Emotions Disturb Sleep says Report

A new research study suggests that very often the real cause of sleeplessness is a basic emotional disturbance that is not known to the sufferer, reports the Idaho Medical Association.

Insomnia often is a symptom of some underlying disturbance that the sufferer has succeeded in keeping bottled up during waking hours, according to a report in a recent issue of the Archives of General Psychiatry, a publication of the American Medical Association.

The study was conducted at the Milton S. Ebersole Medical Center, Hershey, Pennsylvania, and involved the evaluation of 128 individuals who complained of insomnia. 85 percent of them had some emotional problem, with depression heading the list.

Dr. Anthony Kales who headed the study, said that patients with chronic insomnia are in a state of constant emotional arousal. It was observed that insomnia patients most typically are unable to react outwardly to discharge their feelings.

Patients who discharge their emotional problems, such as aggressive, paranoid, and acting-out individuals, are less likely to have sleep problems.

Mrs. Jo Bencoter

Friday Vick Bencoter and Joni Numan of Troy entertained Ann Driscoll with lunch at a Moscow cafe in honor of her birthday anniversary.

Warren and Grace Cox, Spokane, were Sunday dinner guests in the Andy Cox home. In the afternoon Willard (Perk) and Hazel Cox and Edna Lang, Lewiston, were callers. They were enroute home from Moscow where they had visited Kester Dammarell who is a patient in Gritman Hospital.

Steven Crocker, Lewiston spent the weekend with his grandparents, the Ernie Andrews.

Tuesday dinner guests in the Norla Callison home were Mr. and Mrs. George Day of Clarkston.

On Wednesday Norla attended an REA meeting in Lewiston. Afternoon callers in their home were Nancy Griffith and small son Brian; also the Lester Crocker. Thursday dinner guests were Robert Weaver, Albuquerque, New Mexico and Nora Roberts of Clarkston.

Jack Griffith has been assisting Bob Callison with various farm operations this past week. On Saturday evening Mrs. Griffith and Brian, also Judy, Audra and John Callison enjoyed dinner with the rest of the family as sort of a farewell to the Griffiths who left by plane Sunday morning for their home in Tennessee.

Bob and Judy took them to Spokane to see them off.

Other callers in the Callison home were Rick McGregor, Phebe Davis and the Otto Schupfers.

Wayne, Phebe and Bruce Davis are staying in the Stewart Huggins home for a few days while they catch up on farming projects. Mrs. Bruce Davis and little daughter Kristen joined them here for the weekend.

Walt and Babe Bencoter were Moscow visitors on Monday. Their son Jack enjoyed dinner with them on Sunday. Other callers during the week were Jeff Hoisington, Lester and Nell Crocker, Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Hoisington, Wilma Greene, Mary and Dick McCall and the Frank Bencoters.

The Frank Bencoters enjoyed having grandson Bill join them for dinner Sunday. Don Bencoter called on Friday. Other callers were Lester and Nell Crocker and Phebe, Connie and Kristen Davis.

Edd Kent was admitted to Gritman Hospital Saturday to receive treatment for a chest congestion. Emma is also on the "cold" list and staying in Moscow with their daughter, Kathryn Morey.

Frankie and Jo Bencoter called in the Don Bencoter home in Sweetwater Thursday afternoon. They are in the midst of repairing fire and smoke damage to their house which was started from a lamp on a bedside table. Barbara, by quick thinking and work, extinguished the flames before they spread to other parts of the house.

Vicky Bencoter visited the Larry Galloway family in Lewiston Wednesday afternoon. On Thursday she attended the Crock-Pot demonstration and luncheon in the Kendrick Fire Hall. That same afternoon Vicky was in the home of Lucille Pratt for the regular meeting of the Evergreen Friendship Club.

Evergreen Hills Group Hears GOP Candidates

Meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth A. Platt, 22 Moscow voters Wednesday night heard the views of Gerald Snow, Tom Boyd and James Lucas on state political issues and those of LeRoy Carlson and Elton Walker on Latah County matters.

Speaking first, Lucas stated that he sees some help in sight on school funding from the newly authorized federal payments in lieu of taxes on non-taxable federal lands. Both Lucas and Boyd favor teacher organizations to negotiate wages and working conditions they said, contrary to the report in last Tuesday's Idahonian. However, they would have the negotiations done on a 'good faith' basis, rather than under state law imposing binding arbitration in impasse cases. Boyd noted that in his several years on the Genesee school board, the approach has always worked satisfactorily, higher salaries being used to offset meager cultural attractions of the community.

Binding arbitration is not a sure solution to impasse cases, Lucas brought out. Where the 27-mill levy limit on property taxes set by state law does not provide all the funds sought, as in the Moscow school district, for example, arbitration in favor of higher teacher benefits could leave school boards with no choice but to cut back on pupil benefits, where over-ride levies cannot be passed.

Though not opposed to teacher unions, all three legislature candidates favored Idaho's right-to-work law and opposed compulsory union membership. They saw no serious problem in dealing with both union and non-union teachers in the same school.

The real problem is how to retain performance incentives where teachers are under rigid salary and advancement schedules, it was thought. A University-associated member of the audience gave the opinion that the Hays plan now going into effect there should be applied only up to the level of a satisfactory living wage. Above that level the plan provides only cost of living increases for all employees, with no provision for merit advances. Under this limitation the more capable individuals, especially technical and administrative staff, will be drawn away by higher salaries in industry and elsewhere, he predicted.

All three candidates saw strong support for the University of Idaho as a primary task for legislators from this area. Mr. Snow saw his long experience in various public service organizations and especially his work and leadership in the Lewis-Clark Production Credit Assoc., as well qualifying him to deal with budget matters at state level. At the same time, he saw the job of state senator as one of representing a balance of interests of all the people, he said.

Mr. Carlson's life-long career in Latah County as fruit dealer, poultryman, logger and now used car dealer, has familiarized him with all parts and problems of the County, he believes. He is pledged to examine all county matters from the taxpayer's viewpoint, to be open to citizen needs and inputs at all times.

Mr. Walker discussed the recent high staff turnover rate of the sheriff's office, indicating this was not due to inherent weaknesses in administration of the office. He cited numerous cases where deputies had left to accept better-paying jobs elsewhere. Some separations have stemmed from unsuitability or improper conduct, but these had been handled with minimum disruption, he said. Reviewing his own thorough professional training and long experience as a deputy, Walker felt well equipped to handle both the public service and the internal administrative aspects of the office.

Before you vote... THINK

Are you tired of spreading Idaho tax dollars thinner and thinner each year over a multitude of new programs when our basic needs go under-funded?
 So is Jerry Snow.

Are you tired of giving away control of our state, little by little, to the Federal Government? And our county and city control, bit by bit, to state bureaucracy?
 Jerry Snows against that, too.

Snow is for:
 ● reconsidering legislative sessions; try to cut the length of time and the cost to the taxpayer through biennial sessions or budgetary sessions every other year with short alternate sessions in off years.
 ● Sensible land use planning, administered at lowest possible government level.
 ● Proper funding of education to protect Idaho's most valuable resource: its youth.

Snow is qualified
 ● Agri-business man, 30 years on the same property homesteaded by his family in 1877.
 ● Leader in Soil Conservation District, 1960's; chairman, advisory board to the Latah County Commission, 1960's; President, Lewis-Clark Production Credit Association; eleven years with PCB; has worked many years with the UI agricultural experiment station.
 ● Past chairman, Elks board of trustees, present trustee; past Vandal Boosters president, presently director of state boosters; active in 4-H programs.

Tigers End Season

The final horn sounded last Friday night and marked the end of the 1976 football season. Although an undefeated season, a number 1 press rating, and being undisputed league champions, slowly faded away as the final seconds ticked off the score-clock. I saw no evidence of anyone being disappointed or discouraged about the way our kids performed or the courage they exhibited.

I can say that more than anything else our players never doubted their ability to succeed. This was evident at Nezperce when costly errors plagued the Tigers and they had to come from behind to win. Timberline is a perfect example of this prevailing attitude. Behind by a touchdown and a field goal with minutes left in the game, it would have been very easy for most teams to turn belly up and accept their apparent fate. The Tigers wouldn't accept this way out. Dipping into their bags of tricks, they not only scored that desperately needed touchdown, but came back with six seconds left in the game and kicked a field goal to snatch away their third straight victory. All seemed hopeless at Deary the next week as the Tigers found themselves behind at the closing seconds of the game. It was evident that defeat was at the doorsteps of Kendrick. Our players didn't figure it that way though, and were able to connect on a 50-yard pass play with 14 seconds left in the game to upset the Mustangs. I think Coach Ruark summed it up best when he was asked if he was concerned about the size of his opponents. He responded, "Not really, our kids are tougher."

I think I speak for everyone when I say that we are all proud of our football team. They were successful, not only in the number of games they won and by capturing a piece of the league crown, but in the character that was developed by each player. I would also personally like to express my gratitude for all the support that was given the team this year.

Elementary Parent-Teacher Conferences Successful

Practically every parent was able to meet with their child's teacher for progress report conferences last week at the Elementary School. After talking with the teachers and reviewing the conference evaluations turned in by the parents, it appears that this is a very successful way for parents and teachers to communicate directly about a common concern—the student. When the parents personally know that a teacher is trying to develop their child's potentialities to the best of his ability, and the teacher knows that the parents are supportive in this endeavor, then optimum conditions exist for the greatest possible progress in student achievement. We would welcome all parents to drop by the school at any time, should they wish to become more informed about the school and the progress of their child.

We are very appreciative of the time and energy donated by the following: Mary Jane Williams, Linda Reil, Roz Denner, Judy Callison, Sally Browning, Marga Blair, Ariene Clemm, Irene Thornton and Linda Bostick. The education of our children is a cooperative effort and we should welcome anyone else who likes to help people and enjoys being around children to serve as a volunteer aide.

Winter driving is rough on any vehicle — proper service and repair is necessary to prevent unwarranted wear. And when the winter driving is over, it is a good policy to have your car or truck checked over to insure it will operate at its most efficient during the coming rigors of Spring and Summer driving.
