Letter of Appreciation From Drill Team Advisor

On April 2nd and 3rd, several girls from the Kendrick Drill team observed the Pacific Northwest Drill Team Festival in Boise. Each of the 26 high schools participating did a 7 to 9 minute drill, marched in the parade and participated in a drill down.

The local girls picked up many new and exciting ideas about the use of props—for example, parachutes, umbrellas, sticks, flags, guns, swords and changes of costume. They saw new dance moves, arm flashes, kicks, splits, variety of marching styles, head snaps and even the importance of facial expressions. This was a very exciting learning experience and gave the girls an opportunity to see and keep up with drill team progression.

I would like to take this time to especially thank all the parents and many people in the community who have shared so kindly and greatly in the support of our Kendrick High School Drill Team. I am so impressed with the way this community takes of its time and effort to stand behind, and give in so many ways to the betterment of the students.

March Went Out Like a Lion, But April Holds Promise of Spring

Temperatures moved up into the seventies in the Potlatch Valley this week for the first time this year and the promise of Spring was held forth after a long and wet winter. There are still patches of snow on some north slopes around Genesee and on the ridges, but down in the valley the buds on the lilac bushes are nearly ready to burst open and several in the Juliaetta and Kendrick area already have planted some early garden.

Sunday and Monday were the best days of the year, weatherwise, with clear blue skies and temperatures reaching past the 70 mark both days. Gardeners, boaters, motorcyclists and just plain travelers were out in abundance over the weekend.

Saturday was also a good day and the citizens of Juliaetta took advantage of weather conditions to make a success of their first community-wide "clean-up" day. Even a quick glance at the town shows that it was a success.

Tuesday the skies clouded over and showed the threat of "April Showers" for the first time.

March went out like the proverbial lion with wind and rain down in the valley and a blizzard in Genesee and other higher elevations. Genesee received almost three inches of snow Wednesday night and early Thursday morning, but the wind and warmer temperatures quickly melted it away.

Both the school and the community regret seeing the Diehl family leave. During his tenure as head of the district, the school engaged in a successful major building program which included a new gymnasium and several new classrooms. In addition Les has been active in community, civic and fraternal affairs.

The district will also lose a teacher in the departure of Mrs. Joyce Diehl, who has taught the second grade at Genesee for the past four years.

It is expected a replacement should be named for Les sometime in May.

The council has asked that the public please notice the new sign that will be posted soon at the tennis court limiting persons using the court to one half hour if there are others waiting to use the court.

The parks and recreation will be starting to organize the summer programs for the children soon and will be interviewing persons interested in teaching arts and crafts and also tennis lessons. We will also need some volunteers to help with little league baseball and softball.

EARLY ROBIN
He's been around for quite awhile, My eager little friend. Impatience brought him to my yard Long before winter's end.

I wonder why he didn't wait Till the snow and sleet were gone. But he ruffled his feathers and bravely endured. Each freezing night and chilly dawn.

He gathered courage through the day To hunt from hunger's need. A withered berry or tall dry grass. Or a bug neath the bark of a tree.

His notes were short and listless, As he clung to a limb bare and gray. Yet he taught us a lesson on faith and hope. Spring was on it's way

And now this lovely sunny morn I see him flit through the air. His song is full and sweet and clear. He's busy and bossy—without a care.

His bright red breast is carefully preened, And others are joining him here, Yet I'm sure they know without a doubt Who will reign as King of the Robins this year.

Genesee 4th Graders Receive Flag From
Sen. Frank Church

In observation of our nation's Bi-Centennial, Mrs. Blume's 4th grade class wrote letters to Senator Frank Church requesting a United States flag which had flown over the Capitol Building in Washington, D. C.

Senator Church commended the class on their well written letters and explained although the flags were not free of charge he would personally purchase one, request it be flown over the Capitol, and send it to the class.

Friday morning, the elementary student body assembled near the flag pole to participate in the presentation ceremony. The flag was presented to the school by the fourth grade officers and was accepted by Mr. Diehl on behalf of the school. The flag was raised and everyone joined in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Following are a few of the letters sent to Senator Church by members of the class:

Fourth Grade
 Genesee, Idaho 83532
 January 19, 1976

Senator Frank Church:
 245 Russell Senate Building
 Washington, D. C. 20510

Dear Senator Church:
 We would like it very much if we could have a flag that once flew over the U. S. Capitol. Could we have one for our Bi-Centennial?

If you run for President, I will vote for you because you are representing Idaho. I am also Democratic.
 Your friend,
 John Baldus

Dear Sen. Church:
 We would appreciate it if you would send us a flag that has flown over the Capitol. My parents have voted for you before and when I am old enough to vote I will vote for you.

I am writing to you to ask you to send us a flag that flew over the Capitol. I will be proud if we get one.
 Your friend,
 Tracy Spangler

Dear Mr. Church:
 We live in a small town called Genesee. Our fourth grade wants to do something special for our town and school for the Bi-Centennial this year. We would really like a flag that has flown over our country's Capitol. Will you please try to get it for us? Thank you for trying.
 No name

Dear Sen. Church:
 Our class would like to do something for the Bi-Centennial year. Because hardly any people in Genesee write to you or people like you. Our class would appreciate if you would send us a flag that flew over our Nation's Capitol. When I grow up I will vote for you.
 Love, Bob Wilson

Dear Sen. Church:
 We live in Genesee a small town in between Moscow and Lewiston. I hope that my Mom and Dad vote for you. I hope that you can get a flag for our school that was flew over the nation's capitol. Thank you.
 Your friend,
 Mike Schwartz

Dear Sen. Church:
 I live in a small town called Genesee. We got a lot of snow this year. We would like a flag that has flown over the Capitol in Washington, D. C. We are doing things for the Bi-Centennial. We are learning more about Idaho and other countries. We thank you for trying to get our flag. Your friend, Kenny Reynolds

Dear Sen. Church:
 On Tuesday I saw you on TV on the news. It surprised me because we were writing these letters to you. I sure do hope my parents will vote for you and I hope you win.
 Do you think you could send our school a flag that has been flown over the Capitol Building in Washington, D. C.? We sure would be glad to have a flag like that.
 Your friend Lori Spence

I would like you to send my school a flag that has flown over our nation's Capitol in Washington, D. C. I go to a very small school in the town of Genesee, Idaho. It is about 13 miles from Moscow, Idaho and 14 miles from Lewiston, Idaho.
 My class is going to keep these letters a secret. I wish you could deliver it yourself if we get it but you are probably too busy. We don't usually get anything so important here so if we get it, it would be a great honor. Thank you for reading this letter anyway.
 Your friend Paul L. AlLee

YOUR GAME DEPARTMENT

By Royce Williams
 Idaho Dept. of Fish & Game

Fish Rule Change
 The Idaho Fish and Game Commission has changed the 1976 fishing regulations on a stretch of the South Fork of the Snake River in Area 6 effective April 1 through 30.

In a special meeting by telephone, the commissioners decided to let fishermen take and keep "fish hooked in any portion of the body or taken with dip nets or with the hands' in a section of the South Fork Snake known as the Dry Bed.

The area stretches from the Union Pacific Railroad Bridge northeast of Ririe downstream to the Highway 48 bridge about one-half mile north of Lewisville.

The new regulation also includes canals that originate within the section of stream, the commission said.

Change in the regulations allows a harvest of as many fish as possible and the department will try to salvage as many fish as possible.

RURAL HEALTH WEEK—
APRIL 4-10, 1976

Some Farm & Ranch Health Problems Need Special Attention

The 1975 Idaho Farm Survey shows the need to emphasize some particular rural health areas. This word from Wayne Fisher, Extension Safety Specialist, U/I Cooperative Extension Service. For clarification Fisher states illnesses reported in the survey had to be work-related and also require professional medical attention or loss of at least one half day from usual activities.

Heart Attack

Most serious of reported work-related illnesses. Seriousness is based on the cost of treatment and chance of death. The survey points out that one out of every 300 middle aged farm and ranch operators may be affected during any year. One quarter of the incidents will result in a fatality.

Recommendations

Physical check-ups by the doctor on a regular basis. Proper diet, attention to general physical fitness, adequate rest and keeping strain of managerial responsibilities under control. Avoid, or condition oneself to meet, strenuous physical exercise which might over-tax the heart.

Note

The easy-going rural life, with plenty of rest is past history. Eating habits of the farm or ranch family may add to the problem as they usually are based on physical activities of days gone by. These activities involved pitch forks, scoop shovels water pails and lots of walking.

Danger of Tetanus

Nail punctures, minor cuts and similar accidents occurred in one out of 150 households. The majority of these were work-related. Adults tend to neglect their lockjaw protection program.

Recommendations

Tetanus immunization on a regular basis. Booster shots should be obtained when an accident occurs. This is a sound illness protection program.

Localized Infections

Serious infections in small cuts and similar wounds on the hands were shown to be common. These usually were related to treating ani-

No Big Gains In Wheat Prices Seen

Clifton Anderson
Asst. Agricultural Editor

Moscow—Prices for the 1976 wheat crop will not increase sharply unless crop failures in the U. S. and Russia are more disastrous than now appears to be the case, an economist at the U/I College of Agriculture said here.

Robert L. Sargent, extension economist, said carryover stocks of the big 1975 wheat crop would moderate the effects of any foreseeable decline in the 1976 winter wheat harvest. "Sharp price increases resulting from unfavorable winter weather do not appear to be in the cards," he reported.

Despite drought in the Southern Plains states and serious winter-kill damage in the USSR, the total world wide harvest of winter wheat is expected to be of near normal size this year, Sargent said.

"The important spring wheat crop is difficult to project at this time," he added.

Exports of U. S. wheat since Jan. 1 have lagged below the levels of exports which would achieve the goals projected for the current marketing year by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. "Weekly shipments may rise if the government increases PL-480 shipments or if importers who are concerned about 1976 wheat crop prospects in the U. S. southwest decide to increase their take from the 1975 crop," the U/I economist said.

"At the moment, it appears that the outlook for disposal of the 1975 crop may not be as rosy for producers as is presently projected by the USDA," Sargent noted.

The wheat marketing situation is clouded by uncertainties on the export front, he said.

"Prospective foreign purchasers seem to have adopted a wait-and-see attitude," Sargent explained. "Russia may be in the market for additional supplies of wheat but there is no way of knowing whether these rumored purchases will materialize."

A large increase in U. S. domestic demand for wheat is unlikely, according to the U/I economist. He pointed to last year's huge corn crop as one reason more wheat is not being used for feed.

"Exports are critical in determining how things may ultimately evolve for the 1975-76 crop marketing year which ends June 30," Sargent emphasized.

A big carryover of wheat at the end of the 1975-76 marketing would have a moderating influence on prices during the outset of the new marketing year, he said.

A large June 30 carryover—in the range of 525 to 550 million bushels—would be a realistic estimate at this time, he declared.

While he saw poor prospects for Sargent ruled out the possibility of substantial gains in wheat prices, steeply declining prices.

"On the basis of the world supply-demand situation for 1976 it is unlikely that we will have sharply lower prices than have been experienced during the current year," he said.

Upward movement of wheat prices could show signs of developing this year but the government would probably be resisted by U. S. political leaders, Sargent said.

"This is an election year," he observed, "and it is important to bear in mind that there are a lot more consumer votes than there are wheat farmer votes."

ELECTRICAL DEATH RATE CONTINUES TO INCREASE

Electrical death rate continues to increase despite previous technological improvements. This note of warning from Wayne Fisher, extension safety specialist, U/I, College of Agriculture.

Safety efforts of the power suppliers, electrical equipment manufacturers and improved electrical installation codes fail to reduce the number of mishaps in the face of increasing use of electrical energy. During the past year, it is estimated that nationwide 12,000 persons lost their lives and an equal number were seriously injured by electrical shock. While the number of deaths vary from year to year there has been a general increase of about 50 fatalities per year. "Each of us needs to develop a sense of respect for this silent danger," says Fisher. Most electrical systems are designed to carry 15 amperes of current without blowing a fuse or tripping a circuit breaker. The 15 ampere current is 250 times that which the normal body can withstand. The higher the voltage the more likely that the electrical energy will be able to overcome the resistance and result in a flow of current.

The human body is quite vulnerable to electricity because the nervous system is a network of conductors. The flesh so to speak serves as insulation. Most persons have sensed the tingling sensation of a small flow of current through their body but slightly larger rates can be serious. The rate of flow needed to light a small flashlight bulb will cause the muscles to contract making it impossible to let go. Current great enough to light a Christmas tree bulb will cause the heart muscle to be affected and become erratic in its action, and, if continued, death will occur within a few minutes. Respiration will also be affected at this level. Large currents for a very short period may burn the flesh just as the insulation is burned on a wire however, this may or may not affect the heart.

A relatively new device called a ground fault circuit interrupter (GFCI) is now available to prevent injury when there is an accidental short circuit through the body. The device monitors the rate of flow of current in each individual wire of the circuit. Unequal flow will indicate a ground fault and the circuit is opened automatically. These devices are designed to react to much lower than normally harmful current and in 25/1000 of a second. This level of protection is needed for those suffering from cardiac difficulties.

The GFCI unit may be located at the main supply panel or at the electrical outlet. Those at the outlet have proven to be more satisfactory as the longer length of wiring may cause the device to trip unnecessarily. Having the reset close at hand also saves steps when unwarranted interruptions occur.

Idaho and National electrical buildings codes specify that GFCI be used on outdoor electrical outlets on new dwellings. It is expected that GFCI will soon be required for bathroom electrical outlets, as well as other areas where water and electricity are both commonly used. Swimming pool lighting and other associated electrical circuits are especially hazardous and are included in the code requirements.

Those interested in farm safety agree that many electrical outlets on the farm should have this protection. The milking parlor with its dampness and daily use of electricity is a prime example. The adoption and use of this new electrical concept is recommended with the safety of the individual and his family in mind in view of the ever present danger, these devices should be used before installation is needed to meet a legal requirement. Further information should be available through local electrical contractors. If an individual desires to write this office the address is U/I Extension Office, Box 300, Boise, Idaho, 83701.

The number of licensed drivers in the U. S. is expected to increase to 161 million in 1980, while motor vehicle registrations are expected to soar to 183 million.

malts under unsanitary conditions. Recommendations: Wear rubber gloves when practical. If direct contact is unavoidable wash hands and arms thoroughly with disinfectant soap before and after. Clean fingernails. Treat minor wounds with antiseptic and cover with an adhesive bandage. Allergic Conditions: These chronic difficulties can reduce the effective time of individuals considerably. It is likely that one person out of 125 will be affected by something they encounter on the farm even in the home. Recommendations: Get medical help and work closely with your doctor. Follow recommendations as to exposure, wearing protective masks and other related medical advice. The health and safety programs of the family are often generated by the lady of the house. Fisher encourages homemakers to use the incentive of Rural Health Week to recruit their family of her particular health and safety program.

SUPPLEMENTAL READING PARENT-ADVISORY COUNCIL MEETING APRIL 7

There will be a meeting of the Parent-Advisory Council, Wednesday April 7. The meeting will be held at the elementary school in the Reading Resource Room. Refreshments will be served.

This will be the last meeting of the year so lets have a good turn out to show your support.

Spring fever has struck the students and teachers already. In spite of the complications much is being accomplished. We have started doing some individual silent reading for pleasure only. The students are really enjoying this and surprisingly most want to get all their work done first so they can read the rest of the week instead of working half of the period and reading the other half.

I would like to add this was a suggestion from a mother during our last Council meeting. Your input is heard and appreciated! Thank you, Judy Rice, your suggestion is a good one!

Fourth Grade News—

The students of the day are Scott and Jill.

We have new bulletin boards up. They are very pretty. We also have a new Conduct Chart.

Miss Stefonek had individual conferences with us before our parents came.

Willy the Bookworm grew 10 circles and is now 592 circles long.

We are having an American Bicentennial Essay Contest. It is supposed to be about "What the American Bicentennial Means to Me". It is sponsored by the Lewiston Morning Tribune.

Miss Stefonek's niece made a plate. It is orange and has little flowers on it.

Last Friday morning we had clean up. While we were picking up garbage we found some leaf fossils.

In Spelling last Friday, the people who got 20 out of 20 were Colley, Heidi, Amy and Jill. The ones who got 18 or 19 out of 20 are Galen, Kelly, Kristen, Cindy and Vicky Re. Reporters—Jill Rossiter and Becky Gillispie.

YOUR CAR NEEDS HELP.

Winter driving is rough on any vehicle — proper service and repair is necessary to prevent unwarranted wear. And when the winter driving is over, it is a good policy to have your car or truck checked over to insure it will operate at its most efficient during the coming rigors of Spring and Summer driving.
