Art Classes To Begin In September

Carole Casey, local artist, will offer ten-week courses in basic drawing, oil, pastel and sculpture at her studio on the Lazy KC Arabian Ranch located one-mile from Juliaetta.

Each class will be limited in number so that students may work on something of their own choosing and receive individual attention, but also large enough to enjoy fellowship, discussions, and coffee by the fire.

Most of Mrs. Casey's work has been commissioned, but she plans now on devoting full time to her art and designing. She attended the Philadelphia School of Industrial Design, and also sculpted and created for Derif Studios, now owned by Disney Studios in Florida.

Her style is "realism always" and leaves the mod and abstract to the young college professors and students.

Mrs. Casey will attend the International Arabian Horse World Fair in Reno, Nev., where she has been invited to do a painting for the prestigious art auction to be held there on Sept. 8.

Your inquiry on classes is invited and you would be most welcome to stop and discuss your art interests with her anytime or call 276-7450.

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced-price meals or free milk. In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the main office in each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

To discourage the possibility of misrepresentation, the application forms contain a statement above the space for signature certifying that all information furnished in the application is true and correct. An additional statement is added to warn that the application is being made in connection with the receipt of Federal funds, that school officials may, for cause, verify the information in the application, and that deliberate misrepresentation of information may subject the applicant to prosecution under applicable State and Federal criminal statutes.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals and milk for them, it should contact the school.

Under the provisions of the policy Richard H. Morton, Superintendent, will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis.

If he wishes to make a formal appeal, he may make a request either orally or in writing to Luther Parks, Board Chairman, Kendrick, Phone 289-3607 for a hearing to appeal the decision.

If a family member becomes unemployed or if the family size changes, the family should contact the school and file a new application. Such changes may make the children of the family eligible for reduced price meals, or for additional benefits such as free meals and milk if the family income falls at or below the levels shown above.

In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, color or national origin.

A copy of the complete policy is in the Superintendent's office and may be reviewed by any interested party.

They who give have all things; they who withhold have nothing.—Hindu Proverb.

Inflation—when you have to work like a dog in order to live like one.

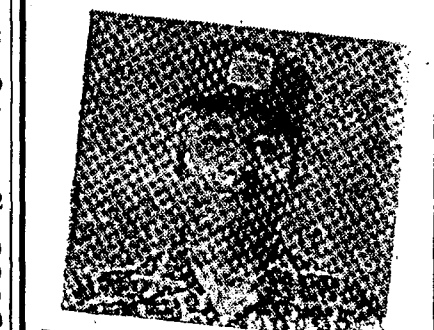

It was the first morning of the husband's retirement. Sitting down at the breakfast table, he told his wife, "Gee, this is fantastic. For the first time since our marriage, I can eat my eggs slowly without watching the clock. And speaking of eggs, will you not turn mine over this morning? I never have liked them that way." She said in amazement, "You never told me that before!" He shrugged, "I never had time."

There is a story of the convalescing private who was strolling down the hospital halls and seeing some intern's clean, cool smock, decided to try it on. As the nurses and attendants walked by they addressed him as doctor. As he walked by one room a voice calls, "Doctor." He walks in and sees his old mean Major. He tells the Major he wants to take his temperature and to assume the angle. The Major says "Why not take it by mouth? The pseudo doctor says, "Major, I am giving the orders here. Assume the angle." The Major reluctantly obliges. The pseudo (private) doctor does not return. A nurse happens to walk in and sees the Major and says, "Major, what are you doing?" He replies, "Getting my temperature taken." She says, "Well what are you doing with that daisy sticking out of your fancy?"

Home Cookin'...

I made beet relish last week, some thing I hadn't done in years. But I had beets given me, so decided I wouldn't be out much, and it turned out real well. Anyway it's going to be a change from the usual relishes. It's inexpensive and easy to prepare, too.

Beet Relish
 4 cups raw beets, ground or chopped fine
 6 cups cabbage, chopped or ground
 2 cups onion, chopped or ground
 3 cups sugar
 1/4 cup horseradish, (or more)
 1 tbsl. salt (not iodized)
 2 cups vinegar
 If you don't care for the cabbage, just add more beets and onion. Combine all ingredients in large kettle. (I used my cast-iron Dutch oven). Bring to a boil and cook until thick (20-30 minutes). Pack in sterilized jars, process 25 or 30 minutes in boiling water. Makes 5 or 6 pints. I use half-pint jars if I have them.
 I'm still waiting for recipes from you good cooks. Don't be surprised if I call you one of these days and ask for some. J.

Only the supremely wise and the abysmally ignorant do not change.—Confucius.

Family Affair—

RETIREMENT

An industrial leader, the president of a large and important business organization, recently said of his retirement, "One day I was the head of an empire. I was looked up to. Executives came to me for decisions. My judgment was law. It seemed that every major and minor problem filtered through my desk: I was key-man. The next morning I was nothing. I had to admit to myself that that vast organization could run without me, that I had no power, that nobody would care a tinker's darn for my advice, and that, were I to return to the business scene, I would merely be a sort of amusing and pathetic nuisance. For all my financial security, our fine home, the hunting lodge in the mountains, and the house at the shore, I began to feel lost, empty, dull, silly, and sorry for myself. Believe me, the readjustment has been troublesome."

A mother of four children remarked, after the last child was married and left home, "I don't know what to do with myself. There just doesn't seem to be anything to do. The house always seems clean; very few dishes to wash; little shopping to do; and I hate to play canasta and go to luncheons all the time. The house is so quiet. Sometimes I could scream. I want to spend all my time with my grandchildren, but I know too much of that annoys my children."

Both of these people have retired from their career occupations and are faced with a challenge of a new way of life. Without foresight, with out plan, without a plan for continued usefulness, and without opportunities for keeping mental life keen and efficient. The likely outcome is that all-to-familiar picture in the American scene. There will be a sudden emersion in recreation of all kinds. They will travel, if they can afford it, until they tire of being the tourist at which every community ogles. They will play until play becomes a chore. They will relax until rest becomes work. They will be idle until life itself ceases to have meaning. Then there will be a bickering between the husband and wife. He will be underfoot and in the way most of the time from her point of view. Her shallow and gossiping chatter will grate upon his pleasant reminiscences. They will be two lonely people until he dies in a few years or becomes progressively senile. Then she will have all the prerequisites for her own psychological breakdown.

Retirement is a comparative newcomer on the scene of American living. It is the product of scientific and technological advances that have lengthened life while shortening the work period. As an important phenomenon in man's span of life, retirement has made its appearance mainly in the last half to three-quarters of a century.

While there are many possible reasons for withdrawal from principle occupations, such as illness, the transfer of an enterprise to mature progeny and involuntary retirement due to incompetence, most people retire because of an organizational policy or cultural tradition.

There is some indication that the retirement at age 65 was an outgrowth of the financial depression of the 1930's when it became important to create job opportunities for young people. However, the system has remained enforced with few exceptions; and with the constant extension of human longevity, it is promising to become a considerable problem because of the many years of relative idleness thus created.

Clark Tibbitts of the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare has summarized the needs created by retirement, as follows: "... The principle problems faced by the individual are maintenance of income to meet the retirement of active and healthful living; discovery of new occupations or social roles; finding opportunity for social contacts, companionship, and affection; maintenance of health; and procurement of suitable living arrangements." Many studies have shown that a majority of older persons manage to develop a satisfactory adjustment to retirement, but large numbers respond with bewilderment, anxiety and feelings of frustration.

A major factor contributing to the tribulations of the latter group is the heavy valuation Americans place upon person initiative and unaided individual effort.

When success and money-making are the prestige-producing activities men tend to concentrate their efforts with great diligence upon the material goals, and they lose sight of the collateral niceties of life.

Hobbies, recreations, reading and the arts are under-rated and avoided. As a result, the leisure of retirement may become quite esthetically sterile and devoid of an appreciation for the cultural wealth civilized men should treasure. Not only may this deficiency make retirement a nightmare for many people; but in addition, it essentuates in a vicious self-perpetuating system.

The children, who naturally take example from the elders as from the dictates of the culture, thus have a dual stimulus to disregard the refinements of living. As a consequence, the idle parent becomes an object of scorn, a feeling which is of psychological disadvantage to both parent and child.

In a subtle way, the feeling exists that if a man takes any time from his career for hobbies, for recreations or for otherwise deepening his personality, he is somehow being immoral, at least, will come to economic ruin.

For instance, unless college students have changed since our day—the fellow who takes an evening off while the majority of the students are studying becomes a target for remarks to imply he will fail. Unconsciously, the more conscientious students are jealous of his good time, and they try to make him feel guilty and uncomfortable. The same attitude is prevalent among business and professional men, as the result is that everyone has to work hard, stay on the job, and keep up consistent effort in order to make as much money as possible.

MANY HANDICAPPED PEOPLE LEARN GARDENING

Boise—Knowledge of gardening skills is the key that is opening up a new way of life for mentally retarded persons in Salem, Oregon., the National Association of County Agricultural Agents was told Thursday. "Many mentally retarded adults can be trained to become capable gardeners and horticulturists," county agent Paul M. Rauhen of McMinnville, Ore., reported to the national meeting of extension agents.

For initiating a horticultural training program at the Shangri-La Work Activity Center at Salem, Rauhen was named a winner in the county agent association's national "Search for Excellence" competition.

Randal Fulgham, assistant coordinator of the Shangri-La center, joined Rauhen in encouraging other county agents to share their green-thumb talents with people who have limited opportunities to learn vocational skills.

"Thanks to the Oregon State Extension Service, some of the mentally handicapped gardeners at Shangri-La have obtained marketable skills and they will be able to work in gardens, nurseries and orchards," Fulgham said.

The horticultural training program began in 1976, with an enrollment of 24 mentally handicapped adults.

Groups of the Shangri-La Corp., a training and residential facility, now include a well-kept demonstration garden and orchard. Many varieties of fruits and vegetables are grown and marketed by the trainees and residents of the Salem area are encouraged to visit the plots to observe the performance of recommended new varieties.

"This project has great educational value—for gardeners in the area as well as for the trainees at Shangri-La," Rauhen pointed out.

BEAUTIFUL steamer

OR
 how FULTON kept HIS head above WATER.

Robert Fulton laughed all the way to the banks. Of the Hudson River that is.
 It was August 17, 1807, and Fulton's steamboat "Clermont" made its maiden voyage from New York City to Albany.
 The skeptics lined the river's edge to witness the sinking of "Fulton's Folly." Instead, Fulton kept his steamboat and his head above water. And helped shape the future of America.
 Today, you can help shape America's future. And keep your own ship afloat at the same time. By buying U.S. Savings Bonds.
 They're an investment you can bank on. Because no one ever lost money with Savings Bonds.
 So sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan. Buy U.S. Savings Bonds and your future will be smooth sailing.

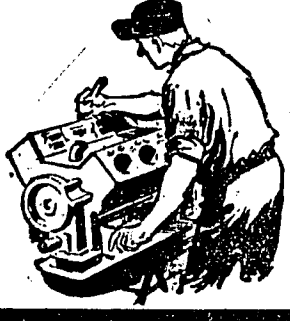

Series B Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4% the first year). Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Cumberland
 a free pass.

But it was America's first generation gap.
 Between 1775 and 1880, generation after generation of American settlers plodded through the Cumberland Gap.
 A natural pass through the Appalachians that became the gateway to the West.
 It was tough going. The cost was great. In money. And lives. But they paid the price. Because they were building a country. Their country.

 You can help build America today by buying U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan.
 That way, a little is set aside from each paycheck to buy Bonds. Automatically.
 It makes saving easy.

The "Goings" & "Comes" At Health Home—

After a pleasant 10-day visit with Mother Mildred and other relatives and friends, Fay Heath Scoggins returned home to San Bernardino, Cal., on Friday the 18th. That day sister Flora Heath Gibbs and husband "Frosty" arrived for awhile. Mr. and Mrs. Earl (Dorothy) Partridge terminated their visit on Thursday, with their departure to their Orem, Utah home. Mildred says it will seem lonely when all are gone!

The Ernie Fliger family were Sunday dinner guests from Moscow, at the home of Crystal's mother, Erma Steven. Erma and Gertrude Heimgartner visited with Mrs. Albert Heimgartner at the Alvin and Mabel Steigers home on Tuesday evening, finding her about as usual! Eldon accompanied them.

Mrs. Clea Mae King of Spokane, with her children, spent Tuesday in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cletis Hoisington. Jim Hoisington and son Russell of Cuidesac area visited Monday.

The Glen Stevens, with Mrs. Effie Powell on Tuesday, Aug. 15, drove to Sandpoint for overnight with daughter Linda Bakke, then overnite on Wednesday they camped and picked huckleberries near Priest Lake. "A nice week", says Marj!

After returning home from Sunday dinner with Marie and Everett Custer in their Clarkston home, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Heimgartner enjoyed an overnight visit from grandson Rick Heimgartner and wife Wanetta of Pilot Rock, Oregon. The young folks are happy in their new location and doing well.

Really "Seeing the Sights!"—

Ruth Heimgartner and Delores Heimgartner, on Aug. 15, accompanied a group on the senior citizen bus for a trip to Wallowa and a ride on the "lift" at Joseph, Ore. It was beyond belief! Beautiful!

On Sunday evening Wayne and Ruth Heimgartner visited his sister "Verni" Harri and husband Bill in Clarkston.

Friday, Aug. 18, Ruth took daughter-in-law Carlene Heimgartner "out" for birthday lunch in Clarkston.

Another Busy Week—

During the past week Bob and Nina Coffland visited "their Cherry-lane gardens" and at the home of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Steigers, sharing their huckleberries and garden zucchini. Ernest's planting came up little yellow pumpkins, an error on the part of wife Nellie, who handed him the home-saved seed packet last spring! Unlabeled.

Visitors from Milton-Freewater—

Welcome guests in the Helena Brown and the Steigers homes were Bill and Morna Garrison, also her mother Mrs. Leland of Clarkston. Bill, a long-ago resident of Leland, (parents Charles and Daisy Garrison) was gathering proof for his soon social security. The old Leland, Ida. school enrollment was an interesting part of this evidence he had garnered! The most exciting news they brot was the expected December arrival of th stork to bring them their FIRST grandchild! We hope all will go well! We will try to inform you, then!

Overnite Mt. Home Houseguests—

Driving from Mt. Home Saturday afternoon, Aug. 19, a newly met relative, with family members arrived at the home of Nellie and Ernest Steigers to become acquainted. Not realizing the many miles that lay between, their arrival was well into the evening! A 9:30 supper was welcomed by the 5 members of the party. These included Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jeys, his 20-year old son Kim Jeys, his father Warren Jeys and friend Bessie Norikunas, both of Kansas City, Kan. "Myra" Jeys, wife of Frank, is a granddaughter of the twin sister of Almeda E. Deane, Almira Gossett (the McKay twin girls), both now deceased. Phoned to join the group for Sunday dinner were Bill and Mary Steigers of Lewiston and Linda Steigers with 2 children. Bekalyn and Brant. Alvin Steigers was a "drop-in" caller, enroute home from a "check" on his cattle at Weippe Sunday.

Forgetting the 1 hour time difference, Nellie caused a slight delay in their departure! All hope to be together for a longer visit in the future! Jim Steigers was down from Weippe for the weekend.

After a Friday business call in Kendrick, a painful bee-sting there, and a stop at the home of son David and family in Juliaetta, the elder

American Ridge

By Mrs. Jo Benschoter

Former Resident Passes—

Word has been received here of the death of Jim Cain at Bend, Oregon last week from a heart ailment. He was born on the Isle of Man and came to American Ridge with his parents, Will and Mary Cain when he was a boy. The family farmed here until the father's death at which time Jim took over the operation of the farm with his mother and his sister Phyllis. Later he moved to Bend where he married and has since made his home.

He is survived by his wife, Sally, at their home and his sister Phyllis Deholl at West Corvina, Calif., and her daughter, Margorie.

Vicky Benschoter was hostess in her home last Monday for the regular meeting of the Troy Garden Club.

On Wednesday Dick and Vicky Benschoter welcomed their friends: Walt and Emma Randolph of Bermuda who visited here until Saturday. Mr. Randolph has just retired and his wife is in the process of looking for a new location. On Friday Vicky and her houseguest Emma visited with Ann Turner in Troy.

Elizabeth Haven's son Ulf and Wolfgang Stauber and their families returned Saturday from their vacation trip to Flathead Lake. Their trip would have been more pleasant if the weather had been fairer. Ulf Stauber and his family returned to their Los Altos home but Wolfgang and his family remained and will leave for their home at Hamburg, Germany on Tuesday. On Sunday Eric Stauber's of Genesee joined the Havens and their houseguests for dinner.

The Walt Benschoters were in Lewiston on Tuesday. Sid and Judy Erwin, their sons Russell, Phillip and Kenneth of Brunenau, Idaho visited parents Walt and Babe Benschoter on Friday and Saturday. Wilma and Tom Greene joined them Friday afternoon, and Jack and Molly Benschoter enjoyed Saturday dinner with the family before the Erwin's departure for their home in South Idaho.

Other callers in the Benschoter home have been Lester and Nell Crocker, Dick Benschoter and Bob Callison.

Andy Sue Reid and small daughters Jennifer, Mary and Melanie of Boise are here in the Andy Cox home for a week's visit.

Minnie Cox reported that Grace Cox has been released from the Grangeville Hospital where she has been confined for the past two weeks following a heart attack.

Kyle Anderson of Portland called on the Frank Benschoters Sunday evening. He had just returned from Sunnyside, Calif., where he attended a birthday party for his sister Kate Williams. Other Kendrick old timers who were in attendance were Lynn and Zella (Bigham) Fox of San Francisco and Don and Grace McCrea of Grass Valley, Calif., and Vivian (White) Reglow of San Francisco. Kyle reported the death of Jim Cain.

Rena Andrews and Betty May attended the monthly meeting of the Evergreen Friendship Club in the Bo-vill home of Diane Holt. Tim Eichner was a Wednesday overnight guest of John May. Lawrence, Nell and Ray Heimgartner were Sunday evening supper guests in the Dick Groseclose home in Juliaetta. On Thursday the Heimgartners enjoyed having lunch with the David Johnsons in Lewiston.

Kristie and Mark Paresi departed Saturday for their home in Portland after a week's visit with relatives in Lewiston, Elk City and Kendrick. Mark Paresi and Frankie Benschoter made a sight-seeing trip to Orofino and Dworshak Dam on Thursday. In the meantime Kristie Paresi and Jo went to Lewiston and had lunch with Ray Benschoter.

Danny Benschoter was a Wednesday overnight guest in the Frank Benschoter home. Other callers have been George and Elizabeth Havens, Virginia Jacobson, Lester and Nell Crocker, Otto and Josephine Schupfer and Dick and Vicky Benschoter. Bud and Evelyn Russell, Kennewick spent the weekend here visiting parents the Ernie Andrews and also their children Curtis and Angela. Russell who have been with their grandparents for the past month and still chose to remain a little longer—nothing like Grandpa's ranch with animals and machinery!

Friday luncheon guests of Ella Benschoter were her sister Nanny Lyle; also Mrs. Deyo and Mr. and Mrs. Beyers, all of Peck. Tuesday callers were Mae Westendahl and her mother Mrs. Candler.

Bob, Judy, Audra and John Callison camped and fished over the week end on Freeman Creek.

The Frank Benschoters would like to thank relatives and neighbors for their help last Monday in the installation of a new TV antenna; also thanks to the telephone company for the assistance of their truck and tall lift as well as the driver and operator.

If you want to prevent an accident: Look, then enter the proper lane well ahead of the turn. This telegraphs your intention to other drivers.

Nellie Jane Jones, 86, Former Pine Grove-Linville Area Resident, Passes

Funeral services for Nellie Jane Jones, who died Thursday, August 17 at Latah Convalescent Center was held Saturday, August 19 at 2:00 p. m. at Short's Chapel, Moscow. The Rev. Harold Stickney of the Nazarene Church of Moscow officiated. Mrs. Jones was laid to rest in Overaker cemetery.

Mrs. Jones, 86, had been a Moscow resident since 1946, when she and her husband, the late Frank B. "Cougar" Jones, retired from their farm between the Pine Grove and Lenville neighborhoods. Her home was at 311 S. Almon until she moved to the center in 1969.

Nellie Young was born February 24, 1892, at Caplingers Mill, Mo. Her father died in 1894. She came to Idaho in the early 1900s with her mother and stepfather and a brother. They settled in a small Seventh-day Adventist community northeast of Genesee, known as Johnnyville. She was married at the age of 16 and she and her husband farmed for relatives and leased land until obtaining land of their own. She was well-known as an excellent cook and a hard worker, helping with the chores as many farm women did at that time.

Her survivors include two sons, Glen and Don Jones of rural Genesee; two daughters, Luzena Chilson of Silverdale, Wash., and Hazel Hannah of Spokane; seven grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren. Also surviving are four half-sisters, Lenna Harrison, Tacoma; Dorothy Ellis, Olympia; Dee Anderson, Seattle; and Irene Lewis, Tahuya, Wash., and two half-brothers, Mac Trimble and Art Trimble, both of Yelm, Wash. Her only brother and one half-sister died previously.

Pallbearers were Jim Archibald and Hal Harmon, Genesee; Dr. J. E. McCormick, Orofino; Denis Jain, Bo-vill, and Ken Wise and Bertie Spence, Moscow.

Those who wish may make memorials to the Latah Convalescent Center Memorial Fund.
