Rheanda says they had fun and it was a worthwhile experience for they learned responsibility and how to work together. Margaret Wing is home from her tour of Europe.

Oh Summer

On a warm day I see wonderful things; Deepest limpid pools of fresh-water springs, Where a pebble dropped, makes endless round rings, And above the scene a brown warbler sings. As I watch, a blossom opens nearby, Pointedly past, whirs a blue dragonfly, And a gold butterfly lifts to the sky, As they aim for a firewood slim and high. A busy bee hovers over my hand, I'm thankful he decided not to land, Ants are enlarging their castles of sand, Just as their clever architects have planned. When I can attune my city-dulled ear, Sweet songs of nature I faintly can hear. A hesitant fawn sniffs daintily near, And I sense the trembling of mother deer. A breeze whispers in a lofty tree top, But only a few precocious cones drop. A chattering squirrel gathers his crop— A stream murmurs, "Why must summer stop?" —Lucille Magnuson

That Ain't Milk, It's Kendrick Water

The white, cloudy liquid coming out of water faucets in Kendrick lately isn't milk, chalk or any other thing but just plain old water. Some people make jokes about it, but there's a dangerous warning coming out of the pipes along with the milky looking fluid. The warning is this: water is low in Kendrick. The cloudy water results when air enters the pumps and pipes and mixes with the liquid. Air enters the water system because the pumps are not able to keep up with the demand on the system. Because of the drought last year, the water table has been lowered in the wells supplying the city water supply. Even though 1978 has been an above-average year in rainfall, the damaging effects of 1977 is what is being felt now, both in Kendrick and Juliaetta, where the situation is even more crucial. The water pump, and well down at the old hiding arena has not been providing the supply of water it usually does and it is understood that the city is keeping a close watch to see if the situation improves later or if the town is going to be faced with the prospects of digging a new well. Watering limitations have been in effect for several months now, but even these restrictions are barely able to keep the supply equal to the demand and the reservoir still runs very low toward the end of the day.

Genesee Council Names Police Chief

Mayor L. W. Sorensen presided at the August 4th council meeting. Pat Waag and Carol Iverson, members of the Jolly Janes attended the meeting to obtain permission to install a slide in the Lower Park, in conjunction with the swing set they installed two years ago. By a unanimous vote the council accepted the slide for the park. Many thanks to the Jolly Janes. Mr. and Mrs. Buckley attended the meeting to discuss the placing of a TV pole and guy wire near their property line. Street Commissioner Moden will work with Don Springer, manager of the TV System and the Buckley's to place the pole. Deputy Clerk Mercedes Roach was appointed City Clerk with the appointment retroactive to Aug. 1st. The zoning permit application for a home in City View addition was approved for Jay and Ted Rosch. The budget estimation was reviewed and given final approval. A public hearing will be advertised and held at 8:00 P. M. on Aug. 23, 1978 at City Hall on this estimated budget as proposed. Incidentally, the city has planned to levy less than the maximum of 45 mills due to increased evaluation. Gregory Ross, of Lewiston, was hired as Chief of Police and took over his duties on August 7, 1978. The regular meeting of the council in September will be held on Sept. 11 as the first Monday is a holiday. Water/Sewer Commissioner Singhose reports the booster pump station and the pressure reducing valve projects are completed. Now plans are being made for a replacement of a water line in the alley between Chestnut and Walnut starting at Laurel. Due to the continued high temperatures of the past weeks and with no break predicted the water level in the reservoir is dangerously low. Commissioner Singhose and Supervisor Grieser are asking all users to start conserving water on a voluntary basis. If the situation does not improve, it will be necessary to start a rationing plan. Mayor Sorensen adjourned the meeting at 10:15.

Kendrick Clamps Curfew On Park and Pool Area

Kendrick's City Council reluctantly took steps to curb an increase in the amount of vandalism in the area of the park and swimming pool as it passed an ordinance forbidding entry or use of city park and swimming pool except by special permission of the council between the hours of 10 p. m. and 6 a. m. This is the first time that it has been necessary to put such rules into effect, but within the past month there have been incidents of garbage cans thrown into the pool (which resulted in the closure for almost a week) destruction of city park equipment and facilities and littering of the park in general during the nighttime. Mayor Wayne Harris said the council didn't really want to do this, but the pool and the park had to be protected if it is going to continue to be enjoyed by the great majority of local residents. Harris said he and the council were sure that the trouble was caused by only a few careless individuals, but these thoughtless few have the capacity to do the rest of the town harm and inconvenience. Beginning immediately, no person shall enter into or be upon the city park and public grounds and the area of the swimming pool between the hours of 10 p. m. and 6 a. m. unless they have a written permission, issued by the city of Kendrick. Persons or groups wishing to use the park or pool during the restricted hours should apply to the city clerk Bob Magnuson for a permit. A complete copy of the ordinance (No. 580) appears on page 5 of this week's paper.

"Salmon River Saga", New Book by Kenneth Platt, to be Available Soon

Kenneth Platt of Moscow, whose family roots run deep in the Genesee and Kendrick area, will soon have a new book available for distribution. Kenneth is the son of the late John Platt, who wrote "Whispers of Old Genesee" and "Tales of the Salmon River". Kenneth's new book is entitled "Salmon River Saga" and contains his reminiscences of life with his family in that rugged section of Idaho and some of the history of the area plus sprinkling of humor and lore. The author's father, John, moved his family from Genesee and took up a homestead in the Salmon River area where Kenneth spent a portion of his youth. Although his career and later life took him miles away from the primitive Salmon River, the memories of the place remained deeply etched in his mind. The book is divided into three sections. The first concerns Kenneth's recollections of life as a youngster on the Salmon with his family. Part II of the book is a heavily researched history and account of the homesteading and settlement of the six townships involved. Maps and much detail including photographs make this section a "goldmine" for history buffs. Nearly three years of research and record scanning went into this effort. From the cold statistics to the warmth and spirit of the rugged life lived by the early settlers is featured in Part III of the book. Letters from early settlers to family members tell of the existence gripped out of the harsh world of the pioneers. Short stories, family histories and personal sketches bring the pages alive for anyone interested in early history. The book will soon be on sale at Abrams Hardware in Kendrick and also in other area bookstores. Arrangements are also being made for an autograph session in Moscow. Mr. Platt left a copy of the book at the Gazette if anyone cares to examine it.

Local Couples Enjoyed Camping on Lochsa River

Ben and Miriam Cook and Lester and Nell Crocker and their son Dan returned Saturday from an enjoyable 10-day campout at Wendover Campground on the Lochsa River. Almost every day was spent in taking side trips in Ben's faithful pickup camper with lovely, cool weather in the higher country. Especially enjoyable was the trip over the old Lolo Trail where the Bear grass and Mountain Heather was in full bloom and a picnic lunch was eaten on the trail, high above the Postoffice Lakes. Other trips were taken to Lolo Hot Springs, Lolo Pass and Pack Creek, Elk Summit and Colt Creek. Fishing, huckleberrying and visiting with old friends helped to make the trip one to remember. Dan left for his home in Mill Valley, Calif., Sunday morning, being taken to the plane in Lewiston by his parents and his aunt, Mrs. Eula Miller.

Fire Season Here; Caution Is Urged

Eleven fires since July 21 ranging from two lightning set spot fires in timber land to 400-acre grass and stubble fires have kept fire-fighters from the Kendrick Fire Protective District busy, reported Fire Warden Dick Benjamin Tuesday afternoon. Not all of the 11 fires have been within this district, Benjamin said, but his crews did respond to the calls for assistance. With the weather remaining hot and dry and with little change predicted, harvest is moving along at a rapid pace, but so is the fire danger. The unusually wet spring saw great growth of weeds and grass in the uncultivated places and now these have turned from lush growth to tinder dry potential fire hazard. Other factors are adding to the increasing danger, Benjamin reported. These include the high and rapid humidity recovery factor. It is drier earlier in the morning and stays dry later at night. This is good for the farmers who are able to get into the fields to cut earlier and stay in later at night, but it also increases the chances for fire. Winds in the afternoon have also been making Benjamin and his crews nervous. Wind makes fire control even more difficult and treacherous. Right now (Tuesday afternoon) the burning index at the Fire Office is pushing right at the top of the "high" mark and will probably move into the "very high" before much time has passed. Benjamin added that it would be very good if farmers had a chance to plow or disc a couple of rows around their fields as a fire break and he also urged them to keep slip tanks of water and water guns handy or with them at all times. It is the time of year especially that fire prevention becomes everyone's responsibility, not just farmers and loggers, but motorists, home owners and workers.

Harvest Nearing Peak as Weather Stays Hot, Dry

Just about perfect harvest weather continues to shine down out of a cloudless sky this week. Temperatures edged up toward the 100 degree mark for the second week without interruption, and harvest of the 1978 small grain crops rushed rapidly toward its peak. Bob Watts, manager of Kendrick Rochdale, said the peak of deliveries coming into the local co-op would probably be reached today (Tuesday). Almost all of the fall barley is in and wheat was coming in steadily. Watts said the wheat continues to look good in quality and reports of above average yields have been heard. Howard Hoffman, manager of Lewiston Grain Growers Kendrick and Juliaetta warehouses said Tuesday afternoon that he didn't quite think the peak of harvest would come for the local LGG facilities until later this week. Hoffman said pea deliveries were about over. Despite the increasing number of trucks bringing grain to LGG warehouses in Kendrick, there has not been the usual long waiting lines this year. The firm invested in new equipment last year and the new equipment is unloading faster and better. Green peas are about 80 percent in down at Brocke and Sons in Kendrick, and Austrian and Yellow peas are coming in now. Rape seed harvest is also almost complete, but as of Tuesday the Brocke plant had not taken in lentils yet, but were expecting to start at any time. The quality of peas coming into Brocke and Sons continues to be very good, George reported. "We're going right along good," Bill Woods said Tuesday afternoon when asked how the harvest was coming for farmers who deliver to Genesee Union Warehouse Co. Peas, Woods estimated would be over fifty percent completed by Tuesday night or Wednesday and excepting the fields which were damaged in last month's hail storms, the yields have been excellent. Wood placed the wheat harvest at approximately 12 percent complete Tuesday and predicted the peak to be reached by the weekend. Most of the wheat coming in has been looking and testing good, Woods said, but he did add that some lots were testing No. 2, apparently because of foot rot. In talking with warehouse men and farmers, it would appear that the 1978 harvest is going to be a better than average one.

Outlook for Idaho Economy Remains Favorable, Says First Security Report

The outlook for Idaho's economy in the third quarter remains favorable, said James Hoogland, Jr., and Stan Merrill, managers, quoting the First Security Bank News Letter. Dr. Kelly K. Matthews, vice president and economist for First Security, is editor of the News Letter, which also noted that a slower pace of expansion was evident in the 2nd quarter and is likely to persist in future months.

By June Idaho's unemployment rate had declined to 5.3%—the lowest since May 1973—and is expected to vary near 5 1/2% in the upcoming quarter. Despite the continued improvement in the unemployment rate, growth in nonagricultural employment slowed during the 2nd quarter, with April and May registering gains of only 2.0%.

Lumber production in the state in the third quarter is expected to remain generally stable. Through the first five months of 1978, lumber output was down 2% from last year. However, May employment in Idaho's lumber industry—specifically in logging camps—was up 600 jobs, or 3.6% above a year ago.

Remaining significantly above last year lumber and plywood prices were quite stable in the 2nd quarter. They probably will ease moderately by the 4th quarter, influenced by a reduced level of activity nationwide in the construction industry.

The volume of residential construction activity in the state in the 3rd quarter is expected to slow, influenced by the high cost of mortgage money and the 10% usury law in Idaho.

During the first 5 months of this year, the net inflow of savings to Idaho savings and loan associations was $16 million. That figure represents a 60% reduction from the $40 million inflow during the same period 1977.

The outlook for agricultural prices in the 3rd quarter is significantly improved from last year, First Security economists predicted. Price projections for beef reflect continued strong consumer demand despite higher retail prices and the prospect of reduced cattle slaughter in the 2nd half of 1978.

Beef prices, which averaged $53.70 per cwt. in June, are expected to remain in the $50-54 cwt. range in the third quarter. Feeder calf prices varied near $60 cwt. in June and are expected to remain generally firm in the high $50's through September.

According to the News Letter, cash receipts from farm marketings in Idaho for the 1st 4 months of 1978 totaled $366 million, and 11% increase from last year. Receipts from the sale of crops, amounting to 55% of the total, had increased 4% while livestock receipts were 20%.

Idaho's winter wheat crop is forecast at 36.7 million bushels—up 13% from last year. The spring wheat crop is anticipated to total 23.9 million bushels—up 13% from last year. The spring wheat crop is anticipated to total 23.9 million bushels, up 30% from 1977's small crop. However, nationally, wheat production is expected to decline 11% this year.

Wheat prices could reach $3.25 per bushel by the 4th quarter. The government loan program is based on a target price of $3.40 per bushel. Potato acreage in Idaho is up 1% from the 1977 total. Activity in the state's food processing industry was down considerably in the 2nd quarter with employment in May off 1,800 jobs, or 9% from a year ago.

Economic growth nationwide in the 3rd quarter is expected to ease significantly from the rapid pace recorded in the previous period, according to First Security's publication.

Weather-related problems in the first quarter 1978 were responsible for squeezing most of the business activity this year into the 2nd quarter, requiring that the economic appraisal of those quarters be considered as a unit. During that time frame, real growth in economic output advanced approximately 3 3/4%. The comparable growth rate in national output in the second half of 1978 is expected to range near 3-3 1/2%. An outright recession remains unlikely next year, although the pace of real growth in the U. S. economy may further diminish.

Evidence of the underlying momentum of the national economy is the rapid growth in job opportunities and reduction in unemployment to 5.7% in June. During the first half of the year, inflation accelerated to an annual rate of approximately 10% and wage gains averaged 8 1/2%.

This wage-price spiral—plus monetary expansion continuing far in excess of real growth in the economy—will maintain the inflation rate in the 7 1/2% range during the 2nd half of this year.

Despite the steep increase in the 2nd quarter, interest rates are not expected to peak until the first quarter 1979. Additional upward movement in both short and long-term rates is expected in the second half of 1978, but a severe credit crunch probably will not develop. First Security economists expect interest rates to remain relatively firm, contrasting with the rapid decline following the 1974 peak.

Mortgage rates on new constructed homes currently average near 10%, with the prime bank loan at 9%. According to the News Letter, these higher raises reflect a continued strong demand for credit which could begin to ease, however it is unlikely that it will decline abruptly during the second half of this year.

Consistency In Parent Behavior Enforcing The Rule.
Enforcement of "chore rules"

There are three steps in enforcement in most rules. They are 1) Set a time limit, 2) Ensure the task is carried out, 3) Ignore irrelevant behavior.

Why should you ignore irrelevant behavior? The most powerful technique for eliminating many behaviors is to ignore them! This may sound unbelievable to parents, who spend a great deal of time praising a child when he does something right and punishing him when he does something wrong.

How do you ignore behavior? It is difficult, at first, but when prac-

ted it becomes quite easy. When a child performs an irrelevant behavior you do not respond. You do not smile, frown, console, berate, answer, thank, distract, humiliate, or ridicule. As far as you are concerned, the behavior did not occur. You did not see it or hear it. Concentrate solely on going about your business (if necessary, invent some business). If the behavior is extremely upset-

Unemployment Levels Remain Low

According to Phyllis Dunn, Moscow Local Office Manager for the Idaho State Department of Employment, the following jobs are currently open: combine operator, waitress/waiter, cook, nurses' aid, janitor, life guard, bartender, business manager, dining room hostess, and food service worker.

There are 204 people in Latah Co. filing for unemployment insurance compared to 206 last week and 339 in the same week in 1977. Current totals are Moscow 128 compared to 135 last week and 206 in 1977; Genesee, 7, 7, 9; Troy-Deary-Bovill 39, 35, 60; Kendrick 5, 6, 3; Potlatch 25, 23, 36.

Whoever practices charity and justice is as though he filled the whole world with loving kindness.—the Talmud.

ting to you, you may find it easier to go to another part of the house or out for a walk. If this is necessary, do it slowly and calmly. Hurrying out of the room is a very definite response.

Be impersonal! Although a great deal of anger may seem to be directed at you, it should not be regarded as a "personal attack". The child is using you to help him eliminate some unrealistic expectancies. He has to express his anger and upsetness and you happen to be there at the right time. He really does not want you to notice his behavior. One indication of this "need to be ignored" is that comforting a child in this condition seems to make it worse. He gets over the tantrum more quickly and feels better about it if you just leave him alone.

The exception—There is only one exception to the rule of ignoring irrelevant behavior. If a child strikes you leave the situation as calmly and quickly as possible without commenting. It is very seldom that a child will lose control of himself to this extent, even in a tantrum. This behavior is not uncommon with very young children of course. Two and three-year-olds should be handled the same way.

Enforcement of "problem rules". Like "chore rules" the rule must be definable, reasonable and enforceable. The enforcement routine, however, differs slightly from the one described in the last section. 1) Ask for a restatement of the rule, 2) Ignore irrelevant behavior. Enforcement of commands. When a parent issues a command, like "don't go out yet" or "tie your shoes" or "you've had enough ice cream". He is obligated to enforce it in the same way that he enforces long-term rules. He sets a time limit if he can. He ensures that the task gets carried out if there is a task. If there is a task, he asks for a restatement of the command which has been violated. He ignores irrelevant behavior.

Moscow Food Co-op Again Sponsoring Saturday Farmer's Market

The Moscow Food Co-op is again this summer sponsoring a Farmer's Market which will be held every Saturday throughout the growing season. At the market, local growers are able to sell their produce directly to residents of the community. The market is held from 8 a. m. till 1 p. m. and is located behind the old Moscow post office at 3rd and Jefferson streets.

This year's market is the third sponsored by the food co-op. According to Karen Young, a co-ordinator of the co-op, past markets have been appreciated not only for the fresh and low-cost produce available, but also because shopping there is a fun and enjoyable experience.

More growers are needed for this year's market. Growers may obtain a tax number from the State Sales Tax Commission in Lewiston (743-9492). Growers must also supply their own tables or booths. For more information, contact the Moscow Food Co-op at 882-8537.

Recycling Reminder

The United States is dependent upon foreign countries for 85 percent of its bauxite (aluminum ore) and over 95 percent of its tin.

To help conserve these and other resources, save your metal and glass containers for the Moscow Recycling Center. Pickup for Kendrick and Juliaetta is Wednesday, August 16. Please have your recyclables at the usual pick-up point.

Nellie Dean Steigers—Reporter

Von and Barbara Zumhofs visited with Grandma Zumhofe and Leslie and Delores Heimgartner Sunday afternoon.

Delores was a business visitor at Clearwater on Tuesday.

Gerald and Lynn Heimgartner and family visited his parents Tuesday evening for a while. They came to wish Gert a Happy Birthday.

Mrs. Hunter of Lewiston and Janet Slomp, mother and niece of Ruth Heimgartner, visited from Friday to Wednesday with Ruth and Wayne Heimgartner.

Thursday evening guests of Ruth and Wayne were Minnie Blakely of Seal Beach, Calif., and Roy and Aedythe Heimgartner.

Erma Stevens and Gert Heimgartner visited Mabel Steigers and Mystic Heimgartner at Gifford Thursday afternoon and Sunday evening Eldon, Gert and Erma visited again. Mystic hasn't been feeling too well.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Leachman of Sandpoint visited Mrs. Edna Greene Sunday. Mr. Leachman is a brother of Mrs. Greene and an uncle of Mrs. Lloyd Stevens. Lloyd and Patty were not home so missed visiting with them.

Mrs. Fay Scoggins of California is here visiting her mother, Mrs. Heath for a week.

Also via the 'grapevine' heard that an 85th birthday celebration was held Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ingram for mother Mildred. All her children were present except Evelyn and Gene, but I could not reach them on the phone so perhaps particulars will follow next week.

Sorry for a short news but I either couldn't reach them or they weren't home. — Gert.

Fish and Game Department Answers Thousands of Questions Each Year

Requests for information from the Idaho Department of Fish and Game averaged about 1,500 a month last year, and each one received an answer.

The requests came from every state and many parts of the world—Canada, South Africa, Great Britain, Finland, France, the Netherlands, Japan, Bermuda and West Germany, to name a few.

Most of the answers are in printed material supplied by the departments Bureau of Information and Education, and they are available for the asking. Nominal charges are made for a few publications, however, because the 1977 Idaho Legislature agreed that this would help pay the freight.

The pamphlets, brochures and information sheets cover just about any activity involving outdoor recreation. For example—

"The Department of Fish & Game Story"—traces the history of the department from the time hunting restrictions were enacted by the Second Territorial Legislature. Hunters were prohibited from taking buffalo, deer, antelope, elk, mountain sheep or goat from February through June.

A game department was authorized in 1890 with a state game warden in charge. Three years later, one game warden per county could be appointed, but the job often went unfilled. Instead of a salary, the county warden kept one-half of the money collected in fines.

Another pamphlet in demand is "Hunting and Fishing in Idaho"—which describes the state's fish and wildlife—what kind and where they are. Other sections list the various licenses required and their prices, outline the Idaho road system and define wilderness and primitive areas.

More samples of information available—"Fishing for Cisco" (it's a smelt-sized fish found nowhere else in the world); care of fish and game in the field—"keep it clean, keep it dry, keep it cool."

Or—how to tell a wild steelhead from hatchery fish—"if he's wild, let him go!"

The outdoor chef can learn how to fillet a trout or prepare jerky. The duck hunter can pick up an identification guide.

Interested in the possibility of joining a sportsmen organization? The department maintains a roster that lists some 250 such groups throughout the state.

Requests should be addressed to the Idaho Department of Fish and Game, Bureau of Information and Education, P. O. Box 25, Boise, Id. 83707

BEAUTIFUL steamer

OR
how FULTON kept HIS head above WATER.

Robert Fulton laughed all the way to the banks. Of the Hudson River that is.

It was August 17, 1807, and Fulton's steamboat "Clermont" made its maiden voyage from New York City to Albany.

The skeptics lined the river's edge to witness the sinking of "Fulton's Folly." Instead, Fulton kept his steamboat and his head above water. And helped shape the future of America.

Today, you can help shape America's future. And keep your own ship afloat at the same time. By buying U.S. Savings Bonds.

They're an investment you can bank on. Because no one ever lost money with Savings Bonds.

So sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan. Buy U.S. Savings Bonds and your future will be smooth sailing.

Series E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4 1/2% the first year). Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.
