Petitions Support Genesee Police Officer

Alan Daniels, who was appointed police chief in Genesee following the resignation of Chet Green, was the subject of one portion of a recent city council meeting. The discussion centered on whether Daniels was doing his job properly. Following the meeting potitions were circulated about Genesee stating: "We, the undersigned, believe that Alan Daniels is doing a credible job in performing his duties as Police Officer for the City of Genesee and has our full support."

The ten petitions came back bear-ing over 300 signatures of Genesce area people. An overwhelming vote of confidence for Officer Daniels. The News was asked if we would print the signatures obtained, and we will. We were supplied with photostatic copies of the original petitions and had to take the signatures as written. We tried to get the spelling as correctly as we could, but if the names aren't right, the mistake

'Principal's Corner'—

PRINCIPAL'S CORNER Yearbook Finances Recovering

The beginning of the year proved to be very discouraging for this year's annual staff as they discovered that they had inherited an accu-mulated yearbook debt of $1750.00. The students had two options: 1) Stop publishing an annual or 2) become solvent. No one wanted to see this tradition collapse with the classes of 1976-77; so the task was at hand to turn out the best yearbook possible while assuming financial responsibility not only for this years annual, but for previous year's annu-

To begin with, two very capable and willing yearbook advisors, Mr. Bob Pendergast and Mrs. Judy Rei-dinger, volunteered to supervise the annual staff with this very difficult assignment. Twenty five students joined the annual staff to donate their energies to this project. The editor, Tracy Millard was selected along with other officers and the staff was fired up and ready to go

To help their financial situation they began by contracting concessions for all football and basketball games with all profit going to the annual. Then they raised the price of the annual and revised their advertising layouts. To improve the quality of their annual, they had the pictures taken professionally at no cost and the officers attended an annual workshop for formal instruc-tion from a publishing company. The annual staff is sponsoring a "Men's Faculty vs Seniors" and a "Girl's Basketball Team vs their Mothers" benefit basketball game on Tuesday, January 4, to help raise money for the annual. In addition, other fund raising activities and advertising plans are being organized to help defray publishing costs.

The students accepted the chal-lenge and thus far have certainly shown that they are dedicated to the cause of getting out of debt and putting out the best annual ever. Good luck to the Annual Staff. Please lend them your support. Teacher Down and Out

Mrs. Judy Reidinger, Business Education teacher at the high school, was admitted to Gritman Memorial Hospital in Moscow Monday, December 6, for surgery. She will be recovering at home probably through Christmas vacation.

After an exhaustive search for a substitute teacher in business education, no prospects were to be found. Knowing that the substitutes that have been filling in for Mrs. Reidinger ar enot business teachers, most students have been very cooperative and willing to help.

We wish Mrs. Reidinger a speedy recovery and believe me, we very much.
