

Hot Weather Ushers In First Harvest of 1978 Crops

Temperatures pushed toward the 100 degree mark this week during the first sustained heat wave of the summer and the rising temperatures helped ripen the small grain crops. All of the warehouses in Kendrick and Genesee reported taking in peas and barley and some small amount of wheat.

Following the disastrous hail storms of last week in the Genesee area, the skies cleared and mercury began a slow climb into the high nineties. Lewiston reported its first 100-plus temperatures of the year Monday afternoon. Genesee and the higher elevations saw temperatures of almost ninety and Monday afternoon the mercury stood, unofficially, at 96 in Kendrick under a cloudless sky.

While the weather wasn't especially comfortable for people, it was great for harvest. The hot, dry days have allowed farmers to get started with cutting operations with no delays.

Brocke and Sons in Kendrick reported Tuesday afternoon that they are taking in peas and rape seed, mostly from the Potlatch Ridge area. Brocke took their first peas of the season in July 14 and since then have been receiving a steady supply from farmers growing under contract. Geo. Brocke, Jr., manager of the firm said the peas that have come in appear to be of good quality and quantity, as does the seed. George said the harvest for his firm is a little later this year than it was last, but last year was a very early season because of the dryness.

Barley was the main crop coming in to the Lewiston Grain Growers, Kendrick and Juliaetta Warehouses this week, reported manager Howard Hoffman. He reported the rate of deliveries as "fast" and added that just about all of the fall barley has been of good quality and apparently of good quantity for the growers. No peas have come into LGG as of Tuesday afternoon, Hoffman said, but he added that the Juliaetta warehouses took in its first wheat Tuesday, which appeared to be good. The first feed barley came into LGG at Kendrick July 13 and while the harvest is earlier this year than last it is almost right on the ten-year average for the beginning of the harvest.

"A little slow yet," was Bob Watts report from Kendrick Rochdale. The Rochdale manager said a few peas and a little barley had been "dribbling in" for the past ten days, but he felt the main harvest rush was about a week away. Watts was also in agreement with the other warehousemen that the crops were looking good this year.

"Terrific" was how Mike Martinez described the peas and fall barley that had been delivered to Genesee Union Warehouse so far. The yields are up over last year and the quality, too. Mike said most of the feed barley was No. 1 grade and running 48 to 50 lbs. per bushel in weight. Zenner Bros. out on the Rim started bringing in peas about ten days ago and most of the early peas are now in. Also all of the fall barley has now come in and the Warehouse is starting to slow down temporarily. Martinez said Monday wasn't as busy as Sunday and so far Tuesday as less busy yet.

Attempting to assess the storm damage of last week, Martinez said Genesee Union manager Bill Wood had made an estimate that 1,000 acres of barley, wheat and peas had been damaged to varying degrees in the Genesee area. A projected estimate made by the warehouse was that this damage means approximately 100,000 bushels of crops will not be coming in this year.

No wheat has yet been delivered in Genesee yet, but is expected by the end of the week. Some concern has been expressed that the wheat harvest, especially in quality will not be up to expectations because of disease and hail damage.

Martinez said the new pea receiving station at the East End warehouses is now complete and operational which should speed up delivery operations and relieve some of the pressure and waiting to unload. "But," Martinez added, "if the peas, wheat and barley all get ready at about the same time, farmers may experience some waiting problems."

Kampers Potluck at Park; Emerald Creek Next Outing

The regular monthly dinner meeting of the KCK was enjoyed at the Kendrick Park with fourteen attending. Harvest is in full swing and other summer activities keeps everyone busy. Entertainment was provided by Lloyd Craig who told about vacations in Arizona and the nice people one meets; the friendship which prevails among all the people.

Lloyd played a tape of music to illustrate what a "one man band" could do to entertain at gatherings in Arizona.

Everyone enjoyed the snappy dance and western music.

The next campout will be July 29-30 at Emerald Creek campground at Clarkia.

August 12-13 the Kampers will be on the South Fork at Castle Creek Campground.

Starlite Swim Session

There will be a "Starlite Dip" swimming session at the Kendrick pool this Saturday evening, July 29, said pool manager, Cindy Lohman. The session will be for those 14 years and older and will be from 9 to 11:00 p. m. Admission will be fifty cents. If the sessions are successful it is hoped to operate them on a regular Saturday night basis.

Children Theatre Play At Juliaetta Thrilled Many

An outstanding Children's Summer Theatre production of "The Near-Sighted Knight and the Far-Sighted Dragon", presented by Boise State University and Idaho State Public Library, was a smashing success at Juliaetta Community Park, Monday afternoon.

Over one hundred people attended the hour-long performance with knights, dragons, kings and princesses.

Special recognition must be given to Kathy O'Neill who directed this traveling troupe composed of Boise area students. Miss O'Neill apparently put much time and effort in this project.

Hopefully this is just the beginning of summer excitement with theater for our community. It is a refreshing change and an excellent opportunity for our children to be exposed to live theater and the fun it offers.

THIS I BELIEVE:

We need meaningful tax reform, but public services (education, enforcement, etc.) must be maintained.
Involvement of the state in local matters should be minimized. Each issue should be considered on its merits.
I would remain independent as far as each issue is concerned, but would solicit the opinions of the voters, and would vote to the best interest of my constituents.

Miss Eleanor Stackhaus of Willow Grove, Penn. is visiting her cousin, Mrs. D. F. Scharnhorst and family, and with Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh Hampton of Clarkston. Mr. Hampton and Miss Stackhaus visited several days in southern Idaho with his grandsons and families, Bob, Jim and Bruce Scharnhorst.

Mrs. Chuck Keenan, Katie and Kelly of Portland, Oregon and Mrs. Ken Mantha, Monique and Travis of Hutchinson, Kan., arrived Saturday to spend their vacation with the ladies' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bielenberg and Dan and other relatives. Sunday visitors of the Ed Bielenbergs and guests were Mr. and Mrs. Dwane Lore of Spokane, Mrs. Betty Bielenberg of Uniontown and granddaughter, Shelley Bielenberg, Sister Barbara Bielenberg of Cottonwood and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bielenberg and children. Mr. and Mrs. John Bielenberg of Nampa arrived on Monday to visit with relatives for a few days.

More than 100 attended the 7:00 P. M. performance of "Marmalade Gum Drops" in the Lower Park Monday evening. The Children's Traveling Theatre is sponsored by the Boise State University-Theatre Dept. and Idaho Public Libraries. A special thanks to the American Legion, the City of Genesee, and all local people who extended their hospitality to the cast and crew. Dorothy Holben, librarian.

GENESEE LIBRARY NEWS

The 2nd Informational workshop sponsored by the Genesee Community Library will be held Monday, July 31 at 7 p. m. at the library.

Featured will be a discussion regarding "Youth and the Law." Bill Hamilit, Latah county prosecuting attorney will lead the discussion into areas of the law, which particularly apply to teenagers or relate to teen activities—laws on school attendance, drug use, driving, shop lifting, vandalism, vagrancy, bomb hoaxes, unlawful assembly, implications of court "record" on a young person's future and legal rights of youth.

The public is invited to attend and a special invitation is given to teenagers. There will be no meeting in August. Please watch for announcement of the September meeting. Suggestions for topics are still being taken at the library.

A young business man, who was a deacon in his local church, was in New York on business. He was to purchase a new sign to be hung in front of the church. Before he left home, he copied the motto and dimensions. When he arrived in New York, he discovered that he had left the paper at home.

He wired his wife: "Send motto and dimensions."
An hour later the reply came in, and when the girl, who had just come on duty, read the telegram, she fainted.

The message read: "Unto Us a Child Is Born, 6 feet long and 2 feet wide."

The family was all upset because Alphonse, the eldest, age 72, decided to get married. What concerned them most was that the bride was only 20 years old. In desperation one of Alphonse's sons pleaded, "Look Pop, you must give this some serious thought. It's a serious step. In fact, a thing like this could prove fatal!"

"So what?" responded Alphonse unperturbed, "if she dies, I'll marry again."

IT HAPPENED WAY BACK WHEN

Genesee News August 3, 1928
 Friday of last week, Morley Platt, son of Will Platt, fell from a horse and broke both bones in his left arm. At exactly the same hour Bobbie Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Olson tripped and fell while running down a hill and broke both bones in his right arm.

Sunday afternoon a group of friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Krier to enjoy a picnic dinner.

Threshing operations have already begun in the Deary section and the grain is turning out pretty well averaging from 20 to 25 bu. to the acre.

Sunday last quite a little excitement was caused by the ringing of the fire bell, which has been silent for many months. The excitement was caused principally by a small blaze at the Joe Tobin country home a mile from town—very little damage was done.

One of the best yields of wheat reported thus far for this season was on the Edgar Evans farm, down on the Rim—Mr. Evans threshed 100 acres of Ridel Wheat, getting 4,700 bushels from the 100. Graded No. 1.

A record that beats the one just hung up, by Roy Evans who threshed 140 acres Moss-Ida wheat that yielded 7200 bu. or a little better than 51½ per bu. It graded No. 1.

Mrs. Isaac Isaksen returned home Tuesday morning from a Lewiston hospital where she had been for medical treatment.

The Genesee Union Whse. Co. has been having a coat of paint spread up on their east and west end buildings.

Meyer & Son have this week sold two International combines; one to E. L. Dawson and the other to D. W. Aherin.

Kendrick Gazette July 28, 1938

Roy Glenn and family were busy huckleberrying in the Bovill area Monday. They came home with 11 gallons.

New Arrivals—Mr. and Mrs. Santford Weaver, living in Cedar ridge section, are the parents of a 5½ lb. son, born July 21.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Brocke are the parents of an 8½ lb. boy, born July 21.

Luther and Linda Parks, children of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Parks, had their tonsils removed at the office of Dr. Christensen, Bernadine, Irene and Jane Peters, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Peters had tonsils removed by Dr. Christensen Wednesday July 29, 1948

Tom Keene, Ray Easterbrook, Ted and John Deobald left Monday morning on a fishing trip into the Headquarters area.

Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson had as dinner guests Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thompson and daughter, Delores; Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Fleshman; Mr. and Mrs. Claude Craig, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Swenson, Mrs. Gordon Peters and daughters; and Mrs.

DEPARTMENT OF EMPLOYMENT

According to Phyllis Dunn, Moscow Local Office Manager for the Idaho State Dept. of Employment, the following jobs are currently open—full-line auto mechanic, male ballet dancer, clothing sales clerk, temporary survey workers, executive secretary, waiter/waitress, nurses' aid, combine operator, farmworker, television and radio repairman, finish carpenter, BX installer, fry cook, broiler cook and restaurant hostess.

There are 203 people in Latah Co. filing for unemployment insurance compared to 205 last week and 347 in the same week in 1977. Current totals are Moscow 137 compared to 129 last week and 222 in 1977; Genesee 6, 8, 9; Troy-Deary-Bovill 34, 39, 69; Kendrick 5, 6, 4; Potlatch 21, 26, 43.

Bonnie Easterbrook and sons, Jack and Gene.

Juliaetta news: Helen Johns, Arlene Holmes, Clinton Schupfer of Kendrick and Gail Clark of Lapwai drove to Wallowa Lake Sunday to picnic, following the famous Chief Joseph Trail.

Stony Point News: The thunder storm Monday morning was responsible for two transformer fuses being blown out here. They were at the Marion Stevens and Cletis Hoisington homes.

Janice Heimgartner was ill with tonsillitis last week.

Nellie Dean Steigers—Reporter

Mr. and Mrs. Forest Gibbs of Spokane spent from Friday, July 21, until Sunday at Hubbard Gulch with Mrs. Mildred Heath. Word of coming guests for the Gibbs' home caused their early return to Spokane. Norma Rugg of Lewiston spent Thursday with her mother and as usual, faithful son Edgar and wife Ruth Heath came from Nezperce for Sunday evening.

Visitors in the Erma Stevens home this past week included Mrs. Nadine Whitney of Winston, Oregon, with her parents 'Toad' Clarence Heimgartner, wife Erma and Nadine's younger sister, Tammi Heimgartner, Mrs. Sharon Freeman and children, of Reno, Nevada, a niece of Erma Stevens, headquartering with her grandfather Foss, visited various relatives "around" recently.

Mrs. Albert Heimgartner was again a patient in St. Joseph's Hospital during the past week, but returned to the home of daughter Mabel Steigers on Sunday evening, much improved. Her ability to recuperate is marvelous.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Blair and friends of Lewiston came Sunday afternoon to visit with Vivian Blair's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cletis Hoisington.

Eldon and Gertrude Heimgartner spent Thursday evening with friend Mildred Heath. The busy life goes on, on every ranch—and some visiting. Coming to see Grandma Zumhofs and the Leslie Heimgartners, at various times during the past week were Marilyn Cuddy and daughter Ferris, Walter Zumhofs, Arne Zumhofs, wife Linda and 3 children, Ruth Heimgartner and Vivian Walden and Fern Hardin, the latter two from Stites.

Birthday Girl!—Miss Chantell Hoisington celebrated her 7th birthday with a family party at her home on Saturday evening. Present for the event were her grandparents Weyen, Uncle Dean Weyen and Janice Whitinger. Belated Happy Birthday, Chantell.

Attend 30th Wedding Anniversary — The 30th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Dahl was held at the Mike Duff home in Pierce on Sunday, July 23, and remaining for the family supper later was Betty Cowger and friends from our community. Young grandson Kelly Cowger returned to Stoneypoint with them for a week or so vacation visit.

Mrs. Helena Brown, after accompanying daughter Carol Richardson of Orofino and 2 small (?) grand-granddaughters, Rena and Noelle, to Lewiston on Wednesday, stopped at the E. Steigers home for a cooling off and chatting time, coming home, on Saturday Carol and Rena spent the day at Pine Creek. Miss Noelle was attending a track meet in Spokane, participating in relay races and broad jump. On Sunday Don and Jan Brown, with Shannon and Allen of Lewiston were her guests, along with Merle Cooper. Shannon has attended a class in training for her position of a cheerleader for the coming school year at Jr. Hi.

The Glen Stevens — Mr. and Mrs. Glen Stevens were Monday evening dinner guests of Rev. and Mrs. John Skillman at their Cottonwood Creek residence. Tuesday evening callers in the Stevens home were Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hoffman and Mrs. Elsie Hoffman. On Sunday afternoon they were among the many attending the Golden Wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Johns at Kendrick.

Mrs. Effie Powell, a member of a chartered bus group from Clarkston, enjoyed the "King Tut" exhibit at Seattle recently.

The Ken Steigers family, as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Syd Jones of Burke, and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Louvaas of Lewiston, enjoyed a weekend "sailing" on Lake Coeur d'Alene.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Steigers, members of the Old Time Fiddlers group who entertained for an evening hour, following a wonderful meal at the Clearwater Resource Conservation and Development area's 2nd annual council meeting and picnic, held at Ponderosa Point, Winchester Lake State Park at Winchester Saturday, were happy to enjoy the food, the cool temperature, the beauty of the scenery and meeting with many new and old friends.

Sunday "drop-in" guests of the E. Steigers included Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Steigers, Roger Harrer, Diane, Steve and Kelly Pettit. Mrs. Mary Steigers of Lewiston spent the day with them. Bill Steigers had again journeyed to the far headquarters of Clear Creek where volunteers donate labor toward Elk Refuge and fire control guards for same. Weekends are donated by interested conservationists.

A large crowd attended the wedding shower honoring Mrs. Dana Magnuson Tuesday afternoon. Eula Galloway and Diane Brunzell assisted the bride in opening her many lovely gifts. Grace Ingle gave two readings very appropriate to the occasion. A beautifully decorated sheet cake baked by Elaine Galloway, was cut and served by Hulda Clemenhagen and Elsie Chamberlain, while Gertrude Sneve poured the coffee and Ruth Adams served the punch.

Miss Diane Brunzell of Seattle, visited Monday until Friday at the Eula Galloway home.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Clemenhagen attended a family get-together dinner at the Troy home of Mrs. Ida Ruby Tuesday evening. The occasion was in honor of relatives visiting from Texas.

Dewey Galloway celebrated his birthday Sunday in the huckleberry patch along with Eula and Jerry Galloway and Hulda and Grant Clemenhagen.

Mrs. Ada Fairfield visited Mrs. Anna Bower Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Wilson and Leona and Bret Hoisington visited at the JayDee Wilson home Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Chamberlain attended the Golden Wedding celebration of Phil and Iva Johns at Kendrick Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Van Gieson of Springa spent from Thursday until Saturday with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Albin Nelson.

Crowe Continues Attack On Other Candidates

Campaigning in Latah and Clearwater Counties, James Crowe, Republican gubernatorial hopeful again took shots at his fellow candidates. Commenting in Kendrick Monday as he visited at the Gazette office, Crowe stated, "Ravenscroft, Otter, Jackson, and Larson can't solve the financial mess they got us into when all of them were a part of the problem in the first place. "Where were these four," Crowe continued, "when the votes counted; when the legislature had a chance to correct this plea for tax relief from the citizens of

Juliaetta Library Ending
Summer Reading Program
With Movie July 28

This week's special showing of the Walt Disney movie "Island at the Top of the World", tops off 1978's summer reading program at the Juliaetta Community Library. The adventure movie will be shown 1:30 p. m. Friday, July 28 at Borah Theatre, University of Idaho, Moscow.

All members of the summer reading clubs at branches of the Moscow-Latah County Library system who have completed requirements are eligible to attend. Tickets are available at the Juliaetta Community Library.

Several parents have volunteered to drive children to Moscow. Cars will be leaving from Juliaetta Community Park and from Kendrick Park between 12:30 and 1:30 in order to accommodate schedule conflicts with swimming lessons.

Please call the library, 276-7071 or Sharyn Curtis, 276-7812 before noon Friday to make arrangements for rides.

Winners in the "Starbound" coloring contest will be announced Wednesday, July 26. The winning creations will be on display at the library before joining other regional winners on display at Washington Water Power in Moscow. There were 14 local entries all depicting imaginary contact with a UFO.

Library hours are:
Wednesday: 4 to 6 p. m.
Thursday: 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.
Friday and Saturday: 10 a. m. to 12 noon.

CARD OF THANKS

I feel that mere words are inadequate to tell relatives, friends and neighbors how much I appreciated all that you have done for myself and my family following our tragedy. Your visits at the hospital, money donations, cards of sympathy and all the understanding and kind acts shown us have helped us through these past few weeks more than you will ever know. It is with a sincerely grateful heart that I say "Thank You".

Church youths try homesteading lifestyle

By Susan Tiede

Nostalgia and the "good old days" are quite popular now, but would you want to return to those days of yester year?

Eight Inland Empire youths spent July 9-14 trying out the good old days of homesteading in the Melrose-Gifford area.

They were accompanied by three camp counselors and a resource pastor.

The "Homestead Camp" was a branch program from Camp Lutherhaven on Coeur d'Alene Lake.

The program's first year involved many of the members of Homestead Camp organizer John Strand's congregation at Good Hope Lutheran Church at Gifford.

The local people were the ones that really made the camp. "Without the parishioners, it wouldn't have been anything because they brought in items and taught the homesteading skills" Pastor Strand said.

"They kept offering more things for the campers to do.

This weathered barn is part of the atmosphere on the Ernest Timme farm near Gifford where a homestead camp for youth was conducted this month.

They added sheep shearing, pie crust making and haying to the schedule," Mrs. Strand said.

The camp itself was located on the old Ernest Timme farm owned by Ron Stellyes.

A number of persons in the surrounding area loaned items including a wood stove, a treadle sewing machine, wash boards, kerosene lamps, a wall phone and an antique wringer washing machine.

The items were all hauled back home after the week at camp.

The site itself lended to the authenticity with the old barn, a two-story white farm house, numerous small out buildings, a variety of old horse drawn farm machinery, and a rather tumbled down mossy log building.

The wood stove delegation from Nezperce said it took them two hours to get the Weather outlook

The weather outlook for the 30 day period . . . mid July to mid August . . . is for temperatures to average near normal in the Magic and Eastern Idaho Valleys and above normal from the Boise Valley northward through the panhandle.

Precipitation is expected to average below normal except for a small above normal area in Owhyhee County.

The normal weather pattern during this period is to be hot and dry except for the extreme eastern portions of the state near the continental divide where there is considerable thunderstorm activity, mostly over and near the mountains.

Storm systems from the Pacific are weak and of little importance.

Some average total precipitation amounts for the period include Sandpoint, .40 of an inch; Moscow, .35; Grangeville, .60; Salmon, .50; McCall, .40; Parma and Twin Falls, .20; Aberdeen, .40; Idaho Falls, .45; Ashton, .80; and Malad, .65 of an inch.

The daytime temperatures reach their yearly maximums during the period.

Maximums above 90 degrees are common in most of the agricultural valleys of the south and central portions of the state while the 80s are more common in the north portion and at the higher elevations in the south.

Relative humidities are usually very low.

Conditions are favorable for rapid curing of hay and the early small grain fields are usually harvested with little or no weather problems.

The nights cool rapidly under mostly fair skies and are usually comfortable.

Lows are usually in the 50s in the lower valleys and in the 40s in the mountains.

chimney cleaned out and the stove working.

A note of atmosphere was added by the road to the camp. In the good old days, paving wasn't heard of, but axle deep mud was common.

Monday the camp's Chevy Suburban got stuck on the slippery road. Of course, the mud was really only on the road's one hill.

Electricity was used to pump water at the homestead as they didn't have a hand pump available.

They used the kerosene lamps on the tables part of the time and meals were cooked on a woodstove which Strand verified would belch back fire when starting it.

Bathroom facilities were a "one holer" and a "two holer."

Home-cooked meals were featured at the camp. Every third day each camper helped with the cooking.

The youths were divided into three groups by blind folding them and giving them animal sounds.

When they found others of their kind from the calls—dogs, cows, and sheep—their groups were formed.

The groups alternated from cooking to KP to program, according to Mary Jacobus, camp counselor.

Camp instructors were mostly persons whose parents or grandparents had homesteaded the area after the Nez Perce Indian reservation was opened to settlement in the 1890s.

Their first day at camp was "dairy" day. They had cow milking instruction from Ed and Earl Tiede.

Camp resource Pastor Neil Buckaloo of Spokane led the class, but defaulted as he had milked cows before.

One of the girls didn't want to go into the barn as it smelled "funny" to her city conditioned nose, Strand said.

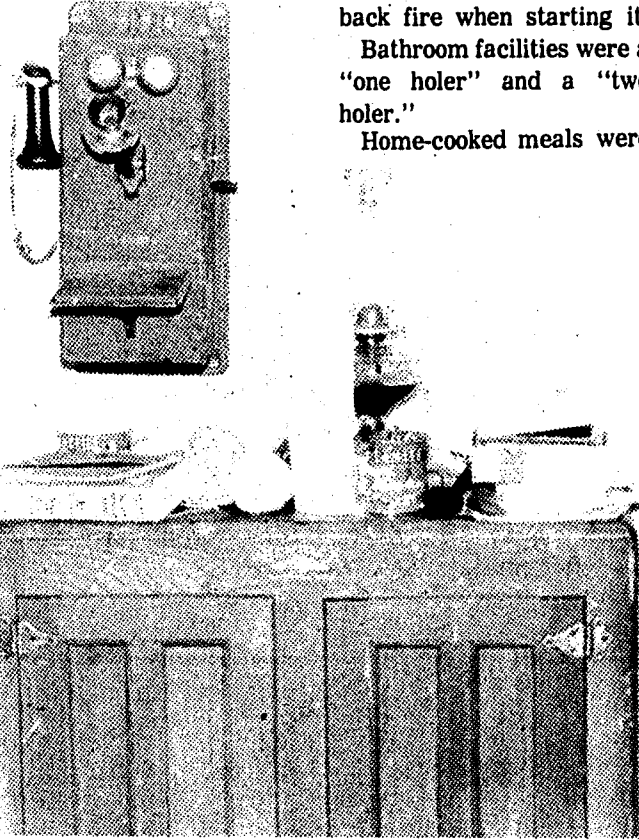

The milking led to butter making taught by Christina Stolte.

During slack periods in their schedule of homestead training, the campers did service projects at the campsite like building a campfire ring near the barn and painting some of the trim on the two-story house.

During the evenings, Ruth Riggers brought several horses over for the campers to test their pioneer riding talents.

Domestic skills kept them busy Tuesday. A large vat of homemade soap cooled near the house. Marie Riggers, Emma Stolte and Mary Lou Tiede helped with the lye soap instruction. They also served as home-made bread instructors.

Wednesday morning when homestead camp was visited by the Farm and Ranch Chronicle, the youths were involved in their daily Bible study at their campfire site near the barn. That afternoon was spent canoeing at Winchester Lake.

The camp's very authentic homestead features were often next to some "flaws." The cold running water in the old-fashioned porch sink had dishwater heated on the woodstove.

As the group cleaned the kitchen after preparing their picnic lunch under the supervision of cook Debbie Stellyes of Reubens, one of the girls bolted upstairs, "I almost forgot my mascara."

Many a pioneer woman heated her curling iron in the lamp chimney and carefully watched so an overheated iron wouldn't burn one's hair.

Female campers held tight to the "curling iron" tradition, but plugged theirs into the nearest wall socket for a thermostatically controlled heat.

Wednesday evening was sheep shearing time at Bill Stolte's. Warm weather is supposed to be good for the wool as it raises the oil into the fibers and oils the clippers while you shear, Howard Stolte said.

It may not be so good for the shearer since a wiggly, warm wool-covered animal keeps the shearer dripping with perspiration.

Stolte started at the animal's head and deftly peeled the wool off the animal with electric clippers.

He recalled several previous inventions used by the family to shear the sheep.

Original hand clippers roughly resembling scissors were first, but Howard was a little leary of them.

"I'm always afraid I'd ventilate one with them."

Their first powered shears were still in the barn. It was a two-person operation—one to crank for power and another to shear.

As Stolte finished the first sheep, one camper remarked her legs needed shaving but not that bad.

The wool on the floor looked more like a sheep than the "bare" sheep back in the pen.

Stolte sheared a second sheep for the group and related how wool usually is marketed through a wool coop.

Wool is tied with paper string so the whole bale can be washed at once at the woolen mill.

The finishing touch in shearing is to replace the animal's bell to ward off coyotes.

Stolte said sheep pelts can't be given away on the market, but sheep-lined jackets aren't cheap.

Thursday at homesteading camp was devoted to the masculine side of pioneering—muzzle loading rifle by John Strand.

Other activities at the camp during the week were raspberry picking, pie baking, sewing with a treadle sewing machine and haying.

They took another step back to pioneer days by touring Indian artifact displays at Ralph William's of Gifford.

Thursday evening, all the campers and the persons that helped instruct at the camp had a potluck dinner to close the week. The campers presented the instructors with string art God's eyes. During the evening they made home-made ice cream.

Homestead Camp is one of several programs Strand has as the Clearwater Valley Summer Ministry.

The program gives youths the opportunity for church camp outside a routine camp setting.

Canoeing and backpacking are some of the more unusual ones. Strand also provides chaplaincy services to the youth at the Canyon Creek and Kelly Ranger Stations operated by the Forest Service.

At the end of the week, the homestead had added another chapter to its life of wilderness, settlement, abandonment and a church encampment.

Rains have hurt crops

By Susan Tiede

Recent rains have adversely affected hay crops in the region, but other crops are doing well.

Latah county hay was damaged to spoiled, according to Gordon Dailey, County Extension Agriculture agent.

Some hay was burned, chopped back into the land or hauled off.

"There isn't any panic yet over a 'hay shortage'," Dailey said.

Hay from the Columbia Basin is reasonable if cattle prices hold, so if they had to, they could buy some there.

Southern Idaho reports an abundance of hay, too.

The rains have made the pasture and rangeland grow so the livestock is looking good.

A little winter barley has been thrashed in the county while most of the crops are generally coming along pretty well.

Last week there was hail on Texas and Burnt Ridges in the southeast corner of the county.

Some peas were a 100 per cent loss in hundreds of acres.

Fifteen to 20 per cent damage was suffered in grain around Deary, but more extensive damage to crops didn't occur because of the amount of forest in that area.

"Aphids are terrific this year both in gardens and on the farms. I've never seen so many," Dailey said.

Aphids have been in peas and lentils plus the grain now. Peas have been treated for loopers and aphids.

"The spring barley and what little wheat we have may require treatment," he said.

There has been foot rot in winter wheat and some in the peas plus ascaida.

"Generally, the crops are coming along pretty well, so we haven't lost it all yet," Dailey concluded.

Nezperce County farmers in the upper elevations are being caught in a time squeeze between haying and harvesting winter barley.

Lewis county farms have suffered heavy losses due to recent hail storms and severe rains.

Some set-aside acreages have lost a fair amount of top soil from "cloud bursts" which washed across some roadways.

Hail storms have swept the area between Winchester and Craigmont plus the Craigmont-Nezperce section. Three storms have gone through these separate areas, but some areas have been hit up to three times. Losses are up to 100 percent in many areas.

Hay in the county is also in trouble after the rains. Those that cut their hay late in June are burning whole fields after they turn it with a rake, so it is dry enough to burn.

Other ranchers have not yet cut their hay. Bluegrass in the Nezperce area is being swathed in preparation for harvest.

An elephant's hearing is so good that it can detect the footsteps of a mouse.

Increased restrictions urged

Increased restriction of motorized recreation on public lands might be one of the best ways to avoid further lock-ups of federal wilderness, a law professor said during a natural resources symposium at the University of Idaho.

UI law professor Arthur Smith Jr., formerly with the lands and natural resource division of the U.S. Department of Justice, advocated applying multiple-use policies to most public lands, saying he did not favor closing more land to timber harvesting and mining.

Smith said that by closing off more areas to motorized recreational use, however, many goals of timber producers, wilderness users and wildlife managers could still be satisfied.

"The values of both commodity use and non-motorized recreation use are uniquely tied to the natural forest environment," Smith said.

Motorized vehicle use, on the other hand, is not as uniquely tied to that environment, he added.

Lochsa Historical Ranger Station

Both old and new methods are used daily at the Lochsa Historical Ranger Station as evidenced by this pickup truck camper rig parked in a field with a string of pack mules.

By Susan Tiede

The Forest Service's history, its work and the rangers in the Lochsa region are traced in the Lochsa Historic Ranger Station roughly 50 miles east of Kooskia along Highway 12. The six building complex is authentically furnished along with pictures from the early day packers and rangers.

Forest Service employees or retired Forest Service personnel, who worked out of the ranger station, are on hand daily during the summer months to explain the camp and spin yarns about how it was.

The historic ranger station which was dedicated two years ago is open 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. during the summer months for self-guided tours.

Different stops at the station have brief tape recorded explanations of the setting and its historic background.

The Alternate Ranger's

Dwelling which acts as a visitor's information center has a good supply of leaflets about the ranger station and the surrounding area.

The walls of the building are lined with photographs of early rangers, their families, packers and some candid shots of early camera clowns.

The actual ranger's dwelling circa 1933 is furnished like home-sweet-home it was when lived in. Furnishings are a wood stove, ice box, official Forest Service crest tableware, chairs and tables.

The most unusual feature trails for access to fire areas as it was an early "roadless area".

The ranger's office hardly compares with modern fire control headquarters.

A wall phone with separate bells for each lookout was used to report fires. A cot along one wall was for use during slack moments of major fire reportings.

The office also contained a "home-made" chair and desk.

The camera which took many of the photos in the ranger station displays is still ready in the ranger's office.

The camp kitchen looks like a 40 years ago supper time.

Tables are all set with official Forest Service dishes. Kettles are on the stove and a very large dishpan awaits use in the sink.

The old wood range had coils in it to heat the water for the dishes.

Trails on the grounds lead visitors to the old cellar, well house and woodshed.

The Boulder Creek Station sits on a knoll above the trail.

It hasn't been restored like the other buildings. It was built on Boulder Flat about a mile up stream from the Lochsa Station.

In 1926, the Boulder Creek Station was dismantled and floated to the Lochsa Station where it was reassembled and used as a bunk house.

The State-line Cabin has been moved to the historic station and placed on a new foundation.

The old and new of the Forest Service are side-by-side of the ranger's house is the bathtub.

Photos depict bringing it in by a horse drawn "go devil".

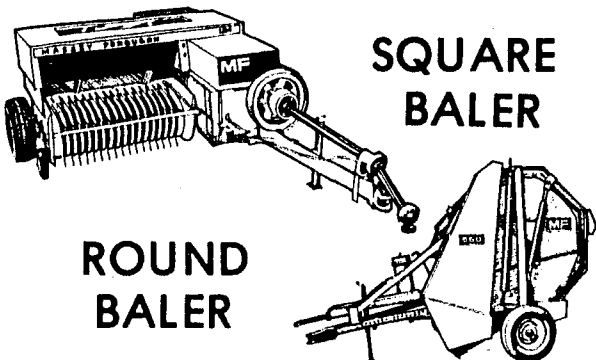

The 12 mile trek from Bimmerick Creek took three days of hard work.

The men and horse look exhausted in the picture taken on their arrival at the ranger station.

Station offers glimpse of past

Probably, the packers had an expression resembling the name of their equipment to tell the ranger's wife next time she requested a modern convenience.

Across the yard from the ranger's house is the "combination building". It is roughly 100 feet long and had originally been four separate buildings.

It housed the commissary to supply the outlying camps. A "loading dock" for pack strings is in front of the door.

The taped information points out the screened portion of the room contained the foods most likely to attract insects and rodents.

The equipment display in the next room ranges from a very early "backpack" used to carry fire equipment to a folding cross-cut saw for the pack.

Old porcelain directional signs are also displayed.

The ranger station's equipment covers an era when pumper trucks, retardant planes, smoke jumpers, and dozers weren't even imagined.

All fire fighting was done with ax and shovels.

Fire fighters had only side in the barn area.

A packstring of sociable horses and mules greet visitors, but pickup trucks are also in evidence.

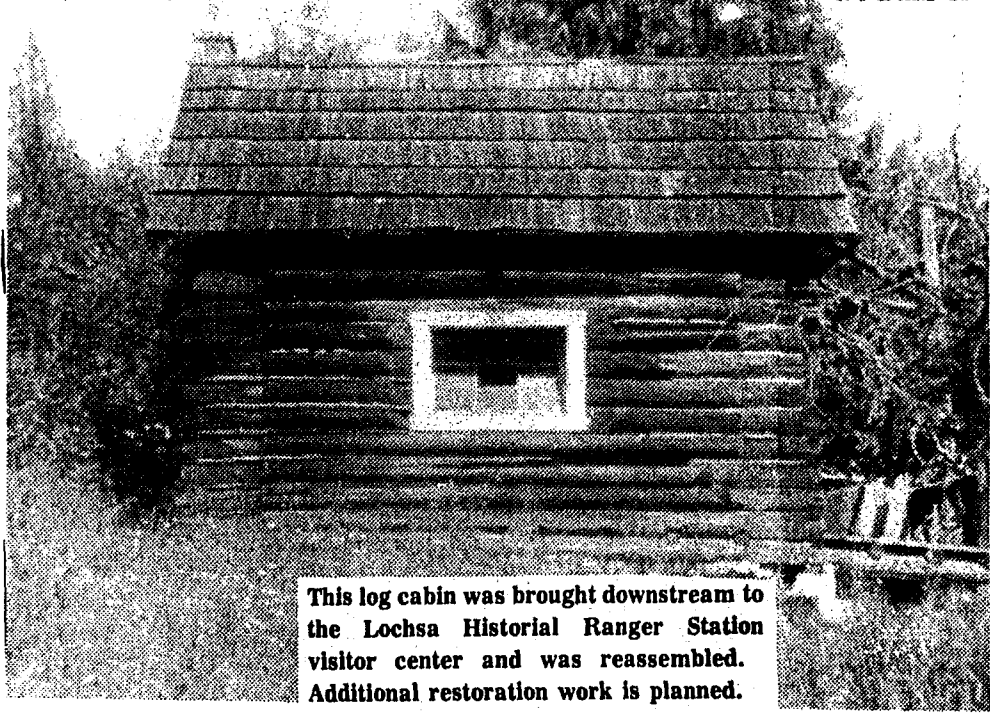

The need for livestock pasture at the station is credited with its continued existence.

"Eight acres were cleared in 1931 to provide pasture for the stock.

"During the disastrous fire of 1934, this clearing was the main factor in saving the station and 200-plus persons as flames raged around and overhead", according to information prepared by the Forest Service.

The ranger station is a pleasant drive up the scenic Middle Fork of the Clearwater.

The station is also designed so most areas are accessible for the handicapped.

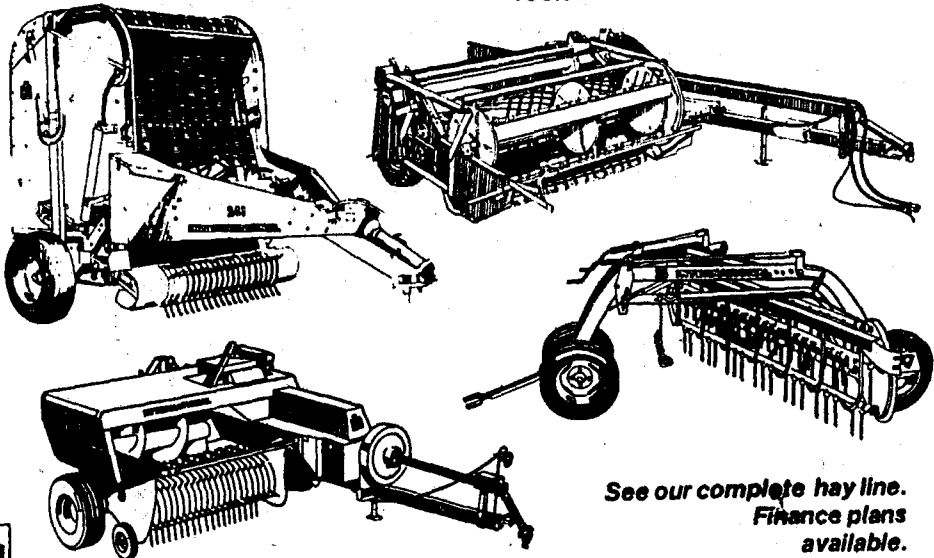

This log cabin was brought downstream to the Lochsa Historical Ranger Station visitor center and was reassembled. Additional restoration work is planned.

Farmers tour test plots

By Susan Tiede

Alternate crops were the focus of the Lewis County plot tour July 13 in the Nexperce area under the sponsorship of the county extension service.

Sunflowers and rape were the major new comers covered by Dr. Dick Auld, assistant professor of plant breeding and genetics, and Dr. Glen Murray professor and crop physiologist, both of the Plant Sciences Department at the University of Idaho.

"We started looking for alternate crops to wheat and barley which would be adapted to north Idaho and their market potential.

"The three crops we came up with were sunflower, safflower and winter rape.

"Rape is being raised, but could use some improvement," Dr. Auld said.

Dr. Murray noted that sunflowers are almost as sensitive to 2-4-D damage as grapes and the plots at Neil and Wynne Henderson' in the Mohler area were affected.

Hendersons also have test plots of 40 varieties of spring barley and 60 of spring wheat—half of which are hard red varieties.

No major insect problems were found in sunflowers except for loopers, but loopers have only been a problem three times in the last 12 years.

Sunflowers' shortcomings include the need to have a special drill for seeding and a combine header attachment which costs $600-1,000 to catch seeds that may shatter out.

Sunflowers are about par with barley in price.

Sunflower seed is marketed as whole seed from North Dakota to Minneapolis and on to Germany for processing.

There is a processing plant in California which is looking for sunflower seed in the Northwest to reduce freight costs from the Mid-West.

Sunflowers here have a good oil content and composition.

The silage potential and feeding of sunflowers will be studied this year.

A five acre plot of sunflowers will be harvested and fed for the rate of gain on livestock in conjunction with the university of Idaho Animal Science Department, Dr. Murray said.

Weed control in sunflowers has been good with Treflan and Avidex in this area instead of cultivation like in the Mid-West.

Austrian Winter pea fertilizer trials on the Dale Johnson farm showed no real difference in color, height, and productivity to date, Dr. Auld said.

Variety trials at the site included Common, Romack, Melrose and ID 89.

The Melrose seed is currently on a seed increase program at Tatko's near Craigmont.

It is a pea leaf weevil resistant variety which gives the farmer time to see and

Dr. Glen Murray of the University of Idaho discussed the potential of sunflowers as a crop during a visit to a trial plot on the Neil and Wynne Henderson farm July 13.

spray the weevils before they damage the plant.

Melrose is a five to six year variety while others are being developed.

It is winter hardy and yields better than Fenn or Common, but is susceptible to Race I Wilt.

The field trial is the real test of the worth of a variety not a 20 foot plot, Auld said.

"Multiline" was being tested with a mix of one-fourth each of Fenn, Melrose, ID 113 and ID 130. Diversity and different tolerances for various conditions are built into the mixed seeding, Auld said.

Frogel and Frimas, French varieties, were tested but the limited amounts of seed available didn't give adequate plants this spring for the tests.

The Frogel variety is a winter processing pea which flowers and sets pods early which enables the French to open their processing plants a month sooner.

Winter lentils were marginal at the Nezperce site with 2-4-D damage. These need good herbicides Wynne Henderson pointed out different varieties of spring wheat and barley on his place during a plot tour July 13 in Lewis County.

Test plots toured

to make a crop and get it out of the weeds, Auld said.

Future developments being worked on include resistance to weevil, root rot and scarletina.

Farmers were told by Dr. Murray that they were on their own for hail resistance as the tour covered a number of acres of hail damage.

"It is either a steel canopy over the crop or an in-church-on-Sunday project for the hail resistance."

Late seeded rape variety tests didn't produce a stand and were turned under, but the rape fertilizer tests did show some response.

It may have been an under-fertilized crop, Dr. Murray said.

There was a definite jump in plant vigor, and the number of pods on the rape plants with 300 pounds 16-20-0 fertilizer.

Some tests are being conducted by the University of Idaho on spring rape and different spray intervals.

Spring rape is being studied with a later insecticide application after the blossoms start to drop.

There are fewer bees in the field at that time but the seed yields haven't been proven yet.

Winter rape hosts scarletina which attacks winter peas.

The alternate crop may help break the wheat cropping system which leads to foot rot in wheat.

Jim Henderson of Berger and Plate described the current market for rape as not very good.

Canadian seedings are up 77 percent. Most rape is exported, but the market is pretty "iffy".

High urisic acid in this area's rape seed limits its use, but it is blended with lower acid Canadian crops.

On the favorable side, are high oil yields and the cost of seeding rape is lower than most crops.

A conservation portion of the tour was under the direction of Lewis Soil Conservation District Supervisor Joe Zenner of Craigmont.

Several grass seedings were viewed which had been seeded with no-till, minimum and regular tillage methods in straw fields.

A set-aside field of "summer fallow" was reviewed. It had a herbicide program which controlled weeds and erosion.

Zenner outlined the construction of a waterway on a previous "wild draw".

Erosion control by the waterway was a marked difference from the field across the road which didn't have a waterway.

Zenner overseeded the grass seeded portion of the waterway with wheat as a ground cover to control erosion.

ASCS will cost share 90 percent on grassed waterways for erosion control, according to Alvin Kranzler, Lewis County ASCS Executive Director.

Clearwater SCD wins state award

The Clearwater Soil Conservation District won Idaho's 1977 Goodyear Conservation Award, Chuck Miller, Clearwater ACD vice chairman verified this week.

Ada SCD is runner-up and Minidoka is the Honor District. Awards will be presented during the Idaho Association of Soil Conservation District's Convention Nov. 15 in Moscow.

The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. sponsors the annual award in each state to recognize the districts for outstanding efforts in planning and implementing those plans for conservation and proper use of soil, water and other natural resources, according to Miller.

Some criteria for the Goodyear contest are an entry form questionnaire on how the district's long range program and annual work plan are carried out and a scrapbook of activities.

Each entering district must also name an outstanding cooperator.

Clearwater SCD's Outstanding Cooperators for 1977 were Art and Marty Johnson of Orofino.

The Johnsons have an 80 acre tract which they are turning into a wildlife habitat along with a compatible livestock grazing operation.

"Our education program attempts to keep the people informed on conservation and the district's programs try to cover all areas of conservation," Miller said.

"Cultivated cropland usually receives the major focus of the district's because it is most vulnerable, but we have expanded into forestry, cities, land development and sub-divisions where conservation programs may be needed," he noted.

"Our youth auxillary board is especially helpful in keeping conservation in front of the public."

Clearwater is one of the first districts in the state to have an active youth board. Members assist on district projects and attend workshops with the board of supervisors to learn more about conservation.

One youth board project has been seeding an eroding road bank to grass.

"Successful programs are not just one person, but a team effort of the supervisors, SCS personnel, the youth board, and the public," Miller said.

Members of the 1977 "team" which received the award are board of supervisors Bill White, Bill Jackson, Chuck Miller, Roscoe Moore, Roger Morgan and associate member Henry Hasse.

District conservationist Lee Pattison also worked closely with the district's programs.

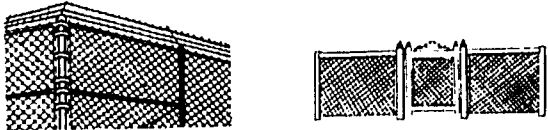

Pattison received an award for his work from another organization. He has since transferred to Susanville, Calif.

As winners of the Goodyear Award, a district representative will receive a trip to the Goodyear Conservation Research Farm at Litchfield Park, Ariz.

Each state's representatives will be attending the tour to get new conservation ideas to take back to their local district.

Miller will be attending the tour Dec. 15-19.

FAIR ENOUGH

By Dalt Lombard

Summer is that time of year when the highway authorities close the regular roads and open up the detours.

When in charge, ponder; when in trouble, delegate; when in doubt, mumble.

Trouble with people who talk too fast is that they often say something they haven't thought of yet.

Pedestrian: Someone on his way from where he has to park to where he has to go.

Remember when you let a child have some candy if he finished his cereal? Now candy IS the cereal.

We can help you out of the "crunch" at ROAD-N-RUDDER.

See us for a travel trailer that takes those camping-country roads in stride.

Recipes from Alaska

"Something Special", recipes from a booklet put together by the Chugiak Elementary P.T.A. of Alaska.

Selected from the booklet are several recipes, 1 for campers, 2 cookie recipes and from the Family Heirloom section a recipe for Raised Doughnuts.

HUNTER'S SPECIAL

(a dish when camping)

- 1/4 lb. bacon
- 1 med. onion, chopped
- 1 small can potatoes sliced
- 1 small can whole kernel corn
- 1/2 small can conds. milk
- 6 eggs

Brown bacon and onion in frying pan; drain excess grease. Mix together eggs, corn, milk and potatoes. Pour over bacon and onions and cook slowly over a low fire or flame. Use a spatula and do not stir more often than necessary to avoid scorching; cook until excess moisture is gone and resulting omelet is golden brown. Feeds 2 hungry hunters.

ORANGE SLICE CHEWS

- 3 eggs, beaten
- 1 1/2 c. brown sugar
- 1 T water
- 1/2 t. salt
- 1/2 c. chopped walnuts
- 1 3/4 c. sifted flour
- 1 1/2 c. orange candy slices, cut up
- 1/4 c. flaked coconut

Beat eggs, water and brown sugar till thick. Combine flour, orange slices, coconut and nuts; stir into egg mixture. Spread evenly into a greased 10 x 15 pan. Bake at 375 for 20 minutes. Cool and cut into bars.

BANANA OATMEAL COOKIES

- 2 c. flour
- 1 c. packed brown sugar
- 1 c. sugar
- 1 t. salt
- 1 t. soda
- 1 1/2 c. (2) bananas, ripe
- 1 c. butter
- 2 eggs
- 1 t. vanilla
- 3 c. quick oats
- 1 c. chopped walnuts

Combine all ingredients except rolled oats and walnuts in large mixer bowl. Mix at low speed until well blended. Stir in rolled oats and walnuts. Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto greased cookie sheets. Bake at 375 for 10 to 12 minutes. For use with self-rising flour, omit salt and soda. Makes 7 dozen.

RAISED DOUGHNUTS

Sift together 3 times:

- 4 c. flour
- 1/4 t. salt
- 1/2 t. nutmeg
- 4 t. baking powder

In large bowl:

Mix

- 2 well beaten eggs
- 1 1/4 c. sugar
- 1 c. rich sour cream
- 2 c. rich sour milk
- 1 t. soda dissolved in small amount of water (hot)

Add sifted ingredients gradually until well blended. Dough will be soft. Put good amount of flour on board; roll and cut and let stand for 1 hour before frying. These will not soak up fat. I have used this same recipe, using a doughnut maker; works wonderfully. Just place in maker instead of on board.

A Barbecue Menu For Industrious Guests

Some guests just want to sit back and be served. But some like to dig in with both hands, whatever the activity. If your friends display the latter form of energy and enthusiasm, why not throw a Make-Your-Own-Sausage-Hero Party? Open Pit barbecue sauce bastes the choice of grilled sausages and is the secret ingredient in the chili topping. Set out baskets of hero rolls, bowls of shredded lettuce, onions and tomatoes and — to keep up with the most creative chefs on your guest list — plan on plenty of napkins.

Sausage Hero

- Italian sausages, frankfurters or kielbasa
- All-purpose barbecue sauce, any flavor
- Hero rolls, split

Cut slit in sausages about 1/2 inch deep, almost to ends. Grill about 3 inches from glowing coals, turning and brushing frequently with barbecue sauce until well done, 20 to 30 minutes. (Allow about 1/3 cup barbecue sauce for each pound of meat.) Serve on rolls with shredded lettuce, tomato slices, onion slices and green pepper strips, if desired.

Note: Italian sausages may be parboiled before grilling.

Barbecued Chili Con Carne

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
- 1 can (15-1/4 oz.) red kidney beans
- 1 can (16 oz.) whole tomatoes
- 3/4 cup all-purpose barbecue sauce, any flavor

- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon chili powder

Brown beef, onion and green pepper in skillet or heavy saucepan. Pour off any excess fat. Stir in remaining ingredients. Cover and simmer 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Serve over hot cooked rice, if desired. Makes 5 3/4 cups or 6 servings.

IDEAS & FOOD for thought

By Pat Wherry

The Sherbet And Strawberry Scene

Synonymous with birthday parties and sun-dappled summer days—that's strawberries and sherbet! With just a few simple steps you can create Super Summer Sherbet that will dazzle your guests and enchant your family. To a package of prepared Dream Whip whipped topping add a pint of your favorite flavor sherbet. Freeze; then unmold and serve in your prettiest dessert glasses along with a bowl of ripe, red strawberries. Here's a perfect way to put summer on ice!

SUPER SUMMER SHERBET

- 1 envelope whipped topping mix
- 1 pint sherbet, any flavor, slightly softened

Prepare whipped topping mix as directed on package. Add sherbet and beat until well blended. Spoon into individual molds. Freeze until firm, at least 3 hours. Unmold. Serve with sliced strawberries, if desired. Makes about 3 cups or 6 servings.

The Now Washbasket

By Steffne Miller

Ah — summertime in the Great Outdoors. Time for picnicking, hiking and camping. Time also for making one product do the job of many; especially when it's time to clean up. One product people always recommend to the Now Washbasket is Boraxo Powdered Hand Soap. It's ideal for travel, because it packs easily and has a re-closable shaker top. Here's a sample of its many uses:

1. Cleaning cookware, dinnerware, glasses. Its mild abrasiveness helps loosen and remove oily food residue. It also eliminates food odors after frying fish, onions, etc.

2. Hand washing underwear, socks, etc. Dissolve some Boraxo in a pan or bucket of warm water for in-camp laundering. Rinse items well and hang to dry.

3. Scrub grills and griddles. Sprinkle some on a damp sponge or abrasive pad to remove baked-on food and grease.

4. Our final tip: when it's time to head home, leave the campsite clean for the next vacationer to enjoy! And, to get more clean-up tips write to: Boraxo Leaflet, Box 75128, Sanford Station, Los Angeles, CA 90075.

Crumbling Under Pressures?

"American families are dis-integrating at an accelerating pace and we may run out of them a year or two before we run out of oil," Prof. Amitai Etzioni of Columbia University told a recent symposium on "The Family: Setting Priorities."
