

Lee and Natalia Heath Purchase Kendrick Hotel, Millard Apartments

The Kendrick Hotel, a landmark of the community since the early years of this century was sold last month to Lee and Natalia Heath, Cherrylane farmers. The Heaths purchased the business from Carla Emery, who had owned it for about a year, purchasing it from Mr. and Mrs. Harold Howerton.

The Heaths took possession of the hotel as of June 1. They also announced they had acquired the property which housed the Ceramic Shop, the State Liquor Store, Bailey's Woodcraft and two apartments from Mr. and Mrs. Don Millard, and took possession of those units as of July 1.

Mrs. Heath told the Gazette Monday that she and her husband were pleased to have purchased the two structures in Kendrick. Mrs. Heath also added that they have a great affection for the community and are happy to be a part of it.

Mrs. Heath said they plan to cease operation of the hotel as such and change the name to the Heath Building, converting the sleeping rooms into apartments. Over the years the other owners of the hotel have gradually converted much of the space into apartments and rental units until at the present time only a few rooms were reserved for travelers.

At the present the building houses the dental office of Dr. J. F. Sowle and the Beauty Nook, the remainder of the space is used for apartments.

The passing of the Kendrick Hotel follows the trend of many small town businesses of this type, as better roads, motels, campers and lack of transient trade made them unprofitable.

Mrs. Frank Bencoter, whose father, Charles Leslie Guy, owned and operated the hotel from 1913 to 1923, recalled when the business was a good one in Kendrick, with 30 rooms for rent and the part that now is used by Dr. Sowle was a large restaurant. Jo said her father bought the hotel from Burl Emmett, the father of Mrs. Pearl Long shortly after the Guys came to this area in 1912.

The Kendrick Post Office was located where the Beauty Nook is and the Farmer's Bank was operating next door to that.

The Heaths took possession of the Millard apartments July 1. The Millards purchased the building from Mrs. Millard's mother, Mrs. Marguerite Grieser in 1973.

Peas Prove Poor

Looking better than a good many of the pea fields in the Kendrick, Juliaetta and Genesee areas, Horst Reil combines in a Southwick field for Ted Meyer late last week. The severe drought during the winter and spring cut deeply into the crops this year as some of the poorest yields in history have been reported thus far. Even the wheat and barley is expected to be affected by the lack of moisture as farmers brace themselves for a slim harvest.

Drought Stricken Crops Yielding Light Harvest—

The 1977 pea harvest is well underway in both the Genesee and Kendrick areas and according to reports from warehouses in the two towns, the worst fears of the farmers are rapidly being confirmed. The dry winter and the hot, dry month of June proved disastrous for the pea crop and yields ranging from zero to 1,000 lbs. an acre have been reported.

Only a small portion of the usual amount of moisture in the form of either rain or snow was received during the winter. There was very little rain this spring which resulted in a very small amount of sub-moisture in the ground. The peas got off to a shaky start, a few showers in early May brightened the picture for a couple of weeks as the crops thrived on that small amount of rain. But the catch was that just when the peas were starting to pod, the rain stopped and hot weather settled in. The result was as bad as the farmers first feared . . . what pods did develop had only a few peas, small peas or no peas at all. The small grain crops were likewise affected, some of the wheat and barley didn't head out and most of what did head was undeveloped.

Brocke and Sons of Kendrick took in the first peas around July 1st. Manager Geo. Brocke, Jr., reported Tuesday that the quality appeared to be "pretty good" but the yields were poor. Both small sieve and Alaska peas have come in and Brocke reported peas from farmers delivering to his firm have ranged from 400 to 1,000 lbs. per acre. The manager said he estimated the crops expected were about one-third in.

It was just about the same story down at the Juliaetta warehouses of Lewiston Grain Growers as Ben Westendahl said the first peas came in down there July 7 and were small, but looked of fair quality. "Some of the Alaskas looked like small sieves," Westendahl said. Most of the growers delivering to the Grain Growers are expected to be finished soon with only 2 farmers still harvesting and delivering after Tuesday.

The first wheat came in to Juliaetta Monday and some barley came in last week. Both crops looked "like they were going to weigh pretty light," Westendahl reported. These fields coming in were the bench fields which appeared to have suffered more than other fields from the drought. Crops from up on top should start coming in next week and there is hope that these might be of better quality.

Looks Bad In Genesee

It was the same gloomy picture in Genesee, if not more so, as Bill Wood, manager of Genesee Union Warehouse, reported his company took the first peas in off the Rim June 23rd. "The quality looks pretty good," Woods said, "they aren't showing the blench they did last year; but the yields are way down."

Some pea fields were just a total loss and were not even cut, according to some reports heard in the area, especially out on the Rim. Woods said as close as he could tell from what has come in to the warehouse, yields have been running from 250 to 500 lbs. per acre, less than a fourth of what is commonly harvested. He added that he would estimate that the average field might go 400 lbs. per acre of peas this year. At first it was expected the yields might improve as the harvest moved north, but that is not proving true as the heat and lack of moisture are also hastening the harvest and some farmers closer to Genesee are cutting now with little better results.

Asgrow Seed Co. of Genesee took in their first peas last Friday and the report was just as from the other warehouses.

Doug Christensen didn't complete the climb he and two other youths planned last week in the Enchantment Lake area near Leavenworth, Washington, because of poor weather, but he did come back with some outstanding photos of the trip. The panoramic view shows Enchantment Lake and the rugged terrain. The other photo gives an idea of the challenge of the climb planned as Matt Kerns looks off the edge of the cliff. (photos by Doug Christensen)

Mountain Climbing Trip For Kendrick Man Foiled By Bad Weather

Doug Christensen of Kendrick returned from a three-day hike last week in the Enchantment Lake area. Doug was accompanied by his cousin, Jamie Christensen and Matt Kerns, both of Yakima.

The objective of the seven-mile hike into the Enchantment Lake area near Leavenworth, Wash. was to put up a new rock climbing route on Enchantment Peak.

Due to cold, overcast, and snowing weather, the group decided to postpone the climb and return to the lower altitudes after waiting two days for the weather to clear up.

Doug said, "The Enchantment lakes area was a rugged barren land of rock, ice and water with only a few shrubs and small meadows covered with tiny wild flowers. Several marmots were seen running through the rocks, whistling similar to that of a ground squirrel. Doug awoke one morning to see a mountain goat only 15 feet away from the tent. He said it seemed to show no fear of human beings."

Jamie Christensen and Matt Kerns plan to return to the area next week end to finish the climb.

PSORIASIS

Psoriasis is a skin disorder affecting one out of 50 Americans.

Its exact cause is unknown, and there is no sure cure, says the Idaho Medical Association.

Psoriasis appears as itchy, silvery-scaled red patches on the elbows, knees, scalp, trunk, and on the hands and other parts of the body.

The elbows, knees and trunk most frequently are the areas with the characteristic thick red scaling plaques. In the scalp, red plaques with sharp borders usually are visible at the hairline. These shed large quantities of silvery white scales resembling severe dandruff.

Acute psoriasis causes many small lesions over the body.

Much has been learned about psoriasis. It is not an infection and is not contagious. It may be hereditary. Injury to the skin sometimes precedes psoriatic lesions.

Changes in the seasons may cause variations in lesions, usually with improvement in the summer and worsening in the winter.

Certain medications and treatment are available that often alleviate the symptoms and ease the problem of psoriasis. They do not cure, and the condition returns when treatment is discontinued. Physicians can prescribe medications to help remove scales and ease the itching.

Mrs. Howard Hutchison, whose home is four miles west of Juliaetta has a gardenia in bloom, two beautiful blossoms now being fully opened up. It is seldom that a home gardener can get one of these plants to bloom.

Mr. and Mrs. Werner Brammer moved back to their ranch at Southwick last Thursday. He has been recuperating from surgery at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brammer, but is now getting along fine.

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fry held a reunion Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Wm. Fry, honoring the latter's birthday anniversary.

Out of a total ballots cast in the special election at Juliaetta on Tuesday of this week, 69 were against licensing the sale of liquor-by-the-drink after July 1, and 36 were favorable. There was a total of 190 registered voters so but few more than half cast their ballot.

50 Years Ago
On Saturday, July 2, Mrs. Albert Peterson gave a birthday party for her 7-year-old son, Vernon to which several of his young friends were invited and a right jolly good time did the youngsters have. Master Jack Magee, whose birthday anniversary came upon the same day and who is also just 7-years-old was the guest of honor.

Work on the new potato storage house is progressing nicely and the work will be rushed in order that the house may be ready for the fall crop of spuds which will undoubtedly be one of the biggest ever harvested here.

Fish Flows

The Federal Power Commission has denied a motion to quash testimony on river flow levels below Hells Canyon Dam in an upcoming hearing on Idaho Power Company's fish mitigation for its Hells Canyon dam complex.

The Department of Fish and Game reports changes in the flow below the dams can affect the salmon and steel head fisheries in this section of the Snake. Flow testimony will be confined to the relationship of flows to salmon and steelhead fisheries.

In a pre-hearing conference held in May, Presiding Judge Ernst Liebman said evidence in changes in flows below Hells Canyon Dam and their effect upon the fishery could be part of the foral hearing testimony that is to be presented next February in Portland.

Idaho Power Company had asked that the hearing not consider flows on grounds that the company's FPC license limits discussion on flows to those concerning navigation.

In response to Idaho Power's motion, the FPC attorneys said Idaho Power had:

—Not filed its motion in accordance with FPC rules.

— Misconstrued Judge Liebman's ruling regarding the license's article on flows and navigation.

—Tried to seriously limit the scope of the hearing in violation of the commission's order providing for the hearing.

—Asked to preclude information the FPC could not rule out a hearing.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

We are hearing much these days about high blood pressure, known medically as hypertension. For several years concerted national programs to discover and treat this most common of human ills have been under way and the American Medical Association and others have kept up the educational push.

What is blood pressure? A pamphlet from the AMA explains that your heart and blood vessels make up your body's blood distribution (circulatory) system, upon which all life processes depend. Under pressure your blood carries food and oxygen to and removes waste products from every cell in your body.

Blood pressure is maintained by your heart in your arteries and blood is pumped through your lungs where it picks up a fresh supply of oxygen and eliminates carbon dioxide. It then flows to the left side of your heart and is ready for another trip through your body.

What causes high blood pressure? In most cases the answer is not known. In at least 90 per cent of the people with high blood pressure no underlying disorder can be found. These people are said to have "essential hypertension." In the other 10 per cent, some of the causes are diseases of the kidneys, conditions affecting the adrenal glands atop each kidney, narrowing of the body's largest artery (aorta), defects in other arteries, and disorders of the nervous system.

Whatever its cause, untreated hypertension can be irreparable damage to vital body organs and result in an early death. The heart is the organ most commonly damaged. The higher the pressure, the harder the heart must work. Hypertension also contributes to fatty deposits in the arterial walls (atherosclerosis). Thus the blood supply to the heart will diminish. This change may result in chest pain on exercise (angina) or even in serious injury to part of the heart muscle (myocardial infarction, or heart attack).

How can you tell if you have high blood pressure? Unless you see a doctor, the chances are you can't. Hypertension usually is detected during a routine physical examination.

An estimated 23 million Americans have high blood pressure. Probably only half of them are aware of it. High blood pressure and hypertensive heart disease cause thousands of deaths annually and contribute to strokes, heart attacks and kidney failure.

High blood pressure can be treated successfully and kept under control in almost all cases. Drug therapy and alterations in life style (quit smoking, control tension, watch your diet, exercise moderately) can keep high blood pressure from killing you.

Dog Suit

The Department of Fish and Game has filed an answer to a civil suit in Shoshone District Court that seeks $12,000 damages for the loss of a yellow Labrador retriever.

In its answer, the department said the dog was attacking a deer at the time a department conservation officer shot it.

The dog's owners, David and Marlene Smith of Silverton, allege the conservation officer shot and killed their yellow Lab without cause in February, 1976. Along with the $12,000, the Smiths are asking for

CLEARWATER NATIONAL FOREST OPENS TO YCC CAMP

A 7-week Youth Conservation Corps (YCC) camp opened on the Clearwater National Forest Sunday (July 10) according to Forest Supervisor Kenneth P. Norman.

Norman said the camp is designed to give 15-18-year-old gainful employment, to train them to be aware of their environment and to accomplish needed conservation projects on the forest. He said this is the first residential camp for the Clearwater. A 4-week non-residential program was conducted on the Lochsa District in 1975.

The camp is being operated by the UI under a contract with the forest. Food and lodging is provided on the university campus and enrollees are transported each day to project locations. The Palouse Ranger District is providing projects and work tools.

Joe Hoffman, assistant professor of wildland recreation at the university is the camp director. The assistant director is Dave Cockrell, a graduate student in wildland recreation management. They are assisted by crew leaders who supervise enrollees during work hours and living leaders who are with the youth during off hours.

The 18 young women and 18 young men participating in this year's camp will spend about 80 percent of their time working on campground maintenance, trail construction and improvement, fire hazard reduction and other conservation projects on the forest. The balance of their time is devoted to environmental education. Camp staffers and Palouse District personnel help the enrollees understand the purpose of the various projects and teach other principles of environmental awareness.

YCC enrollees are paid a minimum wage. They were selected from a statewide roster of applicants and came to the Clearwater Camp from communities all over the state. Some of the enrollees are local youth.

Sometimes tonsils and adenoids are involved in causing a sore throat and when these organs repeatedly cause trouble they frequently are removed. Tonsil-adenoids removals account for half of all surgery performed on children. Sometimes the removal helps prevent sore throat, sometimes it doesn't.

Allergies can cause sore throat. Cold, dry winter air can trigger it. So can extreme thirst, excessive smoking or mouth breathing. Anything that dries out the throat and cuts off secretions that normally wash dust away.

Virus infection of many types also are a cause of sore throat, and everyone who has had the flu knows that this particular virus disease often causes the throat to hurt. "Strep throat," is a serious infection that occasionally leads to rheumatic fever and possible heart damage. It can be knocked out with penicillin, if diagnosed in time. The crucial diagnostic test in sore throats is the swab test through which the germs causing the trouble can be identified.

There is little or nothing you can do to cure a sore throat at home. There are medications which bring temporary easing of the discomfort, but the cure must be launched by your doctor.

Self-confidence is a good trait, but be sure you are in a position to back it up.

HOWARD HOFFMANS RETURN FROM VACATION TRAVELS

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hoffman have returned from a vacation which took them through 11 western states. They enjoyed such attractions as the Shakespeare Festival in Ashland, Ore. Dinosaur National Monument and Rocky Mtn. National Park in Colo. Mt. Rushmore and the Black Hills. While in Nebraska they visited with Mrs. Opal Diedrichs, who returned with them, and with several high school and college classmates.

Stay relaxed and use common sense and you can beat the heat—at least somewhat.

FOR SAFE DRIVING

Safe, Dependable Winter Driving Requires
Extra Care and Maintenance

A leaky or faulty muffler or exhaust system can be deadly on a car or truck in the wintertime when the windows are closed tightly most of the time.

Worn or poor snow tires can cause dangerous driving conditions when winter snow and ice are on the roads.

Brakes that grab or are out of adjustment could cause you to lose control of your vehicle when streets are icy.

Worn out points or spark plugs can make your car hard to start, especially on these cold mornings. And, an old, weak battery just can't give you the power you need in cold weather.

Good Anti-Freeze in the proper amount can mean the difference between complete protection and a costly repair bill.
