Juliaetta School Staff Appreciative of Parent-Teacher Conf.

It was a most gratifying experience for us to be a part of the Parent-Teacher conference held on Nov. 9. The effort put forth to try and stay on schedule, the understanding, openness and positive attitude displayed by all of you was and is appreciated by all of us at the elementary school. We believe we have made tremendous gains in closing the communication gap between parents and teachers which sometime occurs when letter grades are sent home.

There were only three parents that were unable to make the conference. This alone shows the interest in our school and the cooperation given us by the parents. These are a few of the reasons it is a pleasure to work for and serve the members of this community.

It is estimated by warehousemen that there is something over 270,000 bushels of wheat stored in local ware houses and an estimated 15,000 bushels still held on the farms.

The State Relief committee, in a resolution made public, has affirmed its approval of the 30 cents an hour minimum wage paid by the county committees from funds available through federal, state, and local re-sources. This, the committee said, is in conformity with regulations set up by the relief administration. The statement continues, "Men receiving this pay are on relief lists. They are entitled to an amount ranging from $12 to $20 a month. They are required, where able to work, to work for this amount and as soon as they earn it they are not to work any longer. Thanksgiving Day By Ted Rossiter The turkey is nice and hot, The potatoes are in the pct. The cranberries are nice and red, And there is plenty of bread.

We are all ready to eat, Oh, but first we must meet and our thanks we give, for the life we live.

The cheeks are red, everyone's fed. Soon it's time to go, and home we go slow.

What Thanksgiving Means To Me By Gregory Harris I can't take time to make this rhyme and live happlier ever after.

meeting Thursday. It was held at the Latah Grain Growers Auditorium. There is a search for four Lester Wallace were Mr. and Mrs. Latah County Wheatgrowers to attend the State Wheatgrowers Convention in Boise on November 27-29. Expenses up to $75 for the four delegates will be paid.

The election of four directors was held. Lee Hawley, Viola community; Rich Koster, Moscow; Dale Iverson, Blaine area; and Dick Drury, Deary, were elected. They replace Ron Morton, Clint Lyons, Gordon Iverson and Don Johnson.

The insurance sponsored by the Wheatgrowers is still covering about 20 families according to Bill Moser, representative from Lewiston.

The proposed raising of the wheat tax for commission use from 1/2c to 1c per bushel was discussed with the resolution to do so only if Washington and neighboring wheat states raise theirs. Washington now has one-fourth cent tax. The increase has to be approved in the State Legislature.

Clarence Seely, U. of I. agrono-mist, spoke on weed control. He said he had no doubts that weed growth next spring would be heavy. Early control will be very worthwhile with wheat even close to present prices.

Dr. Warren Pope, U. of I. wheat breeder, spoke on his work. Plots on David Crocker and son Steve of a new white wheat are out to test Lewiston spent the weekend with it for possible release. Pope is finding winter hardiness, disease resist-ance and yield potential in his new wheat.

The Association is going to assemble some information on the use of commission funds and the support given to wheat breeding in northern Idaho. A directors' meeting is sched-
