Reunion and Graduation

The Bovill High School class of 1930 reunion and Deary's graduation took place without any untoward incident, even though most people were keeping a weather eye on Mt. St. Helens.

The BHSS Class of 1930 was present 100% for its reunion. Using the small van school bus, driven by Jerry Smith, the classmates made a two-hour tour of the Bovill area, identifying points of interest and commenting on the changes. After the dinner, a reception at the church hall was attended by about forty relatives and friends. A delicious and beautiful cake baked by Linda Horning of Deary, was served by Mrs. Grace Maher, Newberg, Or., a sister of the Stone brothers, Mrs. C. D. Stone, their sister-in-law, served coffee. Mrs. Stan Hobbs, Bryan Hobbs sister-in-law, Mrs. Musch and Mrs. Love served punch.

June 1, the Class of 1930 were the special honored guests of the Class of 1980 at Deary high school. In that class were Jim Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Smith and grand-nephew of the Stone Brothers, and Brian Funke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Funke, all of Park.

Following graduation, 43 of Jim's relatives and friends were at his home for a potluck dinner. Later in the evening many of the Class of '80, their relatives and friends, turned out for an evening of fun and dancing at Funke's. Another party for the Class of '80, a bon fire and sing-along, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Benson, Deary.

News Notes From Park

By Mrs. Jody Smith

Reunion and Graduation

The Bovill High School class of 1930 reunion and Deary's graduation took place without any untoward incident, even though most people were keeping a weather eye on Mt. St. Helens.

The BHS Class of 1930 was present 100% for its reunion. Using the small van school bus, driven by Jerry Smith, the classmates made a two-hour tour of the Bovill area, identifying points of interest and commenting on the changes. A no-host dinner served by the Bovill Presbyterian Women's Organization was enjoyed by the classmates, Joe and Rupert Stone, Olive Olson, John Miller and Bryan Hobbs; Mrs. Hobbs, the only spouse able to attend, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Smith, Mrs. Luzelle Musch and Mrs. Gladys Love, sisters of John Miller, David Johnson, a reporter from the Lewiston Morning Tribune and Louis Gardner, a member of the Class of 1931 and close friend of the classmates, from Mullan, Idaho.

After the dinner, a reception at the church hall was attended by about forty relatives and friends. A delicious and beautiful cake baked by Linda Horning of Deary, was served by Mrs. Grace Maher, Newberg, Or., a sister of the Stone brothers. Mrs. C. D. Stone, their sister-in-law, served coffee. Mrs. Stan Hobbs, Bryan Hobbs sister-in-law, Mrs. Musch and Mrs. Love served punch.

June 1, the Class of 1930 were the special honored guests of the Class of 1980 at Deary high school. In that class were Jim Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Smith and grand-nephew of the Stone Brothers, and Brian Funke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Funke, all of Park.

Following graduation, 43 of Jim's relatives and friends were at his home for a potluck dinner. Later in the evening many of the Class of '80, their relatives and friends, turned out for an evening of fun and dancing at Funke's. Another party for the Class of '80, a bon fire and sing-along, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Benson, Deary.

Stony Point
By Nellie Dean Steigers

The young Moscow Fliger girls were attending a swimming meet at Pasco on Sunday, June 22, when parents Ernie and Crystal spent the day at Stonypoint with Erma Stevens.

Pictured on TV—Young Terry Heath, grandson of Mildred Heath, appeared on television recently when the winners of the Olympic try-outs were shown. Terry was not a winner there but did nicely, and we are all very proud of his running ability.

Educational Races—On a minor scale, other grandparents of our locality are proud of the scholastic records set by our 9th graders at Lapwai High—both Russell Hoisington and Bekalyn Steigers having received straight 'A's' for the term. Jenny Thompson of Lenore was with them, and one other. Three more years until the show-down! All winners!

Blue Herons, with raucous cries, are coming to Pine Creek and Cherrylane for fishing. Rain on down cut hay is not appreciated!

Visits—Mrs. Gertrude Heimgartner spent Thursday afternoon at the Mildred Heath home last week. Daughter Inez Ingraham spent Thursday evening at her mother's home. Gordon Heath and sons were around all day Friday and on Saturday a Heath family picnic was held at Evelyn's home at Cherrylane!

Attend Church 'Couples Camp'—Mr. and Mrs. Glen Stevens spent a most enjoyable weekend attending the "couples camp" held at Camp Alacca, near Harpster.

During the past week Mrs. Elaine Hoisington and girls were afternoon callers one day, and son Jim and family came calling on Sunday evening, June 22 at the Cletis Hoisington home.

Sunday, June 22, was visiting day for Eldon and Gertrude Heimgartner. A trip to Lewiston to see Mother Myrtle with her foot cast recently removed, then a stop at Cottonwood Creek with grandson Rick and family completed their journey.

House Guests—Miss Heather Morton of Kendrick and Miss Earlene Mitchell of Juliaetta spent several days last week as guests of the Hoisington girls.

Summer-time Company Comes—The welcome arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Straw, son Brian, and our Grandma Lena Zumhofe, occurred on Friday night from Mt. Home. The same evening Mr. and Mrs. Ron Elliott (nee Jarlice Heimgartner) drove from Yakima. The Elliots departed homeward after the weekend, but the others will remain longer. The Straws spent the weekend visiting in Pierce with other relatives also present for the occasion.

Pinecreek—Wednesday, Mrs. Helena Brown and daughter Merle Cooper attended the funeral of old-time friend Dixie Groseclose. The younger generation has been later day friends. We all extend sympathy over the loss of a mother. Merle Cooper visited her mother at the home place on Sunday.

An Interesting Sunday—Linda, Bekalyn and Brant Steigers accompanied by the elder Steigers, attended an auction held at the 7th Day Adventist school gym near Moscow, at which many items were sold. Later supper was enjoyed at the John Talbot home where Bekalyn remained for a week's visit with her other grandparents. Linda took home a heavy oak swivel desk chair as her "spoils" from the sale to be used in their study-library room at Cherrylane. Arriving early to check on needed items, the acquaintance made with auctioneer Clint Johnson and his assistant, Bob Cole, proved most interesting. Mr. Johnson, over a period of some 20 years, tested cream content of the milk from dairy cattle at Cherrylane for the Kerby Ranch. Bob Cole, a native of Leland, had resided as a youngster at the side hill ranch just above the old Agatha School House! Hauling of the Steigers-Lacey cattle herd to Weippe pasture was completed on Sunday, so Kenny was unable to be with the family on the Moscow spree.

Scout News from Troop 149

Returning home from a 26-mile hike from Adam's Camp to Mill Creek on the South Fork were the "ground pounders"—Randy Benjamin, Todd Bowers, Kenny Bowers, Jay Bailey and assistant scoutmaster Marvin Bailey. All were tired and ready to come home and crawl into warm bath-tubs of water. (They reported the creeks were very cold for bathing this time of year). The group had plenty of food supplemented by Morrell mushrooms collected and the fish caught along the way. There was some disappointment with the weather, as they only enjoyed two clear days from the 11 days they were out. But, all in all, the group had fun and enjoyed living in the wilds.

Scoutmaster Ken Bowers and his assistant Scoutmaster Marvin Bailey left for a week of adult training (Woodbadge) at Lake Wallawa on June 21. Woodbadge is the highest adult training available in Scouting.

Those who will be attending are Robert Jones, Rocky Smith, Jay Bailey, Randy Benjamin, Todd Bowers, Danny Emery and Kenny Bowers. Jim Bailey will go if he isn't working. Correction

In the local item concerning the Ben P. Cooks entertaining Rev. and Mrs. Melford Knight, the item gave the impression that Rev. Knight had been a minister at Craigmont. This was not so. Rev. Knight was pastor of the Genesee Community Church until moving to Washington in the 50's.

"The oldest to the youngest boys have helped with the cows," said Jim Seubert of their dairy east of Cottonwood.

Currently, sons Tim, Ken, Pat and Lon do the majority of dairy work and Jim has more of a supervisory role.

"I started the dairy here over 30 years ago and we've milked in the milk house twice a day every day except 4 in all those years. In 1972, we remodeled and put in the first herringbone stalls on the Prairie. Four days while we remodeled we had to milk else where," Jim said.

Almost every dairy remodeled since then has put in the herringbones.

Recently, another record was broken by area dairy farms.

"In 30 years, we hadn't missed a milk pickup until the volcanic ash. The road districts have been good and kept the roads open in all sorts of snow storms, but the ash stopped the milk trucks from the Northwest Dairyman's Assn. at Spokane," he said.

Every other day the milk goes to Spokane, but this time there were 4 days they couldn't make it. The first pickup of about 4500 pounds or 55 gallons of milk went down the drain. "Jessup saved us by picking up the second load of milk" he said.

Seuberts have received a number of awards for their work from the Northwest Dairyman's Assn.

"Every month, they run 8 tests on our milk: raw bacteria, pasteurized bacteria, pre-incubation bacterial, white blood cells, antibiotics, added water, sediment and flavor. If anything is wrong, the score is dropped," Jim said.

They received a trophy for getting 100 percent scores for a year. That year, it was the only dairy farm to do so in the Spokane shed, which covers from Montana to Ellensburg, Wash.

They have received second trophy, but there were 2 in the shed that year. In the past 6 years, they have not received less than a 97 percent score.

This year several major new ideas have come to the Seubert operation. Tim graduated from a dairy herdsman course in Utah and a special fly-killing fly has been imported.

At the herdsman school, Tim received his artificial insemination license, studied calving and possible problems, and diseases that affect dairy cattle. He also worked on a small dairy about the same size as Seuberts.

Seubert thought the idea of a dairy paying $25 for 12,000 flies was unusual. Dairies do most anything to get rid of flies-baits, sprays and electronic zappers.

The 12,000 special flies are supposed to kill other flies by stinging the fly pupa and putting their young inside which kills the "bad fly" young.

They had just turned loose the first batch of killer flies and will be getting 12,000 each month this summer. "It will be about a year before we can tell if it helps," Jim said.

Seuberts have 47 Holsteins and a few Brown Swiss cows which they got a few years ago. It takes about an hour and 15 minutes to do the milking and a half hour to clean up, Pat said.

The first thing they switch on in the milking house is the radio, Jim said. They milk when its available. They produce most of their own hay and grain only buying some first and third cutting alfalfa from south Idaho.

They have a place on Icicle Flats near Westlake where they raise hay and summer the dairy heifers and a few beef cattle.

While digging stumps on Icicle Flats, Jim came up with their garden "spider" which is a spider shaped tree root they added eyes to.

They have 73 acres where the dairy is plus farming several other places where they raise grain.

at 5:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Breakfast is our big meal of the day. "After milking, we eat and the boys got ready to catch the school bus at 10 til 8." Currently, they have a son in high school and one in junior high, but the rest of the family of 9 boys and 2 girls are out of school.

The milking process would take from longer to almost forever without electricity. Seuberts have an emergency generator, but haven't used it much as power outages are few and Washington Water Power buried the main line into here several years ago, Jim said.

Tim and Pat run the milk house operation. They work from the center which is about 3 feet lower than the lines of cattle on each side.

The herringbone stalls enable them to milk 6 cows in a very small space.

While the cows are milked, they receive a grain ration which is about the same for all cows. Several cows will give Pat and Tim a licking for extra grain.

An empty grain dish brings a quick tongue to the face of one of the milkers. A stunt which is rewarded.

The iodine solution is the biggest thing in dairying to seal the end up and keep bacteria out after milking, Jim said. They wash the udders with a special solution before milking.

After the cows are milked, they are turned out to the feedlot where Ken does the feeding. He feeds hay and silage

Dairying good for economy

Idaho's dairy farm families contribute substantially to the economy of this state, according to Paul Peterson, Administrator, United Dairymen of Idaho.

Last year, Idaho's dairymen produced over 1,689 million pounds of milk with a market value of approximately $194,235 thousand dollars.

Unlike many other business and other segments of agriculture, these dollars were pumped back into Idaho's economy.

There are few, if any, industries that require more goods and services for general production than does dairying.

An enormous mountain of feed must be raised and purchased to sustain Idaho's milking herd.

This feed supply alone requires 40 to 50 percent of the total dollars generated by the finished product.

These goods and services, purchased locally have a multiplier effect on the local and state economy.

Idaho's dairy industry has become more and more important to the Western States because over 75 percent of the milk produced

Two brothers operate independent Golden Grain Dairy

By Susan Tiede

About 20,000 gallons of milk are processed through the Golden Grain Dairy at Lewiston each week.

They handle 1 percent, 2 percent, buttermilk, whipping cream, sour cream, half and half, cottage cheese, butter and ice cream.

Golden Grain is one of the few remaining independent dairies. It is owned by brothers, Don and Bob MacKinnon. Their father started the business about 1940.

It later became a partnership with the Klampers. In 1969, the brothers bought out the Klamper's interest.

They employ 13 persons in the plant and in deliveries.

Golden Grain products only appear in the local area the Camas Prairie Lewiston, Clarkston, Asotin, Pomeroy, Moscow, Pullman, Orofino and Kamiah, Mac Kinnon said.

Golden Grain milk comes from Grangeville, Culdesac, Weippe, Pomeroy and some from the Washington State University Dairy.

The raw milk arrives Mondays, Wednesday and Fridays and is unloaded into a holding tank at the rear of the building, according to Charlie Sumner, milk processor.

The milk is piped inside to another vat where it is stirred and mixed. It then goes to a separator to separate out the cream for 1 or 2 percent skimmed milks.

The cream is used for the plant's butter making operation. The percentage of cream is periodically checked by the state for the skimmed milk, he said.

In the separator, any foreign particles are also removed. From the separator, the milk goes into another holding tank. It is then ready to be pasteurized in the "short timer".

It is heated to 160 plus degrees for 2½ minutes to kill any micro organisms.

After pasteurization, it is homogenized so the cream doesn't separate out. It is cooled to below 40 degrees under 1800 pounds of pressure which "squeezes" the milk and cream together, Sumner said.

It goes to another vat while waiting to go to the packaging machine. They package milk in gallons, half gallons, quarts, pints, and half pints for the school lunch programs.

They put some in large heavy plastic bags with spouts for restaurant milk dispensers.

Cartoned milk is taken to the cooled storage area for delivery to stores.

When the day's milk processing is finished, we run chlorine through the system to disinfect it and maintain our Grade A rating," he said.

They also take the equipment apart and scrub it. Stainless steel is the most used material in the dairy processing plant

BUTTER

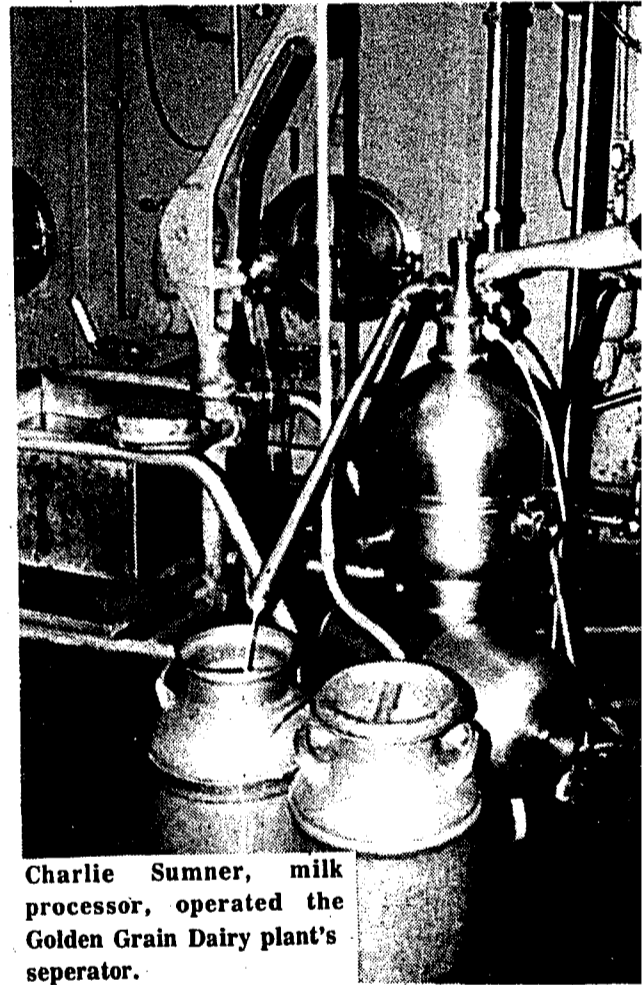

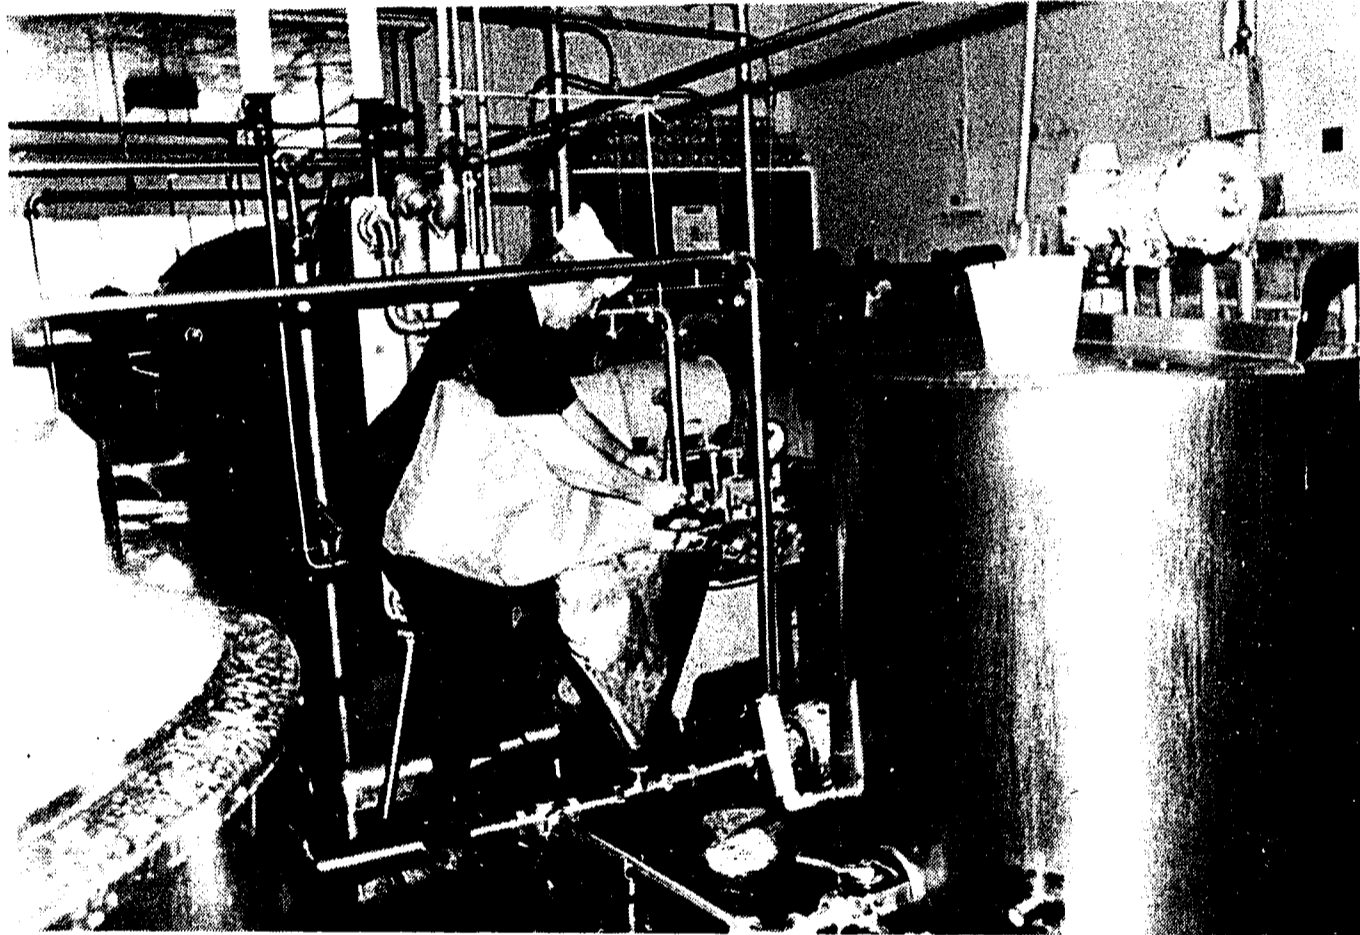

The Golden Grain butter churn doesn't look like the old fashioned hand churn many area residents are familiar with.

"The average churn run lately has been yielding about 1,122 pounds of butter," said Duane Jordan, who makes the butter and cottage cheese.

Cream for the butter comes from separating off the cream for 1 and 2 percent milks plus farmers who sell cream. Cream no longer arrives in Gordon Candler mixed another batch of ice cream. On the right is the cooker and at left is the pasturizer. He was adding ingredients to the ice cream base mixture.

sell the familiar metal cream cans. They've been replaced by plastic buckets with lids.

The cream is first pasteurized then cooled before churning

"I run a composite butterfat test on the tank," Jordan said. Butterfat is 8.3 pounds per gallon of cream. "The richer the cream, the more butter it yields."

"We churn by temperature. This time of year, it is best to churn at about 56 degrees. It takes 30-40 minutes to make butter. If it seperates to butter and buttermilk too soon, it doesn't yield as much."

When the butter is about fist sized globs, the buttermilk is drained off though a drain for hog feed.

The buttermilk they sell is a cultured buttermilk made with skimmed milk and a "culture" ingredient.

The butter is rinsed in water which is 2-3 degrees cooler than the churn temperature.

After rinsing, salt is worked into the butter and moisture tests are run on the butter. If it is below the ideal water content, more may be added as it makes a better product.

The butter is then ready to remove from the churn and tamp in the molds which are about 1 foot square. It then goes into the cold room until it is cut into pounds or quarter pounds for store sales.

COTTAGE CHEESE

Three times a week Duane Jordan makes a batch of cottage cheese at Golden Grain.

They have a 550 gallon vat for making cottage cheese with skimmed milk and a starter. The milk and starter are heated to 90 degrees and let sit until it sets up and the whey seperates out.

It takes 3-3½ hours to set up. He tests the acidity of the whey to determine when it is ready to cut. It seperates properly at a 4.6-5.0 acidity.

He also "hand tests" the cheese. When it slides off the fingers smoothly, the acid test should be right for cutting the cottage cheese.

The hand test is a double check for the chemical indicator-distilled water-whey test.

After it is cut, it is cooked to 144 degrees in 3 stages. The cheese has to be kept stirred or it clumps back up again.

The 500 gallons of milk goes down a lot in the cooking process to the final cottage cheese product, Jordan said.

the cottage cheese dressing. Ten gallons of dressing go in for each 100 gallons of milk put in it. The 500 gallon batch of cottage cheese weighs about 1000 pounds.

Jordan also packages cartons of cottage cheese and stamps them with a "pull date" when the delivery men bring unsold cottage cheese back from the stores. "It stays good after those 10 days, but we're not as sure of it," he said.

ICE CREAM

Golden Grain ice cream can come in any of 30 flavors, but it all starts out as 1 flavor, said Gilbert Chandler, who makes Golden Grain ice cream.

He makes up a 300 gallon batch of base which is made of milk, cream, sugar, milk powder, stabilizer, whey powder and artificial color.

It is pasteurized, homogenized and cooked to 165 degrees for a half hour.

It is cooled to 40 degrees until it is used.

Ice cream goes into the flavor vat for flavoring before going into the freezer which uses an ammonia cooling system. It is a 380 gallon per hour continuous freezer system.

When it comes out of the freezer, a fruit feeder adds fruit and nuts to some flavors of ice cream and a ripple and marble pump adds those flavors to some ice creams, Candler said.

After it comes out of the freezer, the ice cream is packaged and put in the cold room overnight at minus 20 degrees before it is distributed to the stores.

Plot tests chemical use costs

Do or don't agriculture chemicals benefit? This is the basis of a project being tried by Craigmont farmer Wayne Zenner for the Citizens for Food and Fiber.

Zenner has set up test plots on 7 acres west of Craigmont along Highway 95.

Zenner is keeping cost records on the plots which are exactly 3.5 acres each as he had the ASCS office measure and divide the field for a cost of $12.

The idea for test plots came up at a Citizens for Food and Fiber meeting.

"Environmentalists claim farmers are being fooled by chemical companies about needing agriculture chemicals.

"We decided to prove for the average consumer that chemicals are beneficial," Zenner said.

"We originally decided to do visual plots, but then thought exact figures would be better proof.

"It will be harvested separately and entered as separate lots at the elevator, so if there is a difference in quality or a price dock for weed seeds, it will help emphasize the point," he said.

Production is expected to drop to 1940 levels without agriculture chemicals. That is 30 percent less than current production. The U. S. is exporting about 30 percent of their crop each year.

If the herbicides and fertilizers are taken off the market, U. S. farmers would only be able to feed their own country not help balance foreign trade or trade for fuel, Zenner said.

Save the environment for the future is the motto of environmental groups. An additional 3.5 million acres of intensely farmed land would be needed to maintain current production.

That is most of the recreation land in the country.

"Is that what they want the environment saved for? he asked.

"I want my 2 sons and daughter to have trees and food 40 years down the road, that's why I'm trying to prove our point.

"If you take away ag chemicals, there won't be food or shelter for them, so in that way I'm an environmentalist too in wanting food production saved for the future."

Zenner's project has 3.5 acres of untreated spring wheat on the west side of the field, a buffer zone and 3.5 acres of normal farming practices on the east. The place is rented from I. J. Longteig Sr.

Costs were identical on both sides of the field he sowed May 1.

Fieldwin spring wheat seed 90 pounds per acre cost $9.45.

Cultivation costs were $13 per acre which broke down to: fuel $24 or 8 gallons per hour for 3 times over the 7 acres; tractor use $45, figured at $15 per hour; cultivator $10.50, seeding with "cat" $15 per hour for 45 minutes.

The total was $91 or $13 per acre for cultivation.

Zenner did not figure operator time on the equipment as "I don't get paid other wise. Wages come out of 'profit' above the break even point."

The untreated portion of the field has a total cost input of $22.45 per acre.

Following normal farming practices, Zenner had fertilizer applied May 2. It was 200 pounds per acre of 40-00-6 or 80 pounds of useable nitrogen and 12 of sulfur.

Fertilizer cost $24.10 per acre and application by Harlan Aviation was 3 cents per pound or $6 per acre.

It was fertilized north and south to keep it off the untreated side.

June 11 the field was sprayed with 4,4-D for weed control. It cost $3.23 per acre for 2,4-D applied at a rate of 1 quart per acre. Aerial application costs were $3.75 per acre.

The normal farming costs totaled $208.73 or $59.63 per acre. The cost difference between the halves is $129.77 which means the normal farming half will have to yield an additional 10.59 bushels per acre to pay additional costs, figuring a wheat price of $3.50 per bushel.

Zenner noted the untreated half is yellowing and more difference is expected to show up in the next couple weeks with warm growing weather.

The only possible treatment between now and harvest on the normal farming side would be wild oat control, Zenner said, but he doubted if it would be needed.

Scherer family hosts Hereford field day

The Tom Scherer family of Craigmont hosted more than 180 persons from Idaho, Wash. and Mont. at the annual Idaho Junior Polled Hereford Assn. Field Day June 14.

The morning of the field day was devoted to a judging contest involving 6 pens of cattle.

Tom Patton, herdsman of the Split Butte Ranch at Rupert, was the official judge.

He said the top animals were "Those with the most good in one package since the perfect animal has not yet been bred."

Local residents did well in the judging. Diane Gehring of Craigmont placed first in the junior division. Marilyn Rylaatsdam of Grangeville was third and Mike Gehring fourth.

Mike Pratt of Craigmont won the first place trophy in the adult division plus the matching calves to sire contest.

Gerry Hagedorn of Moscow was second and Janell Willson of Reubens placed fifth.

Diane Gehring, Roni Gehring and Sally Pratt were the first place team. Charlie Ewing, Eric Ewing and Le Ann Pratt placed second.

Ken Harwell told the youths "There is no bigger accomplishment than producing food. It could be real challenge in the future." He spoke during the afternoon program and is senior vice president in charge of administration for the American Polled Hereford Assn. at Kansas City.

"There is a need for specific but realistic goals to shoot for. You need to try and learn everything you possibly can.

"Reputation is most important to the purebred breeder. Reputation beyond repute, dispute or challenge is best," Harwell said.

Profit is in those animals that perform best, said Tom Scherer in introducing the afternoon program on performance. "They haven't taken the scales out of the salesyards, so performance is what we work with."

Performance testing was the major topic discussed by the panel of Gerry Hagedorn owner of Rainbow Ranch at Moscow; Roy Snyder, owner of Moiese, Mont., Performance Center and Snyder Herefords; and Tom McClelland, manager of Wooden Show Herefords at Othello, Wash.

Performance records are for "on the ranch". Its for your own good and is not an advertising gimmick, Snyder said.

McClelland agreed "at Wooden Shoe, we had records before the Polled Hereford Assn. went to performance records. "It is a tool within your own herd. Differences in pasture and climate conditions void the performance records on a national basis," he said.

You can't make excuses for cows. If they lose a calf, the only way you can realistically keep them is if the loss was due to human error.

They discussed fertility, calving ease and rate of grain as ways of measuring performance.

Charlie Ewing of Nezperce was elected president of the Idaho Junior Polled Hereford Assn. during their annual meeting June 14. Mike Rogers of Castleford was elected vice president.

Annette Scherer, Craigmont, is the new secretary-treasurer and Diane Scherer is reporter for the organization.

Advisors for the association are Alice Scherer of Craigmont, Judy Braun of Jerome and Elise Heins of Rupert.

Persons also attended from Oregon Washington, Montana, Idaho and Missouri.

FBI figures show an increase in female arrests for serious crimes - up 80 percent from 1966 to 1971.

HOME COOKING PAYS BIG DIVIDENDS

Cooking is one hobby that pays a variety of dividends today. When someone in the family gets "hooked" on recipes and cooking from scratch, meals invariably improve. Entertaining at home offers a chance to show off and saves considerably on restaurant bills. Eventually fewer convenience foods appear on the grocery bill and that can make a big difference.

As hobby cooks acquire experience, recipe innovations bring greater satisfactions. Sharing a home baked loaf or a glass of special jelly with a friend makes a treasured gift no one can duplicate. The recipe for Green Bean and Bacon Bread makes a delicious accompaniment for soup and salads. This is a batter bread that doesn't have to be kneaded. The recipe makes two 9-inch square loaves that cut nicely into squares for serving. Serve one warm and freeze or give away the other loaf.

Batter breads are more open in texture than breads that are kneaded. So they crumble easily and do not slice as smoothly. They also toast nicely, brushed with melted margarine and dried out in a low oven. They can be used in place of crackers with appetizers and spreads.

GREEN BEANS AND BACON BREAD

Makes 2 loaves

- 1/2 pound fresh green beans
- Boiling salted water
- 7 slices bacon
- 3-1/4 to 3-4/4 cups unsifted white flour
- 1-1/2 cups unsifted whole wheat flour
- 2 cups warm water (105°F.-115°F.)

- 2 packages Fleischmann's® Active Dry Yeast
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 2-1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1 egg, beaten (at room temperature)

Wash beans and snap off both ends with a sharp knife. Slice lengthwise to make French-style green beans and cut into 1-inch pieces. Cook in boiling salted water for 5 minutes, drain well and cool. Set aside.

Cook bacon until crisp; drain reserving 3 tablespoons drippings. Crumble bacon into tiny pieces. Set aside.

Mix together 2 cups white flour and whole wheat flour.

Measure warm water into large warm bowl. Sprinkle in yeast; stir until dissolved. Add sugar, salt, bacon drippings, egg and 3 cups flour mixture; beat until smooth. Stir in crumbled bacon, green beans, remaining flour mixture and enough additional white flour to make a stiff batter. Cover; let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 45 minutes.

Stir batter down. Beat vigorously, about 1/2 minute. Turn into 2 greased 9x9x2-inch baking pans. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Bake at 400° F. about 35 minutes, or until done. Remove from pans and cool on wire racks.

BAR-B-Q WITH AN IRISH TOUCH

Summertime means barbecue time and all those wonderful warm weekends when the outdoor chef is in his (or her) element.

Men especially enjoy the challenge of the coals, concocting robust and tangy sauces to enhance the flavor of grilling ribs and chicken. "Mist-ify" your guests with this unique barbecue sauce made with Irish Mist, which marries the flavor of heather honey and herbal spices with the aged smoothness of Irish Whiskey. It's a variation you'll want to use again and again throughout the barbecue season.

MISTY BARBECUE SAUCE

- 1/2 cup Irish Mist Liqueur
- 1/2 cup catsup
- 1/2 cup honey
- 2 Tbsp. lemon juice
- 2 Tbsp. Teriyaki or soy sauce
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 tsp. ginger
- 1 tsp. dry mustard

Blend ingredients until smooth.

Chicken: Brush 2 quartered broiler-fryers with salad oil; sprinkle with seasoned salt. Grill over medium coals 45 to 60 mins.; turn frequently. Brush with Sauce during last 20 min. Heat remaining Sauce; serve with chicken. 6 serv.

Ribs: Season 3 lbs. pork spareribs, cut into serving pieces, with garlic salt and pepper. Place, fat side up, on rack in shallow pan. Bake in 350 degree oven 1 hr. Place ribs over medium coals and grill 45 min. or until fork-tender. Turn frequently and brush with Sauce. Serve with heated sauce. 4-6 serv.

Hints For Homeowners

PATIO DOOR SHADE SAVES ENERGY

A Patio Door Shade reduces energy loss—in summer and in winter—and adds a decorator touch to a room.

When sliding glass doors were introduced, no one anticipated the energy consciousness of families of the future. While the doors are a definite plus in home design, they can present a problem in trying to heat or cool a room.

As energy bills continue to rise, consumers have begun to look for low-cost ways to make their homes more energy-efficient. With this in mind, Sears has introduced a new sliding glass door shade that provides privacy and convenience and helps reduce energy loss.

The Patio Door Shade is designed to help reduce energy loss in the winter by shielding the warm room air from the cold glass. In the summer, the white back of the shade deflects some of the sun's hot rays, keeping cool air in longer.

The shade stores in the cornice above the door, allowing room to open and close the door. It combines the convenience of operation of a venetian blind with the beauty of hand-woven draperies. And it's installed with only five screws.

For a special family treat bake a batch of gingersnaps

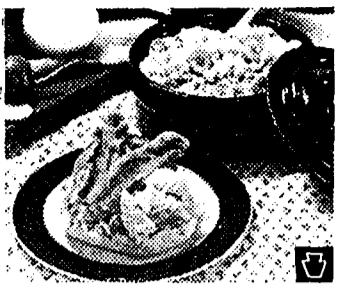

Crisp, freshly-baked gingersnaps cooling in the kitchen are sure to appeal to the whole family. Their spice-laden aroma brings back fond memories of the days when mothers and grandmothers were found in their kitchens baking such welcoming sweets says Brer Rabbit consultant Ms. Beth Tartan.

Cinnamon, ginger and a touch of cloves were the spices in the famous gingersnap recipe which appeared years ago on the Brer Rabbit molasses bottle label. These temptingly delicious cookies always seemed to disappear quickly from the larder soon after baking, Ms. Tartan says.

Here is that same recipe, which results in an excellent homemade gingersnap with the traditional "crackle top." The use of the iron-rich light or dark Brer Rabbit molasses as an ingredient helps blend the flavor of the spices, and also helps to make this cookie keep well when stored in a covered container.

The gingersnaps should be baked on a greased cookie sheet and cooled on a wire rack for
