for them, says Mrs. Ruth Spidahl, state home economics leader, University of Idaho cooperative extension service.

The whole process takes place through the mail and only description and picture is received by the purchaser. It sounds like a good deal, for sometimes as much as up to one-half the total amount of the product may be offered by using the gift certificate.

However, Mrs. Spidahl warns, you're never getting much more than what you actually pay for.

Lists of names and addresses are often sold among companies for advertising and sales purpose, so don't feel you are a selected customer just because that's what you're told in the correspondence, Mrs. Spidahl says.

This same system is used to bring customers into local markets at specific times during the year, and in this case you can decide, after examining the merchandise, the full worth of the product to you.

CONDITION LEGS, LUNGS BEFORE 'OPENING DAY'

Every year a number of hunters fall victim to the rigors, strains and excesses of opening day. The painful results are shin splints, charley horses, stiff joints, even heart attacks. There is a better way to enjoy hunting, the Idaho Fish and Game Department reminded sportsmen today.

The first step is to take a complete physical, getting medical advice about whether jogging is a good means for you to get into good physical shape. If a doctor gives the green light, then set up a regular regime along these lines.

First week, walk a mile course each morning. Second week, cover the same course each morning, but walk 50 steps, then run 50 steps. Don't try to break any track records, but do stretch the old limbs a bit.

Third week, run 100 steps, walk 50. As stamina is developed, increase the running until, winded then walk until breath returns. By the fourth week trotting most of the mile without much walking should be possible.

By the time dove and rabbit seasons arrive September 1, extra capillary reserve, increased endurance and leg and lung power should be improved enough for any participant to stand the strain of opening day and enjoy the hunting.

Nothing is gained by sacrificing principles for the sake of peace.

MACHINE DRAWING SET FOR HUNTING PERMITS

Most applicant names for controlled hunt permits for moose, antelope, mountain goat, bighorn sheep and some elk and deer are now on a computer system, which will make notification of winning permittees faster than in the past.

The electronic drawing for all species will be August 1 at the Len B. Jordan state office building in Boise.

Counts as of July 18 indicate that:—All moose hunts will be filled with first choice applications.

—All antelope hunts will be filled with first choice applications.

—All bighorn sheep hunts will be filled with first choice applications.

—All mountain goat hunts except one will be filled with first choice applications.

Because of space limitations, even standing room is unavailable this year, and public observation of the machine drawing is not possible. A panel of three judges will represent Idaho sportsmen at the computer drawing.

A list of successful permittees will be available for checking at the Idaho Fish and Game Department, 600 So. Walnut Street, soon after the drawing has been completed on August 1.

IT HAPPENED WAY BACK WHEN

Kendrick Gazette—July 14, 1933

The Kendrick State Bank opened for regular business Monday morning after having closed its doors January 2, after a run that took from it more than $160,000. Regardless of this the bank has put itself in such shape that it received permission from the state banking department on April 2 to receive special trust funds. Both of Kendrick's banks are now in operation and an atmosphere of optimism prevails throughout the village and community.

HIGH MOUNTAIN LAKES ACCESSIBLE, ICE FREE

The high mountain lakes are open and ice-free earlier than usual this year because of the low snowpack in much of Idaho. The new edition of the free, "Mountain Lakes of Idaho," booklet is now available at regional offices or the Boise office of the Fish and Game Department. It contains information on many of the major chains of lakes, how to get to them, fish species present and many comments on condition of trails, size of fish caught, etc. It should be used in conjunction with a good topographic map or detailed Forest Service map, since many of the lakes are difficult to find and the map in the booklet just gives a general idea of the trail system.

Mountain lakes can be reached by a variety of means. A few have roads to them, others can be reached by trail machine, and those in the wilderness areas can only be located by foot or horse traffic, since the wilderness law prohibits use of motorized vehicles. Check with your local Forest Service office for the latest condition of roads, trails, etc. and any special regulations on the particular area you're interested in.

An active program of planting mountain lakes is carried on by the Nelson, John Luedke, Gene Woodruff Clarence Peterson and Wilson Esser moved in haying equipment and bucked the hay into a hammer mill and put the chopped hay in the barn ready for use. Mr. Heinrich is in a hospital in Colfax.

Mrs. Ed Morken spent Wednesday and Thursday in Lewiston where Mary Lou had her tonsils removed.

Mrs. John Luedke entertained Thursday for her daughter, Maurine with a party to honor her 4th birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hickman of Palouse are the parents of a son born Saturday, June 17.

The cutting and threshing of grain has started in the Genesee section. It was stated that Fred Hove began threshing barley Thursday and that Roy Evans had commenced the cutting of wheat the same day.

Genesee and vicinity has been experiencing some real summer weather during the past few days especially on Sunday when the mercury registered the high point of the season—97 degrees Sunday afternoon. The same afternoon at Lewiston the mercury registered 104 and at the Clarkston Beach the thermometer registered 112

Idaho Fish and Game Department.

The rainbow and cutthroat trout are the most commonly released species, but California golden trout and grayling have also been provided, when eggs have become available. Many lakes were planted with eastern brook trout in years past, but this species tends to become overpopulated unless fished intensively. Most of the lakes are planted with fingerlings or fry on a regular 2 and 3-year schedule, depending on fishing pressure or the status of natural reproduction, which replaces the fish population in some lakes once they were stocked originally. A helicopter is the normal method utilized because it is the most economical to plant a lot of lakes quickly. The small fish are carried in a plastic bag filled with oxygen and water. They must be kept cool until released.

Mountain lakes can be very temperamental to fish. Here are some tips that may help you fishing success. Use light outfits for your spin fishing with a line no heavier than 4-lb. test. The morning period when the sun first touches the water is one of my favorite periods. Mid-afternoon is sometimes good—if the wind is ruffling the water—and again late evenings. I like to use small wobbling spoons or spinners of 1/4 or 1/8 ounce size and let them sink a while before beginning to reel them in. Retrieve in jerks and various motions to give the lure more action. One of my favorites is a 1/4 ounce hammered brass spoon or a silver spinner.

Fly fishing can be productive at times, but in many situations the fish are raising just outside reach of a long fly cast. Therefore, I carry a few flies and a clear plastic bubble to use with my spinning outfit. Place about 2 feet of 2-pound test leader to your fly behind the bubble and retrieve it very slowly. As soon as it stops, strike, since it is very difficult to set the hook with this rig. Cast to individual rises.

Bait, such as regular garden worms is good but the worms are difficult to keep alive on most of these kinds of trips. Grasshoppers are excellent, too and both of these can be fished with the same plastic bubble used for flies. I've never had much luck with salmon eggs in lakes.

If you've ever hiked to mountain lakes, I suggest you take a short trip first of no more than 3 miles and less if you are going to return in the same day. Those trails are always steeper than you realize and a rough rule of thumb is to add 50 percent to the miles shown on a map for short hikes up to 5 miles and double your mileage for the ups and downs on longer trips.

DO YOU BUY WHAT YOU SAY YOU WANT?

Many questionnaire results give the retailer reason to believe that you (the average customer) want to buy the most nutritious foods for your family. You also want it at the best possible price.

However, retailers stock their shelves with what you (the average customer) buy. And what you buy does not reflect the findings of those questionnaires, says Mrs. Joanne Anderson, extension home economist, University of Idaho cooperative extension service.

The average customer appears to throw caution to the winds upon entering a supermarket. "You" actually buy scads of instant everything and many so-called-foods of very low nutritional value.

—You buy highly refined, sugar-coated cereals (or they wouldn't be on the shelves) instead of whole grain ones that take a bit of cooking

—You buy heat-and-serve mixtures in place of the basics to make your own.

—You buy excessive quantities of drinks (ades, carbonated, alcoholic) in place of adequate milk and fresh fruits or fruit juices.

—You buy candy, gum, cakes, instead of sufficient whole grain or enriched bread type foods.

—You buy steaks, chops, ground beef, wieners, instead of buying chunks of meat for stew, soup or casseroles.

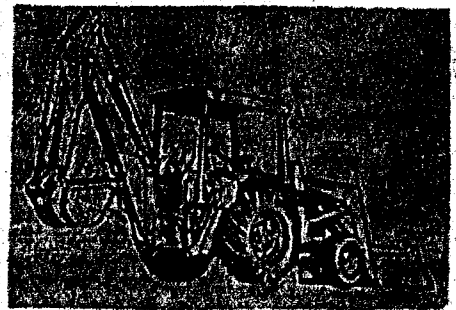

—You avoid many items that take time, creativity and cost less.

—You avoid "new" foods because you're unsure, in a hurry, don't care or don't know.

—You miss "best" buys because you're not that interested in saving money, you're especially hungry and in a hurry.

The Fact is:— YOU dictate what the groceryman stocks on his shelves!

What does it cost to build a new school or fix the streets in your town?

The public has a right to know what it costs to build or improve a street or building in your town. Your local newspaper is the publication where you find that information.

For centuries, people have recognized the right of the community and of the individual to be put on notice.

Many citizens don't understand what a legal notice is, or why they're printed in your local newspaper. Many people don't read them until it's too late.

Legal notices keep a citizen informed on all school, city and county action by official bodies. Legal notices also give a citizen an opportunity to do something about some proposed action that may affect his rights.

Your local newspaper is a long established medium for such notices as provided by law or by official designation. And, it's one of the many public services provided by this newspaper.

NEWSPAPERS DELIVER THE LOCAL STORY.

A Heedful Holiday

On Tuesday a.m., July 17, the annual trip to Lochsa Deer Lodge to celebrate the 78th birthday of Maurice Carter of Clarkston was made by Mr. and Mrs. Carter and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Steiglers. A cabin was rented there for the planned overnight stay. After lunch the group drove to Selway Falls, returned, and finishing their evening meal at the cabin, were visited by black hornets, one of which stung Mrs. Stella Carter on her wrist. Putting on ice she laughingly said it amounted to nothing. Almost immediately afterward she lapsed into unconsciousness. She was taken to the emergency ward of Orofino Hospital, where she received the best of care. Under the doctor's order, she was taken to their home near Clarkston Memorial Hospital later that night and has seemingly recovered satisfactorily. After spending the remainder of the night in the Carter home, on the following day the Steiglers and Mr. Carter made a return drive to Deer Lodge to gather up their gear, food, her glasses, etc., etc. The Bowles, owners of Deer Lodge, were most helpful in all respects.

FISH AND GAME DEPARTMENT REORGANIZATION

Statewide reorganization of the Idaho Fish and Game Department in 6 regions becomes effective July 1, 1973. This move toward decentralization is designed to take services closer to where the people are. Regional supervisors have been appointed and will report to the Director's office in Boise. Director Joseph C. Greenley feels the total operation throughout the department should be better administratively. "We will be closed to the problems in the field. We will have someone out there who will be in charge and we didn't have that before."

Walter R. Browne, a department employee since June, 1955, has been promoted to the regional supervisors position in Region II, headquartered at Lewiston. Browne worked as a conservation officer for 10 years. From July, 1965 until February, 1967, he performed game biologist duties in Lewiston. He was then promoted to the position of regional conservation officer and transferred to Coeur d'Alene until his recent advancement.

There are additional promotions as part of the Regional II reorganization. Wes Cannon, Senior Fisheries Biologist, who worked on Dworshak investigations has been advanced to the position of regional fisheries manager.

Senior Conservation Officers Bill Snow of Orofino and Dwight Kilgore of Lewiston have been elevated to district manager positions. Each of these men will have several conservation officers under their direct supervision.
