CORN SILAGE HARVEST NEEDS CAREFUL TIMING
Clifton Anderson Associate Agricultural Editor
Caldwell—The calendar may indicate that silage-harvesting time is at hand, but most of Idaho's 1980 corn crop needs additional time to develop and attain the proper stage of maturity.
Because cool weather this spring and summer has delayed the ripening of corn, UI experts are advising farmers to harvest silage corn later than they do in normal years.
"Measured in growing-degree days our season in the Boise Valley is more than a week later than usual," the agronomist Harry R. Guenther, superintendent of the university's Southwest Idaho Research and Extension Center.
"Testing for moisture is a reliable way to test when silage corn is ready for harvest," said UI extension dairy specialist.
"Corn should be mature enough so that it will test from 30 to 36% dry matter after chopping. Most of the ears should be fully dented," he pointed out.
Fiez said the quality of corn silage can be protected by making routine checks of moisture content with a portable moisture tester.
"From research with both beef and dairy cattle, we know superior results are obtained by feeding mature corn silage which tests about 33% dry matter. Immature, overly wet corn silage is a less satisfactory feed," Fiez explained.
"Corn harvested in the mature stage yields the most food nutrients per acre and it also makes the highest quality of silage," the UI extension dairy specialist emphasized.
Fiez said silage waste and spoilage can be minimized by following good storage and harvesting methods. He offered these suggestions:
—Keep silage harvesters in good repair. Cut corn silage fine enough to insure tight packing.
—For beef cattle rations, silage can be cut less than one-half inch in length. A cut between one-half and three-fourths inch is recommended for dairy cattle rations.
—Sharp knives are needed to get a clean, uniform cut on the corn. When silage is poorly chopped, losses are great due to spoilage and reduced palatability.
—Adequate storage facilities must be available. Silage will suffer extremely high losses in nutrients if it is stored in stacks or piles.
—Fill the silo quickly. Spoilage can occur during filling if the harvest is spread out over a long period of time.
—Pack silage firmly. The object of packing is to force out most of the oxygen. This improves fermentation and reduces spoilage.
—To reduce top spoilage, cover the silo immediately after filling. Plastic covers weighed down by old tires will give good protection.
Initiative is doing the right thing without being told.

HUNTERS, ANGLERS SET RECORD FOR LICENSE PURCHASES IN 1979

More people hunted and fished in the United States last year than in 1978 and they spent more for licenses, tags, permits and stamps in '79 than in any preceding year, according to the Wildlife Management Institute.

The number of hunting license holders increased to more than 16.5 million, up from about 16.3 million in 1978, and fishing licenses were held by almost 28 million anglers, compared to 25.2 million in 1978.

Hunters and anglers combined contributed a record $373 million in license fees last year for state fish and wildlife agencies to manage the resources. From 1923 through 1979 hunters paid $2.9 billion for licenses and those who held fishing licenses have paid $2.6 billion, the Institute reported.

Sportspersons also help finance fish and wildlife conservation in other ways. Through an excise tax on sporting arms, ammunition, handguns, and archery equipment, they provided another $94 million last year which was collected by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service and apportioned to state fish and game agencies.

A similar tax on certain fishing equipment furnished the states $30.4 million for fisheries management, the Institute said.

HOMEOWNERS SHOULD PLUG ENERGY LEAKS

Clifton Anderson, Associate Agricultural Editor, Moscow—Is solar heating practical for older homes? The Energy-Efficient Practices Project, a farm energy service jointly sponsored by the Idaho Office of Energy and the UI Cooperative Extension Service, says solar energy will be wasted unless the walls, attics and openings of an older home are carefully insulated.

"Retrofitting an older home is economical only if steps are taken to make the property more energy-efficient," the educational project said in a report.

"Your initial investment in solar energy should be in sealing and insulating your home or building. See your county extension agent and request his advice about home and arm energy conservation," the report emphasized.

ORDER RESTRICTS PUBLIC USE OF COEUR D'ALENE RIVER WMA

The Fish and Game Department has authorized a permanent order limiting the use of motorized watercraft in the Coeur d'Alene River Wildlife Management Area, principally to maintain quality waterfowl hunting.

Craft with motors are prohibited on posted portions of the WMA's marshlands in the Hidden and Killarney lakes units, the order states, and their use is generally restricted to open water channels.

Other provisions include a requirement for a permit to construct blinds and a restriction on the use of motorized vehicles away from public roads on the WMA.

Open fires are not allowed during a closed fire season and a permit is needed to cut firewood or to cut or remove any vegetation according to the order. Removal of "soils, rocks, gravel or minerals," is also prohibited.

KELLOGG ANGLER LANDS WHOPPER OF A RAINBOW

The big rainbow trout that Jay Helms of Kellogg caught in the North Fork of the Coeur d'Alene River comes up to bragging size if it does not make the state record list.

His prize fish weighed 9 pounds, 11.5 ounces and measured 2.5 inches with a girth of more than 16 inches. Helms landed it August 13, using an Eagle Claw reel on a Fenwick rod with a torpedo lure and 4-pound test line. His catch was verified by conservation officer Doyle Reynolds, Department of Fish and Game.

The record rainbow on the department's official list is a 19-pounder, taken from Hayden Lake by I. M. Williams in 1947.

American Ridge

By Mrs. Jo Benscoter

Baby Shower—

Crystal Neal was honor guest at a baby shower in the Frank Benscoter home on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 30. Hostesses for the joyful occasion were Nell Heimgartner, Vicky Benscoter and Jo Benscoter. About twenty relatives and friends were present to share the happiness which always accompanies the anticipation of a new baby.

Each guest brought along one of her own baby pictures and a contest was held to see who could identify each with its owner—no easy task, but much merriment to learn of the many mistakes.

Flo Lyons was the blue ribbon winner with only eight correct identities.

On hand to assist Crystal open and admire her many beautiful and useful gifts were her mother, Marge Batey of Deary, her husband Dave's mother, Peg Neal of Moscow and great-grandmother (to be) Minnie Cox. Dessert, coffee and punch were served with the able assistance of Deena Brocke and Audra Callison to bring to a close a most happy and enjoyable afternoon.

Lawrence Heimgartner finished his combining Thursday evening and after supper he and Neil took their grandchildren Clint and Karen Johnson back to their Lewiston home to prepare for the opening of their school Sept. 2. They have been driving the trucks since the beginning of harvest and the Heimgartner household will seem rather quiet without them, especially since Clint brought his drums along for spare moments practice.

Wayne and Phebe called on the Frank Benscoters Monday morning and report that Wayne's mother is a little improved since her accident and has been moved from the hospital to a nursing home.

The David Johnson family of Lewiston visited the Lawrence Heimgartners Sunday afternoon. They also called on the Frank Benscoters—Many other rang the Benscoter door bell during the week but Jo loses track, so thanks to you all anyway.

Andy, Minnie, and Tom Cox went to Coeur d'Alene Monday to visit

Andy's sister, Margaret (Cox) McDougal.

Crystal and Dave Neal spent Sunday evening with friends Ray and Nene Koeford in Lewiston. Crystal's parents, the Clinton Bateys, visited the Neals on Friday evening.

Thursday was Crystal's mother, Marge Batey's, birthday, so she and Dave went to Deary and surprised her with a birthday cake. On this Monday, Sept. 1, Martina Rill and a friend of Boise, arrived for a few day's visit in the Neal home.

Several farmers in our neighborhood have finished their harvest, but many others who have not do not appreciate the rain. Some gardens have also frosted which is the earliest date for frost that we can remember.

Rick and Deb Farrington, Boulder, Colo., arrived at the Lloyd Farrington home Friday to join brother John and family in visiting their parents. Since Friday, August 29, happened to be Rick's birthday, Carol and Tom Rogers and family of Lewiston joined them for a birthday celebration. This made a nice family affair. Only Grandma Rose was ill and could not be present.

Saturday dinner guests in the Farrington home besides their houseguests included Shirley, Steven and Michelle Leach of Clarkston. Sunday evening visitors were Jo and Cecil Brammer and their sons Gary and Russell.

On Monday the John and Rick Farrington families went to Lewiston to spend the day with their sister Carol Lynn Rogers and family. In the meantime Lloyd and Amy took mother Rose Akins to her Clarkston home.

The Farrington boys and families will depart Tuesday, Sept. 2 for their respective homes and their parent's home will seem quiet and lonesome but memories of their fun days will remain behind.

George and Elizabeth Havens were at the Lewiston airport Saturday to meet the plane and welcome Elizabeth's son Ulf Stauber of Los Altos, Calif. He is visiting for a few days in the Havens home and his brother Dr. Eric Stauber and family of Genesee. His wife and family could not accompany him because of the start of school.

Lloyd and Mary Hill of Seattle visited with the Ernie Andrews from Wednesday to Sunday. Wesley Andrews, Seattle, has been here helping his father Ernie with harvest for the past ten days. His wife and children, also Evelyn Russell and children joined the rest of the family for the long weekend.

On Friday afternoon Bob and Diane Dupea, Orofino, called on the Walt Benscoters enroute to attend a football game at the U. of I. in Moscow. On Saturday Tom and Wilma Greene spent the day with the Benscoters to help with some tasks and get in a little visiting at the same time. Sunday afternoon callers were Priscilla, Arlie and Nick Armitage of Southwick.

Betty May enjoyed having her mother, Mabel Glenn, visit her on Tuesday evening.

Order Issued to Restrict Hagerman WMA Traffic

The Fish and Game Commission has made permanent an earlier order restricting motor vehicle traffic in some areas of the Hagerman Wildlife Management Area in Gooding County.

Restrictions were necessary, the Commission found, because "the use of motorized vehicles is causing damage to negotiation, creating a hazard to human safety, causing the disturbance of waterfowl and creating a potential fire danger."
Closures within the WMA are posted, but reasonable access will continue to be available, according to a Department of Fish and Game spokesman.

Mary E. Gaines, 71

Mary E. Gaines, 71, a Grangeville homemaker, passed away August 24 at St. Joseph's Hospital of cancer. Mrs. Gaines was born March 14, 1909 at Moser, Ill., to Jesse and Ada Hemphill. She came to Kooskia the following year and lived in that community and Winona until 1942.

She married Luther M. Gaines on June 4, 1927 at Grangeville and they came to Lewiston in 1942. He died December 6, 1972.

Survivors include 5 daughters Lorraine Elliot, Grangeville; Ada Bella Baldus, Genesee; Bonnie Carlson, Clarkston; Vera Schmidt, Missoula, and Darlene Howell Shelton, Wa.; 14 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren; 4 sisters and a brother, Ernie Hemphill, Lewiston.

The funeral was August 27 at Malcolm's Brower-Wann Memorial Chapel, Lewiston with the Rev. Robert L. Compton, officiating. Burial was at Normal Hill Cemetery.

SOLAR WARRANTIES MAY REQUIRE CAREFUL STUDY

Moscow—Before you buy a solar energy system, be sure to read all the fine print in the warranty. Manufacturers must state if a system's warranty is full or limited, according to Idaho's Energy-Efficient Practices Project.

The educational project, sponsored by the Idaho Office of Energy and the UI Cooperative Extension Service said a warranty should be studied with these questions in mind:

"If a warranty is limited, what are the restrictions? What is the life of the warranty? Are parts, service and labor covered? Who will provide the service? Will the equipment be sent back to the manufacturer for repairs? What financial arrangements have been made to guarantee the warranty will be honored?"
