Look at It This Way—

There is a good chance that if you believe what everybody else appears to believe, you are probably wrong. As times change and the world changes, opinions strongly held at a certain point in time might now be invalid. A lot depends on where one is standing when he makes his observation.

Saxe's ten blind men of Indostan each had his own idea of what an elephant looked like and each from his own standpoint was correct.
If one look at the palm of his hand, he could describe a hand as being smooth-skinned and without hair pores or nails. The back of the hand presents a different picture, as do the two sides of a coin.

The lesson is obvious and needs no belaboring. It is what probably inspired Emerson to write, "A foolish consistency is the hobgobin of little minds," and gave rise to the saying of today, "My mind is made up, don't confuse me with facts."

Next time you get to thinking that your idea is the only one that could possibly be correct, take another look. There just might be something Squirrels are responsible for plant-'anti-gunrunner' law in Idaho.

Speaking before the Idaho Fish & Game Commission, Clifford Allen of the Nez Perce Tribe said whites make it "too easy for Indians to break fish and game regulations."

He said whites are responsible for planting many trees, the National Wild-life Federation says. After they bury nuts, they often don't dig up all of them. As a result, the nuts sprout in the spring and become trees.

The Most Valuable Legacy

"What is a man's most valuable

"A man may be stripped of every material possession, yet still be well-to-do if he knows a trade or a profession by which he can earn a livng. The ability to do something hat commands a price in any market and under any circumstances is form of indestructible wealth

"To leave a competency to children is the dream of every father. To train children so that they can carn their own way in the world is kinder and wiser. Then, barring ill-health, they are self-sufficient."—The Wm. Feather Magazine.
