FISH-GAME COMMISSION TO SET OPENING DATES

A public hearing will be held in Boise the afternoon of January 25 as part of the regular quarterly meeting of the Idaho Fish and Game Commission. The Commission will discuss opening dates for big game hunting seasons and related matters, it was announced today.

Public participation concerning fish and game matters is invited, according to Director Joseph C. Greenley, adding that the public hearing is a regular feature of Commission meetings.

The practice of establishing opening dates for big game hunting seasons in January was adopted several years ago to help sportsmen, outfit ters and others to plan ahead. Closing dates and regulation details for the 1974 big game hunting seasons will be acted on at the May Commission meeting.

The installation of non-radial snow tires on vehicles equipped with radial ply tires can be dangerous warns the Idaho Traffic Safety Commission. The mixing of radial ply tires and blas or belted tires often changes the vehicle's handling characterics to an unstable condition, which can cause wandering and fishtailing.

The Idaho Traffic Safety Commis-sion stresses the following precautions and guidelines when purchasing deep-tread, winter type tires (snow treads) for your car.

1. Follow the recommendation of the automobile manufacturer in the owner's manual or a reputable tire service store or dealer.

2. If your care is equipped with radial ply tires, it is essential that radial ply constructed snow tread be purchased, Radial ply tires should NEVER be mixed with bias or beltedhias constructed tires. Many motorists consider radial tires to be equal in traction to snow tires in snow or icy enditions. Motorists should carefully analyze their driving requirements in determining the type of tires to select for winter

Equality for women was at least partly recognized back in settler times. The pioneer mother shared hour-for-hour in the exhausting work.

Before killing frost they were storing the spuds and onlons or whatever they had in dugout cellars. Putting down salt pork or beef in brine barrels was tiring, messy work, but the family was mighty thankful for it as winter wore on. Gourmet dining? No, but it kept them alive. Nobody wasted a bite and the family was thankful for mother's providence.

Her appalling burdens have been lightened greatly now thanks to work saving and comfort giving home appliances, but it takes energy to run them, and like the storehouse on the homestead energy supplies have to be replenished.

Here at The Washington Water Power Company we think that if everyone cooperates and nobody wastes, there will be enough to meet the need.

County Job Situation

Remains Stable

Little change was noted in Latah county's employment picture during the past week. Frank J. Hartstein, Moscow office manager for the Idaho Department of Employment said that his office had found work for 6 county residents during the week, compared with 8 during the previous week and 7 during the first week of 1973. He indicated that there were 14 jobs still open, a week ago there were 15, and a year ago 18. Jobs available were either for skilledtrained workers, or for domestic service workers both of which are some what scarce at this time. The number of persons throughout the county seeking unemployment insurance rose slightly, from last weeks 424 to the current 446. Construction workers filed many of the 57 new claims, but others were filed by newcomers into the area sawmill workers from two area mills and a sprinkling of retail trades workers. A year ago there were 361 persons seeking jobless pay in the county.
