day. The ladies, remembering the successful invasion of their realm last year, appeared apprehensive at last week's Grange meeting as more and more men accepted the challenge of baking an apple, berry, or cherry pie, and from scratch, too! Competition promises to be stiff indeed this year.

The final evening of pinochle at the March 4 meeting saw Charles Stone maintain his lead and pile up the highest cumulative score for men. He was closely followed by Dick Cuddy, who captured the goose for the final time this year. Vera Hutcheson easily captured the highest cumulative score for the ladies, although Inez Armitage gave her some good competition throughout the series. Betty Stone, usually a low scorer, took the prize for the lowest score for ladies. Manning Onstott also ended up in the basement. Prizes will be awarded the winners at the next Grange meeting, March 18.

That evening will feature talent competition, although most of the interest at present is focused on the pie baking contest scheduled for that same evening. Lecturer Frank Jacobson, searching desperately for acts threatened to assign members to various talent routines.

A few members caved in under the pressure and volunteered to perform. Grangers are so shy about displaying their talents! There's still time, however, to get your act together for Talent Night next Tuesday.

New members receiving the fourth degree at last week's meeting were Frank and Janice Stockard and Roberta Manwaring. A surprise presentation of the evening saw Ruth White receiving a beautiful Bible for her faithful service to the Grange.

This Friday evening, March 14, local Grangers are invited to be the guests of Kennedy Ford Grange for a 6:30 supper. Kendrick officers will open and close the evening's meeting and provide the program. As was said earlier, March is a busy month for Grangers in these parts!

Sausage Feed Will Precede Festival of Arts

Be sure to mark your calendar on April 11, to attend the Festival of the Arts sponsored by the Westendahl Memorial Scholarship Program. It promises to be a great evening of family entertainment. The Festival committee announces another dimension of the Festival this week. Take your family out for dinner before the Festival of Arts and enjoy a sausage feed at the high school. The family style sausage dinner will feature Oktoberfest sausage—a delicious, mildly seasoned German sausage with all the 'fixins' for an excellent family dining treat.

The sausage feed is scheduled for 5:00 to 7:00 p. m. on Fri., April 11. After enjoying the dinner, you may take in the art contest display, the arts and craft sale and top off the evening with the talent show at 8:00 p. m. It will be an evening of good food, good fun, good entertainment and all for a worthwhile project—the scholarship program.

If you have not yet begun your project for the Festival of the Arts, get started today. There is still time to prepare your entry of art, craft or talent.

If you have any questions about the Festival or would like to help in any way, contact Dee Morton, Judy Callison, Norma Abrams, Ada Westendahl, Marge Eldridge or Marilyn Benjamin at the high school.

March Greetings

Brave snowdrops white beneath the trees. Shiver as snowflakes flutter by. March brings cold nights and bitter breeze. But blossoms reach for springtime sky. The brilliant daffodil display. Greeting the sun in early spring. Lifts the spirit, cheering our day. As buds explode and bluebirds sing. —Lucille Magnuson

Hill and Valley Garden Club Honored Charter Members

Kendrick's Hill & Valley Garden Club marked its 15th anniversary with a reunion luncheon for the club's charter members. Time and move from the area have brought many changes to the group's roster, but at the February 27th meeting, sixteen past and current members, who helped found the club, joined more recent members for the business meeting, pot luck luncheon and much reminiscing.

The current president, Ann Nilsson called the business meeting to order and welcomed the day's guests, who were included in the roll call on "What Garden Club Has Meant." Several members recalled the hours of work that went into the early flower shows when they were staged in one of the local warehouses.

New shelving has been purchased and installed in the club's store room. A committee was appointed to take a complete inventory of the club's personal property so that necessary insurance can be obtained. A memorial was sent in honor of deceased charter member, Adele Lublow.

Ruth Stenzel reported on plans for the annual plant sale. Once again it will be held separate from the Locust Blossom Festival in order to provide area gardeners with an earlier shopping date. Wednesday, May 7th in the mini-park was approved for the sale date. Members were asked to help Ruth Stenzel re-pot chrysanthemums for the sale, Tuesday, Mar. 18 at her Cavendish home.

Catherine (Katie) Stout Observes 85th Birthday

Catherine (Katie) Stout, former Genesee native, now residing in Lewiston, will observe her 85th birthday tomorrow. She was born west of Genesee near Thorncreek on March 14, 1895 to pioneer parents, Joseph and Catherine (Evitts) Sprenger. Her brother Joe Sprenger now lives at the family farm where she grew up.

Katie married Richard Stout on May 2, 1916 and they will mark their 64th wedding anniversary this year. Following their marriage they moved to a farm at Uniontown and resided there until moving to Genesee in 1948. In 1960 they retired to Lewiston, residing at 1922-14th Street. Her husband, Richard recently celebrated his 88th birthday. Their six children, all living nearby are John Stout and Dorothy Anderson of Genesee; R. L. and Gene Stout at Uniontown, and Fran Taufen of Colfax and Myrtle Fulfs of Pullman. They have 29 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

Although infirmities of age have taken their toll, Mrs. Stout is still able to take care of her own home and household chores. A family dinner with immediate family is planned to celebrate her birthday.

Me'lardramer Slated At Genesee HS

Deadwood Gulch, the home of Calamity Jane's Mantrap Saloon, is the setting for the upcoming Genesee High School's melodramer.

Enter the Lily-pure heroine who has branded on her back the secret of a hidden gold mine. The plot thickens as Blackman Redburn, the nastiest, ugliest, brutalist villain in the West, a man who consorts with the Fiend himself, connives with Calamity Jane to procure the location of this mine.

Our hero, Ned Harris, valantly comes to her rescue only to be foiled and captured by Black n' Red. Ned's "heck fur leather" pard, Wild Bill Hickock, comes to the rescue. The lines become funnier and the actions become outrageous.

"Deadwood Dick" or "The Game of Gold" is to be presented March 20, 21, and 22 at 8 p. m. in the Genesee High School multi-purpose room. Be sure to come and hiss at the villain and cheer for the hero.

Leads in the play are Ron Haxton, Dean Phelps, Liz Sims, Randa Allen, Alan Krick, Tom Martinez, Kris Swenson, and a cast of thousands.

Throwing of peanuts is prohibited. Silver coins, however, may be tossed gently. Don't miss the production. It's a spectacular, dashing western romance of the dime novel brand. It is being produced in cooperation with Samuel French, Inc.

Initiative is doing the right thing without being told.—Victor Hugo

DON'T DISTURB GEESE, PLEASE

Don't disturb the geese, please. It will soon be nesting time again and the big birds deserve their privacy while they choose likely spots and settle down to hatch their broods.

A peaceful nest combined with favorable weather and water conditions goes a long way toward maintaining Idaho's population of Canada geese, says Dick Norell, Department of Fish and Game.

The combination was a happy one in 1979. Statewide, the department's count of breeding pairs was up 13 percent from the previous year. Nests checked later for hatching success showed good production, according to Norell, state game bird manager.

Many of the Canada geese in the state nest on river and lake islands which afford protection from man and predators.

They get added safety on the islands in the Snake River sector of Deer Flat National Wildlife Refuge, where fishing from island shorelines is prohibited from February 1 to May 31.

The stretch extends from below Swan Falls to a point downstream from Weiser.

The Canadian goose will choose a variety of nesting sites. Norell says it can be on top of a stump, a cliff ledge—even atop a hunting blind. The birds seem to prefer a reasonably high spot that gives them a good range of vision.

Nesting platforms are built by the department in some areas to protect the geese against flooding and ground predators. "Once they get used to the structures, they come back in following years," Norell says. These platforms have paid high dividends in bringing off broods of goslings, he adds.

Other geese, Norell says, return to tubs placed in trees—some as high as 60 feet above ground—years ago by some Boy Scouts. Nesting usually starts during mid-March at lower elevations and it can continue through May at higher altitudes.

Private Pilot Ground School Planned

Moscow—The theory of flying, parts of planes, and how they work, navigation, aviation weather, dead reckoning and many other subjects will be covered in a University of Idaho pilot ground school this spring from March 25-May 8.

Termed "good information for any one interested in aviation" by Mel Hirschi, the instructor, the class is sponsored by University Continuing Education and will meet from 7 to 10 p. m. Tuesday and Thursday, March 25-May 8, in room 103 of the University Classroom Center.

Hirschi said those who successfully complete the course should be well prepared to pass the written portion of the Federal Aviation Administration private pilot certification test. The class is designed for people with little background in aviation.

"The exam is comprehensive and detailed and many have not gone into aviation because of the difficulty of passing it," Hirschi said. Those who pass the exam have two years to fulfill the flight requirements for licensing. Hirschi has taught similar classes for several years.

For more information or to pre-register, contact University Continuing Education, University of Idaho, Moscow, Id., 83843, telephone (208) 885-6486. There is $50 registration fee.

Biologist Experiments With Bobcat Teeth

The tooth of a bobcat could provide some new information of value to big game managers and biologists, if Carol Prentice can produce the right answers with her experiment.

Prentice, assigned to the Department of Fish and Game Laboratory in Garden City, has a theory that length and width of the teeth can determine if the bobcat is male or female.

To test her idea, she has been measuring scores of teeth and comparing the measurements with those of cats whose sex has been confirmed. The teeth came from the skulls of bobcats brought to department offices by trappers and hunters as required by regulations this season.

Bobcat pelt prices have been in heavy demand. According to the department's annual fur harvest report, the 1978-79 bobcat harvest, as projected from trapper reports, totaled 1,317 compared to 776 the previous season. Average pelt price was $283.11—an 8 percent increase from 1977-78.

The department, recognizing a need for closer management of the furbearer, required trappers and hunters to present the skull when pelts were brought in for export tags to be attached this season.

Sex of the bobcat, date, location and method of take were reported. Teeth from each skull tell Prentice the age of the animal.

All of the data, when compiled and analyzed, goes into department recommendations for seasons and regulations. Prentice says she believes her theory, if it works out, can produce better information and free the trapper and hunter from keeping

Rules Stated for Dome's Family Hour

Moscow—Use of the University of Idaho's Kibbi-ASUI Activities Center for recreational purposes by families of UI faculty and staff continues to be heavy, according to Dome Manager Ed Chavez, and he offers this reminder of rules for family usage.

"The success of the family hour depends upon all persons following the rules and cooperating. Recently, we've had several parents dropping their children off to play in the dome unattended," Chavez said.

The rules state that children, six years old and older, must be accompanied and supervised by a parent. "Supervised" is defined as maintaining close verbal and visual contact between parent and child.

Children and parents are considered as one unit for tennis court usage, and track equipment—jump mats and poles which belongs to the track team, is not for general use.

Families may use the dome 6-7 p. m. seven days a week, except when special events are scheduled. Questions or suggestions may be referred to Ed Chavez at the dome, 885-7928.

License holders can hunt 14 different species of game birds in Idaho, ranking it among the leading states in the variety offered to hunters.

track of the bobcat's sex.

The animal's teeth now tell its age when examined under a microscope. A thin cross section cut from the tooth shows rings that resemble those in a tree stump, so it's a matter of counting the rings in the bobcat tooth.

Idaho Has Moderately Good Uranium Mining Potential

Moscow—Idaho has "moderately good" potential for uranium resources, says a University of Idaho geologist, who adds that the United States may face production shortfalls of the radioactive mineral during the 1980's or 1990's.

Although slowdowns of U. S. nuclear power development has cramped domestic demands for uranium, says Dr. Peter Siems, European countries including France and Great Britain are still forging ahead with nuclear plants.

The United States is presently the largest free-world producer of uranium, Siems says, but ranks third behind Australia and Canada in terms of total reserves. Communist countries do not release production or other uranium-related information.

"In Idaho," Siems says, "the potential is moderately good for finding it in volcanic rocks like those found near Challis in the central part of the state or Silver City in the south."

Some companies are also looking at recovering the uranium as a by-product of phosphate mining operations," Siems adds. Phosphate is mined and processed in eastern Idaho.

Although no uranium mining is currently underway in Idaho, Siems says, past activity in the Challis volcanic field produced about 8,000 tons of ore from 1957 to 1961.

Idaho's potential as a uranium source, however, lags far behind other states, he says. Texas, Wyoming and New Mexico now have the greatest known reserves of uranium.

Siems, UI professor of geology, recently presented a paper on his research on the Challis volcanoes during a symposium about uranium sponsored by the American Association of Petroleum Geologists in El Paso, Texas.

According to Siems, a 4,500-square mile area which runs from Challis to the Salmon River on the north and Hailey to Arco, Idaho, on the south is one of the most likely uranium development sites.

About two dozen uranium deposits occur in the area, Siems says, "But exploration has been less than in many other volcanic fields."

"We know of relatively few actual ore deposits in the area, but there are potential resources that are fairly high," he adds.

"There is a lot of interest in the area but I don't think that there's going to be a uranium rush. Exploration will probably stay at about the same level for some time."

Exploration attempts for uranium have been hindered by lack of complete geological information about the area and large amounts of land in the area withdrawn from development for wilderness or similar uses, Siems says.

About half of the area falls into the withdrawn category, he says. 8 companies, however, are currently exploring the area for uranium deposits.

The Challis volcanic field, Siems says, was formed between 50 and 38 million years ago and during that time resembled the present-day Cascade Mountains of Washington and Oregon.

Active erosion, however, has carried much of the volcanic materials to the sea since then and has further complicated the area's geologic history for researchers, he says.

Clint Johnson Completes Real Estate-at-Auction Seminar In Phoenix

Clint Johnson, member of the National Auctioneers Association has returned from Phoenix, Arizona where he completed a three-day Real Estate-at-Auction seminar, conducted by the National Auctioneers Association.

The seminar program included presentations by non-auction experts as well as experienced auctioneers in the real estate field. The legal aspects of real estate at auction, residential real estate auctions, and advertising the real estate auction were among the subjects covered at the Phoenix NAA Seminar.

All conditions of the sale of real estate at auction, including the contract with the client, conducting the sale and followup to conclude the auction, were discussed by the Seminar's instructors.

Clint Johnson was among the 160 registrants who attended the NAA Seminar from nearly every U. S. state. The event was held at Del Webb's Townhouse Convention Center in Phoenix, Arizona.

NAA seminars are part of the continuing education programs available to the 6,000 members of the National Auctioneers Association, head quartered in Lincoln, Nebraska. Other NAA educational programs include auction skills workshops at the annual convention, in addition to the Certified Auctioneers Institute at Indiana University.

Why the Irish Celebrate St. Patrick's Day

The Irish celebrate March 17 in commemoration of St. Patrick's great and noble deed, that of driving the Norwegian intruders out of Ireland.

It seems, according to history, that centuries ago many Norwegians came over to Ireland to escape the bitter cold of the Norwegian winters. Ireland was having a famine at that time and food was very scarce.

The Norwegians were eating almost all of the fish caught in the area, leaving the poor hungry Irishman with nothing but potatoes to eat.

St. Patrick, taking matters into his own hands, like most Irishmen do, decided that the Norwegians just had to go. Secretly he organized the IRATION (Irish Republican Army to Rid Ireland of Norwegians). Irish members of "IRATION" sabotaged all the power plants in Ireland in hopes the fish in Norwegian refrigerators would spoil, forcing the Norwegians to a colder climate where their fish would keep.

The fish spoiled all right, but the Norwegians, as everyone knows today, thrive on spoiled fish.

Faced with this failure, the Irishmen sneaked into the Norwegian fish storage caves in the dead of night and sprinkled the rotten fish with lye, hoping to poison the Norwegian intruders. But as everyone knows this was how lutefish was introduced to the Norwegians and they thrived on the lye-soaked fish.

Matters became worse for the Irishmen when the Norwegians started taking over the Irish Potato crop and making luse. Poor old St. Pat was at his wits end and finally on March 17th he blew his top and told all the Norwegians where to go, and it worked! All the Norwegians left Ireland and came over to the Genesee Valley.

The above interesting and timely article was handed in to us by John Luedke.

Another Busy Week at Heath's—
Coming and going keeps things lively. Of special joy to Mildred Heath was the working at jobs she wished accomplished by grandson Mitch Rugg and his friend, Kelly Gruell, both of Lewiston. Covering a last winter's installation of outdoor plumbing, during the week, and again on Sunday coming to fix the fence around her rose garden! Edgar and Ruth Heath from Nezperce on Sunday and Norma and Kenny Rugg on Saturday, from Lewiston added to her pleasure. Work continues on the Evan's home site at Cherrylane, on the North Side.

Roberta Heath was improved enough to be removed from intensive care to another room, we are glad to report. The still a sick girl, hopes are held that she will continue to improve.

Tuesday, March 4th, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Stevens visited Effie Powell and Martha Wilkens in Kendrick and at the Juliaetta home of Ann and 'Bid' Fairfield.

Culdesac Sausage Feed—1980
Held on Sunday, March 9th—from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m. at the Culdesac gymnasium and cafeteria, this annual event was as usual, a success! Old Time Fiddlers music, with the inevitable dancing or toe-tapping that results to some, entertained the starving or satiated. Around 4 p. m. numbers 1280 were called to eat, assuring many more before closing time! Field glasses, to locate friends in the packed bleachers, would be a fine idea! 'Were you there, Charley?'

Rather a Mystery—
Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Steigers, returning from an air-trip to New Orleans with REA officials, were saddened to learn that Mabel's mother, Mystic Heimgartner, had been found with a broken ankle. Mystic had been tucked into her bed the night before at the care center in Lewiston and was discovered the following morning with the injury. Just how or when it occurred is unknown. Mystic has been a patient at St. Joseph's Hospital since this occurred.

"Marathon Men"—
The Sunday, March 9, edition of the Lewiston Morning Tribune Sport section contains a glowing account of the 1980 Snake River Canyon Marathon—a 26.2 mile run from WaWaWai Landing to the finish line in the Clarkston Industrial Park.
Stony Point's Ken Steigers came in a close second place winner, only 23 seconds behind the winner, a Moscow Unitarian Minister Harold Rosen, 32 years of age. Ken has just passed his 47th birthday on Feb. 2. Pretty good for a "Ground-Hog Twin". Ken's wife, Linda, children Bekalyn and Brant, and his parents, Ernest and Nellie Steigers, were most thrilled to be there at the exciting moment! This occurred on Saturday, March 8th. Rosen's time was 2 hours, 57 minutes and 41 seconds; Steiger's time: 2:58:04.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Heimgartner, with Erma Stevens, were Saturday afternoon callers in the Everett Custer home at Clarkston. Almost daily calls have been made to see Mystic Heimgartner.

Baked Alaskan Salmon Dinner—
The Roy and Ardythe Heimgartner home at Stony Point was the scene of a happy gathering on Sunday, March 9th. Guests present included Wayne, Ruth, and Allen Heimgartner, the Lee Heimgartner family, Dale Heimgartner, Tommy Bonine, C. F. Lindor and Leslie Heimgartner.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Heimgartner spent Saturday afternoon at the Lewiston home of her mother, Mrs. Hunter.

Visitors at Pinecreek on Friday afternoon were Helena Brown's granddaughter, Lori Brown and friend Pam Miller of Lewiston on a short vacation from school. The girls gathered buttercups.

Monday, March 10 — a beautiful sunny day!

H. E. L. P. Diet, Exercise Club Elects New Leaders

We paid our dues and weighed in. The meeting was called to order by acting leader Norma Abrams, who was assisted by Darla Moran, who read the minutes of the last meeting. An election was held for new leader and co-leader. Chosen were Darla Moran, Leader and Bev Bowers, co-leader. We have one new member, bringing the total membership to 32. The "Keep Your Hands Busy" contest proved to be quite successful. We had crafts from macrame to quilts. All the participating members did a great job keeping their hands busy plus losing weight. Our total weight loss was 39 1/4 pounds—good work, ladies! Two of our members tied for the most weight lost during the past week. They each won a prize for losing 5 pounds each! Chris Fey was our guest again—leading us in our exercises. Thank you Chris. We sang our song and the meeting was adjourned. —Norma Abrams, Sect.

Genesee Jaycette News—

On February 20th, the 1st through 3rd graders at Genesee elementary school enjoyed a presentation on seat belt safety sponsored by Genesee Jay-Cettes. Karol Wedin, Chapter vice president, along with Beth Zenner and Mary Bielenberg presented a film strip of Belt Man to the children. This was followed by instruction to individuals on the technique of using the seat belt. The children received bumper stickers, iron-on patches and pamphlets to color featuring Belt Man. This program was well received. The Jay-Cettes have also participated in several other programs including decorating bulletin boards at Good Samaritan Nursing Home, participating in the forth coming C. P. R. class in Moscow and hosting the District 3 meeting scheduled for March 20th. Our Jay-Cettes of the month are: November: Tedi Roach; December: Kathy Zenner and January: Chris Johnson. The next chapter meeting will be March 18 at 7:00 p. m. in the basement of the Legion Hall. All young women are welcome to join us!
