In the meantime the Latah County Deputy had seen the flames and turned in the alarm.

Juliaetta Council Reminds Animal Owners of Ordinances

Notice to owners of property including, but not limited to livestock, chickens and dogs.

There are certain ordinances in the City of Juliaetta regulating the manner this type of personal property must be handled and maintained within the city limits.

In order that peace and harmony be kept between neighbors and residents, it is in the best interest that these ordinances be obeyed.

The ordinances are kept in the City Hall. The city clerk will be happy to show them to anyone requesting the specific details of said ordinances.

In general, they require complete control at all times of such property that may cause discomfort or injury to another's property or person. They must be under complete control of the owner or handler at all times. As an example, a dog must be on a leash held in the hand of controller when not on owner's property. This does not mean running at large.

City officials are oath-bound to enforce these ordinances. We ask your cooperation in seeing these ordinances obeyed. It will be much easier than issuing warrants for the arrest of violators.

Mrs. Wilson was born March 1, 1870, at Mazonow, Pennsylvania, the daughter of David and Mary (Stahl) Mason. She came to the Genesee area in 1900 staying with relatives who were homesteading near the Lewiston Hill.

It was shortly thereafter that she met a Genesee farmer, Milton Wilson and the two were married in Genesee October 28, 1903. The couple set up housekeeping on the old Church place which is now owned and farmed by Jim Busch, and then in 1912 they bought the Charles Spurbeck farm house east of town where their son Lloyd now lives. She continued to stay on at the farm for several years and then purchased a home in the east part of Genesee where she lived until 1955 when she built a new home one block north of Main Street.

Mrs. Wilson's life centered around her family and her church, The Genesee Community Church. She was an active member of the church since its organization and also was active in the Women's Fellowship. Rev. Mel-ford Knight, a former pastor, made his home with Mrs. Wilson for many years.

Time is 6:30 and a program will follow supper.

She was the mother of two sons, Frank H. Wilson, who owned and operated Wilson's Drug Store until his death in 1967, and Lloyd, who farms east of Genesee. Other survivors are four grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

A Farewell to Happie It is difficult to accept the fact that Mrs. Wilson is gone, even though she had lived in the nursing home for the past 16 years, those who knew her and had felt the strength of her character and charm just somehow seemed to assume that "Happie is just over to Moscow for a while and will be back soon." At least that was the case for myself, for I had been her neighbor for several years.

She was really a remarkable lady and, to use a much overused term, to know her was to love her. She was well past 80 when she built the house close to town and she took as much pride and interest in it as a young girl. She worked in the yard and her small flower garden each day the weather and seasons would permit and even would attempt to mow her yard if someone wasn't there to take over the job. She fell and broke her hip the first time while moving garden hose while watering her lawn. A lot of the time she'd get upset with you if you tried to do too much for her or if someone told her "maybe you'd better not do that, Mrs. Wilson."

A flood of memories come back when you think of Mrs. Wilson. I could never bring myself to call her "Happie" . . . I remember the old 1935 Plymouth coupe she drove until about 1955 when her eyesight became too poor. The town breathed a sigh of relief when she gave up driving; she respected very few stop signs and absolutely no curbs. You just saw her coming and reacted accordingly. She was always keenly interested in what went on in both the town and the world and she'd often stop me on my way home to talk about everything from the high school ball team to politics. That was another remarkable trait of her's, she never lived in the past as so many older people do, she always had ideas about the present and plans for the future.

But maybe the remembrance of Mrs. Wilson that will always remain with me and was typical of what kind of person she really was, concerned a big, worthless stray dog that came around the house one day. Animals often seem to have this instinctive ability to discover good, kindly people, and the dog recognized this quality in Mrs. Wilson, who promptly named him "Hobo" and cared and loved him as she did all of God's creatures. In turn, this animal reacted to Happie Wilson as everyone else did, he loved and respected her. Old "Hobo" is gone and now so is Mrs. Wilson. But the love those remaining have for her and her memory will be with us for a long, long time.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 2:00 p. m. from the Community church with the Rev. Bryce McProud officiating.

Larry Gee, soloist will sing, "Crossing the Bar" and "It Is No Secret," accompanied by organist, Charlotte Johnson.

Pallbearers will be Kenneth Aherin, Thor Gilje, Everett Wishard, Glen Brazier, Chester Qualey, and John Baldus.

Honorary: Wayne Hampton, Elmer Kraut, Ernest Qualey, Henry Schlue-ter, Michael Dwyer, Ed Bielenberg, Lloyd Esser, Gene Grieser, Wm. A. Roth, Dan Aherin, Wayne Roach, and Don Jain, of Bovill.

Burial in Genesee City cemetery. Shorts of Moscow are in charge of the arrangements.

Genesee Medical-Dental Meeting Saturday, Feb. 28

The possibility of obtaining a nurse-practitioner to reopen the Genesee Medical Building will be one of the items discussed at the forthcoming meeting of the Genesee Medical-Dental Association Saturday afternoon in the Fire Hall at 2:00 p.m. Although this is the annual meeting of the organization, the public is both encouraged and urged to attend because of the importance of the subjects.

The use of a nurse-practitioner to reopen the clinic is one of the suggestions to give the community of Genesee some type of medical service. A nurse-practitioner is trained to a higher degree than the average registered nurse or the para-medic. The cost involved, what service would be available and other considerations will be discussed. Gene Woodruff, a member of the Medical-Dental board, said the board is very anxious to obtain public reaction to this proposal.

Genesee Crab Feed Attracted Many Saturday

Members of the Genesee Community Firemen were tired but grateful last Saturday night after they had presented their 11th annual public crab feed in the upstairs of the fire hall. The event proved to be one of the most successful yet held as the lines formed well before 4:30 and the tables were filled by 5:00 p.m., the scheduled starting time.

There was a steady flow of customers from 4:30 until almost 9:00 p.m., when the serving ceased.

The crowds consumed a mountain of food including 1800 pounds of crab (which were really good this year), 400 lbs. of potatoes, made into potato salad; forty dozen eggs; gallons of dressing; four cases of cabbage for cole slaw, five cases of beans, plus carrots, barbecue sauce, crackers, cases of pop and 8 kegs of other refreshment.

Thanks to All Fire Department president Terry Geltz offered his thanks on behalf of the department to all who attended the meal and helped to make it a success. His thanks also went out to the firemen's wives who prepared the potato salad and helped with ticket taking and other chores that evening. Without the help of the wives, this yearly event would be almost impossible to stage.

This was the first year the feed was presented without the help of former fire commissioners Gordie Iverson and Hal Kluss. Their jobs were taken over by the two new directors, Jerry Johnson and Charlie Swenson, who showed great promise as cole slaw makers.

Kendrick Grange Met Tuesday Evening

In spite of nasty weather 27 members of Kendrick Grange met Tuesday, February 17 at 8 p.m. in the Grange Hall.

A beautiful quilt top was completed and on display. It was very neatly pieced and pressed by Elsie Onstott from polyester pieces donated by Grange members. This quilt will be completed and bed-tied by the men of Kendrick Grange to be auctioned together with other items at the Grange sponsored food program to be given by the Washington Water Power home demonstration instructors to be held at the Grange Hall the evening of March 18. There will also be other entertainment and food. This will be open to the public with no door charge. Further information will be published at a later date.

The fund-raising campaign of the Chairman of Women's Activities Committee for the public address system is progressing.

Fifty dollars was given to the temple board to pay for lights, heat, etc., for the many quilting meetings that are being held in the hall.

Immediately following the close of the meeting games of pinochle were played at seven tables. High scores for the evening were earned by Steve Caskey and Margaret Halliday. Low prizes went to Leonard and Coryell Wolff while the Goose was claimed by Marvin Vincent. Grand prizes for high score of total score for two nights went to Art Foster and Jo Benscotter.

Lovely refreshments were served in a bi-centennial atmosphere of kerosene lamps and lantern light by Ruth White, Elsie Onstott, Marjorie Eldridge and Inez Armitage. The lights brought back many memories and a sincere appreciation of modern electricity. Refreshments at the meeting at the first of the month were served by the ladies spouses - Bill, Manning, Elmo and Ross. Very good and fun.

Letters to the Editor

Moscow, Idaho
February 14, 1976

Dear Editor:
An obituary in the Lewiston Tribune for Feb. 13, 1976 may hold some interest for the people who presently are enjoying the Bicentennial efforts of your local Commission of which Eugene Taylor is a member. For this item continues and about says period for certain local news of long ago.

As a little girl coming by car to Moscow to shop from Genesee, we used to drive by "The Stoffens Place" upon entering town. It was located somewhat catty-corner from the present self-service gas station on the county road, Mountain View Drive. It was a tall house once painted yellow and, sure enough, there were bullet holes visible. A posse had fought with a young man there who had died, whether by his own hand or that of a besieger was never fully established.

The son of that house became mentally disturbed and was decided by local authorities as ready for commitment to the insane asylum at Orofino. When so informed the young fellow was wildly resentful, met the local doctor, Dr. W. W. Watkins, and a deputy sheriff and shot them dead on Moscow's main street. The doctor was the father of three daughters, the second being Etta Watkins Ririe Brown. Her daughter, Carol Ririe Brink, later wrote of family lore, both happy and tragic in a number of novels including BUFFALO COAT. The Watkins home was across the street from the present Presbyterian church.

A charming Scotsman named Alex Ririe had a position of importance with a local bank, predecessor somewhat removed from the present First Security Bank. He died of consumption at an early age leaving his wife, Etta and his daughter, Carol. In due time, his wife remarried a man named Nat Brown. He was said to be charming but also it was alleged, not always too ethical where Indian ponies and other items were concerned. The write-up says: "Brown arrived at Lewiston in 1894 where he had been sent by his father to purchase Indian ponies for use in a survey of Potlatch and Bovill area forests. In August of 1900 he formed, with his father and John A. Humbird, Fredrick Weyerhaeuser and others the Clearwater Timber Co. later to become Potlatch Corp."

"The younger Brown made the original survey of the Clearwater Forest and in 1905 with new Idaho Land Commissioner Charles Munson and Theodore Fohl, helped form the Clearwater Timber Protective Assn. He was the first president."

His first wife, Etta, took her life, most painfully and with prolonged agony via poison.

This obituary yesterday was of the second wife, Nellie Summers Brown. She died at San Diego at age 94. In the Community Cemetery at Genesee the tallest marble shaft is dedicated to Wallace Cool, by his young wife, Marie Nebelsieck Cool (Martin). He was the deputy sheriff who suffered in the tragedy.

Sincerely,
Grace Jain Wicks
P. S. Those Sweet Adelines are the best fun yet.

THE POTLATCH
(Webster says 'Potlatch' means a 'gift', used by American Indians of N. W. coast). Like the Garden of Eden in it's earlier days, The Potlatch River has changed its ways.

Once a clear stream and full of trout it's no longer so; it's turned about. It changes channels according to will from one side of the canyon to the other hill. The town of Kendrick once had a thrill when over its banks the Potlatch did spill. It takes out railroads and highways too; Ranch houses and barns before it is through. Railroad workmen have even been killed. When down this canyon the water spilled. Its tributaries also add their pollution With acres of dirt held in solution. Farm land and pasture land descend in piles. Polluting the Clearwater for many miles.

To control it now is a delicate study. For now it is called The Little Muddy. But unlike the Missouri, it ceases to flow. In summer time it gets very low. The water that one time filtered down Now brings the filter—and colors it brown. It's not just someone's idle notion—For the soil from here ends in the ocean.

The gifts from the Potlatch in days of yore Were fruits and vegetables in piles galore. News boys from Peoria bought the cherries Also were raised many kinds of berries; Melons and prunes and apple trees, Squash, corn, turkeys—honey bees. Now we who live here much change our ways And restore our valley as in early days.

Seed down the slopes, plant forest trees Hold back the mud that goes to the seas. No more logging straight down the hills With gullies down which the water then spills. Seed arroyos with heavy grass. Filters through which no soil can pass. Contour rows on every slope Hold back our soil! It is our only hope.

Build dams both big and little Places where the soil can settle.

Pets are Worth Saving

The city of Lewiston impounds about 800 dogs a year. Less than 25% of these are reclaimed by their owners.

The animal shelter receives about 2,500 additional animals a year. About 400 are placed with new owners. The rest are given euthanasia. The problem grows with each passing year. Please help us reverse this trend.

You can help in two ways:

- BE A RESPONSIBLE DOG OWNER—unless you are a breeder, have your dog or cat spayed, or neutered by a veterinarian. (Yes, the statistics on cats are also painful). Write or call us for a pamphlet on the effects of neutering and spaying.
- SEND US PEOPLE WHO WANT A DOG—The shelter has healthy pets for adoption. If they are old enough we have them spayed. They have had distemper shots.
- If we all just recognize our problem maybe we can solve it.

Idaho Economic Outlook Brighter Says Newsletter

The economic outlook for Idaho in 1976 appear favorable as the business recovery initiated in the fourth quarter is expected to accelerate throughout the year.

This is the highlight of the quarterly First Security Newsletter, being distributed this week according to James Hoagland, Jr., manager. Dr. Elroy Nelson, senior vice president and economist, is the editor of the letter.

Cash receipts from farm marketing are expected to resume a normal growth pattern in 1976. The lumber industry should experience a further pick up in demand and production, and employment in the construction and manufacturing industries are also expected to be favorably influenced by improved national business conditions.

The Newsletter also predicts positive growth in real personal income in 1976.

In a review of 1975 the Newsletter points out that while total personal income in Idaho is estimated at $4.2 billion in 1975, there probably was very little change in 1975 real income.

The fourth quarter of 1975 saw generally unchanged business patterns in Idaho, although some improvement appeared in the lumber industry and in the overall rate of unemployment.

The Newsletter also reviewed the performance of various industries in 1975:

Agriculture: Cash receipts from farm marketing in Idaho totaled $988.5 million for the first ten months of 1975, an amount 12.3 per cent below the corresponding period a year ago. Receipts from the sale of crops decreased nearly 19 per cent, while livestock and livestock product receipts rose 2 per cent. Milk production in the first ten months of 1975 declined 2 per cent from the same period a year ago. The average price of milk sold to plants in Dec. was 33 per cent higher than a year ago.

Lumber: Although production for the first ten months of the year was by 8.6 per cent from the same period a year earlier, production in August, September and October increased well above last year.

Construction: Building permit construction in 46 major cities and unincorporated areas totaled $275.4

FALL DURING HAY HANDLING HAZARD ON IDAHO'S FARMS

By Wayne F. Fisher
 Extension Safety Specialist

Accidental injury due to a fall while handling or working with hay is relatively common on Idaho's farms and ranches according to Extension Safety Specialist, Wayne Fisher. Although reporting is not completed on the 1975 Farm Safety Survey, the data to date would indicate that 200 persons would be expected to be injured yearly in the state and that medical expenses would average about $300 each for this type of incident.

Dangers and the likelihood of a fall are high during this period while people are feeding hay. Winter adds to the problem with the individual hampered by extra clothing and most likely wearing overshoes. He is also likely to encounter bales that are frozen down and unpredictable. Perhaps due to the cold caution may be disregarded in the haste to complete the task.

Hay does not provide a stable surface to work or ride on in any weather. Along with this, bales are cumbersome and may easily cause one to lose his balance even when not limited by extra clothing or poor conditions underfoot. Bales often cause a loss of balance when they break or the hook lets loose at an unexpected moment. When working with hay in a stack or during transport height will be involved. A fall from a load of bales was responsible for a tragic death reported in the Idaho Farm Safety Survey.

Fisher encourages ranchers and farmers to take special care while handling hay. Some points of advice are:

1. Watch your footing, especially on the stack. Remember hay will easily slip or bales fall out.
2. Work with the expectation that the bale might break or the hook might come out.
3. Keep bale ties and other 'trippers' cleaned up.
4. When working on a load or stack, work with your back toward the center so a tumble won't send you over the edge.
5. Allow no one to ride when transporting loads of hay and have them stay clear of wagons or trucks that are moving.

Other points of safety will apply to a particular farm or ranch situation. Fisher advises each operator to consider the hazards of his own conditions. Planning will help avoid injury, inconvenience, and expense brought on by an accident.

The public has a right to know what it costs to build or improve a street or building in your town. Your local newspaper is the publication where you find that information.

For centuries, people have recognized the right of the community and of the individual to be put on notice.

Many citizens don't understand what a legal notice is, or why they're printed in your local newspaper. Many people don't read them until it's too late.

Legal notices keep a citizen informed on all school, city and county action by official

Your local newspaper is a long established medium for such notices as provided by law or by official designation. And, it's one of the many public services provided by this newspaper.
