COW POKES By Ace Reid

A MAN AND HIS DOG

This is a true story about a man and his dog.

The man, almost three score and ten years old, and his large black and white cattle dog of questionable ancestry, made their home on one of the ridges surrounding the Pollatch Valley and the little town of Kendrick. Their companionship was a beautiful thing to see. Together they roamed the woods and fields, or explored the trails of the canyon between the ridges. On late spring and summer evenings, after a warm day of hard work in the field, Tippie would lie at his master's feet, and while they rested, his master would pick off the wood ticks from off the dog, which he had acquired while running through the brush that day. Tippie was a good watch dog and faithfully guarded his master's home. He never hurt anyone or anything. He stayed at home except on certain occasions, this being: when his master drove to Kendrick. Tippie loved to follow the pickup to the top of the grade where he would sit and patiently wait until his master made the return trip from town. He would then follow the pickup on the way home until they reached a certain place in the road and this is where the fun part of the game they played commenced. Tippie would leave the road at this spot, race across the fields and arrive home just seconds before his master drove into the yard. The man would deliberately slow down in order to let his dog arrive home first, as Tippie was always so overjoyed to greet him. It was a game they never tired of, and looked forward to.

On this particular late fall day of 1975, Tippie followed his master's pickup to the top of the grade as usual, and sat down to faithfully wait for his return from Kendrick. However, this day was a little different, in that his master didn't return that way. Business instead took him to Moscow, and he returned home late that evening by a different route. His dog was not there to welcome him home. The following morning the man received a telephone call from a friend and neighbor saying he had seen the dog's body lying beside the road. He quickly drove to the spot where he verified that the body of the dog was indeed that of his faithful Tippie. Tracing the bloody tracks he found where into the field beside the road, Tippie had apparently been struck down by bow and arrow, this being the bow and arrow season. The arrow had evidently been removed from the dog's quivering body by his attacker, and he had been left alone in the field to suffer. Tippie had drug himself to the road, and while his life's blood flowed from his body, he faithfully waited for his master.

"A righteous man," the Word of God says, "cares for his beast, but a wicked man is cruel at heart." Proverbs 12:10. He who created man also made the lower animals, and "his tender mercies are over all."—Psalm 145:9.

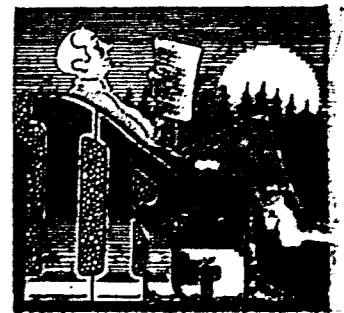

He who abuses animals because he has them in his power, is a coward and some day judgment will be pronounced against those who abuse God's creatures. —R. Adams

INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT
It'll help you now. It'll help you later.

An Individual Retirement Account at First Security Bank can save you money on your income taxes now, and insure a secure retirement later.

With the IRA you can save up to $1500 a year or 15% of your income whichever is less. And you can deduct the amount you save from your tax return.

First Security pays 7 1/2% per annum interest on your IRA, the highest legal rate a bank can pay on insured savings. And that is non-taxable until you retire, too.

If you save $1500 a year, in 10 years you'll have $23,089.91*. In 20 years, $71,632.59*, and in 30 years you'll have a retirement fund worth $173,685.37*.

Anyone is eligible who is not now in a pension plan where they work. You can save your $1500 in one lump sum, or you can divide the amount you want to save by the number of paydays during the year and save in smaller amounts.

The important thing is that you start your IRA early enough to do you some good. The longer you wait, the less you may be able to save.
Look into it soon.

Federal law requires substantial interest and tax penalties for early withdrawal.
*Includes principal and quarterly compounded interest.

it's not your electric toothbrush that's causing the energy problem

Morning Star Boy's Ranch, an institution that has helped immeasurably in guiding young lives, is enlarging facilities to accommodate more boys. The new quarters will require triple the amount of electricity.

The Northwest Metals plant near Adity will produce magnesium and employ some 300 people. Its requirements will be 130,000 kilowatts of which WWP will supply 10,000.

A new irrigation project on the Spokane Indian reservation near Little Falls will contribute to the area's production of crops and cattle. Its pumps will require 5000 kilowatts of power.

People naturally think of the energy uses around the home when electric consumption is mentioned.

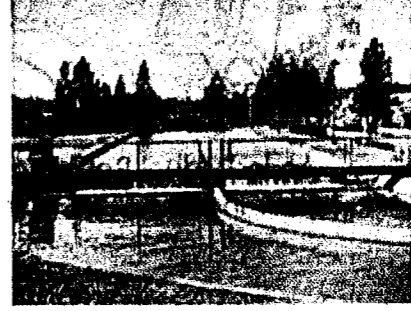

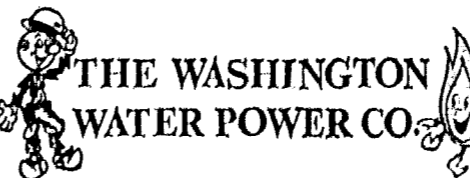

This is fine, and we are very pleased at the general response to our appeals for conservation and wise use.

It is appropriate to point out, however, that our country's real energy requirements come in very large sizes. Energy to operate factories, food processors, public buildings, and waste treatment plants, plus the additional amounts required to meet today's environmental standards. Such blocks of power are hundreds of times greater than that used in any all-electric home.

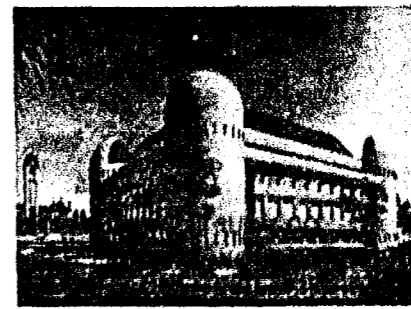

These power needs are vital and cannot be disregarded. Jobs depend on them, not to mention tax revenues. They are basic to economic stability, a healthy living environment, and national security.

The utility industry is acutely aware of its responsibility to provide this energy. Even though a maximum level of conservation is achieved, still more power plants must be started at once. Once started, their construction schedules must not be delayed.

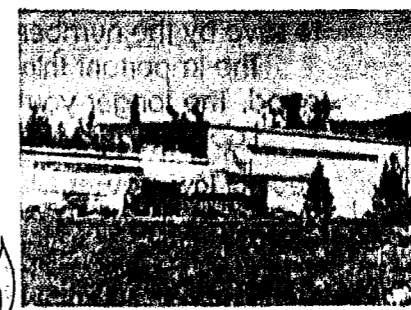

Public understanding of the problem and support of new power projects is essential, now, before time runs out.

Spokane's new, enlarged, sewage treatment plant will complete 2 major stages of the cleanup of the Spokane River. Power requirements will be twenty-five times as great as at present.

Spokane's new Public Health Center will be able to assist the ever increasing number of clients. It will require 1,500 kilowatts.

The new Pottlatch Plant at Post Falls will produce particle board using saw mill residue once considered waste. It will employ 55 people and require 3,000 kilowatts.
