

Two Television Networks Visit Kendrick To Film "School of Country Living"

Betty Ann Bowser, CBS reporter and interviewer, chats with Carla Emery at the Livingroom Mimeographer Monday afternoon while the camera crew works in another section. Here Carla, the author of the recipe book and creator of the School of Country Living, is showing Ms. Bowser a map of the United States with colored pins indicating all the areas where her now famous book has found customers.

A cameraman and sound technician pause briefly Monday afternoon at the Livingroom Mimeographer where they have been filming the work operations of publishing "The Old Fashioned Recipe Book." Both of these men were part of a news team from CBS's Los Angeles news staff.

National television system crews abounded in Kendrick the past two weeks and national circulation magazine writers were present for interviews and pictures, all drawn to cover the opening and operation of Carla Emery's "School of Country Living" which began June 30.

Interviews and taking pictures of the operation of the Livingroom Mimeographer and at the school, located between Kendrick and Juliaetta. According to latest reports, this film will be shown Friday, August 1, on ABC between 7 and 8 a.m.

Two reporters from Newsweek magazine were in Kendrick early this month and the article appeared in last week's issue of the magazine. Shortly after this a crew from ABC's "AM America" morning news show was in Kendrick for two days filming

A CBS news team from Los Angeles arrived in Kendrick Monday afternoon to begin filming its story coverage. This team was headed by producer John Harris, writer Betty Ann Bowser, a sound technician and a cameraman. Ms. Bowser told the Gazette she didn't know just when her story and film would be used or on what CBS program it would be shown. She said the CBS team was sent up to Kendrick on assignment because of the Newsweek story.

Latah County Native, Minnie Noble, Dies July 24

Minnie Noble, 68, a native of Juliaetta and a resident of the Lewiston area most of her life, died of the infirmities of age Thursday morning at a Spokane rest home. She had been ill for some time.

The CBS crew filmed at the Mimeographer Monday afternoon and were out at the school Tuesday.

She was born Oct. 5, 1886, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Florin Schupfer. She attended school at Juliaetta and grew to womanhood here.

Despite its shaky start, it was reported this week that "The School of Country Living" now has a population of between 65 to 75 persons, including instructors and students. Some of the students are staying at the local hotel, some are commuting from Moscow and Lewiston and some, apparently the instructors, are living at the school.

During her years at Juliaetta she married Charles E. Noble. He died in 1937.

A variety of courses are now being offered ranging from harnessing a team, beekeeping and rabbit butchering to spinning and weaving classes. Goat and cow milking classes are also offered.

In 1945 she moved with Noble to the Deary-Avon area, where she lived until moving to Spokane in 1972.

Monday at Brower-Wann Chapel at Lewiston with Rev. Theo Mesike officiating. Burial was at the Juliaetta City Cemetery.

She was a member of the Cameron Lutheran Church.

Surviving are a daughter, Harriet L. Martin, Spokane; a son, Charles Noble, and a sister, Fannie Hedler, both of Juliaetta, three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held at 10 a.m.

Lloyd Craig Asks for Public Opinion On Subject of Public Transportation

(Editor's Note—Lloyd Craig, who was instrumental in establishing a free bus service for senior citizens and handicapped persons in the area some months ago, is now seeking to determine if the present service is adequate and meets the needs of the people it was designed to serve. He has written the following article asking for public opinion.)

It remains for the return trip home. Help is given with all packages and also to all older people who need it. The bus is in Lewiston about four hours. Help is also available for the handicapped who have no escort with them, as much as possible.

Public transportation. Do the people want it? What kind? Where to? —I would like to know so I can provide more, or different types.

Once each month, on the second Tuesday, a run is made from Juliaetta to Moscow. The run begins at Juliaetta about 8:45 and arrives in Moscow about 10:20—staying there four hours. Stops are made at all towns along the route. Stops will be made at all banks in any of the towns if passengers wish. The Moscow doctors will see any senior citizens on those Tuesdays if the persons will call in advance. Stops are also made at the hospital, hotel and court house. There are people there who will help with packages and help on the way home.

The Idaho Office on Aging is now running two buses a month through Kendrick — one to Moscow and one to Lewiston. We have 5 to 10 people on each bus from Juliaetta; 1 and sometimes none from Kendrick; 2 to 5 from Deary; 5 to 15 from Troy and 1 to 5 pickups in between.

Please write me and let me know what your wishes are—if the people do not use this service, we cannot keep it going. If the towns on the routes do not want this service we will discontinue it. Or, if you want more, or better service, I will do my best to provide it. I cannot work on this project if I do not know what the people want.

On the fourth Thursday of each month a bus will go to Lewiston—stopping at all towns along the way. It will also stop at fruit stands on the route, if the people want. The bus stops at the Senior Citizen Center in Lewiston, the Bon Marche, the hospital and clinic on normal hill and then to the shopping center. There

"Through Gates of Splendor" Film to Be Shown at Assembly of God Church August 3

The film, "Through Gates of Splendor," which depicts the story of five young missionaries who died at the hands of the savage Aucas Indians in Ecuador, will be shown at Kendrick Assembly of God Church August 3, at 7:30 p.m. Peoples announced this this week.

This is the authentic filmed story which stirred millions as it appeared in Life, Reader's Digest, and the six books of the subject, and as it was reported over radio and television networks.

Much of the picture was photographed by the men themselves shortly before they were killed. Seen in the film in addition to the five men and their wives are Aucas — "George," "Deilah," Dayana — and Rachel Saint, Betty Elliot and her daughter, Valerie, now living with the Aucas killers.

There are scenes of Nate Saint's little airplane executing the amazing bucket drop, landing on the incredibly short sandbar which the men called "Palm Beach," the tree house, the ingenuity, the careful and dedicated preparation, the failure and subsequent victory as the two women were permitted to enter where the men were not.

Produced for the Aucas Missionary Foundation, narrated by Betty Elliot, from whose books, "Through Gates of Splendor" and "The Savage, My Kinsman", the story was taken, this is one of the most remarkable missionary films ever made.

The Church invites everyone to come see this film.

Tammy Armitage Returns From FHA Leadership Meeting in Washington, DC

Tammy Armitage, a junior at Kendrick High School, has just returned from Washington, D. C., where she attended the National Leadership Meeting of Future Homemakers of America at the Washington Hilton Hotel, July 4 through 7. Tammy, a member of the Kendrick FHA chapter, is also District II President and a vice-president of the Idaho State FHA Association. She was selected as one of sixteen home economic students in the state as an official delegate to the meeting. The 1800 youth delegates represented a national membership of half a million.

The meeting theme was "A Past to Honor — A Future to Mold". Tammy reported, "to promote growth within ourselves, our organization and our country." During her four days at the national meeting she was trained in numerous leadership activities to help her operate more effectively as an FHA officer on district and state levels during the coming year.

Since this is the 30th Anniversary year for the Future Homemakers of America, as well as the 200th Anniversary year for the United States, it was an exciting and important time to be in Washington, D. C. The Idaho delegates visited Capitol Hill and met with Senator Church, Senator McClure and Congressman George Hanson. Other highlights included attending a ballet at the Kennedy Center, touring Gettysburg, Mount Vernon, the White House, Arlington National Cemetery and many other interesting sights in the area.

"As a delegate representing Kendrick, it was a wonderful experience and a great honor for me to attend the National Meeting and I am grateful for having been given this opportunity," reported Tammy. "I'd also like to thank the Kendrick FHA chapter for their financial aid and moral support."

Tammy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arlie Armitage.

Heavy Rains Halt Pea Harvest

Moderate rains Monday evening and early Tuesday morning offered the region at least temporary relief from a heat wave that had pushed the mercury up above 100-degrees over the weekend. While the lower temperatures were welcome, the rain did bring a halt to the pea harvest in both the Genesee and Kendrick areas.

Leonard Singhose, manager of Ag-grow Seed Co. in Genesee said that branch had started taking in seed peas over a week ago from the Rimrock area. Quality was variable, Len said, ranging from good to poor. Yields were running about normal. The pea harvest started about ten days later than normal in the Genesee area. The heat wave over the Fourth of July was blamed for the lower quality of the seed. Singhose estimated that only about 10 percent of expected production has come in and that it would be at least ten days before the peak of the harvest was reached, barring any inclement weather.

Genesee Union took its first peas of the season into its warehouses Monday, July 21, as assistant manager Mike Martinez said the 1975 harvest was off to a "sputtering start." The rain Monday night and Tuesday morning stopped cutting operations. Martinez said small sieve Alaskas were about all that had come in, although there was one lot of regulars. The peas were coming in from Clarence and Thor Gilje, Zenger Bros., Odbergs, Baldus and Hobbens, all from the Rim area. Some of the quality of the peas were poor, Martinez said, reflecting the effects of the early July heat wave. Mike said roughly 660 tons of peas had come into the warehouse up until Tuesday morning. Yields have been better than was first expected, he added.

Only Brocke and Sons in Kendrick have taken in peas down in the valley, as both Kendrick Rochdale and Lewiston Grain Growers indicated they had not yet received any of the 1975 pea harvest.

The Wegner Bros. up in the Cameron area were the first in the area to start cutting. Both small sieve Alaskas and Austrian peas came into Brocke and Sons last Friday.

While the quality of peas harvested in Genesee appeared to be down, this was not the case with Brocke's. George Brocke said Tuesday morning that the quality of peas thus far had been very good, although it was still too early to determine how the crops are yielding.

Fourth Parks-Platt Reunion Draws 42

Though attendance was down, the 42 Parks and Platt family members and friends who met for pot luck and camaraderie at Spalding Park on July 20 reported an even better time than in past years. The cooler day, and lessened dust due to grassing of the adjacent parking area, played some part in the added enjoyment.
 A short history of Gray Eagle School, recently compiled by Lola Clyde from reminiscences sent in by former pupils and teachers, was distributed to all interested persons. The school district, 6 miles east of Genesee, is where both the Platt and Parks families farmed in the horse-power days of 1917-1928. The school history therefore was familiar material for most of the older generation in attendance.
 The roster of former teachers included several well-known local names, beginning with its founder, Christian Wahl, thought to have established the school in the early 1880s. Margaret McCallie Moore, who taught there in 1890, was 15 years old and herself still in the 8th grade at the time. She went on to graduate in the first class at the University of Idaho, and to be the first Alumni Secretary. In 1896 the teacher was Mary McFarland, who became Mrs. Sherman Wahl, mother of Tom Wahl, a pupil of 1920-25 period, who traced most of the early history of the school.
 The first of four successive Gray Eagle school houses "stood in the draw a little south of the NW corner of the original Charles H. Spurbeck homestead," Wahl reports. At a later location, Ethel Fields Schooler, (cousin of Eugene Fields) taught in about 1915. At the final location, Lillian Otteson of Juliaetta taught in 1920.
 Lola Gamble Clyde, who taught 30 pupils in grades 1 through 9 at Gray Eagle in 1921-22, was the only former teacher of that school present for the reunion. Sharing reminiscences with her, however, was Ebba Swanson Gahrke, her contemporary at Pine Grove School, in the next district north of Gray Eagle.
 Others present were: Mr. and Mrs. Glen Brazier, Genesee; Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Caldwell, Modesto, Calif., and grandsons, Gary and Steve Hattendorf; Earl Clyde, Moscow; Joe and Marguerite Spurbeck Doyle, Genesee; Mrs. Lorene Platt Gilson, Culdesac; Mr. and Mrs. John Hickman, Genesee; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Jain, Lapwai; Mr. and Mrs. Don Jain, Bovill; Earnest Katsel, Waitsburg; Mrs. Gladys Jain Magee, Lewiston; Walter Onjle, Culdesac; Mr. and Mrs. Duane Parks, Coeur d'Alene; Robert and Mabel Harms Parks, Milton-Freewater; Theodore and Gladys Harms Parks, Walla Walla; Mr. Tom Parks, Portland; Mr. Tom Parks, II, College Place; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth B. Platt, Moscow; Ann Luvaas (Mrs. Tom) Platt, Juliaetta; Don and Frances Platt Spreiter, Julietta; Mr. Shaun Sullivan, Trinidad, Colorado; Ray and Blanche Hermann Trautman, Genesee; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Vandenburg, Orofino; Mrs. Grace Jain Wicks, Moscow.
 Old timers will remember that "Connie" Caldwell is the son of former Genesee constable Ben Caldwell and Emma Steltz Caldwell, who moved from Genesee to Walla Walla in 1924. Leonard Vandenburg is a son of the former Dick Vandenburgs of Genesee. Shaun Sullivan is a grandson of Earl and Lola Clyde.

Your Game Dept. Flood Subsides

By Royce Williams
 Idaho Dept. of Fish & Game
 The water in Rapid River still is a little cloudy from the July 11 flood, but it appears very few chinook salmon in the Rapid River hatchery were lost.
 The trap downstream from the hatchery was cleaned out and reopened five days after the flood hit. The next day 130 fish moved into the trap. These fish did show signs of damage, indicating most of the losses were in Rapid River itself. An average of about 80 fish per day have been returning since the trap reopened, and these fish are in good condition.
 Estimates now are that about 30 chinook were lost in the river when the flash flood brought tons of mud and debris off Pollock Mountain and down the river.
 Tests made on fingerlings in the hatchery ponds show the young salmon are lively and in good condition. All of our losses so far have been in the river itself, Walt Bethke, fish hatcheries supervisor said. "There have not been any more than normal losses at the hatchery," he said.
 To date this year, 4,752 chinook have returned to the Rapid River hatchery, an indication of that hatchery's importance to the state's salmon runs. This is 27 percent of the spring chinook over Lower Granite Dam.

Selway Cutthroat

Finding out as much as possible about one of the few wild cutthroat populations left in the state is the job of two biologists who spent two days each week fishing and talking to fishermen on the Selway River near Moose Creek.
 The biologists are catching cutthroat and releasing them after metal rings are clipped to the fishes' jaws. Fishermen also are being asked what they think about the 3-fish limit on cutthroat and how they rate the fishing in the wild river.
 Wild cutthroat in rivers can easily be overharvested and this summer's work will tell the department more about fishing pressure and the harvest of Selway cutthroat. It will also make clearer the distribution and condition of the river's fish.
 The study began in 1973 as a side-light to salmon and steelhead study, but expanded in 1974 when biologists put on snorkel gear and watched the fish from underwater.
 Plans are to expand the study next year to cover the upper Selway above Magruder Ranger station and some tributary streams not covered by this year's study.
Return Jaw Tags
 Fishermen who find a metal ring in the jaw of a fish they catch are asked to return the ring to the department.
 Several research projects are underway across the state in which metal rings stamped with numbers and the initials IFG are used. Returning these rings will give biologists important information of fish movement.

 It is bonus information when the angler jots down the date and place where the tagged fish was caught. The tags may be mailed to the department headquarters office in Boise or to any of the six regional offices.

Vacuum Bottles and Care
 Summer and vacuum bottles go together, observes the Idaho Medical Association.
 These containers are a boon at the beach, boating or at a picnic. The increasingly popular, and more expensive stainless steel models can accept rougher treatment, but the glass lined models require tender care.
 Metal utensils or wire bottle brushes can scratch or break glass liners. Use plastic utensils.
 Do not carry carbonated beverages in vacuum bottles. Pressure can build up inside the bottle as the released dioxide expands.
 Do not create temperature extremes by washing the bottle in hot water, then immediately filling it with cold liquid. Do not put ice cubes directly into a bottle, pour the liquid first, then add ice.
 Do not eat or drink directly from the bottle and never wash it in an automatic dishwasher.

"HOME CANNING COOK BOOK"

Preserving food has been a problem for man from the earliest times. If he lived in the arctic, he could freeze it. If he lived in the desert he could dry it. And, if he lived near the ocean, he could pickle it in salt water. Otherwise, he ate as much as he could before it spoiled.

In this book — the editors have detailed in up-to-the-minute, simple to follow instructions — how to can and freeze almost everything and how to make jellies and pickles.

You'll also come across helpful "tip boxes", and as a plus, recipes that have been specially developed to utilize home-canned ingredients.

So, for any homemaker who wants to enjoy her favorite fruits, vegetables and meats year round, "HOME CANNING COOK BOOK" is a must.

Extension Nutritionist Offers Alternatives to Home Canning

by Barbara Petura, US News Bureau

When University of Idaho extension nutritionist Esther Wilson took her job 2 years ago, she had few requests for home canning information.

Now, in 1975, she is answering daily telephone calls and letters from Idaho consumers and the home economists with the UI Cooperative Extension Service who want to know if the supply of canning lids is going to improve—and, if it doesn't, what else can be done to preserve the fruit and vegetables they have grown. She is also answering letters referred to her by Sen. Frank Church, who has been bombarded with letters from upset citizens.

"One answer to the shortage of replacement lids is to purchase the complete unit of jar, ring and lid," said Mrs. Wilson, who noted, however, that many consumers need only the replacement lids and are complaining to their congressmen and others that they are being forced by the companies to buy the more expensive 3-part unit.

Freezing is a major alternative to canning and is a favored preservation method when she came to the extension service. "Now people may be trying to preserve more food and there isn't enough room for it all in their home freezers," she said.

Fruit for jams can easily be frozen at harvest time for preparation later, possibly when the supply of lids increases, Mrs. Wilson suggested. "Actually I urge people to freeze fruit and make jam as they need it so they don't make too much."

A substantial seal for jelly is a layer of paraffin but only for jelly. Canning safety experts advise that jams and marmalades should be processed in a water bath in jars with rings and lids, Mrs. Wilson said.

Daily Baths for Kids

Daily baths for kids can help stave off infections which can develop from mosquito bites and cuts or bruises, suggests the Idaho Medical Ass'n.

Regular contact with soap and water also provides protection against strep skin infections that can be picked up in crowded swimming pools.

During the bath, parent or child should look for ticks. Tick fever is on the increase. For the same reason do not allow pets to sleep in a child's room.

Now is a good time to make sure that children are protected against tetanus or lockjaw. Immunization provides excellent protection.

Drying fruits and vegetables is another alternative method of food preparation. "Onions and peppers used primarily as seasoning ingredients are especially good dried," said Mrs. Wilson, who noted that fruits such as apples, peaches, prunes and apricots take well to drying.

Mrs. Wilson does not see the canning lid shortage as a permanent problem, in part because of the current gardening boom may well be a temporary phenomenon. She says vegetable gardening usually increases when the country faces economic problems.

"When people find out how much work it is to garden and preserve food, they will likely want to do it less. I had a friend who had a very large garden several years ago. He encountered cabbage worms and tomato bugs and other gardening problems, and this year his garden is 1/3 the size."

But for this year, Mrs. Wilson suggest that gardeners with a big harvest of food coming on should talk with the extension home economist in their county to obtain information on canning, freezing and drying as well as other preservation methods. Pamphlets on safe preservation methods are also available at extension offices throughout Idaho.

Job Placements Rise Sharply in County

Job opportunities in the Moscow area have shown a dramatic increase over last week's, according to Frank Hartstein, Moscow office manager for the Idaho Department of Employment.

Hartstein said that his office received 40 new positions, compared with 17 last week and 29 a year ago. Haying is now in full swing and many lay-hands are being hired, as well as a few combine drivers. There have been 28 persons placed this week, with 54 jobs still available at the close of this week. Still needed are secretaries, bookkeepers, cafe and domestic workers, technical workers, and experienced loggers and construction workers.

Although only 31 persons filed new claims for unemployment insurance this week, the total still remains at 400 as compared with 405 last week. Last year there were only 25 persons filing claims. Some of the increase is due to the various special programs offered, by all states, and to the usual change of residence, etc. In the immediate Moscow area the total now stands at 250, compared with 254 last week and 151 a year ago. In the Troy-Deary-Bovill area, the total declined only slightly to 73 from 75 which is more than double last year. At Pocatello, the total is almost identical at 50, 51 last week and 25 a year ago. At Genesee, the totals stand at 8, 7 and 11, while the Kendrick area the total remains at 19, 18, and 5.

Three Sets of Tonsils

The tonsils are spongy, glandular tissues located at the back of the throat and behind the nose.

Actually, there are three sets of tonsils, the Idaho Medical Association points out: the throat tonsils, the linguals, and the adenoids. The first two sets are referred to as "the tonsils" and the third set as "the adenoids."

Tonsils and adenoids provide a defense against infections that invade the body through the nose and mouth. They are part of the lymphatic system, the cells of which attack and engulf bacteria.

Tonsillitis is an infection of the tonsils that results in swelling and inflammation, pain and soreness, difficulty in breathing and swallowing, enlargement of the lymph glands, fever, rapid pulse and general illness.

A few decades ago tonsillitis was difficult to control, but with today's antibiotics many infections respond to treatment within a few days.

Repeated infections may result in permanent damage to the tonsils. Then they cease to be protective and become instead a source of chronic infection. Then a tonsillectomy is necessary.

Persistently enlarged and infected adenoids can lead to chronic middle ear infection or accumulation of fluid in the middle ear impairing hearing. Sometimes these conditions can be corrected only by removal of the adenoids.

A tonsillectomy and adenoidectomy is among the most commonly performed and safest surgical procedures. It provides no guarantee against future colds and throat infections.

Mrs. Ernest Steigers

Bridal Shower

A bridal shower honoring Cathy English, bride-elect of Jim Miller of Lewiston, was held Friday evening, June 25, at the Cottonwood Creek Community Church. Cathy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard English, Lenore, and Jim is a great nephew of Mrs. Newt Heath. Between 70 to 100 guests were present for the lovely affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Hoisington and Mr. and Mrs. Skip Koopp spent the weekend at Dworshak Reservoir. Little Chantell Hoisington celebrated her fourth birthday on Tuesday, July 22, with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Weyen, present for the Big Event at the home of Chantell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Hoisington.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Steigers were Sunday guests in the home of her mother, Mrs. Albert Heimgartner. Many sources of "news" were in their gardens, gathering beans, on Monday a.m.

The Clearwater River this last week reached the point where the irrigation pump could be installed for the Steigers and Curtis residents. The gardens and lawns appreciate this immensely! A large new storage tank for spring water storage was also erected above the old "Grandpa Steigers" home.

A large "swamp-cooler" is helping "beat the heat" at the E. Steigers home, through the efforts of their grandson, young Bill, who came on Sunday afternoon, after a weekend beach party on the Snake. The long cool nap in its soothing breeze helped repay him for all his efforts in his grandparents' behalf.

Brief stops in their home by the Ken Steigers family and guest, Terri Webster of Weippe; Jim Steigers their hayhand; Grant Hatch, young Musselahell Forest employee and Ed Ranta and sons, broke any monotony of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Steigers, as invited guests of the Washington State Fiddlers, spent a pleasant Friday evening in Clarkston Heights at the Gilbert Jeffrey home. A potluck picnic supper, with fried chicken and watermelon furnished by that group, followed the usual music, on the spacious lawn, was much enjoyed!

Following a hot late afternoon trip to Winchester Park on Saturday, a campout potluck supper was enjoyed there by Idaho Dist. 11 fiddlers who played in the state park amphitheatre until darkness closed in. The rustic benches were filled with park campers who were delighted with that evening's entertainment. Various programs are held there to express the hospitality of the State for the visiting tourists and other users of the park. "Nellie" took to her bed to recuperate, on Sunday!

Weekend Guests Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Heimgartner, daughter Shelley and son Greg from Post Falls, spent the past weekend in the Roy Heimgartner home. Other weekend guests were the Lee Heimgartner family of Lapwai.

On Tuesday evening, July 22, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Heath of Nezperce, were supper guests in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Newt Heath. Wednesday afternoon was spent with her parents by Mrs. Inez Inghram of Winchester. Saturday afternoon guests were Mrs. Ada Klingher and daughter Linda, plus Linda's three children, all of Pierce.

Mrs. Merle Cooper of Lewiston was the only Sunday guest of Helena Brown at Pinecreek. On Monday A.M. July 28, Helen accompanied her daughter, Carol Richardson, and two girls, Noelle and Rena, Orofino residents, on a trip to Lewiston. Grandma Lena Zunhofe and other house guests departed homeward last Thursday morning after an extended and enjoyable visit in our area. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Shaw and family, Elaine Heimgartner and "Grandma" were in the group, with Mt. Home their final destination.

Mrs. Marjory Stevens, Gertrude Heimgartner, Erma Stevens and Ruth Heimgartner attended the bridal shower held for Cathy English, to represent our community.
