

Genesee-Kendrick Clash Fri. Will Settle Championship

Who is the 1973 White Pine League football champions will be settled at Genesee Friday night when the Kendrick Tigers and Genesee Bulldogs meet in the final league game of the season. The contest will match two undefeated teams each with identical 6-0 records who are now tied for first place in league standings. Game time is 7:30.

Genesee preserved its winning streak with a 6-0 win over the Troy Trojans last Thursday night at Troy. Kendrick was hosting Nezperce and ripped the Indians 31-0 Thursday night.

The Kendrick-Genesee game promises to be a defensive battle as the Bulldogs have given up only 13 points in their six league wins while the Kendrick squad has yielded only 19 with its varsity playing. Genesee stepped out of its league in the opening game of the season and was stopped by Clearwater Valley 24-0.

Tigers Stop Nezperce
It was Ron Sillfow's night to score last Thursday as he took three passes from Kelly Clemenhagen and converted them into touchdowns and ran 15 yards for a fourth TD to pace the Kendrick Tigers to a 31-0 win over the Nezperce Indians.

Sillfow scored all of the Tigers' 19 first-half points as he scored the first on a 17-yard pass from quarterback Clemenhagen in the opening period. In the second quarter the Clemenhagen to Sillfow combination was still clicking with Ron going for touchdowns on passes of 30 yards and then on a bomb that covered 62 yards. Vern Reed converted that touchdown with a kick.

In the third quarter Dennis Luke-cart broke loose for 45 yards and brought the ball down to the 12-yard line and on the next play went the final 12 yards for a touchdown. Ron ended up the game scoring in the final quarter with a 15-yard off tackle plunge.

Lukecart was the Tigers' big ground gainer, picking up 123 yards rushing. Sillfow had 105 passing yards and Marty Clemenhagen picked up 101 rushing yards.

Bulldogs Top Troy

Genesee's rock-hard defense showed why they have yielded only 13 points during regular season play last Thursday as they not only stymied the attack but also set up the lone, and winning, touchdown of the game in the Bulldogs 6-0 victory over the tough Trojans of Troy at Troy's homecoming. The win kept the Bulldogs tied for first place in the league with the Kendrick Tigers and set the stage for Friday's crucial battle with the Tigers to determine the champions.

Up until the final minute of the game Thursday it was strictly a defensive man's contest with neither team able to mount a threatening attack. Then, with less than two minutes to play, Troy was forced to punt from deep in their own territory. Middle guard Keith Davis of the Bulldogs pushed through the Trojan line and forced the Troy kicker to run with the ball and he was hauled down on the Troy 20 and Genesee took over possession.

Fullback Jay Roach broke through the Troy line on the first play and went 18 yards down to the Trojan 2-yard line. Then with 59 seconds remaining in the game Roach took the hand off from Boyd and cracked through the line for the score. Don Smith attempted the conversion but was pulled down short of the goal.

Genesee's top ground gainer was Loren Morscheck with 41 yards rushing. Genesee gained 141 yards total offense.

City Elections Face Kendrick; Genesee, Juliaetta Voters

Municipal elections to be held Tuesday, November 6, offer voters in Kendrick, Genesee and Juliaetta an opportunity to select city officials for the coming four years. Voters in Juliaetta will also vote, for the third time in six years, on the liquor-by-the-drink issue.

Incumbent File in Kendrick

Robert E. Watts, incumbent mayor of the city of Kendrick, has filed for re-election for another four-year term, and is opposed on the ballot. Watts, manager of the Kendrick Rochdale Co., has been mayor for the past four years. Both James Hoogland, Jr. and Darrel Brocke, whose council terms expire in January, have filed for re-election. Hoogland is manager of First Security Bank in Kendrick and Brocke is with Brocke and Sons, Inc.

Sorensen for Mayor
Lawrence Sorensen, a retired Soil Conservation technician, is the only name on the ballot for mayor of Genesee to replace D. F. Scharnhorst who is not seeking re-election after serving the city for 16 years.

A three-way race for the two available council seats in Genesee developed when Walter L. Moden, an agricultural engineer at the University of Idaho and incumbent councilman, filed for re-election. Also seeking public office for the first time are Robert Borgen, Genesee farmer, and Jack Spangler, rural mail carrier.

Many Choices in Juliaetta

Juliaetta voters will face the task of selecting two councilmen from a field of six candidates at the November 6 election and will also vote on the proposition of allowing retail liquor licenses. The terms of councilmen Bruce Sherman and Richard Groseclose will expire at the end of the year. Sherman will not seek another four-year term, but Groseclose, a Gem State employee, has filed for re-election. Others seeking council chairs are Arthur Boe, a carpenter; Roger Kechter, with the Kendrick Fire Protective District; John Parker, self-employed; Eugene Taylor, retired Latah County assessor and Ronald Twelt, a dry wall worker.

For the third time in six years, as often as the law allows, the liquor-by-the-drink issue comes before Juliaetta voters. In 1971, the last time the issue was before the people, it was voted down by a narrow 105 to 91 margin and was responsible for the largest vote turnout in city history.

New Counseling and Psychiatric Services May Be Available

The big news from Joint School District 283 this week is that the District's students may soon have the services of the Department of Environmental and Community Services free of charge on at least a weekly basis.

Social workers, counselors, psychologists and psychiatrists will be based at Lewiston and hopefully will provide involvement for all of Latah County and area schools. All that is needed to insure these tremendous educational opportunities now is the approval of the local school trustees. This recent development has occurred since the last trustee meeting of October 8.

All area superintendents have met with Ralph E. Colton, Deputy Administrator Region II, to assist in planning regarding future relationships. All Latah County superintendents met at Troy Tuesday, October 16, to consolidate plans with Dr. Colton. Guidelines and schedules were discussed and these will then be presented to our local board November 13 for the go ahead or green light.

All of this has been brought about by the consolidation of various state agencies into the Department of Environment, Community Services.

The District hasn't had sufficient funds for several years to employ staff to help social workers and psychologists. This will be one of the most beneficial educational activities that has happened at Kendrick the past 15 years and it's for free. Now we are really getting things done.

DECS Urges Vaccinations

During October the Department of Environmental and Community Services (DECS) is urging parents to have their children vaccinated against potentially serious childhood diseases.

DECS officials are concerned because the percentage of young children protected against diseases such as polio and measles is dangerously low, posing threat of epidemics.

October, which has been designated Immunization Action Month, is part of a cooperative national effort to immunize children in the age group 1 to 4 years against measles, polio, rubella (German measles), diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough) and tetanus.

Immunization Action Month will serve as kickoff for an intensive, on-going campaign aimed at finding unvaccinated pre-school children and motivating parents to take these children to a doctor or health department for shots.

Dr. John A. Mather, state health officer with DECS points out only about 80 percent of American children, ages 1 to 4 years have been vaccinated against measles. This, Mather explains, is not enough to prevent epidemics.

"One of the problems," he says, "is many parents wait until their children are entering school to get them vaccinated. As a result, many children 4-years-old and under are susceptible to childhood disease. There fore, if an epidemic were to start, it could spread quickly through this age group, with possible devastating results to its young victims."

According to Mather, oral polio vaccine can be started at 2 months of age, with two doses given during the first year of life, followed by boosters one year later and at age 4 to 6 years.

The combination vaccine for diphtheria, pertussis and tetanus, Mather said, can also be started at age 2 months. Three shots are given, two months apart followed by boosters one year later and at age 4 to 6 years.

Vaccinations for measles, and rubella can be given after the first birthday, the doctor explained, either separately or in combination form.

Polio, Mather said, has struck in a series of epidemics over the years, the last during the 1950's, taking thousands of lives and leaving thousands more permanently paralyzed.

Measles, which many people regard as a mild disease, can cause serious complications like pneumonia and brain damage and even lead to death.

German measles, Mather explained, usually isn't serious in children, but often causes birth defects or miscarriages when contracted by pregnant women. The vaccine is recommended for children because they are the primary carriers of the disease.

Diphtheria, formerly a common cause of childhood deaths, attacks the throat and nasal passages, forming a membrane that hinders breathing. Tetanus, or lockjaw, kills about half the people who get it. It is caused by contaminated dirt getting into wounds. Pertussis is frequently fatal to babies but less serious in older children and adults.

Mather said all the vaccines have been successful in dramatically reducing the incidence of disease, but he warns childhood diseases can be kept under control only if enough children are vaccinated.

He urges parents to check their children's shot records, to talk with their doctor or public health department, if they have any questions and to make sure their children receive any missed vaccinations.

He recommended vaccinating children as early in life as possible and warned against waiting until they are ready for school.

Looking ahead, Mather points out the reduction in vaccinations for such diseases as polio and measles in children 1 to 4 years old is a danger.

We have been subtracting fractional numbers and learning how to borrow and then change to a common denominator. We just had a test on both adding and subtracting fractional numbers. Most of us are doing better.

In language we are learning about headwords which are about the subject noun and verb in a sentence. We are also learning how to use complements, modifiers, and connectives.

FLU FIGHTERS

Flu-fighting is a difficult maneuver. But new weapons may be on the way.

One of them could be a new live virus vaccine that has already been developed by researchers at the University of Michigan. The vaccine which is currently being trial-tested for safety and effectiveness, can be administered by nasal droplets or nasal sprays. A major advantage of the vaccine is that it tends off infection at the opening of the throat and nose—before the virus ever enters the windpipe or the lungs.

Another advantage is that the vaccine can be developed quickly. The trouble with flu viruses is that a vaccine effective against one variation of the virus may be completely useless against another variation.

And flu viruses can undergo drastic changes in their makeup frequently. Normally, it takes six months to develop a new vaccine after a variation appears in the virus. With the new vaccine, it takes 6 weeks.

A revolutionary—and still controversial—development, which has been announced by the Pasteur Institute in Paris, may eliminate any delays in producing new flu vaccines. Researchers there have subjected the Hong Kong flu virus of 1968 to a host of laboratory conditions, thereby forcing changes in the virus. The researchers believe they have anticipated the new variations the virus would have undergone naturally during the next decade. The Institute's astounding revelations, however, have not yet been verified by the scientific community at large. But at least imaginative, new efforts are being explored to fight the ever-shifting flu virus.

gerous trend that, unless checked, could lead to serious outbreaks of disease.

Allowing the child to remain unvaccinated during the first years in life, he stressed is a risk no parent should take.

Sponsors of the campaign in addition to DECS include the U. S. Public Health Service, the American Medical Association, the American Academy of Pediatrics, the American Academy of Family Physicians, the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., voluntary service groups and pharmaceutical companies.

The parents of a 7-year-old boy had raised him to this age and he had never said a word. They had taken him to doctors and medical people of various sorts and he had endured many tests on his vocal organs but still he never spoke a word. The doctors reported that he had normal intelligence and they were at a loss as to why he had not spoken.

One morning shortly after his 7th birthday his mother was cooking breakfast and happened to burn the toast quite badly. She was truly surprised beyond description when her 7-year-old son spat out a string of curse words that would put a mule skinner to shame. His mother was shocked but excited and pleased that he had at last talked. When she asked him why he had not talked before the son replied: "Up until now everything had gone fine and I had nothing to talk about. But now look what you have done to the toast!"

HAPPY SHOPPING

A few extra minutes invested in wise shopping will generally pay off in long-term product satisfaction says Janice L. Buckner, textiles and clothing specialist, University of Idaho cooperative extension service. Read consumer information in news papers, magazines and consumer guide books. Compare prices, general quality and operating policies of stores in your area.

Notice brand names. The better-known lines sometimes cost more but they may save you money in the long run. The extra cost often reflects extra product research, better quality and post-purchase responsibility. Check for merchandise guarantees. If the item does not live up to the guarantee, proof of purchase and the hangtag or label stating the guarantee will help you obtain a refund or garment replacement.

Watch for poor workmanship. Skipped or uneven stitches can mean the article will not last as long as it should. Seam allowances should be at least 1/4-inch for knits and 5/8-in. for woven fabrics. Test garments for their construction and durability. Zippers should open and close smoothly and lie flat with no bulges. Open and close snaps to see if they will work easily. If they're too tight, they may rip loose from the fabric. Pull gently at seams—they shouldn't stretch or pop open. If they do, report it to the sales clerk so a less observant customer won't buy the defective item. Examine buttons and buttonholes, they should match up. Frayed buttonholes get worse fast, crooked ones strain and bunch up the fabric. Better quality clothing has interfacing to add strength. Look for solid construction in children's clothes. Jeans and pants should be reinforced at the knee with material on the inside instead of outside patches which often become loose after few washings. Seams should be double or triple-stitched in stress areas.

Students Are Tutors
 Moscow—A tutorial program for elementary school students has been initiated by the University of Idaho College of Education this fall. Students majoring in elementary education and enrolled in Education 200 are serving as tutors for children attending West Park and Lena Whitmore elementary schools at Moscow. The tutors meet with their students a minimum of twice a week as part of the requirements for the education class. Activities during the tutoring sessions depend upon the child's needs, the teacher's objectives and the tutor's creativity, according to Dr. Maynard Yutzy, assistant professor of education and director of the colleges early childhood development program. Dr. Yutzy feels the tutoring program will be beneficial both to the education student and the elementary school child. Tutoring offers individual instruction for the child and also helps the education student gain communication and tutoring skills, he said. "The University of Idaho students are considered a human resource to help a classroom teacher individualize instruction," Dr. Yutzy explained. "The tutor comes to us with energy and motivation; the classroom teacher, along with the tutor, channels that energy and motivation to help a child continue with his normal growth and development. Eighteen students are tutoring at Lena Whitmore and 10 are serving as tutors at West Park. Among the Lena Whitmore tutors

Ten Placed On Jobs In Latah County

10 Latah County workers were placed on jobs through the Moscow office of the Idaho Department of Employment during the past week. Frank J. Hartstein, Moscow office manager reported that this was one less than the eleven placed during the same week a year ago, but far fewer than the 26 given job finding help during the previous week. Only 8 new jobs were listed with the office, he said, compared with 14 a week ago and 13 a year ago. At the end of the week 19 jobs were still open. Included in the vacant positions were three for television repairmen, one for a journeyman meat cutter, a carpenter, and farm workers, as well as secretaries, cooks and waitresses.

20 workers filed claims for unemployment insurance benefits during the week compared with 14 workers filing new claims during the previous week. The total number of persons seeking jobless pay at the end of the week was 222. This was down slightly from the 228 of a week ago, but continues to exceed the totals for a year ago, when there were only 128 persons in Latah county receiving benefit checks. 130 persons seeking benefits, 128 last week and 85 last year. In the Troy-Deary-Bovill area the total is now 46, down from last week's 50, but more than double last year's 19. 37 checks are going into the Potlatch area, compared with 40 last week and 16 during the same week in 1972. At Genesee the totals are 128, 7, 8, and 5 and at Kendrick there are now 2, last week 2 and last year 3. Hartstein predicted that there would be little change in the number of idled workers during the next few weeks but that later in the winter, weather conditions would cause increases comparable to previous year experiences.

People who have serious illnesses, such as severe lung disease, should take flu vaccines to ward off the virus.

Every day malnutrition in the world's developing countries kills or handicaps more children than all the man-made and natural catastrophes combined.

Dear Parent:
The Elementary School here at Juliaetta would like to try something new this year. We would like to schedule a Parent-Teacher Conference the first and third periods and issue report cards home at the end of the second and fourth periods. We would like to have both parents if possible, come for the conference.

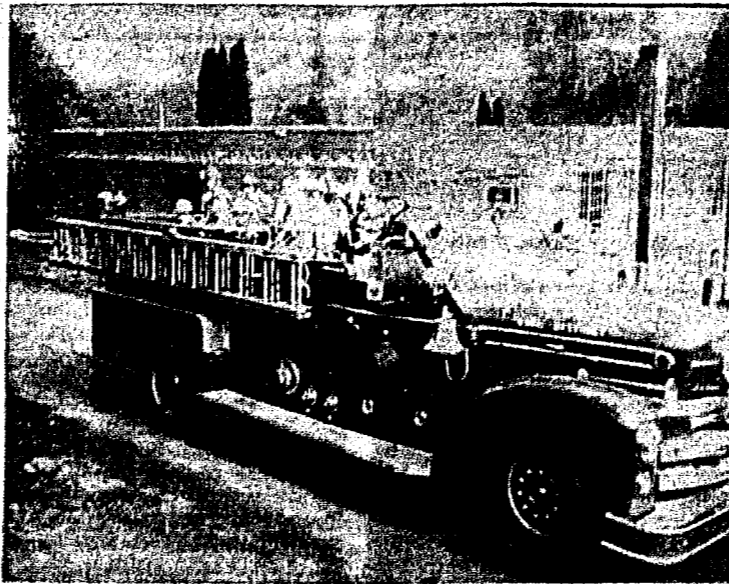

We feel that this could accomplish much more than just sending a report card home with the student at the end of each period. The teacher could show you what work is being done and also give you a better idea of how your child is progressing.

We would like to set the first conference for November 9, and the second conference for March 29. The Elementary students will not come to school on these days. This will provide the teacher the full day to schedule at time suitable to you. We also realize that it may be impossible for some of you to obtain baby sitters, so we will have a supervised room available where you may leave your child or children while in conference.

We will be sending home a form showing you the date and day of the conference plus the proposed time for your conference. If the proposed time does not agree with your schedule, please write a time when you feel you could schedule the conference and return the form so that the teacher may try to reschedule your conference.

1st Grade News
Last week was Fire Prevention Week. The children studied how to prevent fires. The children made fire cans. They were made from one-pound coffee cans, with soda inside. Mothers are to keep the fire cans beside their stove, just in case a fire starts.

Fire Chief Ted Groseclose brought the new Juliaetta fire truck to school for the children to see. He explained all the different parts of the fire truck; also explained how to use a fire extinguisher. The children also enjoyed a ride on the truck, with their Jr. Fire Marshal hats. The first grade says thank you, Mr. Groseclose. We enjoyed your visit and do come again.

The helpers for this week are Jay Hollingsworth and Patty Lohman. The children are studying long vowels and doing very well.

A new boy is welcomed to the First grade. He is John Warren and comes from Walla Walla, Wash.

Fourth Grade
Jamie Lohman is Student of the Week. She brought us a surprise, and won't tell us what it is. Teresa Howerton is Campbell captain. There is a little book in class that, we hope, will have everybody's name in it.

Thank you for all the people that helped because we have 208 labels

now. The Fourth grade class had their desks changed around. Mr. and Mrs. Manfull went to Seattle to take Joel to the doctor and we made cards for them.

Mrs. Plank's 4th grade group and five others are planning a surprise for us for Thursday. Miss Stefonek plays the guitar very well.

Veronica and Sharon's father, Rev. Ozier, let us borrow his moon to experiment with.

We made witches, cats, pumpkins out of construction paper. We used tissue paper for eyes, nose and mouth. Harvey is our pretend rabbit. We might lose him because a new 6th grader might need his desk.

Miss Stefonek read us a tall tale. It was very fun! Bronwyn Manfull brought chestnuts from Seattle. They are very good.

8th Grade News
In Fifth grade we are on multiplication in Math.

Let's stop into Soc. Study. In Soc. Study we're studying a new chapter the name is Spaniards Build Colonies in the new world.

Last week we all had a very well needed vacation. It was super.

Tuesday we got to pick in our own way of subjects.

We did Art Tuesday too. We made Halloween pictures.

Sixth Grade News
The Sixth grade has three new students. Their names are Brenda Browitt, Brian Browitt, and Kenny Warren. They came in Monday morning.

We are in decimals and multiplication and division fractions in Math.

In Language we are in N-V, N-LU-N, N-LU-Adj, N-V-N sentences.

In the Auction Sale, Mr. Jones is going to help us in square dancing.

The Sixth grade has 400 and some soup labels; and more coming in. We are the leaders so far.

SUPPLEMENTAL READING

Mrs. Plank
The students in the Fourth grade supplemental reading class are working on a short play to present to the rest of the Fourth grade this week. They have worked very seriously to have it ready by our deadline. Even though they are working hard to learn their lines they are enjoying the preparation and are eager to present it.

This type of experience may seem very small and unimportant, but these students, for the most part, have already developed a negative attitude toward reading. One of the major goals of this reading program is not only to improve reading abilities but reading attitudes as well. Doing this thing, the students enjoy and can have some success experiences throughout in one way we plan to develop more positive attitudes toward reading.

Parents of the children involved will be notified as soon as possible of a definite meeting date of the Parent-Teacher Council. Notes will be sent home with the children involved. Parents, the council is very important to our program. I am looking forward to meeting all of you.

By 1980, unless present trends are reversed, 320 million adult illiterates are predicted for the world. UNICEF is exploring non-formal, out-of-school channels for education to reach functionally illiterate youths beyond school age.

AVOID WINTER TRAGEDY
Tragedies of one type or another occur every winter because furnaces and other heating systems have not been checked before temperatures plunge.

Here are a number of points that homeowners using solid or liquid fuel systems should watch.

Danger signals include soot formulation, frequent stopping and starting of automatic controls, an abnormal flame, clogged filters or smoke. Dying plants or pets such as canaries may indicate a gas or fume leak.

Improper combustion of any fuel can produce soot and carbon monoxide gas. If the burner element is producing smoke it is not burning properly and is in need of adjustment.

Most gas and oil furnaces have safety controls on them. Make certain these are working properly. Suspect trouble if the appearance of the flame changes when the fan turns on, for example.

Check the draft control mechanism for lint or rust. Lint often gathers at the air intake vent. This can alter the air-fuel mixture that is so important for efficient flame.

Is the furnace enclosed in a small room? If so, there is a chance that it may not be getting enough oxygen. This often happens in remodeled basements where the furnace has been enclosed in a very small area.

Keep filters clean. A dirty air filter prevents heat from circulating thru the house. This can actually multiply the cost of the fuel bill.
