SAVING ELECTRICITY

Saves water and jobs

Here's how. Most of our electricity comes from the power plants on the rivers. Dams hold back the water which runs the generators to meet power demand. If the demands are reduced, water can be held back. That's why you and everyone else can help by curtailing electric use during this unusually severe dry spell.

Cutbacks that might endanger health, safety, or security are not suggested. Just by using common sense, most homes can reach the goal of saving 10 per cent.

The Kendrick School 'Principal's Corner'-

Music Performances Last week was a music lover's delight. Three performances by the Kendrick High School Swing Choir and Concert Choir and two performances by the Gooding High School Stage Band and Swing Choir kept our schools alive with some fantastic sounds. Bob Pendergrast's vocal groups sang for the Elementary children and again for the High School students before performing at their evening Pops Concert, Lon-nie Guenther, former music teacher at Kendrick, brought his touring Band and Choir from Gooding to our area for concerts at the High School and Grade School. The kids from both schools put on a super show, the end result of a lot of hard work and long hours of practice.

The Kendrick Swing Choir presented some of the selections which they will sing on their tour through Western Washington. These included the selection of Gods. the musical arrangement of Godspell, which features soloists Joanne Parks and Amy Lawrence, Joanne will be leaving April 3 to partici-pate in the All Northwest Choir in Seattle and the Swing Choir will leave on tour April 13 for the Seattle-Tacoma area, More music and talent is scheduled for this week as the Washington-Idaho Symphony will present a vio-la, clarinet and piano trio at the High School Assembly and the Elementary Talent Show will be held at 7:30p. m. on Friday at the Grade school.

Elementary Parent-Teacher

Conferences-Almost every parent was able to attend the third quarter progress report conferences at the Elementary last Thursday and Friday. The teachers were extremely pleased with the turn out and were happy to meet and talk with so many parents about the progress of their children. After talking with many of the parents who came to the conferences and from going over the conference evalulations that were turned in afterwards by parents, I received only positive comments about this kind of student evaluation. This two-way communication between parents and teachers appears to be much more effective than just sending grade reports home. I would like to thank the parents for their cooperation in providing transportation home for their children at noon. This inconvenience for you was certainly helpful for us.
